EARLY CHURCH HISTORY.

A Synopsis of the History of the Congregational Church, Manchester, Mass., from 1645 to the Death of Rev. Oliver Taylor, 1851.

BY R. T. GLENDENNING.

In the olden time the church held a very important place in the community. It was the center around which revolved all other interests of the town.

The early settlers of Manchester, as a rule, were very faithful in the discharge of their religious duties, but there were exceptions, for in 1651 "Wm. Allen, Pascoe Foot and John Sibley were presented to the Grand Jury for absence from public ordinances three or four Sabbaths."

There is a tradition that the first religious service in the town was held under a tree at Gales Point, but the name of the preacher has not come down to us.

There is very little doubt but that preaching services were held in the houses of the town prior to 1656. At that time they decided to build a meeting-house, as the town records show: "1656 ye 2nd of the 12th month it was at a general town meeting agreed upon that a meeting-house should be built, 18 feet long with two gable ends to be set near the landing-place, and the planters are to come and cut the timber this day fortnight. Wm. Bennett, John Pickworth and Samuel Friend are to oversee the getting of the timber, and if any man neglects to work he is to give sufficient reason for his absence or pay 5 shillings for his neglect."

Very little is known of the early church history of Manchester, as no records have come down to us except a few entries in the town books.

Dr. Leach, in his history of Manchester, has preserved an original note from the Rev. Ames Cheever, dated Nov. 20, 1726, in which note he gave the following 13 names of men who had preached in Manchester before 1716: Jenners, Smith, Stow, Dunham, Millet, Hawthorn, Jones, Winborn, Hubbard, Emerson, Goodhue, Eveleth and Webster.

The only mention we have of Jenners is that he was admitted freeman in 1636 and preached at Plymouth. Smith came to this country with Higginson. His character was not above reproach. He was called "a man of low gifts and parts." While here he was supported by weekly contributions. Winthrop in his journal says: "On the 5th day of the 9th month 1645 the Village of Jeffery's Neck was incorporated and called Manchester. Not being in a church state they have procured Mr. Smith, sometime minister at Plymouth, to preach to them." Of Stow and Dunham, the 3rd and 4th on Mr. Cheever's list, nothing is known, so that probably they supplied for a short time only.

In the town records of 1650 there is a reference to a minister not mentioned by Mr. Cheever—Nathaniel Masterson by name—who "was granted free seed for his cattle and lumber to build him a house." In 1654 he sold his house and removed to Beverly. His descendants lived for a good many years in Manchester, but for some reason changed their name to Marsters.

Millet is the next name on Mr. Cheever's list. His name occurs frequently in the town reports and is affixed to a deed of the Masterson house and land. His name is also perpetuated by the Millet swamp and wood lot. Next in order come Hawthorn and Jones. They probably never lived in the town, but supplied the Manchester church while residing elsewhere. John Winborn came here in 1667. He and the people did not agree, and he was in trouble most of the time while in Manchester. In 1686 the town voted "that he forthwith provide for himself and family some other place." This matter was smoothed over and he remained till 1689. His salary was 27 pounds. It was during Winborn's ministry that the first parsonage was built. The date was 1685. It stood upon land now occupied by the Daniel Friend house on School street. "This house was sold in 1699 to John Teran, shoemaker, with 1/4 acres of land, for the sum of 20 pounds current money which is to be used for the improvement of the ministry."

In 1689 John Eveleth became their pastor at a salary of 23 pounds. In 1690 they agreed to give him the same salary to which was to be added a weekly contribution. In regard to this the following town vote was taken:

"Att a towne meeting Legaly warned & mett together on ye twelve of november 1690 it was voted and agreed by ye sd towne yt all ye inhabitants of ye sd towne shall from ye day of ye Date of this sd meeting that what mony him or thay or any of ye sd inhabitants from time to time on ye sabath Day or Days Doe or soe cause to contribut to ye box for Mr. John Evelyn his salary for this yeare begun ye first of october 1690 it is agreed att this sd meeting yt all such from time to time untell ye yeare be expired shall contribute his or their sd mony with A paper wrapt About it with ye names of Each person so contributing inserted upon ye sd paper wherein ye mony is infolded & who-soever of ye sd inhabitants shall or Doo at any time contribute their sd mony without their prescription aforesaid shall not have any account thereof but it shall be accounted as strangers money & it is voted by ye sd towne yt sergent John Sibly & Robart Leach doe take & give an account of all or person & persons contribution for ye said purpose."

This is probably one of the earliest examples we have of our present envelope system.

"Att a town meeting legally warned & mett together on ye 7th of July 1693 to consider of some efectull way for ye incorigment & settling a minister in our town namely Mr. John Evelynth hom we have already had experience of his preaching ye gospel to us & knowing it is our Duty to Doe our utmost indeavour for ye obtaining & maintaing ye ministry of ye gosple Amongst us considering also ye ile consequences/may follow if we should neglect our Duty herein & soe be Destitute of such means whom god hath ordained for ye everlasting salvation of immortall souls for which we have remarkable instances in ye Scriptures which is written for mans instruction as in ye 2d book of cronicles ye 15ch: 3 & 5 ver; now for a long seson Israell had been without A teaching profit & what folowes in ye 5th ver: its said their was noe peace to him yt went out nere to him yt came in but great vexation wear upon all ye inhabitants of yt people & in prob: ye 29th chap. 18 ver: which their is noe vision ye people perish & against ye prists lips should preserve knowlige & thou shalt enquire at his mouth & contrarywise when Duty is atended in this great & momentary work as we may in ye 2d of chronicles 31ch: 10: ver: when ye people brought in freely great store of provisions for ye prests of ye Lord yt ye Lord blessed ye people greatly & in ye epistle of corinths 13ch: 14 ver: Doe you not know yt they which minister about holy things live of ye things of ye temple & they yt wait at ye Alter as partakers with ye Alter soe hath ye Lord ordained yt they which preach ye gosple should live of ye gosple. In Testimony of my Acceptance of ye Conditions above written promising utmost fidelity in caring on ye work of the Ministri of the Gospel as abovsd God enabling me I do subscribe John Eveleth."

I quoted the above for the reason that it shows how faithful our ancestors were in their duty to the church. It also shows a much better acquaintance with scripture than many business men of today can claim.

Mr. Eveleth remained in Manchester till 1695 when he accepted a call to Enfield, Mass. It was during his pastorate that the second meeting-house was built. In the town records of 1691—that of Jan. 18—is as follows:

"Whereas our old meeting house being the most part Considerable part of it Rottun and the sd house allso being too small to Acomodate our people When Conveined to gether for the Worship and servic of god It is therefore voted and fully agreed to have a new meeting hous built of these Dimentions following the Length to be therty foot the breadth their of to be tweenty five foot the height between the sell and the plate to be sixteen foot the form of the Ruff of the sd house to be in the same form of beverly or Wenham hous with a——belvery on the top of sd house suteable for a good Bell of about a hundred Waight or more and three galleries to be built that is to say one on won side of the whole Length of sd house and the other tow at each end the whole breadth of sd house and see that the sd house be every ways Completely finished with seats and all other decent and suteable Apar-tainances theirto Conveniant for the whole house both within and without."

The church had a number of candidates after the departure of Mr. Eveleth, the Rev. Edward Thompson of Newbury being one, for the town voted 6 pounds for his moving expenses. For some reason he did not accept the call although he came to the town, and they called the Rev. John Emerson, paying him a salary of 45 pounds, raising it in 1697 to 48 pounds. He resigned in 1698. At a town meeting held Oct. 19, 1696, it was voted "that the bell now procured by Mr. John Emerson shall be hanged in the meeting-house as soon as it can be with convenyance." On Oct. 28, 1696, it was voted in town meeting "to give Ephram Jones one pound and four shillings per year to ring the bell and sweep the meeting-house and to perform the office of sexton according to the order of the selectmen."

In 1698 Rev. Nicholas Webster assumed the duties of minister to the Manchester Church, his salary being 58 pounds. In 1700 he was asked to become permanent pastor at a salary of 72 pounds. Although declining this offer he remained pastor till 1715. While he was pastor the second parsonage was erected. At a town meeting Apr. 23, 1699, a committee was appointed "to build a new parsonage 42 ft. long, 18 ft. wide and 14 ft. stud to be located near the meeting-house at the discretion of the committee." They voted 50 pounds towards the expense. The house was located near the spot on which the Capt. John Carter house now stands. In 1716 it was given with 1 acre and a half of land to the Rev. Ames Cheever, who in that year accepted a call to the Manchester church. He was ordained Oct. 4, 1716, and the church was organized Nov. 7th the same year. He was their minister for 27 years, resigning in 1743. Great responsibility rested upon Mr. Cheever, as he had to organize the church and watch over it during its infancy. He was very faithful in the discharge of his duties and took a great interest in the welfare of the town, teaching school at one time.

Miss Eleanor Andrews held a rather novel party at her Vine street home, Thursday evening, it being a reunion of her class in the grammar school. Though some of the young people have grown up and left town, almost the entire class was present. Miss Andrews will soon start for Indianapolis, where she is to pay an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. Fletcher Hodges.

The installation of the officers of the W.R.C. was postponed Thursday evening, the installing officer, Mrs. Eva T. Cook of Gloucester, not arriving. The installation will be held next week, instead, at which time Mrs. Mary Bride Beck and Mrs. Richardson of Gloucester will be guests of the corps.

The northern heavens were brilliantly lighted Thursday evening between 6 and 7 o'clock with Northern Lights, the aurora being the most beautiful seen from here for some years.

D.D.G.M. Joseph N. Lipman and suite of grand officers, consisting of Grand Marshal George S. Sinnicks, Grand Warden Fred J. Merrill, Grand Sec'y Frank P. Knight, Grand Sec'y Frank B. Rust, Grand Treasurer George L. Knight and Grand Guardian Horace Standley, all of Magnolia lodge, 149, I.O.O.F., installed the officers of Franklin lodge, 23, I.O.O.F. of Boston, on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave A. Knoerr last Saturday moved into the Chester L. Crafts house, just completed, on Pleasant street extension.

Miss Grace Macgregor entertained at her home on Highland avenue over New Year's Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bruce Fowlie of Brookline and R. E. Puffer of Arlington.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Fleming of Salem were in town Thursday, Mr. Fleming being one of the pall bearers at the funeral of the late Mrs. Bingham.

George H. Gould's name appears on the list of names from which the jury for the Hastings' murder trial next week will be selected.

Withdraws Fellowship from Rev. Mr. Whitaker.

In the Congregationalist of December 31, on the page devoted to "Church and Ministerial Records," was inserted the following notice:

"WITHDRAWAL OF FELLOWSHIP.

"At its last meeting, December 19, Suffolk South Association of Congregationalist ministers withdrew its fellowship from Rev. J. H. Whitaker, late pastor of Atlantic, Mass., and more recently of Manchester-by-the-Sea."

It will be recalled that Mr. Whitaker resigned the pastorate of the Congregational church in Manchester, Friday, December 2, left Manchester the day following and sailed for England on the 7th.

Winthrop Club Election.

At the annual meeting of the Winthrop club, in Manchester, Monday evening, these officers were elected for the year 1905: Raymond C. Allen, president; Leon W. Carter, vice-president; Oscar Wing, secretary; Arthur E. Olsen, treasurer; Arthur E. Olsen, collector.

Quite a number of people are planning on attending the concert to be given in Beverly Farms, Monday night, at the Baptist church, by the Manchester Mandolin club.

Miss Bessie M. Barter has been promoted to the position of assistant to the chief operator at the Beverly telephone exchange.

Miss Marie R. Ernst of Bridgewater has been visiting her sister, Miss Wilhelmina B. Ernst, of the Beverly High school faculty. Miss Ernst was formerly one of the assistant instructors in the science department of the school, resigning in September.

The students of the elocution classes in the High school will present "Mr. Bob" in the City hall on some date during February. The proceeds will be devoted to the Athletic association and to the Aegis in equal proportions.

Senorita Carolina N. Hindobro gave a most entertaining address before the members of the Lothrop club on Friday afternoon on the subject, "Typical life in Chili." Senorita Hindobro is a native of the South American country, and being thoroughly conversant with her subject, proved a most fascinating speaker. Mr. Samuel P. Bell rendered solos in his excellent manner, being accompanied by Mrs. Carolyn Wesson Bongartz.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Ober of Hudson, N.H., have been the recent guests of relatives in the city.

Miss Elizabeth Crowley spent New Year's with Springfield friends.

The annual meeting of the Jubilee Yacht club will be held at the club house on Tuesday evening. Meeting called at 8 o'clock, and polls will be open from 8.15 to 9.15.

NEW PASTOR.

Fr. Downey takes charge of New Parish at Manchester and Beverly Farms Tomorrow.

Fr. Downey of the Working Boys Home in Roxbury, the first pastor of both the St. Mary's church at Manchester and Beverly Farms, will celebrate his first mass at these churches tomorrow morning.

Last Sunday Fr. Curran of the Beverly parish, who has been pastor of both the St. Mary's church at Manchester and St. Margaret's church at Beverly Farms, celebrated his last mass at both churches. He read to his parishioners at both churches the report which he had turned in to the bishop, showing that the parish was clear of debt, with $4,379.00 in the treasury to the credit of the Manchester church and $4,914.00 to the Beverly Farms church.

The parochial residence, he said, will probably be permanently established in Beverly Farms. Owing to the large increase of resident population of Manchester and Beverly Farms and the large influx of parishioners in the summer Fr. Curran deemed it wise to set off Beverly Farms and Manchester as a separate parish. He had been considering that for some time, but only recently had the archbishop given his consent.

The new pastor is at present occupying the old Connolly house on Haskell street, Beverly Farms. The house, which has seventeen rooms, has been thoroughly renovated within and all the modern conveniences installed, the walls newly papered and floors newly carpeted. The house was occupied last summer by a Boston family.

The Young People of Immanuel church, Rial Side, held a poverty party at the chapel on Monday evening which was well attended. The first prize for ladies was awarded Miss Florence Brown, while Philip Heron carried off the honors for gentlemen. A pleasing farce was given, and refreshments were served.

The Ballou club has prepared a most interesting program for its winter season.

Lieut. Charles N. Farnham gave a most pleasing address at the First Baptist chapel on Thursday evening on "Railroad Building in China." Lieut. Farnham has spent three years in this work in "The Flowery Kingdom" and so speaks from experience. There was an opening of Debt fund barrels, and the sum of $43 was received.

For the first time in its history the membership of the First Baptist church has exceeded the 600 mark. Forty-three were received into the church during December.

Mrs. Lizzie T. Perkins has returned to Beverly after a year's residence in Lynn.

Miss Eleanor H. Brown returned to Smith college, Wednesday, after spending the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Brown of Washington street.

A joint fair of Garden City Lodge, I.O.O.F.M.U. and of Mizpah Commandary, K.M. will be held in the City hall on Jan. 31, Feb. 1, 2 and 3.

West D. Eldredge of this city has been appointed general agent for Eastern Massachusetts of the New England Mutual Life Association, the oldest life insurance company in the country, and as such will have charge of some fifty special agents, with headquarters in Boston.

The annual banquet of the Cabot club was held at the rooms in the Atlantic block on Tuesday evening, and was a most enjoyable occasion. The entertainment was furnished by Goodrich & Drew, musical artists, assisted by Curtis Morse of Boston, reader, who rendered a program which elicited much favorable comment. Mayor Wallis was one of the guests of the evening.

The first annual festival of St. Peter's choir was held in the church on Thursday evening. The several musical selections rendered were much enjoyed, and the choir showed careful training on the part of Choirmaster Demack.

Rev. Ezra A. Hoyt occupied the pulpit at the First Universalist church for the first time on Sunday, preaching a forceful sermon from Isa. LIV. 2-3. Rev. Mr. Hoyt is about middle age, a pleasing man personally and his work in Beverly will meet with success.

The Unity Guild gave a musical entertainment at the Unitarian chapel last evening. There were vocal and instrumental numbers and a pleasant time was enjoyed.

Attractive Lecture Course.

Principal Hurd of the Beverly High school has arranged an attractive course of lectures before the students on current themes. Among the speakers are Dr. William Rainey Harper, president of Chicago university; Dr. Iynaga, a prominent Japanese, who is making a tour of this country; Dr. A. A. Berle of Salem, who will speak on "The Universities of Germany and England," and Lieut. Farnham, who will speak on "China."

Principal Hurd is ever on the alert to keep his school in touch with modern methods and interesting things, and this latest move will win for him much favor.

Big House Party at Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Connolly entertained a gay house party of young people at their beautiful home on Oak street, Beverly Farms, over New Years, most of the guests arriving Friday and not departing till Monday. Skating, sleighing, ice-boating and coasting added much pleasure to the occasion.

Among the guests were: Miss Alice Saiter, Vincennes, Ind.; Miss Rosemary Walsh, Dr. W. J. Ryan, F. J. Rowen, Boston; Miss Mary Casey, Charles Casey, Providence, R.I.; F. J. Kavanaugh, Dr. J. W. Cahill, Worcester, Mass.; Dr. Montijo G. Quinn, Milwaukee, Wis.; A. L. Loftus, L. M. Devlin, San Francisco, Cal.; Charles McCarthy, Francis Edelin, Washington, D.C.

Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Connolly gave a very pretty New Year's party for their daughters, Misses Anna and May. About forty were present. A very enjoyable evening was passed; whist, games and music were indulged in, refreshments were served, and there was a small Christmas tree containing many unique and comic gifts for the guests. At 12 o'clock, all joined in singing the old year out.

Hearing on Elm Street.

A hearing was held at the office of the selectmen in Manchester, Wednesday evening, on petition of Fred J. Merrill, Wm. Hoare and others, to locate and lay out as a town way the passageway now leading from Central street at a point near the police station to the stone mill, so-called. The hearing was informal in nature, and will be followed later by a public hearing. Secretary F. K. Swett presided in the absence of Chairman of the board Allen.

Fred J. Merrill, one of the abutters, was present, and said he had felt for a long time that the town ought to take this passageway and lay it out as a town way. It has been a great deal of expense to the owners to maintain the road in its present condition. In time of storm the road is almost impassable, due to the drainage from Pine street flooding the road. It is used considerably by pedestrians as well as for carriage and teaming purposes, and he felt the time had now come for the town to take and maintain it. As far as the land damage was concerned, he added, he is perfectly willing to give it to the town.

Oliver T. Roberts, representing Roberts & Hoare, another abutter, said he thought the necessity of widening the street was obvious. He said the wall adjacent to the channel was rather shaky and needed repairing. As far as precedent was concerned, the town had already taken Friend's court, Church street, etc., and he claimed Elm street, so-called, was of much more use than either. He added he would claim no land damage.

Superintendent Kimball said if the town was to lay out a road there we have precedents enough of streets being laid out with curves and turns, and that it was time now to lay one out with symmetry and correctness.

The other abutters, Samuel Knight, Isaac Richardson and the Mahoney heirs were not represented. Engineer R. C. Allen had two plans on hand.

Selectman Swett said he thought the board of selectmen would accept one of the layouts, but in that event they would insist on the plan which would require moving Roberts & Hoare's shop, as they preferred a uniform layout to an unsymmetrical one. He said they would like to get at it as soon as possible, and would call another hearing, which, undoubtedly, would be followed by a call for a special town meeting.

George S. Sinnicks favored the change, and spoke of the great necessity of the improvement, saying the business done there called for some change.

NUMBER 34.

SATURDAY, JAN. 7, 1905.

Mayor Wallis and Good Roads.

Whatever else may be expected of Mayor Wallis, it is pretty evident from the start that he intends to put an end to the fault-finding of the people of Beverly Farms and Pride's Crossing and their cry for better roads.

Mayor Wallis will come pretty near doing what the majority of the people want, if his inaugural address tells the story. The summer residents last year made appeal after appeal for road improvements, but their petitions were only pigeon-holed and the roads grew worse.

Now, if Mayor Wallis co-operates with the summer people—and it is evident that he intends to do so in this regard, at least—there will be a road down through Pride's and Beverly Farms next year that all will be proud of.

It is purposed to make a State highway of the shore road from Chapman's Corner, where the electric line ends, to the Manchester line. The summer residents are interested in the project to the extent that they have formulated a plan of financing the enterprise.

It is estimated that the total cost will be between $30,000 and $40,000. Of this the summer folk have set themselves the task of raising two-thirds or three-quarters by subscription. Already a committee—comprising Col. William D. Sohier, Oliver Ames and Charles H. Tyler—have made substantial progress toward raising the $25,000 needed. The idea is that the State will pay the cost of one mile of road, as it has in other sections of the Commonwealth, and that the subscribed money will be turned over to the State to build the additional three. Thereafter the road will be kept in repair by the State, but charged against the city.

Just how the scheme will work itself out, of course, is not known now, but it is safe to say a great deal lies with the new mayor. If he urges the project the chances are the thing will sail along quickly and work will start in the early spring.

Whisperings.

I came across a rather interesting bit of information the other day, and I know it will interest some of our readers. I am told by one of his grandchildren that the good old Col. David Colby, whom some of our oldest residents in Manchester will readily recall, put up the first street sign in the town of Manchester. It was when he lived in the then uncompleted house on Washington street now occupied by George W. Hooper, that the Colonel, who was then chairman of the board of selectmen, justice of the peace, and a leader in everything in town, placed a sign on the old Murray tavern, located on the lot where the Geo. A. Priest school now stands, designating Washington street. It was some years after this that any of the other streets were labeled.

* * * *

Col. Colby was a character. We have referred to him before. He built the little brick powder house on Powder House hill, compelling his son to bring every brick used up the steep incline on his back. About that time—during the War of 1812—he packed up all his belongings, placed them on a big wagon, and was ready to start on a minute's notice for New London, N. H., in case the British swooped down upon the shore. It was he, also, who took the contract for building the Congregational church (now standing) in 1809. At that time, while at work in the belfry, he fell and broke several ribs.

* * * *

A friend showed me a novel get-up in the line of a calendar, a day or two ago, which is far ahead of anything I had ever seen before. It is gotten out by a Boston hardware concern and is very appropriately called "The Perpetual Calendar," for it is good for every year from 1901 to 1917. Seventeen years! and all on one little card that can be carried in the vest pocket, too. The different years are affixed and table of months arranged by a small disk which turns easily. It was quite a striking contrivance.

John W. Carter.

The death, on Wednesday morning, of John W. Carter takes away from Beverly one of its most prominent citizens and successful business men. For many years Mr. Carter had been associated with Austin Whitcomb in Whitcomb & Carter, and later the Whitcomb-Carter company, dealers in hardware, and had built up a large and profitable business. Besides this, he was also interested in the J. W. Carter Shoe company, which had an extensive trade. Mr. Carter was the holder of many public trusts, was trustee of not a few charitable institutions, and was a member of several fraternal orders. The funeral was held from the Dane Street Congregational church on Friday, and was largely attended by friends and business associates. Rev. E. H. Byington conducted the service, and Liberty lodge of Masons performed its ritual.

High-Priced Fruit.

A member of the Astor "600" recently offered $250 in New York for enough strawberries for five people that evening. It took seven hours to find them, but they were finally produced on time.

Some people want things simply because they are dear. The famous "Zanzibar apples" have sometimes reached the enormous price of $100 apiece. They have to be especially ordered, for they are too dear to keep in stock, and are said to cost $10 a bite.

Is there a certain satisfaction in eating something that nobody else can afford?

A MEMORABLE EVENT.

Installation of Officers of Manchester Post Made One of the Most Eventful Occasions in its History.

The recently elected officers of Post 67, G.A.R., of Manchester, were installed in town hall last evening, and the event turned out to be one of the most memorable in the history of the post. For the occasion was not only that of installing the officers, but it was as well a big camp-fire in which the post and their guests joined most heartily in relating war experiences and in giving vent to patriotic feelings. A generous New England surper added greatly to the pleasure of the occasion.

Capt. Charles Newhall of Post 90, Danvers, was the installing officer. He was assisted by Comrade P. H. O'Connell, also of Danvers, as officer-of-the-day. The officers, elected and appointed, were installed to their various stations with regular military promptitude, as follows: Commander, E. P. Stanley; S.V.C., Enoch Crombie; J.V.C., A. S. Jewett; chaplain, Geo. Willmonton; surgeon, J. W. Widger; Q M., John G. Haskell; O-day, Chas. St ne; O-guard, Geo. A. Jones; Adj., James H. Rivers; Ser. M., Wm. J. Pert; Q. M. S., J. T. Stanley.

After the officers had been given their positions, and the installing officer had retired, Comm. Stanley said he could not but realize the help the citizens had been to the old soldiers and the assistance they always very generously gave. He said they were grateful for it all.

"Last summer, when the encampment was held in Boston," said he, "you said that every man of us must go to Boston, take the band along, have a good time, and you would pay the bills. We did go to Boston, had a good time, and had some money left. We decided sometime we would invite our friends in with us, and so we have you here with us tonight."

Mr. Stanley then called upon P. H. O'Connell of Post 90, Danvers, who has undoubtedly seen as much of rebel prison life as any other civil war veteran living. He depicted in a very interesting manner some of his experiences. Comrade O'Connell went from Amesbury in Co. E, 1st heavy artillery, or what is more commonly known as the "Old fourteenth." He was captured before Petersburg on Jan. 22 and thrown into Libby prison. He was later transferred to Belle Isle, then to Danville, Columbia, Charleston, Andersonville, Salisbury, and finally reached Knoxville, Tenn. He was wounded twice, losing two fingers on one occasion and being struck in the breast on another. He had many hair-breadth escapes, was severely tortured, starved, and set upon by hounds, thrown in dungeons, chained to iron balls; but through it all he came and finally reached the Union lines.

"I recall," said he, "when a couple of thousand of us were being changed from Danville, N.C., to Andersonville. We were packed into cattle cars like so many cows. I made up my mind I would escape, but the boys laughed at me when I made known my plan. The cars were going about ten miles an hour when I jumped past the guard out the door. The guard fired and the train stopped, but not before I was well on my way to the woods. I kept on going till I came to a hay field. I crawled under a stack of hay and stood up in the middle where I could not be seen. They were soon upon me. They fired into the very stack I was in, poked their bayonets through it and even attempted to fire it. I remained there till toward night when I got out and made ready for further escape.

"For four days and four nights I lived on berries only. On the morning of the fourth day I saw a corn field and soon loaded up on corn. I met a man whom I told I was a rebel, but not long after leaving him I saw I was being chased by men and dogs.

"The hounds were soon upon me and when the men saw I was not bitten, they set the dogs upon me and I can now show you the marks they left.

"After being thrown into Columbia prison, I tried to escape again. I was caught in the yard and with five others I was chained to iron balls and thrown into a dungeon. But here we tried to escape again. We had nothing to work with but a skeleton* of a knife one of the men had sewed on the inside of his shirt. We worked off a big plank on the inside of the dungeon and loosened the chains, and in four days got out and all but one passed the guard. We were fired at when climbing the fence, but made our way to the city and from there to the woods. We were four days and nights without food, but finally we reached a mountain and came to the house of a man named Johnson, and stayed there four days. Finally, after having travelled 365 miles, almost starved and frozen we crossed the line and reached the union camp.

"I could talk of my experiences for hours and days," he said. "I could tell how I was hung up by the thumbs, how I was chained to heavy balls ten days, till you would tire of it. It is only a miracle that I am here today to tell of it. Twenty years ago I installed your camp here, and I hope that I may have that privilege again 20 years hence."

Capt. Newhall was next called upon, and he spoke of the work of Post 67, and how proud it should feel of its quarters in Memorial hall. The supper followed, and after that Comrade O'Connell was called upon again for more of his prison experience. Comrade Lakeman of Salem followed with a pleasant talk along a patriotic nature. Alfred S. Jewett spoke very interestingly of some of his experiences, and laid great stress on the power of endurance and what it means to the soldiers.

Rev. Walter H. Ashley spoke of war, its hostilities and the destructive features of modern warfare. He said that the G. A. R. could do nothing better than to see that our histories be re-written, and instead of holding up some great leader to the youth of the land, hold up the mass of men who sacrificed their lives. He prophesied that in the days that are to come that nations will not settle their differences by the bayonet and battle, but by arbitration and peace conferences.

Remarks were also made by P. H. Boyle, Fred K. Swett, I. M. Marshall, J. A. Lodge, Geo. S. Sinnicks and Chas. Dodge. The Manchester brass band rendered several selections during the evening. Thomas A. Baker read "When the Colonel Lights his Pipe." The gathering closed by singing "America."

The guests of the post included: Dr. Geo. W. Blaisdell, Rev. W. H. Ashley, Horace Standley, Charles Hooper, F. Clifford Rand, F. B. Rust, Geo. E. Willmonton, George Dyer, Chester H. Dennis, Charles Dodge, I. M. Marshall, Rev. E. H. Brewster, Dr. R. T. Glendenning, M. J. Callahan, Chas. A. Howe, G. A. Knoerr, E. S. Bradley, L. W. Floyd, J. S. Reed, Alexander Robertson, Mr. Perry, John Baker, Geo. P. Dole, Thos. B. Stone, Frank Crombie, Jas. K. Pulsifer, F. W. Bell, Abraham Lampron, Harry S. Tappan, P. H. Boyle, James Bettencourt, F. K. Swett, Geo. S. Sinnicks, R. C. Allen, Thos. A. Baker and J. Alex. Lodge.

Charles Martin, the bicycle dealer, has moved from the store he has been occupying in Neighbors' hall block, soon to be occupied by the post-office, and has taken another store in the block. Mr. Martin, it is understood, intends to add an automobile repair shop to his business the coming season.

George Larcom, the oldest person in the Farms, beloved and respected by all, Monday observed his 90th birthday. A few friends called to pay their respects. Mr. Larcom has grown quite feeble the past few months, and he is not so active as he was a year ago. He is one of the old stock, a son "to the manor born."

Last Saturday, while driving by sleigh through Manchester, S. John Connolly and Miss Mary Casey of Providence, R.I., had a very narrow escape from a serious accident. Part of the harness broke, and the horse, which was a rather frisky one, became almost unmanageable. In order to avoid further accident Mr. Connolly was obliged to drive the horse against a passing lumber wagon, which forethought resulted in bringing the animal to a rather abrupt stop. The sleigh was slightly damaged, but the occupants escaped with a shaking up, and "John" has been around with bandaged knuckles this week.

The fixtures for the new post-office, soon to be located in Neighbors' block, are now being made in Boston, and it is thought they will be set up next week. The post-office, in all probability, will be located in its new quarters the middle of this month.

The Manchester Mandolin club, composed of 16 members, including, besides the mandolins, flute, cello, guitar and mandola players, will play in a concert and musical entertainment to be given at the Baptist church next Monday evening, January 9. The proceeds are to go towards the piano fund of the Y.P.S.C.E. The club has a personnel of talented players, and has met with grand success in its own town. Quite a number of Manchester young people are planning on attending the concert.

Rev. Clarence Strong Pond will preach tomorrow morning on "Purpose and plan of the Fourth Gospel," and in the evening the subject will be "David and Absalom."

Letters remaining unclaimed at Manchester, Mass., Post Office for week ending Dec. 31: Mrs. A. R. Cushing, Miss Grace Carr, Charlie Dabney. Mrs. Lindner Groppner, Mrs. Alice Goldsmith, Sid Smith (2), Mary Liddy, A. Malcolm, James McLoud, Victor Pihf.

Union Services.

Union meetings have been held in Manchester the week through, and with the exception of Tuesday evening, when there were only eleven out because of the storm, the meetings have been well attended. The meeting Monday night was at the Baptist church. Rev. Mr. Brewster spoke on "Prayer in Penitence." At the meetings of Wednesday and Friday nights he talked on "Prayer in Need," and "Prayer in Growth," respectively. For Tuesday evening at the Congregational church Rev. Dr. Hill was announced as the leader, but owing to the storm he did not come. Mr. Brewster led the meeting, taking for his subject "The Fruitless Life." Rev. Mr. Byington of Beverly was expected for Thursday evening's meeting but illness prevented, and Rev. Herbert Judson White of Beverly led the meeting instead. He spoke very interestingly on "How to be Joyous in Sadness."

Painters' Union Election.

At a recent meeting of Painters' Union, No. 797, of Manchester, these officers were elected: President Granville Crombie; vice-president, F. Perry; financial secretary, W. C. Blair; recording secretary, C. W. Sawyer; conductor, M. Travers; preceptor, C. W. Fritz; trustee, C. O. Howe.

At the meeting of the union this week, the subject, "Will Electric Cars be a Benefit to Manchester?" was debated. One of Chas. O. Howes' famous steamed clam suppers was served after the meeting.

S. of V. Installation.

The recently elected officers of Col. V. P. Woodbury Camp 149, S. of V., were installed Tuesday night by Brother Edward Hersey Brewster. The following officers, elected and appointed, were installed: Commander, Lyman W. Floyd; S. V. commander, Ernest Sargent; J. V. commander, George B. Knowlton; chaplain, Rev. E. H. Brewster; sec'y, Edward Baker; treasurer, Herman Swett; sergeant of guard, Ralph Treadrick; corporal of guard, Charles Morse; inside guard, Arthur Smothers; outside guard, Fred Martin; color sergeant, Curtis Stanley; musician, Fred Swett; camp council, Thomas Baker, John Prest, Orrin A. Martin; delegates to state encampment, T. O. D. Urquart, F. K. Swett, Richard Baker; alternates, S. S. Peabody, O. A. Martin, E. H. Brewster.

JANUARY MARRIAGES.

Haraden — Fitzgerald.

Edward Wentworth Haraden of Manchester and Miss Catherine T. Fitzgerald of Salem were united in marriage by Rev. Leo P. O'Neil in Boston last Sunday evening. The wedding was a quiet affair, only a few of the relatives and close friends of the couple being present. The ceremony was followed by an informal reception and dinner at the Touraine. Mr. and Mrs. Haraden started from Boston Monday morning, over the Lake Shore road, for their new home in Los Angeles, Cal., but they will break their long journey by a few days' stop at Chicago.

The announcement of the marriage came as a great surprise to the many friends of the young couple in Manchester. The bride, though not making her home here, is well known, having spent the past five summers here. She is a sister of Mrs. Edward Flynn, Beach street.

Littlefield — Riggs.

There was a very pretty home wedding last Sunday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Bridges of West Gloucester, when Miss Martha Riggs, second daughter of Mrs. Bridges, and Jesse Littlefield were united in marriage by Rev. A. M. Osgood. Both the bride and groom have a large circle of friends in Manchester, Mr. Littlefield having charge of the Foster, Currier & Co. laundry business in Manchester last season, and being employed by Smith's Express the season of 1903. Miss Riggs has been employed by Mrs. E. P. Stanley, Summer street, the past three years. The couple started Sunday night on a trip to St. Louis by way of Niagara Falls. They will make their home in Cambridge.

Eldridge — Corkery.

At the parochial residence, in Beverly, Sunday evening, Helen Josephine Corkery, daughter of John F. Corkery of Manchester, and Austin Bernard Eldridge of Salem and Bourne, Mass., were united in marriage by Rev. Fr. F. J. Curran. Both the young people are well known in Manchester. The groom has been an officer on Parker S. Bremer's yacht, the "Velthra," for a number of years. Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge will reside in Salem.

Winn — Conners.

John Winn and Miss Delia Conners, both of Manchester, were united in marriage, Wednesday evening, at the parochial residence in Beverly. The groom is employed as a section hand on the B. & M. road between Manchester and Magnolia. The bride has been living with her brother, John Conners, on Lincoln street. Mr. and Mrs. Winn are making their home in the Leary house, Sea street, Poultry Show.

The annual poultry show of the Essex County Poultry Association was held in the City hall this week, and, as usual, was the rendezvous for a large number of bird fanciers. The entries were numerous and a general interest manifested. A feature was an exhibition of family pets. Superintendent Barnes of Wenham, A. L. Hutchinson of Beverly, and Arthur Elliott of Peabody were on duty and looked after the lists. Beverly birds carried off many of the prizes.

Mrs. Mary J. Bingham.

Mrs. Mary J. Bingham, one of Manchester's oldest daughters, passed away early Sunday morning at her home in Central square, at the age of 88 years, 11 months and 7 days. Funeral services were held at the Crowell Memorial chapel, Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Bingham was born in Manchester, Jan. 24, 1816, and has spent all her days here. Until three days before her death she was remarkably active. A week ago last Wednesday she was taken with a cold. This settled on her lungs and she died three days after of influenza.

Prior to the organization of the Baptist church, Mrs. Bingham was interested in the Christian church. She was instrumental in organizing the former church, and has always worshipped there. For a great many years she taught a Sunday school class at the church. She was also greatly interested in the Good Templar cause when the organization existed here.

Mrs. Bingham married Henry T. Bingham, who was one of the later day cabinet makers of Manchester. He died 24 years ago. Four children were born to them, three of whom survive — Charles Bingham of Newport, Ky., who served in the Civil, Cuban and Philippine wars; Henry T. Bingham of Manchester, who is an immigration inspector in Boston; and Mrs. Harriet Perkins of Manchester and Salem.

Funeral services were conducted at the Crowell Memorial chapel, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. E. H. Brewster and Rev. Walter Herod Ashley of Manchester, and Rev. Mr. Harriman of Lynn officiated, each of whom spoke very appropriately of the life departed.

A quartet, composed of Mrs. James K. Tappan, soprano; Miss Sadie Noyes, alto; J. Davis Baker, tenor, and Fred K. Swett, bass, sang "Abide with Me," and "My Jesus, I Love Thee." The pall-bearers were William K. Fleming, John Davis Baker, Robert Baker and Charles E. Fleming. Chester L. Crafts and Thos. B. Stone acted as ushers. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

In the death of Mrs. Bingham, Manchester loses one of her most beloved and respected old souls. Loved by all who knew her, with a bright smile and a cheerful word for one and all, she was endeared to the hearts of everyone with whom she came in contact.

MANCHESTER.

Papers were signed yesterday by Joseph Cawthorne, the local American express agent, for a lease of the building recently owned by Guy Swett in the operation of his hay and grain business, but purchased by A. S. Dow last week, to be used as a stable. Considerable alterations are to be made on the building by Lewis Killam.

The many friends of Mrs. Annie Bird White of Danvers, formerly of Manchester, sympathize with her in her recent bereavement. Her husband, who lacked only a few months of being 25 years old, was taken sick last Saturday, pneumonia developing soon, with an attack of appendicitis, death coming on Thursday.

A large delegation of local Red Men took up the trail last night and journeyed to Rockport where, with the Beverly and Gloucester tribes, they were the guests of the Wonasquams. The return was made about 1.30 o'clock by special train.

Charles Farnham of Beverly, whose talks on his recent experience in China are gaining for him a wide reputation, has been secured by the committee having in charge the program for the Wednesday evening club meeting the coming week. Besides this lecturer there will also be offered some attractive musical artists from out of town. The committee has an excellent program in store.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Brown of Everett spent New Year's as guest of Miss C. E. Brown, School street.

Frank Sheridan of Charlestown has been a guest of friends in town the past few days.

Miss Mary Dodge returned to her studies at Mount Holyoke college, Wednesday.

The quarterly meeting of the Essex county S. of V. association was held in the G. A. R. hall, Monday evening of this week. The attendance was rather small. Only the routine business was transacted.

Miss Hudson's dancing class met as usual Thursday evening. Since the class was started quite a number of new members have joined.

Mr. Libby, the new pastor, is organizing a class for the teachers of the Sunday school. The lesson for the coming Sunday will be taken up each week. The class will probably meet Saturday evenings.

Miss Helen Crispin was in Boston over Friday.

Honored Guests.

The Union club of Beverly is making plans for a big reception and banquet at its rooms next Wednesday evening in honor of Adj.-General Stopford and Mayor Wallis.

Oakes E. Elden, who recently bought from George E. Scott, the Manchester pool and billiard parlors, is soon to remove from Pulsifer's block to the large building on Allen's court, near the electric light station.

Clare Peters left the first of the week for a short visit to his home in Nova Scotia.

MANCHESTER.

The town schools opened Tuesday, after a ten days' recess.

Miss Mildred Pert returned the first of the week from Chelsea, where she had been spending the holidays with relatives.

George Norris, the popular assistant at the local B. and M. station, returned to his duties Monday, after a week's respite.

Deputy Allen S. Peabody and suite of Conomo tribe will go to Rockport next Friday night to install the officers of Wanasquam tribe of Red Men.

The Wellesley young ladies who have been guests of Miss Helen Boyle, on Summer street, have been varying the enjoyment of their visit by learning to ride horseback, the romantic sands of Singing Beach the first of the week forming a decidedly delightful setting for the pleasure of the sport.

Selectman W. Harvey Allen, who was reported confined to his Norwood avenue home all last week, the result of a serious ill turn Christmas morning, was noted on the street again the first of the week, and his friends will be glad to learn he is able to be about his office duties again.

A daughter was born Monday night to Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Stanley (Daisy Dennis), Bridge street.

The announcement of Mayor Wallis of Beverly in his inaugural address, Monday, that a movement is on foot for a State highway from Chapman's corner in Beverly Cove to the Manchester line, and his strong endorsement of the move will be of great interest to Manchester folk, and more especially the summer contingent.

Miss Lucy Denett, a popular young violinist from Salem, who was a guest of Miss Marion G. Scott the latter part of last week and over New Year's, returned to her home Monday.

Deputy Alonzo M. Tufts and suite of Gloucester will install the officers of Conomo tribe at their next meeting, January 18, at which meeting one pale face will be adopted into the tribe.

Charles E. Bell, the popular clerk at Lee's, and Hollis Bell, the night operator at the local telephone exchange, have both been off duty this week nursing attacks of la grippe.

Among the Manchester people who have had exhibits at the poultry show in Beverly this week are David A. McKinnon, J. R. Wilkinson, Semons & Campbell, H. W. Kingman and Frederick Breck.

LOW DEATH RATE.

Manchester Shows Decrease over Last Year, while Birth-rate and Marriages remain about the Same.

We publish herewith a list of the Births, Deaths and Marriages in the town of Manchester for the year 1904. It is interesting to note that the birth rate in the town remains practically staple, the number of births this year being 54, against 55 last year and 55 in 1902. Of the number this year 27 are males and 27 females.

The death-rate has fallen off slightly from 1903, the number of deaths for 1904 being 33, which gives the low rate of about 1.27 against 1.46, approximately, in 1903, and .97 in 1902. Of the number of deaths the past year 11 were males and 22 females.

There were 27 marriages recorded during the year against 29 in 1903, and 11 in 1902. The figures for the past three years are:

	1904	1903	1902
Births	54	55	55
Deaths	33	38	25
Marriages	27	29	11

The complete list of births, deaths and marriages for 1904 follows:

PRIDE'S CROSSING.

The Misses Elizabeth and Mary O'Brien of Boston were guests over New Year's of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trowt.

Dr. Franklin Dexter was noticed about Pride's, Thursday.

Workmen have been at work the past week or two trimming the trees on the Judge Moore lot, opposite the station, so that it now is quite an attractive pine grove.

C. Frank Trowt, who was home for the holidays, returned to Clarke school, at Northampton, Tuesday. A week ago Thursday night Mr. Trowt entertained a gay party of young people at a Christmas party. About 20 guests were present.

Work on the H. C. Frick estate, which, however, was well in hand before winter set in, has been somewhat retarded by the snow of the past week. Contractor Linehan has about 100 men at work on the job now.

Misery Island Story.

A story which found utterance in one of the Boston papers last Saturday morning, to the effect that Senator Crane was urging a bill for the establishment of a national hospital for lepers, and that Misery island was to be purchased by the State for the purpose, met with no little surprise. From all appearances there is no truth in the report, and Misery island will not be made to mar the attractiveness of the North Shore. Were any such movement on foot there is no question but that a vigorous protest would at once be made by the wealthy people who spend their summers at Pride's Crossing, Beverly Farms and Manchester, and a check put to the scheme.

Baptist Bible School Election.

The following-named officers were elected for the ensuing year at a meeting of the Baptist Bible school of Manchester last Sunday: Robert Baker, superintendent; J. Davis Baker, asst. superintendent; Miss Rita Crombie, secretary; Miss Rebecca Lethbridge, asst. secretary; Miss Nellie Leonard, treasurer; Lucy Baker, auditor; Thomas B. Stone, librarian; Misses Bessie Lethbridge and Hattie Baker, assistant librarians.

William H. Hooper.

William H. Hooper, the oldest son of the late William Hooper of Manchester, died at his home in Roxbury early Sunday morning. His body was brought to Manchester and laid at rest in the family lot in Rosedale cemetery, Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Hooper was born in Manchester and lived here till the war of the Rebellion, when he enlisted in Company K, 12th Massachusetts regiment. He served with the regiment till the battle of Gettysburg, in which battle he was injured, his right arm being amputated as a consequence. Since the war he has been employed in the Boston post-office as carrier, but he retired from that position a few years ago. He was a member of John A.

Andrew post 15, G. A. R., of Boston.

A widow, two sons and two daughters survive him, also four brothers, George W., Charles, Edward P. and Franklin K. Hooper, all of Manchester, and two sisters, Mrs. Charles Bennett of Salem and Mrs. John Allen of Manchester.

Funeral services were held at the Crowell Memorial chapel in Manchester, Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Walter H. Ashley and Post 67, G. A. R., officiating. It was expected a delegation from Post 15 of Boston would accompany the body to Manchester, but through misunderstanding they came only as far as the station in Boston. A delegation from Allen post, 67, met the body at the station here. Comrades J. G. Haskell, Enoch Crombie, Jeffrey T. Stanley and Geo.

A. Jones acted as pall-bearers, and Adj. Jas. H. Rivers as chaplain.

There was a profuse display of flowers, a feature of the display being a beautiful set piece, representing the G.A.R. badge, with the colors handsomely set and the word "Comrade" worked in the middle. The piece was from Post 15 of Boston. The flag at G.A.R. headquarters in Manchester was set at half-mast all day, Tuesday.

S. L. Hawkes.

S. L. Hawkes, who married Miss Emeline Preston of Beverly Farms, died at his home in Bloomington, Ill., last Monday, January 2. Mr. Hawkes was connected with the Chicago and Alton railroad and was one of the leading citizens of Bloomington. He was prominent in Masonic circles.

EARLY CHURCH HISTORY.

A Synopsis of the History of the Congregational Church, Manchester, Mass., from 1645 to the Death of Rev. Oliver Taylor, 1851.

BY R. T. GLENDENNING.

In 1719 the town "voted and agreed to build a new meeting-house as fast as it can be done. Voted that the meeting-house shall be built 49 ft. long and 35 ft. wide with 20 ft. stud and also that ye house shall be planked and not studded." The next year the old meeting-house was sold for 12 pounds and a committee was appointed to take subscriptions "for his work or stuff which he will offer to build the new one."

At a town meeting in 1731 it was voted "That the valuable gift of Mr. Baxter's practical works from Mr. Holden, Esq., by the Rev. Mr. Colman to the town and church of Manchester are thankfully accepted and that 8 pounds as in full for the binding of said books be forthwith paid by the town treasurer to the Rev. Mr. Ames Cheever."

On Oct. 29, 1727, the people were very much alarmed by an earthquake. In those times the people regarded such mysterious convulsions of nature as an evidence of the divine displeasure. In this case a lengthy revival followed and forty people joined the church.

The church records kept by Mr. Cheever during his stay in Manchester were lost for over 100 years, when they were found among some old family papers of his son-in-law, Rev. Mr. Harris of Danvers, and returned to the church. I quote the following extracts:—"9 males have signed the church covenant and 10 females with us, being in full communion with other churches. The holy ordinance of the Lord's Supper was first administered in Manchester Jan. 6, 1716-17; members admitted from Jan. 6, 1716 to Nov. 26, 1727, forty-five; recommended to communion before Nov. 26, 1727, eleven; new members admitted in 12 months after the great earthquake, forty; whole number admitted in full communion from Jan. 6, 1716, to Apr. 3, 1743, 161; the number of marriages from Dec. 6, 1716, to Dec. 16, 1743, 106; baptism of adults and infants from Jan. 6, 1716, to Feb. 12, 1743, 667." He kept a list of births and deaths occurring in the town and for the 9 years from 1717 to 1725 inclusive, there were 158 births and only 97 deaths, so there was no danger of race suicide at that time.

The first deacon was Benj. Allen, who was succeeded by Benj. Lee in 1737.

The Rev. Benjamin Tappan succeeded Mr. Cheever and was ordained Dec., 1745. It was in that year that the third parsonage was bought. It was located on School street, nearly opposite the first parsonage on land now occupied by the house of Miss Charlotte E. Brown. In 1750 it was voted to repair the meeting-house, and in 1752 it was voted to build a steeple; but in 1754 it was built from the ground upward. In the same year a weather cock was provided by the town. This is the same one that is on the church today. Its cost was 7 pounds 10 shillings 8 pence. The church ordered in 1761 "that the volumes of Baxter's works should be put into Mr. Tappan's hands to be lent by him subject to be returned to him at the expiration of four months."

In 1785 a bell was bought for 58 pounds 3 shillings 7 pence. This bell weighed 300 lbs. and was in use till 1845 when, through the generosity of a citizen, a much larger one was given to the church.

It was a troublesome period in the history of the colony during Mr. Tappan's stay in Manchester, and the people were very poor, and at times were not able to pay his salary. Through it all he was their faithful pastor and was much loved by his people. He died in 1790 in the 46th year of his ministry.

The next regular pastor of the church was Rev. Ariel Parish. He came in 1792 and died in May, 1794, of an epidemic fever contracted while waiting on the sick. For 7 years after the death of Mr. Parish till 1801 the church was supplied by different ministers. The names of 17 of these have been preserved and may be found in the town history.

In May, 1801, Abraham Randall, the "40th candidate," was called and ordained in Sept. of the same year. He remained 7 years, being dismissed in 1808 at his own request. Thirty-one were added to the church during his ministry. In 1803 the 4th parsonage was built. It was located on Union street and is still standing, though in a much altered condition.

Rev. J. Thurston became pastor of the church in 1809 at a salary of $550. The same year they decided to build a new meeting-house. Its cost was $8500. It still remains—a credit to those who built it. The following extract from Mr. Thurston's diary is interesting:—"We met to worship in the new house for the first time on Thanksgiving Day 1809 and the pastor preached from Ezekiel 36: 26, 27 & 28th verses, and a great revival followed. On Feb. 14th the meeting-house was dedicated to the worship of God—sermon from Psalms 27: 4th verse."

The 5th parsonage was built for Mr. Thurston in 1811-12. The house is still standing and at present is occupied by Mr. N. P. Meldram. During Mr. Thurston's and Mr. Emerson's stay only the south side of the house was used as a parsonage; but the Rev. Oliver Taylor occupied the whole house.

In 1810 a Sunday-school was organized. The origin of the school was due to two ladies who afterwards went as missionaries to the east—Harriet Newell and Ann H. Judson. The school was one of the earliest formed in New England.

Mr. Thurston's pastorate began very auspiciously, but unfortunately difficulties and dissensions arose and he was dismissed by the council in 1819. If he was guilty of all the charges brought against him he certainly was not a suitable man to remain pastor of the church. Eight charges were preferred against him, only a few of which I will mention: "It was charged that his conduct in Manchester was such as to destroy his usefulness as a teacher of piety, morality and virtue." In respect to this charge, Mr. Tyler Parsons in writing about it said, "There was a lamentable division and unhappiness in the church from time to time, from and after a few years of Thurston's settling in Manchester. It grew in the first place from Thurston interfering with Dr. Grosvenor's medicine and practice, as I was informed. They had been frequently at a great distance in respect to good feelings; it was soon discovered that Thurston's disposition was peculiarly ungrateful—disposed to exhibit a disposition of revenge, unyielding to truth in many respects. At length he took up the low and degraded part of speaking in a sarcastic manner from the desk. This was a dangerous mode of warfare; he begun by comparing some of his hearers of either church or parish to the dog in the manger; to rickety children whose heads grew faster than their bodies, indicating a disorder. These unchristian and ungentleman-like speeches soon alienated the affections of many; they did destroy all fellowship and brotherly love and create ill blood." They also claimed "That he took a bundle of shingles from the school house in an ungentlemanlike and unchristianlike manner and did prevaricate and make false statements in relation to obtaining these shingles to Mr. Burnham and Capt. Burgess." The evidence on this charge was somewhat contradictory, while it went to prove that he made false statements in regard to his obtaining the shingles, it did not prove that he actually stole them. Another accusation was "That he had an agency in getting Dr. Dewey to come to town, promising him that he would have a fine opportunity for private dissection." In refutation of this charge, Mr. Thurston produced a letter which he said he had received from Dr. Dewey. This letter stated that Mr. Thurston had never tried to get Dr. Dewey to come to town or held out any inducements for his doing so. Unfortunately, Dr. Dewey under oath stated positively that he had never written Mr. Thurston any letter. Still another charge against him was "That he slandered the people of the town, calling them 'a covetous, malicious and Indian set of people.'" In support of this charge Major Burley Smith on oath stated that when he advised him to settle with Dr. Grosvenor "He then replied and said, 'Before I will muckle to Dr. Grosvenor or any of this people, I will lose the last drop of my heart's blood, for you are a covetous, malicious and Indian set of people.'" Some 46 of the church left and joined a Baptist society in Beverly in the early part of 1819. The council finding that those who had joined the Baptist society would return if Mr. Thurston left, dismissed him, thinking it was best for the church. Mr. Tyler Parsons was his strongest opponent, and Mr. Thurston, after being dismissed by the council, brought a civil case against Mr. Parsons for slander and recovered $1500 damages. Hard feelings lasted for a long time after Thurston's departure, but the church united and called Rev. Samuel Emerson in 1821.

In the same year a stove for the first time was used in the church. Mr. Tappan, in the History of Essex County, relates the following story in connection with the event:—"The first cold Sunday after it had been placed in position, the people all went to meeting fully prepared to watch the result of the experiment. Many felt it uncomfortably warm; and two young women were so overcome by the 'baked air' they fainted, and were taken to the vestibule where the atmosphere was of a better quality. But the next day it was learned, the wood for the stove had not been received, and no fire had been made; this proved a fatal blow to the opposition, and but little was said upon the subject afterwards." The articles of faith and covenant of the church were printed for the first time in 1825.

In 1833 the church, under Mr. Emerson, took a very strong stand for that time on the temperance question, as the following will show:—"Whereas, the use of ardent spirits has been the fruitful cause of numerous evils, which admit of no remedy but that of total abstinence, and as it is the incumbent duty of the churches to maintain a high standard of christian morality, it will, from this time be required of all persons presenting themselves as candidates for admission to this church to abstain from the use of ardent spirits in all its forms, except as a medicine."

The Rev. Oliver Taylor was Mr. Emerson's successor, being installed Sept., 1839. He was their pastor till his death in December, 1851. Mr. Taylor had quite a reputation as a scholar and writer, but, in the words of Mr. Lamson, "He was ill-fitted for the stormy era of anti-slavery discussion, and sometimes seemed to his friends over-cautions and timid. But none ever doubted his sincerity and true goodness of heart. When he finished his course, the town lost a faithful minister and a true man."

[The information contained in the above article was gleaned from the following sources:—History of the Town of Manchester by Rev. D. F. Lamson, Mr. W. H. Tappan's article on Manchester in the History of Essex County, Volumes 1 & 2 of Town Records of Manchester, and a pamphlet by Tyler Parsons entitled, "Truth Espoused."—R. T. G.]

MANCHESTER.

Several of the friends of George L. Story, a former Manchester boy, who has for many years made Portland, Ore., his home, have received invitations from him the past week to go to the Pacific coast the coming summer, to attend the big celebration and exhibition in honor of the Lewis and Clark expedition to the Pacific coast. Mr. Story, it will be recalled, remembered Manchester's unique organization, the Elder Brethren, with a beautiful big salmon on the occasion of their gathering in 1903.

A letter slide has been placed in the door of the BREEZE office in Pulsifer's block, during the past week, for the convenience of friends who bring news items to the office when it is closed.

A delegation of local Daughters of Rebekah made a visitation to the Beverly lodge, on the occasion of their installation of officers, Tuesday evening.

The Pilgrim Fathers had a half-pound party at their lodge rooms Monday night, after their meeting, which proved a most enjoyable occasion.

Birthday Party.

Miss Harriet Brewster entertained at her Manchester home, Monday evening, from 7 to 10 o'clock, a merry party of thirteen of her girl friends and classmates on the occasion of her 13th birthday. The young people had a gay time, and Miss Brewster, assisted by her mother and by her brother, Rev. E. H. Brewster, proved a most enjoyable hostess. During the evening she was presented with a very pretty signet ring. Before departing, the young people sat about a table well laden with dainty refreshments. Miss Brewster's guests included: Elsie Dow, Abbie Floyd, Minnie Olsen, Alice Howe, Agnes Sjolund, Ada Crombie, Mabel Lodge, Prinnie Dodge, Ruth Beaton, Alice Latons, Annie Younger, Vera Kitfield and Maud Smith.

Myopia Course the Best.

The picturesque golf links of the Myopia Hunt club at Hamilton, where was played the intercollegiate golf tourney last fall, will probably be selected for one of the big golf events of next season. At a recent meeting of the United States Golf association in New York it was practically decided that the amateur golf championship tourney will be played at Myopia next season. These links are highly praised by all the big golfers.

NEW CHURCH.

Rev. Fr. Downey Assures Manchester Parishioners a New House of Worship as Soon as Matters are Favorably Adjusted.

One of the things that can be expected as a result of the new parish just created by Archbishop Williams for the churches at Manchester and Beverly Farms is a new church at Manchester.

This much Rev. Fr. John J. Downey, who celebrated his first mass at the North Shore churches last Sunday, declared to his parishioners, when he said, in speaking of his future plans, that as soon as he can see his way clear he will build a new church in Manchester.

Fr. Downey comes to the new parish after 16 years of priesthood, a man of energy and will, qualified by past experience to carry on the work of a new parish. As yet no definite plans have been made, but besides the assurance of a new church at Manchester, he said Sunday, if it was found necessary the Beverly Farms church will be enlarged.

For the present the old order of services will prevail at both churches, but as soon as possible Rev. Fr. Downey will give to Beverly Farms and Manchester all the advantages of a parish, which heretofore could not have been accorded to them as missions. There will be mass at St. Margaret's church at 8.30 o'clock every morning as well as at 10.30 Sundays. Sunday school will be held hereafter in the afternoon instead of morning, after which benediction will be said.

There is little doubt that the Archbishop has favored the North Shore parish with an energetic man, who understands the needs of the people in this locality. The new pastor will be best remembered for the work he carried on in connection with the Working Boys' Home in Boston. This institution is one of the most worthy of the kind in the State, and for some time past, owing to necessary enlargements, it has been under heavy mortgage, but Fr. Downey, by earnest work, proved himself a worthy benefactor of the cause by almost entirely reducing the debt.

Last Sunday Fr. Downey very courteously thanked Fr. Curran of the Beverly parish for the condition in which he found the parish — free from debt, with a substantial bank account to the credit of both churches, and everything provided for, even to the smallest details.

On Tuesday evening, January 24, a testimonial banquet will be tendered D. D. S. K. Peter M. Riordan, in Knights of Columbus hall, by the Knights of Columbus of Beverly and vicinity. A reception will be tendered at 7 and a banquet will follow at 7.30 o'clock, at which State Deputy J. C. Pelletier and many other prominent officials will be present as guests. Thomas F. Delaney is chairman of the committee having the affair in charge.

Ex-Commander Warren Shaw, a well-known member of the Grand Army, passed away at his home on Vestry street, late Saturday night, after a short illness. Mr. Shaw was a man of excellent qualities and will be sorely missed. He served in Co. F, Eighth Regiment, of Lynn, from July 21, 1864, to the close of the war. Mr. Shaw held several important offices in John H. Chipman post, and only last week closed his term of office as commander, having filled it with credit. He leaves a widow and a daughter.

Mrs. M. C. Reynolds spoke on Home Mission work before the ladies of the First Baptist church at their Thursday afternoon meeting, to which members of the circles of Danvers, Wenham and Beverly Farms were invited. Tea was served at 6.45 o'clock, and in the evening Mrs. Reynolds again gave a short address to the members and their gentlemen friends.

Frank H. Cameron is ill at his home on Lovett street with typhoid fever.

The Unity Guild will combine the musicale, which was to have been held last Friday, with a dancing party to be held on January 26.

Rev. Dr. Patten of St. Louis will occupy the Dane Street pulpit Sunday morning, and Mr. R. H. Huling, master of the English High school of Cambridge, will speak in the evening. Rev. Mr. Byington, the pastor, is to be college preacher at Wells college, Aurora, N.Y., on Sunday.

The City Council entertained an order for $600 for the laying of a new floor in City hall, and this will undoubtedly be welcome news to the many dancers and others who enjoy the parties given in the hall. The floor has been in urgent need of repair for a long time, and it is hoped that this move will be favorably considered.

A pretty wedding took place at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Porter, on Lovett street, on Monday evening, when their daughter, Laura, was united in marriage to Olin C. Ellis of Danvers, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Everard W. Snow. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis will reside in Danvers.

The Thorndike club gave another of its pretty parties in Rogers hall on Friday evening, and a large number of dancers attended. The unique feature of the party was the price of admission—33 cents.

Musical Festival.

The St. Peter's Episcopal church choir gave its annual festival Thursday evening, a week ago, the church being crowded to the doors with the members of the parish and the music lovers in this vicinity. For some time past the choir, under the direction of its efficient choirmaster and director Leo C. Demack, have been hard at work rehearsing for this event, the selections being among those used in the leading churches in the large cities. The entire program was rendered in a manner reflecting great credit on the choir. The harmony and blending of their voices was most beautiful. Each number was given with the dignity and reverence that should characterize church music. The choir was assisted by Master Leonard Scorgie, soprano soloist at the Advent church; Master Joseph Bruce Burke, soprano, and Master

Frank Hancock of St. Paul's choir, Boston.

In the anthem, "Lovely Athens," Master Leonard Scorgie sang the solo, "Ye mountain, ye beautiful hills, bow ye down," and at the offertory, "Come unto me," by Striner. Master Scorgie has a voice of rare purity, his range and volume of tone is remarkable. Especially pleasing was his easy manner of singing and enunciation. In the anthem, "I desire wisdom," Stainer, Masters Scorgie, Burke and Hancock sang the difficult trio, "When Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea," their young voices blending beautifully. In the anthem, "Lovely Athens," Master Frank Hancock rendered the alto solo in a finished manner, his rich and beautiful voice being heard to beautiful effect. The work of the chorus was steady and even, and at all times the attacks and expression marked were carefully observed. Leo C. Demack, the choirmaster, presided at the organ and directed the entire program. Great credit is due him for this delightful festival, and we trust that he will long remain with us to repeat his success of this occasion. Rev. E. J. V. Huiquinn, the rector, delivered a short but powerful discourse on the necessity of having church music at all times reverent and dignified.

The class of 1908, Beverly High school, has received its class pin. The design is a gold shield, blue enamelled, with embossed numerals. Quayle of Albany made the pin.

The Blanche Varnum and Ruth Wellington Concert company gave the second entertainment in the First Baptist Bible school course on Tuesday evening to an appreciative audience. A choice musical program was rendered.

Frank P. Knight has this week purchased, through Charles Fitz of Woburn, the house near his own, on Church street, belonging to the Fitz heirs. The property, being so central, is one of the most desirably located in town. Though Mr. Knight has no definite plans as yet, the house will probably be fitted with all modern conveniences, made into two tenements, and will be for rent at a very early date.

Miss Alice Sanborn has been detained from her duties at the Priest school the past week and is confined to her home at the Cove with an attack of la grippe.

Quite a delegation of local Odd Fellows made a visitation to the Gloucester lodge Monday evening.

The Y.P.S.C.E. connected with the South church, Peabody, will entertain the members of the Salem C.E. Union at their chapel, Wednesday evening, January 18th, from 7.45 to 9.45 o'clock. All Christian Endeavorers are invited.

The annual social reunion and roll-call of the Congregational church, as announced elsewhere, will occur next Thursday evening in the chapel.

Edward W. Baker, past commander of Camp 149, with Frank W. Bell as aid, went to Rockport Thursday night to install the officers of the camp in that town.

A. C. Needham was the plaintiff in a breach of contract case against Pierce & Pierce of Boston this week. The trial was before Judge Wentworth in the Municipal court, and a verdict was given in favor of the plaintiff for the full amount.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Cheever entertained the members of the Hap-hazard club at their Bridge street home, Thursday. The evening was given over to a social time, the hour being very pleasantly interspersed with vocal and instrumental selections and readings.

There will be a joint installation of the recently-elected officers of North Shore lodge of Workmen and the Degree of honor this year. Though the date is not definitely fixed, it will probably be on Wednesday evening, January 25.

The many friends of Mrs. Sarah Porter will regret to learn of her continued illness. For the past ten days she has been confined to her Bennett street home with an attack of la grippe.

FOUND NUDE IN TOWN HALL.

Manchester Young Man has an Attack of Delusory Insanity.

Wednesday morning, as Janitor George D. Haskell entered the Manchester town hall, he caught a faint glimpse of a white figure glide before him in the corridor, and he was inclined to think the sight which attracted his attention an optical illusion. In fact, he would have given the matter no further thought, he declares, had he not seen before him as he passed around a corner in the hallway, in going to the stairway leading to the basement, the nude body of a man, with only his head hid from view. He remained cool, however, for retracting his steps he went to his office, secured a hammer, fastened the main entrance to the hall—the only door unlocked—and left the building.

It wasn't until he had left the building and was again in the open air, less than three minutes after he entered, that he suspected the meaning of all he had seen.

He remembered seeing Chief of Police Peabody and Selectman Swett hurrying up Elm street toward the Old Mill as he entered the town hall, and as soon as he collected his thoughts he concluded they might have been looking for the very object he had seen.

Forthwith he hastened his steps in the direction they had gone, and soon the matter was adjusted, the search given up, and the party came to the town hall.

It appears George Knowlton, whom everybody in town knows, and who has been acting rather strangely of late, was missed from his home in the Old Stone Mill, Elm street. His brother, Edward Knowlton, notified the police, and a search was at once instituted. It was expected his dead body would be found on the hill back of the house, as all his wearing apparel was found in his room.

The search had not progressed very far when Mr. Haskell appeared on the scene, as above described, and the party went to town hall.

But when they arrived here another search had to be made. Up stairs and down they looked, and finally Mr. Swett found the unfortunate man shivering with cold, hiding in the toilet room.

"What are you doing here?" asked Mr. Swett. "You will freeze to death."

"Ferguson told me to go out in the brook and drown myself," he replied, "but I couldn't break through the ice and so I came to town hall to take a hot bath."

(Mr. Ferguson referred to was Inspector of Boilers Ferguson of Boston.)

Mr. Knowlton was taken into the selectmen's office and dressed. Later in the day he was examined by Drs. Geo. W. Blaisdell of Manchester and Harry E. Sears of Beverly, and after an examination he was taken to Danvers Insane asylum by Chief Peabody.

Everybody who knows George feels sorry for the misfortune which has befallen him. Only a few weeks ago he was elected junior vice-commander of the Sons of Veterans camp, of which he has been an active member for many years. It is thought certain things of minor importance so preyed upon his mind that it drove him insane.

The doctors who examined him declare, however, that it is not melancholia, so much as delusory insanity. It is thought after a few months' treatment he may be able to return home.

JAN. 17 S. of V. FAIR JAN. 20

TOWN HALL, MANCHESTER

AND SOMETHING DOING EVERY MINUTE OF THE TIME

The real goods will be delivered this week, and that in great big bundles. If you stay at home you miss a good thing. And 50c admits you to the Fair each and every evening including Friday night, at which time the crowning event of a week's jubilee will be the with Long's Full Orchestral rendering music that will be snappy and up-to-the-minute.

TUESDAY EVENING

The Fair will be opened by a Division officer of the Sons of Veterans, and the Manchester Brass Band will make the rafters crack to the strains of the Star Spangled Banner.

WEDNESDAY EVENING

Here's where you get the real thing. The Manchester Mandolin Club, L. M. Blythe, Conductor. A musical treat; a bright, entertaining spot at this, the "doorway" of the New Year. CAN YOU AFFORD TO MISS IT?

THURSDAY EVENING

A Comedy Act of the right brand, by Mr. James Dilks and Miss Daisy Dilks; an 18-minute laugh; a clean comedy act.

"THE GIRL AND THE COON."

It's an original musical act, pronounced the laughing hit of the show whenever played. It will keep you on the roar from start to finish, and is a live one for sure.

FRIDAY EVENING

As above stated, is the Grand Ball. Come! "All balance your partners," and let us have a good time together.

SATURDAY EVENING

It is expected the Prize Committee will be able to announce the names of such as have been fortunate in securing the prizes.

VOLUME 1.

NUMBER 35.

SATURDAY, JAN. 14, 1905.

A Remarkable Record.

What a splendid recommendation for the North Shore as a health resort is the necrology record of Manchester, published in last week's BREEZE. "A most remarkable record," writes a correspondent, who lives in another State.

To begin with, out of a population of over 2,600 the year round and which approaches 3,500 in the summer season, there were only 33 deaths. Two-thirds of that number lived to be 50 years old, ten over 75 years and one reached the 100 mark. Of the ten who died under 50, six were infants. So that in reality only four lives in the prime of life passed away. Anent this record a correspondent writes the following:

"In reading your paper of January 7 I was at once struck with the remarkable record in the death rate of Manchester. It may be of interest to call attention to some facts from that record.

"Thirty-three individuals are mentioned whose combined ages total 2,590½ years, or an average of 78½. Twenty-two of the 33 lived to be over 50 years of age, ten over 75, and one 100. Only ten died under 50 years of age and six of these were infants. It seems to me a most remarkable record."

News when it is News.

We have received many complementary words the past week from our Manchester friends for the full and explicit account in our last week's issue of the G.A.R. installation in Manchester town hall last Friday night, for which, of course, we feel very grateful.

These words, together with the fact Newsdealer Floyd had sold out his usual supply of the BREEZE before he closed his store Saturday evening, only emphasizes the position the BREEZE is fast assuming in Manchester and at other parts of the shore as the representative North Shore paper.

The BREEZE is printed in Beverly, Saturday at noon, and it is the object of the editor to give the readers of his paper the news of importance which happens through the week until that time.

The sure and steady gain the paper is making is plain enough proof to us that we are progressing in the right direction.

Whisperings.

I noticed eight carloads of lumber standing on a siding at Beverly Farms yesterday, which led me to think for a minute that I was in the centre of some big lumbering camp. I learned that the lumber was designed for the Allen Curtis, W. D. Denegre and H. C. Frick estates, where there is considerable building going on.

* * * *

They didn't "paint the town red," but I hear that some mischievous boys painted a bath-house on West Beach yellow a few days ago. And the joke is on the good-natured Al. Potter, one of Connolly Bros. foremen. Al. is a friend of everybody at the Farms. The first of the week, I hear, Mr. Connolly sent him to work at the beach, painting a bath-house with red paint and yellow trimmings. He had almost completed his work, and while up town some boys found the can of yellow paint and proceeded to use it up with fancy scrolls on the four sides of the house. I hear my friend Potter had to plane off the yellow paint before the "boss" found out about the trick, but he knows it, nevertheless.

* * * *

I would not lead my readers to think I am "knocking" when I insert the following squib, which I copy from an exchange:

A Washington county, Me., editor writes: "One of our newly-married young ladies kneads bread with her gloves on. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on; he needs it with his pants on, and unless the delinquent readers of this old rag of freedom pay up soon we will need bread without a darn thing on."

MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Whitehouse have decided to close their Cove house about January 24, and will sail for England about the fifth of February. Mr. and Mrs. Whitehouse have been much in evidence on the Shore the past few months, since their return from abroad the early part of September.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth, came down to Manchester recently and made their presence evident to the Cove children in a very pleasant manner, distributing among them some handsome boxes of candy.

Reginald Boardman was one of the Boston ushers at the fashionable Moale-Hillen wedding in Baltimore, last Saturday.

Miss Margaret Winthrop was down from Boston last Sunday, riding as far as Beverly by train, and walking down the shore to her home in West Manchester, returning by the afternoon train. Her sister, Miss Clara Winthrop, sailed last Saturday for the Mediterranean, where she will spend the balance of the winter in travel. She sailed on the Deutschland from New York for Naples.

Miss Naneen Mitchell, who has recently gone over to Washington from her Manchester summer home, is having a happy time in the great city, where she will easily rank among the more prominent debutantes. Mr. Frank Mitchell is giving a series of dances for Miss Mitchell and Mrs. Arthur Brice is introducing her to her friends.

The William B. Walkers have closed their West Manchester house for a month or two. Mr. and Mrs. Walker had planned to go abroad but they have changed their plans and will spend most of the winter in California and the South.

Among the Boston men who are interested in the company recently formed for "harnessing the sun," and which is making solar motors for that purpose, is James Means, the State street capitalist, who is spending the winter at his Smith's Point estate.

Mrs. William LeBrun, who occupied the Apple lane cottage last season, was in town Monday.

Franchise Accepted.

The franchise recently granted the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. by the Manchester selectmen on petition of the company to lay wires under ground on Beach street, from Union to 120 feet beyond the Boston and Maine crossing, has been accepted by the company and has been signed by both parties during the past week.

The work of installing fixtures in Pulsifer's block was started Thursday and Manager Leathers says the telephone exchange will probably be in working order in their new quarters by the second week in February.

Selectman Swett stated to a BREEZE man this morning that he had the assurance of the telephone company that when the work of laying the conduits was started, which will probably be the early part of next week, only town men would be employed to do the work.

To Exhibit in Auto Show.

Chester H. Dennis of Manchester is to have a booth in the Boston Automobile Show this winter to exhibit the sparking plug recently patented by the young electrician. The call which Mr. Dennis is having for the plug already from dealers, and the fact that one of the big Boston dealers is handling the plug speaks well of the patent and gives promise of its future success.

S. of V. Fair.

No articles received for sale at the S. of V. fair in Manchester next week, will be appreciated as much as those received by Commander Floyd, Thursday, from Mrs. H. P. Woodbury of Beverly. Mrs. Woodbury, now 72 years old, is widow of Col. H. P. Woodbury after whom the Manchester camp is named. She has sent some very pretty articles of embroidery, fancy work, etc., to be placed on sale.

Many other articles, most of which are offered as prizes, have been on exhibition in Lee's window the week past, including a beautiful doll, from W. G. Webber & Co., Salem; bath robe, A. B. Cook of Gloucester; lamp, Geo. W. Hooper; cake, B. S. Bullock; order for a cord of wood, M. E. Gorman; mileage book, M. J. Callahan; shoes, Edmund Giles, Beverly; ladies' slippers, Shakelford & Reynolds, Gloucester; umbrella, Field & Kennedy. Two gold watches have been on exhibition in Cheever's window.

An account of each evening's entertainment will be found in another column.

Mr. George Willmont on was operated upon yesterday by Drs. Haddock of Beverly and Blaisdell of Manchester and his ulcerated eye removed.

MANCHESTER.

While harnessing a horse in Dennis & Campbell's stable, Monday morning, Allie Allen had a narrow escape from serious accident, the horse hicking him severely in the knee. Though he continued at his work that morning, he has been confined to his home most of the week.

Work was started Monday by Roberts & Hoare on framing the big stable at West Manchester for W. D. Denegre. Work on the automobile house is already well advanced. Robert Robertson Co. has been awarded the contract for plumbing the buildings.

The last in the series of pow-wows, under the auspices of Red Men's tribes of Beverly, Rockport, Gloucester and Manchester, will be held at the wigwam of the Gloucester tribe on Thursday evening, January 26.

Mrs. A. E. Hersey entertained seven tables at whist at her Bridge street home, Monday evening, the party being given under the auspices of the Sewing circle of the D. of R. The prizes went to Mrs. George P. Dole and Andrew J. Orr.

Thomas A. Baker installed the officers of Camp 24, S. of V., Gloucester, Wednesday evening. John L. Prest acted as his aid.

Cheever's window looked very pretty last night with its patriotic decorations. Several of the prizes to be offered at the S. of V. fair next week were displayed amid the Stars and Stripes, which adorned the windows, forming a pretty setting.

Clarence W. Morgan recently attended the annual reunion of the Bunker Hill school of Charlestown. While there he met S. J. Bullock, who observed last week his 31st year as head master of the school.

The subject for discussion at the meeting of the N. S. H. Society next Friday evening will be "Apples: planting, care and cultivation of the trees, picking and storing the fruit." The discussion will be opened by John Baker and W. B. Jackson.

Deputy Hattie Perkins did not install the officers of the Salem corps, W.R.C., Monday evening, because of the recent death of her mother.

Town Treasurer Edwin P. Stanley has been confined to his Summer street home all the week with a slight attack of grippe.

Miss Bertha Stone returned Thursday from a three weeks' visit with friends in Cambridge.

The installation of officers of Conomo tribe, 113, Red Men, will take place next Monday evening.

MAGNOLIA.

[From our Correspondent.]

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dunbar of Dorchester were home over Sunday, visiting Mrs. Dunbar's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sanborn, at Coolidge's Point. Mr. Orrin D. Sawyer was also the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sanborn over Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth G. Wilbor and Miss Gay of Brookline were in the village Tuesday.

Owing to the serious illness of Mr. John Symonds, the Ladies' Aid society postponed their supper, which was to be held Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Lafayette Hunt and Miss Tarr were in Boston Wednesday, going to see the Rogers Brothers, at the Hollis.

The Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. Frank Story, Thursday.

Misses Clara and Maud Butler of Magnolia were two out of the four whose penmanship won the gold medal for the Salem Commercial school at the St. Louis fair.

John Symonds.

After a comparatively short illness, John Symonds passed away, at his home in Magnolia, Thursday morning of typhoid fever. The family, of wife and three children, who survive him, are receiving the sympathy of the whole community.

The State Highway.

The board of aldermen took their initiation step in the matter of a State highway at Beverly Farms in their meeting Thursday evening, when Aldermen Desmond offered an order, "That so much of the mayor's address as related to the new State highway at Beverly Farms be referred to the joint standing committee on streets, the mayor, and such person or persons, as he may request, in regard to the matter." The order was adopted.

New this Week.NOTICE.

All Sons of Veterans, and particularly such as are on the Committee of Fair Arrangements, and such ladies of the Relief Corps appointed to assist, will please be present at the Town hall, Monday evening, January 16, after seven o'clock. Sons who can do so, come likewise during the day, Monday, to assist in general arrangement. Articles intended for the fancy tables can be brought at this time, while home-made candies for the refreshment table should be delivered at the store of L. W. Floyd, prior to Tuesday evening at six o'clock.

HONORED GUESTS.

Union Club tenders Adj.-Gen Stopford and Mayor Wallis Reception and Banquet.

The reception and banquet tendered Adjutant-General William Stopford and Mayor Joseph A. Wallis by the time, and Mayor Wallis is a past president, made the occasion more of a happy reunion. About half a hundred members were present at the reception, which was thoroughly informal, and at the banquet following.

Albert S. Hoogs, secretary of the Charles A. Lamson, E. C. Sawyer, Charles H. Trowt, Franklin K. Hooper, William R. Brooks, Thomas Fitzgibbon, Robert Robertson, Melville Woodbury, Andrew W. Rogers, Charles H. Henderson, Charles F. Lee, D. W. Quill and others.

The committee having the affair in charge was composed of Charles L. Spalding, Robert Robertson, Percy A. Wallis, Charles G. Hardy and Dr. P. P. Johnson. Lamacchia's orchestra of Boston rendered pleasing selections during the evening.

BEVERLY.

Hervey Lunt has been chosen chairman of the board of assessors, and Frank Woodbury, 2d, chairman of the water board for 1905.

Deputy Arthur W. Peabody of Rowley installed the newly-elected officers of Golden Star council, G.U.A.M., on Wednesday evening.

Capt. Benjamin Ober left this week for Daytona, Florida, where he will take charge of W. P. Wharton's yacht for the winter. Frank Ober accompanied him.

Assistant Engineer Robert H. Grant has again been elected president of the Beverly Firemen's Relief association.

Benjamin M. Smith, the well-known horticulturist, will spend the winter months in southern California.

Melville Woodbury has purchased a 35-acre farm in North Beverly and Danvers, on Conant street.

Horace P. Edgett of Boston was the guest of his parents, on Cabot street, the first of the week.

Adj. General Stopford is being made the guest of honor at several banquets given recently. Saturday night he was feted at the Algonquin club, Commonwealth avenue, Boston, by his co-officers in the Eighth Regiment, and on Wednesday he and Mayor Wallis were the guests of honor at a banquet given by the Union club at their cosy rooms in the Masonic building.

The Ballou club tendered a reception to Rev. Ezra A. Hoyt and Mrs. Hoyt at the church on Tuesday evening. The affair was a very pretty one, and many of the parishioners came to greet the new pastor and his wife. President Hinchliffe and Miss Alice M. Pyne assisted in receiving. Musical selections were rendered by Miss Lillie T. Perkins, Miss Cora Flanders and by Mr. Hinchliffe, and refreshments were served.

The well-known shoe firm of Bray, Standley & Webber has dissolved, Mr. Webber retiring.

TALK ON CHINA.

Lieut. Farnham tells Wednesday Evening Club of Manchester of his Experiences in Far East.

The third meeting of the Wednesday evening club in the chapel in Manchester, Wednesday evening of this week, was even more successful than the ones preceeding, and so popular are the meetings and so large is the membership becoming, that it was voted to find larger quarters for the next meeting.

Besides being a grand success socially, the evening was most successful in point of entertainment furnished. The committee was very fortunate in being able to secure Lieut. Charles A. Farnham of Beverly, who gave a decidedly interesting talk on his recent experiences in China where he has been engaged as engineer in the construction of a railroad from Canton to Hangtcheou.

All the musical numbers were very finely rendered, the vocal solos by Miss Annie McMillan of Gloucester and Frank A. Rowe being especially pleasing. The entertainment opened with a drum solo by John Crombie, with Miss Hattie Baker, piano accompanist. Miss McMillan's first selection was the "Nightingale," which was very sweetly rendered, and as an encore she sang "White Rose." After the intermission she sang Macdowell's "Idyll."

Miss Abbie Rust, one of Gloucester's leading young violinists, played charmingly. Her first selection was "Ave Maria" and as an encore she played "Teasing," and in the second part of the program she played the "Gondolier."

"Sing me to Sleep" sang by F. A. Rowe was pleasingly rendered as also was "Over the Harbor Bar," which he sang as an encore.

Patrick H. Boyle read very nicely "The Vagabonds" and won great applause. He gave Shakespeare's "Seven Stages of Man" in response.

Lieut. Farnham gave his talk on China before the intermission.

Preliminary to his talk he said he would confine his remarks to the work upon which he was engaged in China and to that portion of the country in which he worked — Southern China. He said in part:

"The work of building the railroad from Hangtcheou to Canton was not actually started till 1902, and the work was done on a small line while the main line was being surveyed. We tried Chinese contract work for a while but failed. In July we secured an order to do the work ourselves. It was no easy task to pick up the force of men such as we wanted, especially in China where the natives had never seen a railroad. The work is done mostly by manual labor. The 10,000,000 yards of grading are carried in baskets by 10,000 Chinese coolies.

"We pay the men off daily instead of weekly as we did at the start, the amount paid being about 16 cents a day.

"The coolies work in gangs of 24 and over each gang is a head coolie, as he is called. A white foreman is over five or six of these, and the foreman is responsible to the superintendent. The Chinese coolie lives from hand to mouth and it is easiest to pay them daily."

In speaking of the character of the people, Mr. Farnham told of a Chinese mob that was caused by plowing up some graves. It was started by an old woman and before it was ended the engineers were driven across the river, stoned, threatened, but they finally reached their camp, which was in a temple in another village, and here they had to remain all one night. Finally when things were looking blue, the heads of the village came out and persuaded the crowd to go back across the river to their own town.

"On another occasion," said Mr. Farnham, "at a place 15 miles from Canton we had 5000 coolies at work, and these with thousands of others broke out in insurrection. I had noticed for some mornings previous, the coolies were out before the foremen, but I could not understand why. It seems the soldiers in charge of the tools were not supposed to let the coolies take their implements of labor from the sheds until just before 7 o'clock, but there were so many after the jobs that by the judicious use of the bribe the soldiers for a consideration of 20 cents a gang would let the first ones who came along take out the tools, and, as a matter of course, the first gang on the work were set at work at once to digging and the other coolies would be out of a job.

"The soldiers got too avaricious and demanded too much, and the gang struck.

"Out boats were stationed down the river," said Lieut. Farnham. "And when we heard the gang coming, we pulled out into the stream and drew our rifles and revolvers. I gave orders to shoot the first man who attempted to swim out to the boats. This was communicated to the mob on shore through an interpreter and they were quieted."

The program for the evening was as follows:

Drum solo, piano accompanist, "Diamond Medal March,".....Englehardt
John Crombie and Miss Hattie Baker.
Vocal Solo, "Nightingale,".....
Miss Annie McMillan

Violin Solo, "Ave Maria,".....Gounod
Miss Abbie Rust.

Talk on China.....
Lieut. Charles Farnham of Beverly.

Vocal Solo, "Sing me to Sleep,"....Greene
Frank A. Rowe.

Intermission—20 minutes.

Violin Solo, "Gondolier,".....Miss Rust

Vocal Solo, "Idyll,".....MacDowell
Miss McMillan.

Reading, "The Vagabonds,"...P. H. Boyle

Violin Solo, selections from "Rusticana," Miss Rust.

The committee in charge was composed of Howard M. Stanley (chairman), Alex. Robertson, Frank A. Rowe, Mrs. Howard M. Stanley and Mrs. John Baker.

Joint Installation.

The recently elected officers of Magnolia Lodge, 149, I. O. O. F., and of Liberty Lodge, Daughters of Rebekahs of Manchester, were last night ushered into their various offices at a joint installation, the exercises in connection with which were conducted most successfully.

D.D.G.M. Mrs. H. E. Clayton and suite of Gloucester installed the officers of the Rebekahs, and following this, D.D.G.M. Frank Robinson and suite of Gloucester, installed the officers of the Odd Fellows lodge.

After the exercises both lodges and their friends adjourned to the hall below, where awaited them a bounteous spread.

W. R. C. Installation.

Mrs. Eva Cook of Gloucester installed the recently-elected officers of Allen Relief corps of Manchester, Thursday evening, at G. A. R. hall. The installation was preceded by a turkey supper in the banquet hall, and was followed by some bright speechmaking, at which time remarks were made by Enock Crombie, James H. Rivers, Charles Stone, members of Post 67, G. A. R., who were guests of the evening, by Mr. and Mrs. Cook and others. During the evening the installing officer was presented with some beautiful souvenirs of the town, and Mrs. Floyd, the retiring treasurer, was presented with a handsome opal ring. The officers installed follow:

Mrs. Ellen I. Horton, president; Mrs. Mary Lane, senior vice-president; Mrs. Julia E. Reed, junior vice-president; Mrs. Eliza Crombie, chaplain; Mrs. Hannah G. Tappan, treasurer; Mrs. Flora E. Hersey, conductor; Mrs. Alice L. Salter, guard; Mrs. Jennie Dennis, patriotic conductor; Mrs. Helen L. MANCHESTER.

Miss Helen Boyle and her guests, Miss O'Connors of Rock Island, Ill., Miss Moore of St. Clair and Miss Smith of Malden, who have been spending the holidays with her, left for Wellesley, Wednesday.

The Manchester Mandolin club gave quite a successful concert in the Beverly Farms Baptist church, Monday night. A number of young people from here attended.

Isaac M. Marshall attended the annual banquet and reunion of the Massachusetts and Suburban Press association at the United States hotel in Boston, Monday.

Miss Hannah Sheehan, who has charge of Bullock's bakery on Central street, is enjoying a week's respite from her duties. Eddie Lethbridge has been taking her place.

Mrs. Walter R. Bell has been spending a few days the past week a guest of her sister, Mrs. Elsie MacDonald, in Chelsea.

Herbert W. Clark gave a very interesting talk on "Asparagus: how to plant and cultivate it," at the meeting of the N. S. Horticultural society last Friday evening. At the next meeting the annual reports will be read.

The Selectmen have petitioned the Probate Court that E. P. Stanley be appointed guardian over Harriet Kenmouth, who has been a pauper in the town since her husband was killed in South Reading, some 30 years ago. For the past six years she has been in the Medfield asylum. Chief Peabody served papers on her there Monday.

Red Men's Club.

Monday evening, at their rooms in Pulsifer's block, the Red Men's club of Manchester elected the following-named officers: W. F. Spry, president; William F. Mitchell, vice-president; James Salter, secretary; Herbert Shaw, treasurer and collector. After the meeting one of Reed's delicious oyster stews was served.

Manchester Brass Band.

At their meeting last Friday night the Manchester brass band elected these officers: William F. Spry, president; James R. Hamilton, vice-president; James Sheehan, secretary; George E. Hildreth, treasurer and manager; Joseph Allen, collector; James R. Hamilton, leader; Joseph C. Thomas, Joseph Allen and James R. Hamilton, directors. L. M. Blythe continues to be the instructor of the band. The regular meetings are on Thursday evenings, and at present extra meetings are held on Tuesday evenings.

Another Candidate.

Rev. Henry Condit of Burlington, Conn., occupied the pulpit of the Congregational church in Manchester last Sunday, preaching two strong and very interesting sermons.

"Go up higher" was his subject in the evening, the thought being suggested in Luke 14: 10—"Friend, go up higher; then shalt thou have worship in the presence of them that sit at meat with thee."

"The strength of our land today," said he, "is in our homes, and as our home weakens, just so much does our land weaken; the home life needs to go higher. In these days, when the greed for wealth seems to fasten on us, in these days of strife between labor and capital, we are led to ask ourselves if men are really going higher. The struggle; how fearful it is! In it all we should take Jesus Christ as our partner.

"Men of wealth are beginning to realize that with wealth comes responsibility. Wealth is a trust, a privilege, a responsibility. But, Oh! How much higher up we can go.

"In our church life can it be there is need to go higher? What high fences there have been built between denominations, cutting up our church. What hypocrisy we have in our profession of faith. Let us forget ourselves and think only of Him.

"As long as humanity exists there will be denominational differences, because we cannot all think alike. But we can all go up higher. There is the field of missions. Let us remember in all our giving there are one million souls in China dying each month without knowing God."

"John the Baptist" was his theme in the morning, his text being from John 1: 6—"There was a man sent from God, whose name was John." He spoke of John's word about himself—"I am the voice"; his answer to the Pharisees—"I am not the Christ."

Mr. Condit is a man of marked ability as a preacher and a pastor. He has been at his present pastorate three and one-half years, but previous to that he was connected with Prof. Graham Taylor of Chicago Theological seminary in his great work among the slums of that big western city, being assistant pastor of the famous Tabernacle church, situated in the heart of Chicago's poor settlements.

He came to Manchester strongly endorsed by Rev. M. W. Stackpole of the Central Congregational church, Boston, formerly of Magnolia. His work among the young people is said to be one of his strongholds. He was quite generally liked, and it is not improbable he will be invited to preach in Manchester again.

Pow-wow at Rockport.

Almost a score of Manchester Red Men and over 30 from Beverly picked up the iron trail last Friday night and journeyed, through mounds of snow and sheets of driving rain, to the third big pow-wow given under the auspices of Conomo tribe of Manchester, Chick-ataubut tribe of Beverly, Wingaersheek of Gloucester and Wonasquam of Rockport. Like the two preceding, the occasion proved most enjoyable. Fully 200 Red Men were present. Most of the visiting brethren went to Rockport on the 7.08 train from Beverly (7.25 from Manchester) and were joined at Gloucester by a big crowd of redskins. A fine supper was served, following which a finely gotten-up program was carried out. The return was made by special train. Sachem Robert Cass of Beverly was master of ceremonies.

BEVERLY.

Miss Rachael Webber has been the recent guest of New York friends.

The grippe is taking quite a serious hold on Beverly people this year and a large number of cases are reported by the physicians.

Messrs. Samuel and Allan Fairbank are visiting relatives in Hatfield, Mass.

Roland P. Woodbury, who has been so ill at his home on Hale street with typhoid fever, is rapidly convalescing, and is able to sit up for a short while each day.

The John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. is to open an office in town, and have rented rooms in the Endicott block. Mr. Frederick H. Tuttle will be in charge.

Lieut. Charles H. Farnham is to address the Board of Trade on January 25 on the subject of "Railroading in China."

The movement of the Lothrop club in providing for reading rooms for the younger children of the city in the Lunt building is proving a taking feature, and the rooms are filled each day by eager youngsters from all over town.

Capt. John H. Claflin will dine his friends at the Jubilee Yacht club with choice cuts of vension on Sunday afternoon. The return of the genial captain from the Maine woods is always eagerly anticipated.

Beverly Man Delegated.

Captain Isaac H. Edgett of Beverly, first clerk in the Secretary of State's office, was chosen messenger to carry the electoral vote of Massachusetts to Washington, at a meeting of the college, held in the Senate chamber of the State House Monday forenoon. Captain Edgett received an unanimous election, every one of the 16 votes being cast for him. There were several other candidates for the election.

Seawanhaka Cup Race.

Relative to the Seawanhaka cup race, to be sailed next summer between the Manchester and Royal St. Lawrence yacht clubs, a despatch from Montreal says:

"There has been some little differences of opinion between the Royal St. Lawrence yacht club and the Manchester yacht club of Massachusetts about the next series of international races to be sailed during the next summer for the Seawanhaka cup. The differences are not very serious ones, however, and the chances are that there will be no real difficulty in settling them satisfactorily. A visit of the Manchester officers is expected during the early part of the month, when the annual ball of the Royal St. Lawrence yacht club will take place."

A Marine Wonder.

Many Manchester and Magnolia people went to Gloucester the early part of the week to see the little Norwegian lifeboat Urad, which, after six dreary months of buffetting the winds and seas on the broad Atlantic, came within a hair of being smashed to pieces on the boulders at Pavillion beach last Saturday night.

The boat is a little wonder, and is, indeed, a marine curiosity. She is only 18 feet long, eight feet wide, eight feet deep, draws four feet of water, and is egg-shaped in appearance.

On the 27th of last June Captain Brude, with three men, started out from Aalesund, Norway, on an experimental trip across the Atlantic, the voyage being made to demonstrate her seaworthiness. He aimed to win the prize of a million francs offered by the French government for a life-boat that would reduce to a minimum the loss of life in marine accidents, and he intended to reach St. Louis before the fair closed.

The trip demonstrated all the Norwegian captain claimed for his remarkable little craft, and his hopes were in no wise weakened as a result of the misfortune in Gloucester harbor. The boat has been tied up at Langsford's wharf in Gloucester all the week, where she has been the object of the curious.

S. OF V. FAIR.

Third Annual Fair of Manchester Sons of Veterans Camp very Successful!

It has been Fair week in Manchester. And like the two preceding fairs conducted by Col. H. P. Woodbury Camp, S. of V., the fair this week has been highly successful, both as a social event and as a financial venture.

From the time that Senior Vice Division Commander Walter Penney of Lynn opened the fair on Tuesday evening till the last strains of "Home, Sweet Home" were played by Long's orchestra last night at the close of the grand ball, the fair has been the attraction of hundreds. Each night the hall has been crowded and the grand ball last night was the crowning success of the week.

The receipts of the week have not been up to the standard set by the fair two years ago, which was phenomenally successful, but the fair committee feel pleased with the success of the event, and a goodly sum will be turned into the treasury.

FRED K. SWETT,

CHAIRMAN OF ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE.

The object of the fair was to replenish the treasury of the camp to such amount so that upon any and all occasions they may be in such financial condition as to render substantial aid to the veteran soldier or his dependencies, and with such a worthy and popular object the fair could not be otherwise than a success.

Past Commander Frank W. Bell was chairman of the committee of arrangements having the fair in charge, and he was assisted by a large committee composed of the following:—John L. Prest, secretary; Ernest R. Sargent, treasurer; Walter R. Bell, auditor; Edward W. Baker, Charles H. Morse, George F. Dyer, Richard J. Baker, Ralph Treddick, Harry C. Swett, Orrin A. Martin, Fred K. Swett, Thomas A. Baker, Curtis B. Stanley, Samuel L. Wheaton, Thomas O. D. Urquhart, Samuel Peabody, Herman C. Swett.

FRANK W. BELL,

CHAIRMAN OF COMMITTEE OF ARRANGEMENTS.

MASTERS OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.

Sir Philip Sidney, 1554—1586.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

A cultivated mind, a generous nature and a courageous and chivalrous spirit united to form in Sidney a man of rare mould. He was learned and graceful, a favorite of ladies, and yet a man of affairs and a fearless soldier. His father was of that class of public men, all too rare in Queen Elizabeth's day as in our own, who are too honest to be rich. The wealth that Philip chiefly inherited was of the mind, and he early delighted himself in the society of men of genius, who in turn esteemed him greatly for his social and literary charms.

Sidney was a poet in the innermost centre of his being; his mind and heart were tuned to all that was fair and of good report; his soul was entranced by beauty and in harmony with everything delightful and musical. He never heard the old ballad of Percy and Douglas but he "found his heart stirred as with the sound of a trumpet." But he was a poet, like Spencer and Raleigh, and in that age in which sentiment and action were so often blended, while seeking as soldier and statesman a place among the builders of England.

Sidney's "Defense of Poesie" was the first piece of formal criticism in English literature written by a man of genius. "Poetry," he said, "is of all human learning the most ancient, and of most fatherly antiquity, from whence all other learnings have taken their beginnings; it is so universal that no learned nation doth despise it, no barbarous nation is without it." One of his arguments for the nobility of poetry illustrates so well his prose style that it deserves to be quoted: "Since the Holy Scripture hath whole parts in it poetical, and that even our Saviour Christ vouchsafed to use the flowers of it;—I think—(and I think that I think rightly)—the laurel crown appointed for triumphant captains doth worthily, of all other learnings, honor the poet's triumph."

Other examples show how the soul of poetry breathed in all that he wrote:

"They are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts."

"Then will be a time to die nobly, when you cannot live nobly."

"There is nothing more terrible to a guilty heart than the eye of a respected friend."

"The only disadvantage of an honest heart is credulity."

"Our erect wit maketh us know what perfection is, and yet our infected will keepeth us from reaching unto it."

As an author, Sidney's fame rests chiefly on his "Arcadia," a long romance partly prose and partly poetry, full of fanciful conceits, of knightly adventures, of pastoral simplicity and courtly wit. Its somewhat archaic style and its want of progress make it rather heavy reading, but for the public of Elizabeth's time it had a wonderful charm, and it throws many a light upon life and mariners in the age of the Tudors. "Arcadia" was written during a season of forced idleness, on account of the Queen's displeasure with the poet's uncle, Leicester; and it was written for the amusement of his sister, the gifted mother of the Earl of Pembroke, of whose early death Ben Jonson wrote:

"Underneath this sable hearse
Lies the subject of all verse,
Sidney's sister, Pembroke's mother;
Death! ere thou hast slain another,
Learn'd, and fair, and good as she,
Time shall throw a dart at thee."

Sidney's noble strain breathed spiritual life into his idling; while he was writing "Arcadia" he was also putting into verse, with his sister's collaboration, the Book of Psalms: a work of which it is no disparagement to say that like other attempts to translate or paraphrase the Hebrew lyrics, it inevitably suffers by comparison with the divine original.

Sidney was no mere literary trifler or carpet knight; he was filled with the spirit so common in his day of adventure and discovery; he was not only what Cowper calls him, "a warbler of poetic prose," a critic and a liberal benefactor of poets, a favorite of the court, but a restless, ardent traveller to France and Italy, a fitter-out with Francis Drake of an expedition to the Spanish Main, and at last, hurried on by an unselfish impulse, he went over to the Netherlands to fight the battles of rising freedom. His cup of cold water, given to a dying soldier while he himself was suffering from a mortal wound, has moved with generous impulse every later age.

After some words of affectionate and pious counsel to his two younger brothers, as his friend, Fulke Greville, relates, he was asked as he became speechless for some sign of his trust in God; the brave soldier folded his hands as in prayer upon his breast, and in a few minutes the stainless representative of the young manhood of Elizabethan England passed away. All London assembled at St. Paul's to celebrate the funeral of one of the most honored of England's nobles, the friend of Spenser, the student, lover and philanthropist. "It was accounted a sin," says a writer of the next century, "for any Gentleman of quality for many months after to appear at Court or City in any light or gaudy apparel."

The wonderful effect of Sidney's personality has been little weakened in three centuries. His youth, his chivalrous spirit, his love story, his heroic and pathetic death, these are what move us far more than his books. These are found now only in libraries, and are known only to students. The "Defense of Poesie" has long since been superseded, and the "Arcadia," that admirable pastoral, with its train of abstractions, its Medoruses and Amarillises, its sweet woods, its delight of solitariness, its soft Kentish landscape, has shared the fate of Moore's "Utopia" and Plato's "Republic." But the memory of the unselfish, generous, learned master of early English prose and verse lives today wherever the English language is spoken, and wherever delicacy, fidelity, bravery and devotion still have power to charm. To Sidney belongs the meed of the literary artist, of the scholar, of the knightly champion of freedom, and not least,

"The grand old name of gentleman."

Conomo Chiefs Installed.

The chiefs of Conomo tribe, 113, Red Men, of Manchester, were raised to their respective stumps, Wednesday night, by Deputy Great Sachem Alonzo M. Tufts and suite of Gloucester. The work of the installing officers passed off most successfully, and following the installation the chiefs and their guests feasted on one of Charles Mason's delicious oyster stews.

The following-named officers were installed: James Salter, prophet; William Mitchell, sachem; Manuel Thomas, senior sag.; Orrin A. Martin, junior sag.; Charles T. Loomis, col. of W.; Leonard Andrews, K. of W.; Edwin F. Preston, chief of R.; George Gould, first sannap; Robert Allen, second sannap; Ernest Andrews, guard of wigwam; Frank Martin, guard of forest; D. Milton Knight, W. J. Lethbridge, J. Alex. Lodge and Samuel Crombie, braves; Elmer Butler, John Cool, Herbert Shaw and Wade Brooks, warriors.

Deputy Tufts was assisted by: D. G. P. Howard F. Lufkin, D. G. S. S. Frank T. Webber, D. G. J. S. George Steele, jr., D. G. C. W. Aaron F. Clark, D. G. K. of W. Willard F. Collins, D. G. C. of R. George R. Parsons, D. G. S. Arthur B. Parsons, D. G. G. W. Samuel Tarr, D. G. G. F. George H. Saunders, and Arthur Dickinson, organist.

Officers Installed.

The officers installed at the joint installation of Magnolia lodge, 149, Odd Fellows, and Liberty lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, in Manchester last Friday night, an account of which we had last week, were as follows:—

Mr. and Mrs. John Caswell, who left here about Christmas time, for Mamaroneck, N.Y., where they have taken a house for the winter, are soon to join the large contingent of automobile enthusiasts at Ormond Beach, Fla. Mr. Caswell has recently had a car built which he will enter in the races.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Linehan went over to New York the first of the week and have been taking in the auto show.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Cummings returned from Washington Monday. Mr. Cummings went to the Capital to attend the 'architects' convention. Mr. Cummings' sister, Miss M. Cummings, and Miss A. H. Horton of Boston have been their guests at Prides' the past week.

The Misses Loring had down with them over Sunday Judge and Mrs. W. C. Loring.

Mr. and Mrs. Washington Thomas are planning a European tour for the near future. Mrs. Thomas is one of the most distinguished of the Boston society set, and Mr. Thomas is a prominent club member. Miss Margaret Thomas is one of the season's debutantes. Both she and Miss Helen will accompany their parents.

One of the gayest parties of Americans to cruise the Mediterranean waters this winter will be made up for the most part of a number of Pride's Crossing summer residents. Monday the beautiful steam yacht, Isle, one of the best known yachts in the east, left Boston for the trip across the Atlantic. At Gibraltar the boat will be met by W. S. and J. T. Spaulding, their mother, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. King, Herbert Brown of Boston, and Dr. Norton of New York.

It is said the Alexander Cochranes intend to make Hamilton their summer home hereafter, instead of Pride's. Last season the Cochranes intended to go abroad, but Mrs. Cochrane's health led them to change their plans. They had leased their house, meanwhile, to the J. Ogden Armours, and they went to Hamilton for the summer. Last week Mr. Cochrane bought the Maria Whipple estate, one of the most desirably located in that section, being near the Agassiz', the Von Meyer's and other prominent colonists. It is thought now Mr. Cochrane will build at Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pratt McKean gave a big dinner at her Philadelphia home last Friday night in honor of Miss Elizabeth Sturgis Potter, well known among the summer contingent here.

The annual reception to gentlemen friends was given by the Lothrop club on Thursday evening at the Washington street chapel, and, as usual, proved a most delightful occasion. An excellent program was presented and much enjoyed.

W. H. Johnson of Truro, N.S., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Robson of this city.

C. W. Smith and Bradford Smith of Stoughton have been the recent guests of L. S. Smith, the Savings Bank building optician.

The annual tea of the Beverly Improvement society will be held in the Unitarian chapel on January 27. Miss E. Louise Hill will read, and the High School Glee club will sing.

The High School Mandolin club played at the installation of officers of the A.O.U.W. at the lodge rooms in the Burnham building on Monday evening, and rendered another of their delightful programs.

Miss Edith Saville is the guest of friends in New York city.

The County Commissioners have issued a decree laying out a portion of the new street which is to run from Foster's corner in North Beverly to the new Endicott bridge across Danvers river. The portion not decreed upon is from Bridge street to the site of the bridge location. By the terms of the decree the street is to be 70 feet wide and runs in a practically straight course. The cost of building will devolve upon the city, while the county pays the only land damage, $500, to the Stephen B. Sands estate, where a large amount of land is taken at the extreme northerly end of the street. The entrance from Cabot street will be 115 feet wide.

Fred Works, who has been clerking at Delaney's drug store, has accepted an excellent position at the General Electric Company in Lynn, and went to work there on Monday morning. Mr. Works is a graduate of the Electrical Engineering Institution.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Prince, after entertaining a gay house party at "Princemere" over Sunday, started Monday afternoon for New York, whence they sailed a few days ago for abroad. "Princemere" has been the scene of many week-end parties all fall and winter, and the Princes will be missed by many of the smart set who have been included among their guests. Among the guests last Sunday were Miss Priscilla Stackpole, Fred Jay, son of Col. Jay of New York; John A. Dix and Francis D. Cochrane of Boston, friends of young Prince. The party was given in honor of Miss Helen Prince. On Sunday all indulged in a long horseback ride.

Fred Prince came down from Cambridge Tuesday afternoon and has been at "Princemere" most all the week. The house will be kept open all winter. Wednesday Miss Eleanor Sears arrived for a short visit with friends at the Farms, most of which time, however, is being spent at "Princemere," where she has the use of Mr. Prince's stable.

Day—Woodbury.

One of the prettiest mid-winter marriages which has taken place on the North Shore this winter was solemnized Wednesday at Beverly Farms, when Miss Ethel Louise Woodbury, daughter of John Henry Woodbury of West street, was united in marriage to Eben Fred Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eben Day. Rev. Clarence Strong Pond officiated.

Only a few of the close friends of the couple were present at the marriage, which took place at 7 o'clock at the old Trowt house, on Hale street, to be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Day, but at the reception which followed, from 8 to 9.30, a large number of friends called to greet the young couple.

At the ceremony Mrs. Helen F. Campbell, a sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Howard P. Williams as best man.

The following young women assisted at the reception: Miss Ethel Davis, Miss Lillian Culbert, Miss Maude Culbert, Miss Elsie Preston, Mrs. Emma Davis, Miss Alice Witham and Mrs. Elsie Hawkins. Mrs. Campbell assisted Mr. and Mrs. Day in receiving.

The young couple were generously remembered by their friends with scores of wedding gifts—silver, cut glass, some handsomely painted wares and various pretty and attractive presents.

Forresters' Installation.

The recently elected officers of St. Margaret's Court, M. C. O. F., were installed in Marshall's hall, Beverly Farms, Wednesday evening, by D. D. Reiley of Gloucester, assisted by the degree staff of George Washington Court of Lynn. The work was carried out most successfully.

Following the installation, the members and their guests partook of an enticing repast prepared by the ladies.

Among those present from out of town were: Timothy Riordan, of Boston, high chief ranger of the order; Miss Annie Campbell, chief ranger of Fr. Denvir Court of Beverly; Chief Ranger Heaphy of Bass River Court of Beverly; Past High Chief Ranger Finnigan of Essex Court of Salem; and many other members of the order from Beverly, Salem, Manchester, Boston, Lynn and Gloucester.

The Call for Better Roads.

It is evident on all sides that the wealthy people who come to the North Shore are not satisfied with the roads they have to drive over in their fine hitches and swell turnouts.

While there doesn't appear to be any loud complaints against the condition of the roads in Manchester, the summer residents of Magnolia and Beverly are truly up in arms.

A week or two ago Mayor Wallis as much as assured the Beverly Farms and Pride's Crossing taxpayers better roads when he recommended in his inaugural address that the matter be taken up.

And last night a public hearing was held in Gloucester to listen to the complaints of the Magnolia folk.

Better roads! The heavy taxpayers think it isn't much to ask. They think they ought to receive that much in return for the heavy taxes they pay. And they ought.

Our attractions are our stock in trade here on the North Shore. The roads are a great part of our attraction. It is therefore essential that we look after them.

The Gloucester Times, commenting editorially on the matter, says:

"Magnolia is too valuable an adjunct to allow anything but the utmost feeling of harmony to prevail, and we believe that had some particular attention been paid these residents to show that their coming was somewhat appreciated, the feeling of displeasure would not have developed to the extent that it has. However, we have confidence that Mayor MacDonald and the city council, after hearing those who have anything to say relative to what Magnolia wants, will apply the best and most practical remedies to the satisfaction of all."

Water Meters Lessen Waste.

One of the recommendations which the Water Commissioners of Manchester will include in their report this year will be the expenditure of a certain sum of money for water meters. For several years money has been appropriated for this purpose, and for many years to come it probably will be.

There is no question but that the use of meters tends to reduce the waste of water. The comparatively few that have been installed in Manchester have proved that much.

While we do not believe Manchester is in any immediate danger of a water famine, yet it is feasible to say that a greater sum than formerly should be appropriated this year for meters.

It would be a saving to the town to have meters in every private residence and public building.

Experts say, and practical experience has taught, that the amount of water used where meters are installed is more than 50 per cent. less than where there are no meters.

It is obvious that it would not cost Manchester as much to supply 1,000,000 gallons of water as it would to supply 2,000,000.

Professor Edward W. Bemis, superintendent of the Cleveland water works, said before the Twentieth Century club of Boston last Saturday, in speaking of this subject, that Boston is wasting one-third of its water supply — perhaps more, and that this was due to lack of water meters. Said he:

"Enormous waste of water is going on in Boston every day. When meters are put into houses and the pocketbooks of water consumers are touched practically all waste is shut off."

"Your citizens would not be able to argue that the insertion of meters would reduce the supply until health were endangered, because under that system each family is allowed a liberal supply every day."

"In Cleveland I had meters put in. Some 30,000 were put in during a period of four years, and although the population of the city increased, the supply of water decreased about 45 per cent."

"The stoppage of losses in your city would result in financial gain to the city government, and, therefore, to taxpayers."

"In Cleveland we have metered every large store, every public institution, and so on. We found that one school was using 400 gallons of water for every child. The average was nine gallons."

Chimney Fire.

The hose wagon of the Manchester fire department was called to West Manchester Thursday morning for a chimney fire in the house of William Hooper. It was a still alarm, and though Driver Page was out with the horses when the call came in by telephone at 8.45, he was quickly communicated with, and in less than four minutes after the telephone message was sent, the hose wagon was bounding over the icy roads towards West Manchester. The damage was slight.

George T. Larcom.

George T. Larcom, Beverly Farms' oldest and greatly beloved old citizen, passed away at his West street home last Monday afternoon at the age of ninety years, fourteen days.

"Uncle George," as he was commonly called at the Farms, was one of the few remaining men who were pioneers in making the North Shore what it is today. He was born in the old Larcom house on Hale street, now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. James B. Dow, Jan. 2, 1815, and has always lived here. He has always been foremost in the affairs of the village, and was highly respected and loved by all.

Mr. Larcom was next to the youngest of seven children of Deacon David and Elizabeth Haskell Larcom. His parents will be recalled by many of the older residents. They were the "Uncle David" and "Aunt Betsie" of Lucy Larcom's "New England Girlhood." The poetess and "Uncle" George were own cousins.

A stone mason by trade Mr. Larcom has had a hand in building many of the summer houses along the North Shore, at Manchester, West Manchester and Beverly Farms. For many years he served on the board of engineers of the Beverly Fire department.

He was also one of the incorporators of the West Beach corporation, and a member of the Farms Baptist church.

Mr. Larcom married Louise Marshall in 1840, and to them were born five children of whom three sons and one daughter, all of whom live at the Farms, survive. They are George W., William H., Marshall T., and Louise. One other daughter, Mary E., who married Rufus Standley, died several years ago.

Funeral services were held Thursday from his late residence. Rev. Mr. Pede of Everett, a former pastor, officiated. The services were conducted by the Beverly Firemen's Relief association, the members of which organization attended in a body. The Firemen's quartette sang "I am the Way," "Abide with Me" and "Farewell." Interment was at the Farms cemetery.

Among the floral tributes were: a large set piece from the B.F.R.A., ninety pinks from Daniel Linehan, pinks and roses from Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Standley, roses from George Kennard and G. Marston, galox sweets from Marshall T. Larcom, pinks from C. F. Parks, a large crescent from Richard S. Lee of Washington, D C., violets from W. F. Low, galox sweets G. F. Wood, ivy and violets from Mrs. L. T. B. Wyatt, wreath from Chas. H. Trowt.

SOCIAL REUNION.Manchester Congregational Church Holds Annual Reunion and Roll-Call.

The annual reunion and roll-roll of the Manchester Congregational church was held in the chapel Wednesday evening and proved quite a pleasant occasion. About 150 people sat down to supper at 6 30 o'clock and 99 members responded to the roll-call which followed.

During the roll-call some pleasing musical selections were interspersed, including a vocal solo by Abbott

DEA. A. E. LOW.

OLDEST MEMBER PRESENT.

Hoare, who sang "Hear the Wild Wind Blow," Mattei; a vocal solo, "Ben Bolt," by Miss Ethel McDiar-mid, and a duet, "Greetings," by Misses Carolyn E. Allen and Amy B. Haskell.

Letters were read from Rev. F. A. Fate of Taunton, a former pastor, and from Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Tenney of Boston.

The committee having the affair in charge was composed of Howard M. Stanley, chairman; Miss Amy B. Haskell, secretary; Mrs. Sylvia Pert, Mrs. Susan Knight and Hollis Roberts. Miss Carolyn E. Allen and Miss Jessie Hoare were in charge of the entertainment committee. These young men assisted as waiters: Bert Sinnicks, Charles Lodge, Abbott Hoare, Joseph Lipman and Sayre Merrill.

Following the roll-call remarks were made by Deacons Albert E. Low, F. A. P. Killam, Joseph A. Torrey, and Oliver T. Roberts, and Rev. W. H. Ashley.

Deacon Low was first called upon, and he begged that he be excused, the infirmities of age not permitting him to say much. He added he was glad to be present and join once more in reunion.

Rev. W. H. Ashley spoke of the new evangelistic movement and the expectancy on the part of the church of what is called the old movement, but he declared that the new evangelism is full of the old fervor and old fibre, old truth, and of that which has made God's salvation a realization in human life.

Deacon Killam said he was sorry there were not more of the past ministers present.

"I am glad to see so large a proportion of the members here," said Deacon J. A. Torrey, when he was called upon, "but sorry to see so small a proportion of the population of the town.

"There seems to be an impression abroad," said he, "that the church is for the good and the prayer meeting for the very good. That is wrong. It is the duty of all to be better than they are; not today, nor tomorrow, or the day after, but now. It is our fault the attendance at church is so comparatively small. Are we doing our duty? Do we show forth in our lives the life of our Master?"

Deacon Roberts gave a very interesting talk along a reminiscent line, being in part a talk on "Old West Manchester as it was 40 years ago."

Annual Meeting.

The First Baptist church of Manchester held its annual meeting in the vestry last Friday evening, after the regular prayer meeting. Deacon T. B. Stone presided. After acting upon the reports of the various committees the following officers were elected: Advisory committee, Mrs. Helen L. Willmonton, Mrs. A. S. Bullock and Miss Sarah Giles; prudential committee (five years), E. S. Bradley; clerk, J. Davis Baker; treasurer, T. B. Stone; registrar, Mrs. L. A. Dunn; auditor, Robert Baker. Gustave A. Knoerr was elected a member of the prudential committee, T. B. Stone resigned.

At the adjourned meeting last evening the reports of the various organization were read. Charles Andrews was elected trustee of the M. C. Martin fund for three years.

The annual supper and roll call of the church will be held on Wednesday evening, February 1.

George E. Willmonton, who has been occupying part of the BREEZE office in Pulsifer's block, has made a change during the past week, and is temporarily occupying the room in Pulsifer's block formerly used by the Mandolin club.

S. OF V. FAIR.

When the fair opened Monday evening the hall was packed, and it was with difficulty that the various booths could be reached. This condition has continued the week through.

Mr. Penney said, as he was introduced by Chairman F. K. Swett of the entertainment committee, that the fair was a social event and he prophesied as pronounced a success as marked the preceding fairs of the local camp.

"In behalf of the Massachusetts division, by order of Commander Harry M. Holbrook, I pronounce the fair opened," said he, after admonishing the large crowd that was present to spend money.

The various booths were in charge of the following named:

Fancy table, No. 1: Mrs. Lottie Hildreth, Mrs. Carrie Cook, Mrs. Jennie Walen, Mrs. Flora S. Hersey.

Fancy table, No. 2: Mrs. Effie Morgan, Mrs. Eliza Crombie, Mrs. Mary Lane.

Refreshments: Mrs. Ellen Brewster, Mrs. Ellen I. Horton, Mrs. Lizzie Floyd, Mrs. Jennie Dennis.

Shooting gallery: George Dyer, Ezra Crombie, Ralph Treddick.

Knife table: Nelson Cook, Arthur Smothers.

Fish pond: Curtis Stanley, Benjamin Stanley.

On Monday evening the Manchester brass band rendered a very interesting program, as follows:—

March, "W.M.B.".....Hall
Selection, "National Airs".....Beyer
March, "New Colonial".....Hall
Waltz, "American Students".....Missud
Two step, "Pride of the Prairie".....Rolfe
March, "Waterville".....Hall
Fantasia, "Swiss".....Langey
Schottische, "Rural Thoughts".....Casey
Overture, (By request) "War Songs of the Boys in Blue".....Laurndeau Finale, Galop, "Whip and Spur".....Allen

On Wednesday evening the Manchester Mandolin club furnished a highly entertaining concert, though the players were handicapped somewhat by the noise in the hall.

Dilks and Dilks of Philadelphia in a musical and comedy act, full of fun from start to finish, was the drawing card Thursday evening, and this was augmented by an orchestra both preceding and following the act.

The grand ball last night proved a most pronounced climax to the week's events, and more than 100 couples were on the floor. Past Commander Frank W. Bell was floor director, and he led the grand march with past president Jennie Dennis of the relief corps. The aids were Curtis B. Stanley, Harry T. Swett, Thomas A. Baker, Orrin A. Martin and W. R.

Bell. Long's orchestra furnished excellent music.

Tonight the remaining articles for sale at the booths will be put up at auction, and the prize committee, composed of Richard Baker (chairman), F. K. Swett, L. W. Floyd, Orrin A. Martin and Ernest Sargent will announce the winners of the various prizes at 8 o'clock.

Much credit is due the entertainment committee for the part they have taken in making the fair a success. An attractive program has been provided each night, and nothing was lacking to keep the crowd interested all the time. Fred K. Swett was Chairman of the committee and he was assisted by T. A. Baker, E. W. Baker, E. R. Sargent and O. A. Martin.

The hall was very tastily decorated with the national colors and with various penants and flags. The committee in charge was composed of Charles Morse (chairman), Ralph Treddick and Heman C. Swett.

The other committees were: Refreshments, L. W. Floyd (chairman), Herman C. Swett and E. W. Baker; shooting gallery, George Dyer; Fish pond, S. L. Wheaton.

A large number of people are confined to their bed this week with grip. The schools were somewhat crippled the early part of the week, Misses Woodbury and Eldridge being out the first of the week, and Mrs. Mead being out all the week. Miss Goodnow of the High school was transferred to the Priest school Monday.

Lucy Ann Kitfield.

Lucy Ann Kitfield, one of Manchester's beloved old ladies, died suddenly last night about 8.15 o'clock, at the home of her son, George A. Kitfield, Ashland avenue, at the age of 87 years, 10 months. Death was due to old age, hastened on, undoubtedly, by heart trouble.

For a week Mrs. Kitfield had not been feeling well, and she has been confined to her bed most of the time. Yesterday, her condition being somewhat worse, Mr. Kitfield called a nurse from the Salem hospital. She arrived on the 8.10 train last night, and as Mr. Kitfield left his mother's bedside to look from the windows, as the carriage drove up with the nurse, the aged woman breathed her last.

Mrs. Kitfield was greatly beloved by all who knew her. She was a native of Beverly, being a member of the old Danforth family. She married Henry Kitfield, and of their children, only one, George A., survives.

She was one of the three oldest members of the Congregational church, the other two being Deacon A. E. Low and Mrs. John Carter. She was born March 9, 1817.

Funeral services will be held from her late home, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. W. H. Ashley will officiate.

MANCHESTER.

Miss Amy B. Haskell will spend Sunday in Lynn, a guest of Miss Emma Johnson.

Miss Jane Kendall, a former instructor at the Story high school, is a guest of friends in town over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Whitehouse, leave for New York today, whence they will sail February 5 for Mediterranean ports. They will return in the early summer.

Miss Nancy Quinn of Boston is a guest of the T. A. Robbinses, Bridge street, for a few days.

Both Cyrus Crombie and Mrs. Sarah A. Porter are reported very low this morning and neither are expected to live through the day.

James Charlesworth of Somerville, well known in Manchester, having married Miss Susie Lufkin of this town, was one of the unfortunate victims in the big railroad wreck at Durham, N.H., yesterday. He was a brakeman on the wrecked train and was dangerously injured.

Arrangements are being made for a pool, checkers and whist tourney between the Winthrop and Red Men's clubs in the near future.

MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA.

Among the passengers on the outgoing Kronprinz Wilhelm from New York, Tuesday, were Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Grew, Mrs. Charles Van Brunt, a sister of Mrs. Grew, and Miss Alice Perry, the fiancée of Joseph C. Grew. They are bound for Cairo, Egypt, where the younger Mr. Grew holds a high position in the United States diplomatic service. The Grews intend to return for the coming season on the North Shore.

Among the recent engagements of interest to North Shore folk none is of more interest than that of Miss Lois Watson, daughter of Mrs. Robert C. Watson of Milton, and Norton Wigglesworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wigglesworth. The Wigglesworths are one of the best known families on the shore. It was only a few weeks ago that Miss Marion was given a coming out party.

After a brief business trip on the other side T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr., arrived in New York a week ago Tuesday on the Kronprinz Wilhelm. From now on Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will spend many week-ends at their new house on Coolidge's point.

Work on George F. Willett's new house at Coolidge's point has been progressing quite favorably. Men are now at work on the interior, and by the early summer the house will be ready for occupancy.

Miss Olivia Thorndike of Boston and West Manchester was one of the pretty young bridesmaids at the Wheelock-Dix nuptials in New York, Tuesday.

One of the choice coming out events of the season was the dance given last night at her 412 Beacon street home by Mrs. Charles Head, to introduce her charming young daughter, Margaret. About 300 invitations were sent out. The Heads are among the leaders in the social life on the shore, and now that they have their own house they are making the season a long one. They only left here about Thanksgiving time and will be back early.

Miss Adele G. Thayer may be missed from the West Manchester colony the coming season. She is shortly sailing for Europe for an extended absence, and probably will not return before next autumn.

Beverly Farms W. R. C.

The installation of the officers of the Women's Relief corps, No. 93, in G. A. R. hall, Beverly Farms, Tuesday evening, proved a most enjoyable occasion. The installing officer was Mrs. Emma F. Wallace of Ipswich, assisted by Mrs. Mary S. Langdon, also of Corps 42, Ipswich.

The officers installed were: Grace A. Gauld, president; Mrs. Fannie E. Elliott, S.V.P.; Mrs. Nellie S. Pike, J.V.P.; Mrs. Abbie Pierce, chaplain; Mrs. Lydia P. Williams, conductor; Miss Lydia Rogers, guard; Mrs. Carrie May, assistant conductor; Mrs. Mary Osborne, assistant guard; Miss May L. Hall, secretary; Mrs. Alice P. Collamer, treasurer; Mrs. Alice L. Preston, patriotic instructor; Mrs. Carrie Currier, press correspondent; Mrs. Addie Hodgkins, musician; Mrs. Martha Blanchard, Miss Nellie Preston, Miss Lois May, Mrs. Mabel Blanchard, color bearers; Mrs. Lillian Standley, delegate to convention; Mrs. Lydia E. Williams, alternate.

What made the occasion of rare interest was the fact the installing officer, Mrs. Wallace, was mother of the newly-elected president, whom Mrs. Wallace had also initiated into the order. In her remarks Mrs. Gauld said she felt it a rare honor to have her mother install her into the chair of president, and thanked Mrs. Wallace for the manner in which she installed the officers. In behalf of the associate officers Mrs. Gauld presented Mrs. Wallace with a handsome brooch of pearls and opals. Visitors were present from Beverly, Ipswich and Turner's Falls. Refreshments were served after the exercises.

Grand Standing of I.O.O.F.

Local Odd Fellows will be interested in the report of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I.O.O.F., of the United States, for 1904, which has just been received. It shows a gain in subordinate lodges of 558, in subordinate encampments, a gain of 144. The membership of the order is now 1,112,809, an increase over 1903 of 80,236. The encampment membership is now 165,779, an increase of 12,015. The revenue of subordinate lodges amounted to $10,944,185.84, an increase of $729,567.99. The revenue from subordinate encampments was $753,556.10, a gain of $51,191.87.

The invested funds of subordinate lodges amount to $32,421,482.95, an increase of $2,672,097.19. The invested fund of subordinate encampments amount to $1,662,546.61, a gain of $389,864.25. The total expenses of the order amounted to $5,598,747.44, an increase of $415,776.62. The report comes from the headquarters of the order in Baltimore, Maryland.

New Postal Order is Out.

The postmasters along the North Shore are in receipt of a new postal order regulating the mail to the Philippines, Hawaii and the Panama zone. There is no change in the old method of mailing, with the exception of the rule dealing with Panama. The order relating to Panama provides that matter mailed within the zone shall be overprinted Republic of Panama stamps, with the words "canal zone."

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

A WEEKLY JOURNAL DEVOTED TO THE BEST INTERESTS OF THE NORTH SHORE

Vol. I. No. 37

BEVERLY, MASS., SATURDAY, JANUARY 28, 1904

Three Cents

A PUBLIC PAVILION.

Scheme on foot to do away with Unsightly Bath Houses at North Shore Beach and Erect Handsome Public Bath House.

Here on the North Shore we are seeking to make our natural surroundings ever more beautiful and more attractive. Verily, nature has already blessed us with one of the most attractive strips of shore line on the Atlantic coast, and it is here the wealth of the land delight in coming to live with Nature, either driving and roaming beneath the sweet scented branches shapes and colors strewn mercilessly about.

It was the good Master who drew the parable of "a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall thereof."

Not that we would urge the opposite picture in this parable and have men build their bath houses "on a rock," for there are none at either Singing or West beaches.

What we would urge, however, to of the bathing facilities at both Singing and West beaches. They have expressed their abhorrence of the unsightly bath houses dropped along the beach, and some have even gone so far as to say they would be glad to aid in building a structure which would do away with the small buildings.

As it is now, and as it has been in the past, anybody may obtain a permit to build a bath house on the beach. Any site may be selected. Any kind of a structure can be built. And so it goes.

SINGING BEACH, MANCHESTER, IN A STORM.

of the tall trees or strolling along the beautiful sand girded shore.

Yet with all our attractions, with all our beauty spots, there are things of our own doings which might truly be said to detract from Nature's own handiwork.

The storm of the past week, had it done nothing more, has forcibly emphasized the import of this latter statement.

All along the famous Singing beach at Manchester and at West Beach in Beverly Farms, the Mecca of hundreds during the warm days of summer, may be seen in most topsy-turvy fashion, bath houses of various descriptions, come to the point quickly, is that everyone of the scores of bath houses at both beaches, which can truly be said to be "eye-sores," be torn down and something far more substantial, far more attractive and far more economic from the standpoint of those who would work for the best interests of the North Shore, be built.

While we have nothing which may be called a definite plan to bring forward, we would offer as a suggestion that a beautiful public pavilion, not too sumptuous in its design, be erected.

For years the wealthy summer residents, who come on the North Shore to spend their summers, have spoken

The result: Houses of all hues and shades, shapes and descriptions have been built; some at a cost of $10, others at $150; some setting far back into the beach bank, others projecting out into the sand. As time goes on the condition grows worse. The houses have the appearance of being dropped by the winds. The desirable positions are all taken up, and newcomers must take what is left.

The initiatory step in doing away with this condition of affairs was taken last week at Beverly Farms, when an informal meeting of bath-house owners was held and the subject discussed. The meeting was called at the instance of the Board of directors of the West Beach corporation.

It was the opinion of that meeting that decided improvements were needed, such as would meet the requirements of today. It was practically decided, if sufficient financial aid can be received, the old bath-houses will be removed and a handsome, new, public pavilion will be erected; this building to be furnished with all modern conveniences, such as shower baths, resting rooms, individual dressing-rooms, etc. Such a building would be supported by a small fee charged for the use of the rooms.

The summer residents are becoming interested in the movement, and though it is improbable anything will be done this next season, the scheme will ultimately be carried through.

New Teacher.

A new teacher has been added to the teaching force of the George A. Priest school of Manchester during the past week. Last fall Principal Albert Mead made an application to the school committee for an assistant in the building. Though the committee have looked favorably upon the request, they have deferred action till now, Mr. Mead's illness of last week undoubtedly hastening the matter to a head.

Miss Larah D. Fish, daughter of Superintendent Fish, has been appointed by the committee. She has taught successfully three years, and comes to Manchester from the Wellington Training school of Cambridge. Miss Fish has studied at both Vassar and Smith. Her position in the Priest school is not that of a teacher in any particular room or department, but that of assisting in any of the grades where the principal may deem necessary.

Though the George A. Priest school is not crowded, in the sense commonly implied, some of the grades, with 40 to 50 pupils, are too much care for one teacher, and the fact that the principal has more or less supervision over each grade has made it evident to the committee they were right in appointing another teacher.

A Monopoly of the Sky.

In the World's Work is a curious new phase of the subject of wireless telegraphy. Eugene P. Lyle, jr., writes: Law already controls not only the surface of the earth, but its depths. And now civilization requires that law shall control the atmosphere. The ownership of the sky calls for regulating. So eight nations have been conferring and drawing up protocols to prevent the monopoly of the heavens.

In the preliminary congress at Berlin the delegates from America, Germany, Austria, Spain, Italy, France, Hungary and Russia drew up a plan for an international convention, as follows: The service of operating wireless stations is to be organized so as not to interfere with the service of other nations. Coastwise stations are to receive and transmit telegrams from ships without distinction as to systems employed by the ships. The tolls for such international communication are to be fixed. Stations, where possible, must give priority to calls for help from ships at sea. Furthermore, there must be a universal code and universal tuning (except in special and secret cases), and the bickerings of rivals must be silenced for the common good. The world considers wireless its property.

MANCHESTER, MASS., Nov. 18, 1904.

The Honorable Board of Selectmen,
Manchester, Mass.

Gentlemen: The undersigned, legal voters of Manchester, do hereby petition your Honorable Body to survey, locate and lay out as a town way, the passage way now leading from Central street at a point near the stone arch bridge to property of the town known as the Stone Mill.

FREDERICK J. MERRILL and seven others.

Jan. 23, 1905.

In Board of Selectmen:

On the petition aforesaid, it is ORDERED that at least seven days notice be given to John W. Marshall, Frederick J. Merrill, Samuel Knight, Oliver T. Roberts, William Hoare, heirs of Asa Richardson, heirs of Daniel Mahoney, and all other persons interested, that the Selectmen intend to lay out a town way beginning at the intersection of the private way known as Elm lane, and running northerly over, and taking, land of Samuel Knight, Frederick J. Merrill, Roberts and Hoare, heirs of Asa Richardson, and the Town of Manchester, to land of one Southwick, and that on the 1st day of February, at 7:30 o'clock P. M., in the Selectmen's office in the Town Hall building, are appointed as the time and place for hearing of parties in objection to such lay out and takings. And at which time and place the Selectmen will take such action as by law they may be authorized to do.

It is further ORDERED that an attested copy of the above petition be posted on the Town Hall building and published in the Manchester Cricket and the North Shore Breeze in at least one issue preceding the holding of this hearing.

FRED K. SWETT,
Sec'y of Board.

MANCHESTER.

Miss Ruth Pulsifer returned last Saturday from a week's visit with relatives in Beverly.

Contractor George S. Sinnicks has this week completed the mason work on the Tweed house in Beverly Farms and the building is turned over to the carpenters.

William Jeffrey Colony, Pilgrim Fathers, had an interesting meeting at their quarters Monday evening when Deputy Supreme Lieut. Gov. E. O. Foster of Salem was their guest. Mr. Foster gave a very interesting informal talk on "Insurance," emphasizing, of course, the value of insurance in fraternal organizations. The address was followed by a collation of cold meats, coffee, pies, cakes, etc.

Mrs. David Parker (Miss Hall) of Manchester, N.H., has been a guest at John W. Campbell's on Washington street, the past week.

Supt. Kimball started a crowd of men at the stone crusher this week, preparing stone for next spring's roads, but the storm Wednesday put a stop to the work.

Local horsemen were in evidence at the Idlewood lake speedway the early part of the week, where some good trotting was enjoyed. "Mike" Gorman was over with his speeder looking for a brush.

The phenominally high tide of Wednesday, driven in by the fierce easterly storm, swept Singing Beach from one end to the other carrying the sand far back and toppling over several houses. The tide washed over the road near the West Manchester station, rising over the iron railing along the roadway, and sending spray almost on the lower platform of the station.

Claire Peters, who now represents the New England Lobster Company of Boston, returned to Manchester last Sunday after a three weeks' trip to Digby Co., N.S. He left here yesterday for Yarmouth, N.S.

Mrs. John A. Crombie and daughter, Abbie, were guests of Mrs. Crombie's sister, Mrs. Frank Stanwood, Essex, the first part of the week. Mr. Crombie recently sold his house, corner School street and Pleasant street extension to Joseph Mears, and will soon remove to Beverly where he has bought a house.

The many friends of Mrs. Frederick Hadley, who formerly lived here, were shocked to hear of her recent death in Somerville, Mass. A husband and a little daughter survive her.

To the Isthmian Canal.

The friends of Herbert A. Hall of Manchester will be pleased to learn of his recent appointment to the engineering staff of the Isthmian Canal Commission. Mr. Hall started from New York on the steamship Advance and is now on his way to the canal zone, where he goes as foreman carpenter. Since leaving Manchester Mr. Hall has been in Baltimore for some months and his recent appointment was ratified several weeks ago.

On the same boat with Mr. Hall sailed Frank G. Carpenter, the well-known writer, who will write stories on the building of the great canal for the Associated Press. These stories will begin to appear in the Sunday papers on March 12.

N. S. Horticultural Society.

The N.S.H. Society, whose meetings are always of great interest from the subjects taken up and the thoroughly informal manner in which they are handled, last Friday evening discussed "Apples," the subject being introduced by Herbert W. Clark, gardener at Walter D. Denegre's.

"Rhubarb" will be the subject of discussion at the next meeting—February 3, opened by Fred Brasch. At the meeting of February 18 a departure will be made from direct horticultural subjects and "Chickens" will be discussed. The subject will be introduced by Henry Menken.

Emerson G. Gordon and family leave next week for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will make their home.

Issachar Lefavour & Son, the well-known insurance agents, are to remove their offices from Washington street to the new Savings Bank building.

Arthur C. Wilson was convicted of illegal liquor keeping, at the Superior Court on Thursday, and was given a sentence of a fine of $100 and one month in the House of Correction.

F. H. Crosby is to continue the painting and papering business of Eldridge & Crosby on Rantoul street.

Miss Mary McDougall of Nova Scotia is the guest of relatives in town.

Miss Amy Lewcock of this city is the recently appointed junior superintendent of the Essex district of the Essex County Y.P.S.C.E.

The several entertainments and lectures scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday were postponed on account of the storm.

That State Highway.

The matter of the proposed State highway on the North Shore, from the Manchester line, near "Villa Crest," the Walter D. Denegre villa, to Chapman's corner in Beverly Cove, is slowly shaping itself into condition for material action.

The first real move toward this end was taken Monday night, when there was a conference at City hall, Beverly, when Mayor Wallis, City Solicitor U. G. Haskell, members of the street committee and members of the board of aldermen were present. Col. W. D. Sohier of Boston was also present, representing the summer colonists of Beverly Farms and Pride's Crossing.

It was the unanimous decision of all present, after the matter had been thoroughly but informally discussed, that the road should be built and that definite action should at once be taken on the matter.

Mother's Famous Home-made Pies.

Looking back into my childhood
I can think of many joys,
And my mem'ry loves to linger
O'er the things that pleased us boys;
There were buckwheat cakes and syrup,
Doughnuts, crisp and large of size,
But the best of all were, surely,
Mother's famous home-made pies.

They were light and they were flakey,
And the juices bubbled through,
When she took them from the oven,
As good pies should ever do.
Ah, the appetizing odors!
Ah, the sight of my young eyes!
Naught in heaven or earth surpassed them,
Mother's famous home-made pies.

How we boys would gather round them,
Much like bees around the flowers;
Eyeing with delight their richness,
Wishing they might all be ours.
Crisp brown apple, golden pumpkin,
Criscross cranberry and mince;
Circles of such toothsome thickness
Have I never gazed on since.

I can see them there this minute,
In a row upon the shelf,
With the lacework paper o'er them,
Scene of many a petty pelf.
Ah, those happy days of childhood!
I am now white haired and wise,
But I'll never cease to long for Mother's famous home-made pies.

Thomas F. Delaney, the druggist, is recovering from the effects of an operation performed Sunday.

Mrs. Harriet Haskell, widow of Perkins Haskell, one of Beverly's oldest ladies, died early Sunday morning, the day after her 90th birthday. For 15 years or more she had been blind, but was deprived of none other sense. She leaves three children, Councilman Frederick P. Haskell, Miss Ruth P. Haskell, and Mrs. D. E. Cross of Rochester, N.Y.

The escape of coal gas from a furnace nearly asphyxiated three men at the Choate house, at the corner of Rantoul and Wallis streets, Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Webber are attending the Ormond Beach auto races at Daytona, Florida.

Beverly Council, 103, K. C., tendered a banquet to D. D. G. K. P. M. Riordan on Tuesday evening. Officials high in the order, as well as the priests from St. Mary's church, were present and spoke. Smith Bros. of Lynn catered.

Bass River Lodge, 141, I.O.O.F., is to entertain the grand officers on March 16, when the first degree will be worked.

Somebody has whispered that the teeth of Beverly's residents need more attention. Two more dentists are to locate in town, one in the Saving Bank building, the other in the Mason building.

Mrs. James A. Payson and son Philip of Harwinton, Conn., are the guests of Mrs. Clarence Brown, Dodge street.

The death on Saturday of Rufus H. Woodbury removes another of Beverly's foremost business men. For over a quarter of a century Mr. Woodbury was associated in the shoe business with his brother as Woodbury Brothers, and building up an extensive trade in the South and West. Mr. Woodbury leaves a widow and several adult children to mourn his loss.

Edward Laferty.

Edward Laferty of Beverly Farms, after two weeks confinement at Beverly hospital as a result of a paralytic shock, passed away at that institution last week. Funeral services over his remains were held at the Star of the Sea church, Beverly, Saturday and burial was in Salem.

Mr. Laferty was about 47 years old. He was a native of Ireland, and relatives in Glasgow, Scotland, now survive him. For almost a score of years he has been employed by Connolly Bros., at Beverly Farms, and was always regarded as one of the most faithful workmen.

Everybody at the Farms knew "Ned," as he was called. He was a character, always bubbling over with true Irish wit. One story that will always be told of him happened one summer morning as he was driving through Black Swamp toward Manchester. It was shortly after he arrived from his native home. A circus procession was going over the road from Gloucester to Salem and the horse driven by "Ned," taking objections to a massive big elephant, bolted into the woods, toppling over the carriage and its occupant. Later, on being asked how the accident happened, Laferty replied:

"Why, mon; there was th't big thing a-backin' down on me; enough to scare any mon." "Ned" thought the elephant's trunk to be his tail.

New State Highway.

At the meeting of the Beverly Board of Aldermen, Thursday evening, Alderman Desmond offered an order that the State highway commissioners be petitioned to construct a State highway from the junction of Boyle and Hale streets at Chapman's Corner through to the Manchester line, taking West street from Marshall's corner around by the beach. The order was adopted.

Free Lecture List.

Rev. Clarence Strong Pond of the Baptist church, Beverly Farms, has been added to the "free lecture" list of the New England Education league. Among his subjects are: "Abraham Lincoln, a Character Study," and "Traits of American Character Exemplified in the War for the Union."

Stepped Off Moving Train.

There came near being a serious accident at the Pride's Crossing station Tuesday evening. Lawyer A. M. Donahue of Gloucester was on the train, which leaves there about 5.45 for Manchester and Gloucester, and as the train started, thinking it was Gloucester station, he jumped off. Though the train was not moving very swiftly at the time, the unfortunate man was thrown to the ground with considerable force and received a bad scalp wound. The train was stopped and Mr. Donahue picked up.

JOHN HENRY COUGHLIN.

Valued Member of the Manchester Fireman's Relief Association Passes Away.

John Henry Coughlin passed away rather suddenly at his School street home in Manchester, last Saturday morning about 11.30 o'clock, at the age of 47 years, 6 months. Burial services were held at the Sacred Heart church last Monday morning, and the body was laid at rest in Salem.

For some months Mr. Coughlin has been ailing with asthma, and more recently with consumption. Last Friday he did not feel so well and took to his bed. Saturday morning as a friend was talking with him, Mr. Coughlin turned his head and passed away.

He was born in Manchester, July 12, 1857, the son of the late John Coughlin. A wife, Margaret, and two small children—a boy and a girl—and two brothers, David and William Coughlin, all of Manchester, survive him.

Mr. Coughlin was a conscientious and valued member of the Manchester fire department and was highly respected by all who knew him. He was a man of good character, industrious and faithful.

High requiem mass was celebrated at the Sacred Heart church Monday morning, Rev. Fr. McGuire officiating. A quartet furnished music. Thirty members of the Manchester Fireman's Relief association of which the deceased was a charter member, attended in a body, and there was also a delegation from St. Margaret's court of Forresters of Beverly Farms. The pall bearers were made up of three members each of the M.F.R.A. and Forresters.

There was a beautiful collection of flowers sent in by friends, among the set pieces being a handsome wreath from the Relief association, with the letters M.F.R.A. set in the center.

At the close of the service at the church the remains were escorted as far as the Central fire station by the societies, the firemen saluting as the Forresters continued to the junction

NUMBER 37.

SATURDAY, JAN. 28, 1905.

Protect the Shade Trees.

A Boston correspondent, who has a summer home in Manchester, writes us this week, urging that we again call attention to the need of immediate action in curbing the advance of the brown-tail and gypsy moths.

Several times previous to this have we alluded to the necessity of some concerted movement in this regard.

Last week, in speaking of another matter, we said "Our attractions are our stock in trade here on the North Shore." And verily, how true this is when we regard our beautiful shady drives and wooded hills. Yet these very shady drives and wooded hills will be attractive no longer, once they become infested with the moth plague. There are localities in the State, not far from the North Shore, where the trees are practically as bare in summer as in winter, and for no other reason than that the leaves are devoured by the moths in the spring as soon as they shoot forth from their buds.

Many people will recall seeing trees along the North Shore last summer in just as bad a condition.

That all the trees here are not in that condition is only because the pest is not far enough advanced. It surely will come unless steps are taken to check the pest.

Now is the time to get to work — now, while the trees are bare. The nest is plainly discernible, and can be taken from the trees much easier now than when the tiny caterpillars have crawled out of their silken nests and have spread over the entire tree.

The town of Manchester should take some action on this matter. It is for the interests of the town to see that the trees are cleaned and thus prevent the moths multiplying in number. Money should be appropriated for this purpose. First of all, clean the shade trees along the various streets; then turn to private property. If a property owner refuses to clean his own trees, let the town do it at his expense. Some of the summer residents are already taking measures to rid their estates of the moths, and many others will undoubtedly join in very soon.

It is surely high time to awake to the necessity of some concerted movement.

Whisperings.

Shovelled out, yet? Snow is a peculiar thing, especially when it is accompanied by wind. But the most peculiar thing I have noticed is that instead of resting reposefully out in the back yard, where it isn't in the way, it usually blows in a pile in front of the front door, and looks at you with a sickly smile, as it were, as you come down stairs in the morning.

Talking about shovelling snow, how is politics? They go together on the North Shore, for politics in Manchester is always at its height in the dead of winter.

I am hearing lots of talk nowadays about candidates for the various town offices. True enough, it doesn't come till March, but it takes all of February to talk the thing up. I am looking for a lot of good-natured rivalry this year, and a good part of it hinges about the fight for the town auditorship. My friend Bell isn't running this year, but I understand there are three or four others after the job. They are all young men, too, and that makes the contest all the more interesting. The three I have heard of so far are Allen Peabody, Howard Stanley and Leon Carter. They are all three bright young men, popular, and if I am informed rightly they are inclined to be rather "bull-doggy," which is to say that they will each fight to a finish.

There are a few candidates in the field for selectmen, too, I understand.

And if I am rightly informed there may be a contest for town clerk and for the water board. But my good friend Meldram informs me he is to run for re-election to the board this year, and Charlie Howe wants to be re-elected to the park commissioners.

It will be but a little while now before the pot will be "biling" in good shape.

I saw quite an exhibition of professional horsemanship one morning the first of the week, down on Tappan street, in Manchester. Some horses galloping furiously toward Beach street attracted my attention at first, and on investigation I found it to be Johnnie Powers, horseman at Sullivan's sales stable. Powers is no slouch when it comes to handling horses. Undoubtedly many of my readers have seen him on the stage, for he was with Neil Burgess in the "County Fair" for some years, and was one of the star "racers" on the stage.

I have heard a good many stories the past two days of people who were put to considerable inconvenience because of the storm, but this one about nine Beverly men strikes me pretty well. They were working for Robertson, the plumber, on the Leland house at West Manchester and left off work so as to return to Beverly on the 4.20 train. They went to the station, but there was no 4.20 train that day. They waited and waited, but no train. Finally along toward 9 o'clock a train came along from Boston. This they boarded and went to Manchester to find something to eat. It was about midnight when their Beverly train came along, and they arrived there about in season to return to Manchester the next morning.

I take the following very pertinently put question from the Somerville Journal: Puzzle — If the parlor clock says 11.40, and the library clock says 12.03, and the kitchen clock says 11.54, and the dining room clock says 11.49, and your watch says 12.07, and your wife's watch says 12 o'clock to a second, what time is it?

A NEW BUSINESS.

Boston Concern takes Lease of Land in Manchester and will Erect Automobile Repair Shop and Sales Room.

A big automobile concern of Boston has this week taken a five years' lease of the strip of land on Beach street, Manchester, between Dow's block and Bell's Combination store, and work will soon be started on the erection of a large automobile repair shop and sales room, the building to be fire-proof throughout.

A building will be erected, 27 feet on the street by 100 feet deep, one and a half stories high in front and one story high in the rear.

The concern will be prepared to do all kinds of auto repairing, and will have machines of various makes, sizes and powers to let by the day, week or season.

TINKER BROTHERS IN ONE OF THEIR CARS.

For some weeks past Tinker Bros., who conduct a first-class automobile repair shop, with autos to let, at the old Park square station in Boston, has been looking for a place on the North Shore. They were down to Manchester a week ago, and Tuesday of this week a lease of the above-named property, belonging to Arthur S. Dow, was signed.

The move will undoubtedly be welcomed by the summer colonists, most of whom now own automobiles. Last season considerable inconvenience was experienced, inasmuch as there was only one automobile repair shop on the North Shore, outside of Beverly—that of Chester H. Dennis of Manchester—and this was overcrowded with cars all summer.

Red Men Follow Iron Trail to Gloucester.

Though the forests were yet unbroken and the Red Men's trail was covered with snow, more than three score Indian braves picked up the iron trail, Thursday night, and went to Gloucester, where the fourth of the big pow-wows under the auspices of the Manchester, Rockport, Beverly and Gloucester tribes was held. The meeting was even more of a success than any of the preceding.

More than 250 redskins feasted on corn and venison, and joined in the grand smoke-talk and pow-wow which followed. Mayor McDonald of Gloucester was master of ceremonies, and the program which was carried out was divided between song, stories, recitations and instrumental selections. Fred K. Swett sang a bass solo, which was most enthusiastically received, and Lyman W. Floyd made some very interesting remarks. Most of the Manchester guests returned on the 10.10 train.

Among the Manchester Red Men present were: Lyman W. Floyd, Fred K. Swett, Edward F. Preston, Robert Allen, Herbert Shaw, W. F. Mitchell, Lewis Collins, Orrin A. Martin, Chas. T. Loomis, W. J. Lethbridge, John F. Babcock, Geo. E. Gould, J. Alex. Lodge, T. W. Long, D. Milton Knight, C. O. Howe, Frank Martin, Harry S. Tappan, Harry T. Swett.

Offers Reward.

Mrs. George A. Snowman of Five Islands, Me., has circulated notices along the shore this week, offering $50 reward for the recovery of her husband, Captain G. A. Snowman, who was washed from the deck of a vessel laden with lumber, off Misery island, in the storm of December 29th. It will be recalled that the vessel was trying to make Salem harbor in the heavy sea and strong wind, and that the captain was swept overboard and was not seen afterward.

North Shore Entombed in Drifts of Snow.

The whole North Shore is entombed in drifts of snow as a result of Wednesday's blizzard, and even now after working Thursday and yesterday to break the roads and sidewalks, many of the streets remain unbroken.

Superintendent Kimball of Manchester declares the storm the worst he has encountered as regards the difficulty with which the roads were cleared, and says the storm of 1898 was not near as difficult to handle. All day Thursday and Friday he had more than 100 men at work shoveling, and heavy teams out breaking the roads. By Thursday night most of the principal roads were broken, but not till yesterday was there an attempt made at clearing the sidewalks about town.

The storm, which started in with light snow early Tuesday afternoon, was accompanied by wind during the night and before morning this developed into a blizzard which continued with considerable violence throughout Wednesday and into the night.

Business was practically suspended Wednesday, hardly anyone venturing out.

The train service was very good till Wednesday afternoon, when the 12.40 train from Boston, in charge of Conductor Samuel Charlesworth ran into a snow plow between Gloucester and Rockport. Though a few trains crawled down from Boston, no trains returned until about midnight, when the train ordinarily leaving Manchester at 4.18 went to Boston, arriving there at 2.10 a.m.

Thursday morning the service was again somewhat crippled and remained from 15 minutes to an hour late all day, but yesterday all the trains were running about on time.

The storm was unusually severe, but not as much so as if the snow were of the wet variety. Being so light, it drifted in massive piles, thus making the work of clearing roads exceedingly difficult.

Town Auditor W. R. Bell was confined to his home the early part of the week, nursing an attack of grip. Among other grip patients confined to their homes the past week are Mrs. S. A. Loomis, Rev. W. H. Ashley, Miss Gertrude Ashley and Levi A. Dunn.

In the list of births for 1904, published in this paper recently, one birth, not then recorded, was omitted: Dec. 1, a daughter, Harriet Peabody, to Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Leach.

FAIR CLOSED.

S. of V. Fair in Manchester a Pronounced Success.

The Sons of Veterans' fair in Manchester, after a most successful week, came to a close last Saturday night, at which time the remaining articles for sale were sold at auction, and the prize winners of the week were announced. Michael E. Gorman acted as auctioneer, and a majority of the articles brought good prices.

Though it is not definitely known at this date just the exact result of the fair, financially, it is safe to say a goodly sum will be turned into the treasury by the committee after the bills are paid. Two years ago this figure was more than $500. This year it will not be so much.

The prize-winners, as announced last Saturday night, follow:

Mileage book—Number of pieces of candy in bottle, 945; Lewis Killam and Warren Heath, each guess 943. Lady's gold watch—Number of seeds in squash, 288; H. J. Penny, Lynn, and W. McWilliam, each guess 287. Gent's gold watch—Length of twine in bottle, 53 ft., 95-16 in.; Ellery L. Rogers, guess 53 ft., 5¼ in.

Shoulder shawl—Number of red beans in bottle, 116; W. R. Bell and J. Alex. Lodge each guess 117. Rubber boots—Length of pole, 13 ft., 67-16 in.; George P. Dole and Arthur P. Babcock, each guess 13 ft., 6 in.

Doll—Number of pieces of candy in bottle, 131; Miss Lila Morse and Katie Corcorey, each guess 131.

Rocking chair—Number of cartridges in bottle, 447; Charles E. Bell, guess 439.

Log-cabin quilt—Number of whole beans in bottle, 967; E. G. Foster, guess 950.

Barrel of King Arthur flour—Number of screws in bottle, 303; Willis H. Bell of Beverly, guess 302.

Ton of hard coal—Number of links in chain, 283; Walter R. Bell and I. S. Harvie, each guess 275.

Lady's shoulder cape—Number of kernels of corn in bottle, 237; Mrs. Frank Dennis, guess 237.

Cord of pine wood—Number of wooden pegs in bottle, 1614; Alfred C. Hooper, guess 1601.

Ton of hard coal—Number of shot in bottle, 739; T. W. Lomasney, guess 739.

A feature of the fair was the shooting gallery, which was very ably conducted by George Dyer, assisted by Ezra Crombie and Ralph Treddick. Last Saturday night the final shoot-off took place. Some attractive prizes were offered for the best scores, and before the week ended considerable interest was centred in the shooting. Leslie Mason proved himself easily the best shot, but he was tied before the week ended by Joseph N. Lipman, A. E. Hersey and Wm. Porter, each of whom made a record of 70 points out of a possible total of 75.

The targets used were No. 1, with a ¾-inch bulls-eye, and No. 2, with a ½-inch bulls-eye. The distance was about 30 feet, and the shooting off-hand. Prizes were awarded for each target each evening, except Saturday, when cigars (presented by J. S. Reed) were given to the shooters obtaining a fixed score, and the week's prizes were awarded.

Following is a list of best scores for the week:

Leslie Mason.....70	A. S. Peabody.....65
J. N. Lipman.....70	Frank Pinette.....60
Wm. Porter.....70	Mr. Sargent.....59
A. E. Hersey.....70	E. E. Allen.....58
Archie Chalk.....65	Enock Crombie.....57
Chas. Fritz.....65	Mr. Floyd.....54

The shoot-off:

Mason.....55	Hersey.....53
Lipman.....55	Porter.....51

Finals: Mason, 55; Lipman, 54.

The prizes for the week's shooting were awarded as follows:

Tuesday—Two briar pipes (presented by F. G. Cheever Co.), won by Leslie Mason.

Wednesday—Amber stem pipe (A. Lee & Sons), Leslie Mason; pair English driving gloves (Joseph Pink & Co), Charles Fritz.

Thursday—Fancy thermometer, Leslie Mason; horsewhip (J. A. Culbert), Chas. Fritz.

Saturday—Grand week's prizes—Gent's gold-mounted umbrella (Field & Kennedy), Leslie Mason; warranted razor (Joseph Vasconcellos), Joseph N. Lipman.

Walked from Lynn.

When the blizzard was at its highest Wednesday night, about 6.45 o'clock, a man knocked on the door of the Manchester police station. He was admitted by Chief Peabody, who looked at the stranger in amazement when he said he had walked from Lynn in the storm, on his way to Gloucester. He had the appearance of having been out in the storm for some time, and was almost exhausted when he reached the station. He said his name was Melvin Brooks and his home in Gloucester. He was given a warm meal and lodgings at the station over night.

New this Week.Resolutions.

At a special meeting of the Manchester Fireman's Relief Association held on January 22, 1905, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, it has pleased almighty God to remove from our midst our fellow member, John H. Coughlin, be it, therefore,

RESOLVED, by the Fireman's Relief Association in meeting assembled, that in the death of John H. Coughlin the association has lost an efficient and conscientious worker; be it further

RESOLVED, that our sympathy be extended to the family of the departed member by forwarding to them a copy of these resolutions, and that the same be spread upon our records and published in our local papers.

Story Without Foundation.

In conversation with Secretary Swett of the Manchester Board of Selectmen, last evening, relative to the story that is in circulation to the effect that he was not a believer in the thorough manner the Superintendent of Streets had of clearing the sidewalks of snow, Mr. Swett said:

"The story is entirely without foundation, for only today I have had an informal talk with the Superintendent of Streets and his army of shovelers and insisted that they work early and late, to the end that all sidewalks of the town be freed of snow as quickly as possible; and that roadbreakers and plows be sent to the extreme limits of all streets in order that residents living in the outskirts of the town may receive the same benefits as those in the centre portions.

"Supt. Kimball's first move in his battle with the recent storm, was to shovel out all streets giving the Fire Department easy access in case a call occurred. He has today given his attention to the walks, and by Saturday night should have them in the usual good condition."

MAGNOLIA.

[From our Correspondent.]

Rev. and Mrs. M. H. Stackpole of Boston, formerly of Magnolia, are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a son this week.

The Ladies' Aid society met with Miss Addie J. Stanley Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur M. Lycett will give a whist party next Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Mamie Sullivan, who has been quite ill, is now improving.

George A. Upton is making extensive alterations on the Coffin house.

Work on the Houghton cottage is progressing very rapidly, and will soon be ready for the painters.

Charles W. Smith of Philadelphia, who occupied the Young cottage last season, has taken it again for the coming summer.

Quite a number of children are out of school with the measles.

Owing to the severe storm, Wednesday, the benefit box party had to be postponed until some future date.

Mr. Homans has filled his own ice houses, and is now cutting for Mr. George A. Upton for the Oceanside.

Arthur M. Lycett and Joseph Crispin took a trip over to the Essex river, Tuesday, after sea clams.

Red Men Take Winthrop's Scalp.

The first in a series of very interesting tournaments in pool, whist and checkers between the Red Men's and Winthrop clubs of Manchester was held last week at the former's room in Pulsifer's block, the points going slightly in favor of the Red Men. During the evening the room was crowded by the members of both clubs. Light refreshments were served by Chef F. G. Cheever.

In the checker contest, between Joseph N. Lipman of the Winthrop club and Orrin A. Martin of the Red Men's club, Lipman won three out of five games.

W. J. Mitchell and R. J. Baker for the Red Men, and Walter Bennett and Oscar Wing for the Winthrop club, composed the whist teams, the evening's score resulting 133 to 86 points in favor of the Red Men.

The summary of the pool matches between the two teams, resulting in 157 to 143 points in favor of the Red Men, follows:

WINTHROP CLUB.
Wheaton.....	7	9	7	10—33
Bennett.....	9	11	7	6—33
Carter.....	7	8	5	10—30

The clubs will meet at the Winthrop club-rooms next Friday evening.

Gentlemen's Night.

The first "gentlemen's night" of the Ladies' Sewing Circle of the Congregational church in Manchester for fifteen years was held at the chapel Thursday night of this week, and proved quite a successful social event, despite the recent storm. About 40 were present and partook of the generous supper prepared by the ladies. The "gentlemen's night" held fifteen years ago was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Johnson on Bridge street, the occasion then being more in the nature of a house-warming:

Mrs. O'Flynn: "Aff fer th' day, Jamesy? Well, come back oily."

Daughter (who has had advantages): "Muttah, deah, you should say 'early,' not 'oily.'"

Mrs. O'Flynn: "Oi said oily, an' Oi mane oily. He's afther goin' automobilin' wid his boss."—Fudge.

Miss Amy Griffeth of Salem was a guest of friends in Beverly Farms this week.

Monday evening a large party from the Farms enjoyed the excellent skating and ice-yachting at Gravelly pond.

Miss Anna Connolly of Boston Normal school of Gymnastics is enjoying a short vacation at her home in Beverly Farms.

Mrs. Emily Smith of Oak street, who has been confined to her house since November is out again.

Mrs. Frank Seabury has returned to Beverly Farms after a short trip to New York.

Miss Margaret Connolly has spent the past week visiting relatives at Worcester.

Miss Sarah Low has been confined to her home with a severe cold the past week.

Sellers McKee is home from St. Paul's school, Concord, N.H., as the result of illness.

Miss Jane Bartlett was a guest of friends at Danvers this week.

Dennis Shea was the victim of a peculiar accident recently while feeding his horse. The animal suddenly turned his head, severely wounding Mr. Shea on the face and head.

Postmaster Standley expects to get moved into the new post office by next Wednesday. Work has been rushed on getting the office remodelled the past week. Hodgkins has been doing the painting and Publicover Bros. the carpentering.

The installation of officers of the Knights of Columbus, planned for Wednesday night was postponed because of the storm.

John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, are planning on another whist and dancing party after their next meeting, Feb. 3.

Patrick Nason has been a recent guest of friends at Beverly Cove.

A. O. Marshall has been confined to his Hale street home the past week with a touch of grip.

Miss Eleanor McDonald of Dorchester has been a guest of the Laurence J. Watsons the past week.

Mrs. Pierre Gaudreau returned Monday from an extended visit to Quebec.

A new hose pump has been added to the Farms Fire department during the past week.

Foreman Wm. E. Elliot had a gang of 32 men at work Wednesday and Thursday clearing the streets and sidewalks of snow.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Connolly started Monday morning for an extended trip to California, going by way of Washington, Atlanta, New Orleans and other southern cities, to San Francisco. They will be gone about two months.

Mrs. Otis Luke reports that all her cottages at the Farms have been let for the coming season, which would seem indicative of a busy season on the Shore.

Several from here attended the installation of the officers of the Royal Arch Masons in Beverly Tuesday night, which proved to be one of the leading social events of the winter.

Harry Hannable and family returned from Danvers the first of the week, where they have been during the illness of Mr. Hannable's father, now gradually improving in health.

Quite a delegation of local Knights of Columbus attended the complimentary banquet tendered D.D.S.K. Peter M. Riordan in Beverly, Tuesday night.

Knights to the Rescue of Hungry Passengers.

Just as the knight of old in armor bold dashed forth on his steed to the rescue of the weary traveller, so the Knights of Beverly Farms, during the blinding storm of Wednesday night, came to the rescue of the hungry travellers stalled in a train just outside Montserrat station.

But they did it rather unconsciously.

It appears the Knights of Columbus of Beverly Farms planned on a gay time at their headquarters Wednesday night, at which time the recently elected officers were to be installed, and a copious collation was to be served. Though a few braved the storm and the meeting was postponed, the spread which had been prepared for them by an out of town caterer, was shipped according to schedule on the 5 o'clock train from Boston,—the train which arrives at the Beverly Farms station about 5.45.

Through the drifts of snow over the ice-covered tracks the train struggled, only to arrive at Montserrat and there be stalled till long after 9 o'clock. Meanwhile a hungry look crawled over the faces of the passengers, and a still more hungry feeling sounded the supper taps in the empty stomachs, till finally Conductor Goss got "wise" to the bounteous amount of coffee and sandwiches stored in the baggage car ahead.

It took but a short while to communicate his find to the passengers, and it took much less time for the passengers to dispose of the eatables. Now the Knights of Columbus are wondering who pays for the "feed."

MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA.

An engagement of considerable interest to North Shore folk is that of Joseph Earl Stevens of Tuxedo, N. Y., to Miss Marion Whittaker of New York, who was one of the bridesmaids at the Wheelock-Dix wedding last week. Mr. Stevens is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stevens, who have a beautiful estate here.

Mrs. H. G. O. Colby, who had a house at West Manchester last season, is in charge of a "bridge afternoon" at the Industrial School for Crippled and Deformed Children this afternoon.

One of the most fashionable luncheons in Boston society this winter will be that given by Mrs. Eben D. Jordan at her Beacon street home next Tuesday, the last day of January.

No marriage of the season merited so much surprise in Boston and New York society as that, on Wednesday, of Miss Frances Appleton Dana to Henry C. de Rham, 2d. The engagement, unacknowledged until a week ago, has existed since September. The bride is the handsome young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Dana, and is one of the most popular of the North Shore younger set. Mr. De Rham graduated from Harvard last year. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles de Rham, jr., of New York.

Miss Caroline Tileston Hemenway, daughter of Mrs. Charles P. Hemenway of Boston, who has a large estate on Smith's Point, was married in Boston, a week ago Wednesday, to Charles Wilson Taintor. The wedding was a quiet affair, and was solemnized at the bride's Back Bay home.

Man Missing.

About 12.45 o'clock last Sunday night a telephone message was received from the Gloucester police that Keeper Parsons of the Gloucester poor farm reported a man strayed away; that he was missed about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and that they thought he had come in the direction of Manchester. Officers Andrews, Jones and Lee kept vigil all night, but did not catch sight of any man answering the description of the missing pauper, who was said to be about 60 years old, stockily built, smooth face and rather weak-minded.

Monday evening Thomas M. Dunn, answering the description of the missing man, boarded an electric car between Essex and Beverly. He was carried to Beverly, given lodgings at the police station over night, and Tuesday was returned to the Gloucester almshouse.

A Trying Ordeal.

Eustis McAulay of Manchester has had a trying ordeal since leaving here about a-year ago for a visit at his former home in Kentville, N.S. A few days ago Mr. McAulay returned to Manchester, where he was previously employed by Chester L. Crafts as carpenter. When he arrived home last spring to see his mother he found she had been brutally murdered by his step-father, who in his rage set fire to the house in which they were living, and burned it with the body of the murdered woman within. Mr. McAulay and his brother, determined to punish their step-father to the extent of the law, had him tried for murder. He was convicted and was sent to the gallows only a few months ago.

Literary Society.

Tuesday's program of the Literary Society at the Story high school ended the half year course. The next meeting will be for the election of officers for the next semester. The half year's course has been well carried out, and Tuesday's meeting of the Society, when the violin solo of Daniel Reardon and the dialogue by Samuel Knight and Willard Rust were features, was a most successful ending of the semester. Following is the program:—

Recitation, "Conductor Bradley," Barbara Smith
 Recitation, "Lochinvar," Ernest Howe
 Recitation, "The Snake in the Grass,"
 Archie Gillis
 Dialogue, "The Rival Speakers," } Sam

The Open Championship.

North Shore golfers will be interested in the recent action of the Myopia Hunt club committee in the application sent by them to the United States golf association to hold the open championship meeting on these North Shore links the coming season.

"The Myopia Hunt club committee always has said that it could not hold the amateur meeting," says the Boston Globe; "that it is willing to hold the open under certain conditions is news that will be received in this state with satisfaction.

"As a tournament to follow, the open championship is more interesting from a purely golf standpoint than the amateur, and especially will this be the case at Hamilton, where the links provide the best test of the game, one not inferior to the best courses of the other side.

"The Myopia links are so well known to Massachusetts golfers that they will know exactly what a golfer has done when he makes a round under 80, and with a field of the best professionals that the country affords and many of the crack amateurs, there will be an opportunity to see some golf infinitely more worth while than that developed at the amateur meeting.

"Myopia will hold the tournament only under certain conditions. It will not force its claims in any way and will not enter into competition for the meeting with any other club. The Oakmount C.C. of Pittsburg is the only links that has been mentioned for the open championship, and it is doubtful if the Fownes family, who have been largely responsible for the laying out of Oakmount will consider the course old enough to be worthy of such an important event."

MANCHESTER OF OLD.

Wealthy North Shore Town Once Sought Aid From the General Court.

Manchester, the "picturesque little town by the sea," the wealthiest town in the county and one of the wealthiest in the State, with a valuation of more than $10,000,000, was not always so well-to-do, for in 1685, according to some old State records, the seventeen poor families then constituting the town, or parish, petitioned the General Court for aid.

Humble, indeed, were the few families of Allens and Leaches, who were huddled together in their thatched-roof houses on the very spot where now millionaires and multi-millionaires have built costly mansions.

The summer of 1685 had not been a very successful one. The fishing trade amounted to naught, the crops had been small, and what little money the settlers had made must pay the taxes to the county — for "Cripple Creek" has only recently been set off as a town. Hunger stared the handful of colonists in the face, and they stood "in need of relief."

A petition, signed by Samuel Allen, sr., Samuel Leach, John Sibly and

Robert Leach, was forwarded to the General Court, which in return recommended that the neighboring churches give aid:

This petition is a very interesting article, and will, undoubtedly, be preserved by the Manchester Historical society.

Rev. D. F. Lamson evidently was not aware of its existence when he compiled the History of Manchester, in 1895.

Town Clerk Alfred S. Jewett of Manchester, who is always deeply interested in matters of this kind, while ferreting among some old papers in the Historical and Genealogical rooms on Somerset street, Boston, last week, came across this petition in an old magazine, the writer of which had discovered the original petition among some old State papers years before. Mr. Jewett copied the article, and gives it to the BREEZE for publication. It follows:

To the hon'rd Generall Court held at Boston 16th: 12th mo, 1685 - 86.

The humble Petitioners many yeares sence, by our Prediscessers, having obtained of your Predisesserrrs favour of the hon'rd Generall Court of this Colony, that they might be erected a vilidge or township, hoping thereby that wee might have bin in a beter Capacity, then now wee are in, for a more Comfortable discharge of our duty towards God and the Country, but our Predisesers and wee also, being disapointed in that which was thought might be in the greatest measure the makeing or upholding of our township, viz. : the Fishing trade ; and indeed huveng hopes that we might have obtained bennefit thereby, both to our selves and the Country, our Predisesers thought the Acomodations which was Granted unto them might be suteable : but mising of our expectation thereby, and in regard of the smallness of our Acomodations, and the meanes thereof, and the Lownes of the perticuller Estate of those few that are Inhabitants therein, of comfort for the few who are cared for there. In the foreground stands Keeper George Haskell and the old white horse which has done service for the town for a quarter of a century.

as doth also apeare by our yearly Assesements to the country; and seeing but Letell Incoridgment whereby it might be more Eassy for us Ether by a further Inceare of Inhabitants or other ways; wee now being but seaventeen families and sevrall of them Rather stand in need of Relief, and therefore are but in a mean Capacitie to Communicate to the publick; and also being so remote from any other town that wee canot with any Comfort or Convienciency for our selves and families be joined thereto, being six milles at lest from the publick meting of the Worship of god in any other town and being senseable of the haveness of our burden for the upholding of the ministry of the Gospell with us, and considering the grate nesesety thereof, for as the scripture tells us, where there is no vission the people perish; your humble petitioners therefore do humbly Crave your wisdoms Consideration in this our Pitifull Case, and if it pleas this honr'd Court to find sum way to help us under this our burden that wee may yet enjoy the publick ministry of the Gospell as in your wisdom shall see mett. Vntell that we are more Capable of performing this our duty to our selves: we humbly Crave your Indulgents towards us for this our boldness, and shall ever pray for a blesing from heaven to be with your person and proceedings and to be Guided by wisdom in all things: wee Rest your humble petitioners in the name and in the behalf of the town of Manchester.

THE PURSUIT OF LEARNING.

Major Henry L. Higginson Addresses
Harvard Undergraduates.

Major Henry L. Higginson of Manchester and Boston gave a very interesting talk before the Harvard students recently on the pursuit of study and learning, saying that this was the best means toward efficiency for life's work and for happiness or, at least, contentment of spirit. Mr. Higginson said in part:

"Here is a sentence which struck me: 'Life has nothing good or high in store for one who does not resolutely aim at something high and good. A purpose is the eternal condition of success. Nothing will take its place.'

"Most men have but small means and must live without the costly luxuries of modern life—but is not a volume of Thackeray or Tennyson or Dickens or Kipling or Stevenson, to mention only modern authors, a fair substitute for a good horse or a clipping yacht? The one does not preclude the other,—but books are open to all.

"Many of you,—and I hope all of you,—must earn your living, and certainly all of you must justify your right to exist and the wisdom of your parents in sending you here,—by your future efficiency in the world's work. But I would also offer to you the prizes of life which all men crave, for I would paint the picture in true, warm colors and thus win you to the true faith—I mean the conviction that life is happiest for the man whose every faculty is well developed.

"Every field is open if you will seek the gate, and that once opened, you can win power at will. You have found in your books,—which are faithful, delightful companions,—your remedy for loneliness, your solace for grief or pain, your freedom from tormenting cares, your subject for stimulating intercourse with your friends.

"Of course, your training here is but the beginning of your education, which will end only with your life; for how should a man stop his education any more than his efforts toward any object of human wishes? Many of you will not be rich in dollars, but all can be rich in the means for a useful, contented existence. The home may be small, but it will be beautiful.

"It is not enough that men act with intelligence and energy and honesty, but they must carefully study their relations with one another in order to conduct themselves in a high-minded fashion. An action may be honest and yet not honorable, for the laws of the land and even of morality fix limits for us but are not a measure of our conduct.

"Several things you may not say.

You may not say that our public affairs are in a desperate state and that you cannot, will not, try to mend them. Do you drop your brother because he gets drunk now and then? Does your father give up his business because a customer has cheated him? Rather say, as a true woman does of her children, 'They are mine forever, and no matter what they do, I love them and will cleave to them.' What are you without your country?

"You may never say that you have done your share for others—until you stop breathing.

"The older you grow, the more you will see the woe which bears down poor mortal, and you will feel how terrible life is, if you can in no way relieve the woe. And so you will understand the words of the wise physician, who said, 'The solid comfort in life lies in what we can do for others.'"

Literary Society Election.

At the meeting of the Literary society of the Story High school, Manchester, Tuesday, the following officers for the ensuing semester were elected: Lewis Hooper, '05, president; Fannie Knight, '05, vice-president; Bert Floyd, '06, secretary; Daniel Riordan, '07, treasurer; executive committee: Lagory Wade, '05 (chairman), Frank W. Fleming, '06, Harold Stanley, '07, and Talbot Hoare, '08. A vote of thanks was extended to the old board of officers for their efficient management of the society for the past six months.

Automobile Repair Shop.

As soon as the weather permits, work will be started on the erection of the automobile repair shop and sales store on Beach street, Manchester, the announcement of which was given exclusively in last week's BREEZE.

Chas. L. Tinker, one of the firm of Tinker Bros., who have taken a five years' lease of the Beach street property, stated to the writer in Boston this week, he expected to have the building erected and open for business May 1. The structure, 27 x 100 feet, will be of sheet metal. The floor will be of cement. A turn-table will be built in the center of the floor.

Tinker Bros. have many North Shore customers and it was at the suggestion of some of these they sought a place here. They will be North Shore agents for the Hotchkiss and Appleton cars and will, of course, have a large variety of all makes and powers of cars on hand to let.

Big Fire in Salem.

Fire in Salem Tuesday night destroyed the Peabody block on Washington street, near the entrance to the tunnel, causing a loss to several concerns which aggregates $100,000. The building was occupied principally by the Salem Daily News and the Salem Commercial School. The fire started in the basement from an overheated boiler.

The Salem News, early Wednesday, established an office in the Colonial building on upper Washington street, and the paper has been published at the office of the Boston Globe.

The Salem Commercial School has not held sessions since the fire, but beginning with Monday, regular sessions will be resumed with complete new equipment in the Naumkeag building, 209 Essex street, Salem.

Baptist Church of Manchester Holds Reunion and Roll-Call.

The annual reunion and roll-call of the First Baptist church, Manchester, held in the vestry of the church Wednesday evening proved a very pleasant occasion. More than 100 were present at the well prepared New England supper, and ninety-nine responded to the roll-call.

The business meeting was called to order by Deacon T. B. Stone, and immediately adjourned, Rev. E. H. Brewster acting thereafter as master of ceremonies. After prayer by the pastor, the members and their friends gathered around the tables laden with cold meats, salads, fruit, etc. A social hour followed the supper, and then Clerk Baker called the roll, each member present responding with verse of scripture, and letters were read from many of the absent members.

Among those who responded by letter were Rev. and Mrs. D. F. Lamson and Miss Lamson of Boston, Miss Jeanette Dixon, Miss Ina Baker, Harry Giles, Miss Daisy Tilton Herron, Miss Eunice Friend, Fred Friend, Mrs. Harriet Edwards, Miss Esther Kitfield, Miss Rachel Crombie and Samuel Crombie.

Following the roll-call, Rev. Mr. Brewster made some very interesting remarks, speaking of those who answered the roll-call with a verse of scripture, and of those whose seats were vacant because of absence or illness, and of the sacredness of the occasion. The meeting closed with the singing of "Blessed be the Tie that Binds" by the gathering, during which all stood and joined hands around the entire room.

Will Myopia Get It?

It is expected at the annual meeting of the U.S. golf association to be held a week from yesterday, when the matter of deciding on where the amateur and open tournaments will be played the coming season, that the Myopia Hunt club will be selected for the open tournament and the big golf event of the year will be played on the North Shore as a result.

In commenting on the matter the Boston Herald says:

"The Myopia club will not press its claim, nor will it enter into competition with any other club, but the course at Hamilton is so superior to that of any other club which has been mentioned for the open championship that little doubt can be felt as to the action of the national body. Neither the Essex County club at Manchester nor the Oakley Country club desires the amateur event, and the Country club, Brookline, has been asked to take the amateur championship of the Massachusetts Golf Association.

"The Myopia club did not desire the national amateur competition for several reasons. One is that golf is only one of the several sports in which the members engage, and as the amateur championship runs through an entire week, many devotees of other branches of sport would be inconvenienced. Another is that the clubhouse is not spacious enough for the entertainment of the big field of entrants in a national amateur event. The open championship runs only two days, and the club has learned by experience—it had this competition in 1898 and 1901—

Mrs. Benjamin Williams of Merrimac arrived Thursday for a few days' visit with her sister, Mrs. Charles E. Bell, school street.

Mrs. Maude Carter entertained a number of young people at her School street home last evening.

Dr. R. T. Glendenning has taken a lease of the Fitz house on Church street, recently purchased by Frank P. Knight. The house is being remodelled and all the modern conveniences, such as heating, hot and cold water, electric lights, etc., installed. A door has been placed in the front part of the house this week which will lead to the office, and other interior alterations are now in process.

Robert Allen went to Pittsfield yesterday as one of the representatives of the Caledonian club of Boston, at the grand ball given in honor of Robert Burns day last night. Mr. Allen appeared in Highland costume.

Preparations are being made for a grand ball in town hall on Wednesday evening, Feb. 22, under the auspices of Conomo tribe of Red Men. The affair has promise of being the event of the winter.

Manchester's Good Standing.

The annual report of the State Board of Education, showing the comparative standing of the cities and towns of the Commonwealth in their interest in education, has been sent to the Legislature, and it is of general interest to note that Manchester still holds its rank of being second among the cities and towns of Essex county in the amount of money per pupil appropriated for school purposes. Nahant leads in the county with an appropriation of $47.73 per pupil. Manchester follows with $34.59, and this year it stands seventeenth among the 353 cities and towns of the State against a rank of fourteenth last year.

On the basis of proportion of each $1000 of valuation appropriated for support of the public schools, Manchester stands third lowest in the county, with an appropriation of $1.48 for each thousand of valuation, and stands fourth lowest in the whole State, the rank this year being 349th against 351st last year.

In the table arranged according to the average attendance at schools, Manchester does not present such a good showing, her State rank being 103, while the ratio of attendance is 90 per cent. Danvers leads the county in this respect, with an attendance of 102%, while Abington leads the State with a ratio of 280 per cent. In some places there are a considerable number of scholars under five and over fifteen years attending public schools, and this brings the ratio up to over 100 per cent.

In Beverly the amount appropriated per pupil last year was $29.34, which gave the city a standing of tenth rank in the county and fifty-first in the State. The city appropriated $3.82 to each $1000 of valuation, which gives a State rank of 258 against 275 last year. Beverly's attendance is 86 per cent. — a ranking of 142 in the State.

A Merry Party.

A merry party of young women, members of the Sacred Heart church of Manchester and St. Margaret's church of Beverly Farms, had a gay time Tuesday night, which consisted for the most part of a sleigh ride and spread at the Manchester House.

The Beverly Farms young ladies drove to Manchester in a big pung, where they were joined by the Manchester party and a sleigh ride was enjoyed, the party returning to the Manchester House about 8.30, where one of Prop. Callahan's finely prepared spreads consisting of oyster stew, cold meats, fruit, cake, ice cream, etc., awaited them. After the dinner the young people adjourned to the parlors and a very pleasant hour was passed, the time being interspersed with musical selections and singing.

The young people were guests of Rev. Fr. John J. Downey, who unfortunately could not be present, but Rev. Fr. McGuire represented him.

Among the Manchester young women present were: Katherine M. Watson, Alice F. O'Neil, Kathryn Corcoran, Margaret O'Neil, Margaret Sullivan, Mary Gillis, Margaret B. Sweeney, Mary Coughlin, Helen E. Coughlin, Elizabeth A. Dillon, Katherine Cooney, Mary A. Barry.

The young ladies from Beverly Farms included: Fannie M. Williams, Mary E. Wiseman, Elizabeth A. Toomey, Nellie Neville, Joanna Toomey, Sarah F. Donovan, Annie A. Riordan, Margaret Gillis, Louise McKeon, Margaret Quirk, Nora Shea, Katherine Leary, Minnie Riordan, Julia Kelly, Mrs. J. H. Watson, Jane M. Watson, Mrs. Mary V. Morgan.

Preserve Our Beaches.

We are glad to publish the following communication from a Manchester taxpayer, on Singing beach, and the necessity of putting a stop to carting sand from the beach. There certainly should be some action taken on this matter by the Park Commissioners. The letter follows:

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

I read the article in last week's BREEZE on the condition of the bath-houses at Singing beach with considerable interest, and was pleased with your suggestions of a public pavillion, but at this time, if you will allow me I should like to speak of another matter in connection with our much-talked-of beach.

At various times during the summer and in the spring and fall I have noticed teams of sand passing up Beach street and to different parts of the town. I did not give the matter much thought, till one day last October, while at the beach, I noticed the great hollows in the sand where the loads had been taken away. On investigation I found there are from 500 to 1000 loads of sand taken from the beach yearly.

So, Mr. Editor, I think you would not be far amiss if you would call attention to this matter through the columns of your paper. The sand at Singing beach is growing less every year, and if we are to do anything to beautify our beach, let us first of all take care of what we have.

Make a law prohibiting sand being hauled from the beach, except when it is to be used for town purposes. Let us not destroy the things which Nature has bestowed upon us. Keep the sand where it belongs, then turn attention to still further improvements

Boston, Feb. 2, 1905.

Whisperings.

"There is one way to advertise," says one of our exchanges, "and that is to hammer your name, your location, your business, so constantly, so persistently, so thoroughly into the people's heads that if they walked in their sleep they would constantly turn their faces toward your store. The newspaper is your best friend in spite of your criticism. It helps to build up the community that supports you. When the day comes that the newspapers are dead, the people are near the edge of the grave, with no one to write their epitaph."

* * * *

"That looks like old times," said a man to me one day this week, as we were standing in Central square in Manchester. "That's how they did it when I was a boy."

It was a man pulling a load of dry cedars on an old-fashioned wood-sled, to which he referred. The occurrence of such a sight fifty years ago was a common thing in Manchester when most every man pulled his own supply of wood, but a rather uncommon sight now-a-days.

* * * *

My friend "Jeff" Reed informs me he is to be a candidate for Park Commissioner of Manchester this year; and I understand Charlie Howe, the present incumbent, is to be a candidate for re-election. There will be something doing about town meeting time, I'm afraid.

* * * *

Tuesday evening, at the Manchester railroad station, a Gloucester woman, who had been attending the installation of officers of the Degree of Honor in Manchester, narrowly avoided being run over by the engine of the 10.20 train for Gloucester. The fact should be a lesson to others who try to cross the tracks while a train is approaching the station. The lady must have thought she could not board the train except from the platform side and risked her life in trying to reach the platform. As a rule, however, the brakemen on the Gloucester branch trains are sufficiently courteous as to open the gates and let one board from the wrong side.

FOR TOWN CLERK.

Town Auditor Bell of Manchester Announces He is a Candidate for the Office.

As town meeting time approaches in Manchester and matters to come up before the voters are discussed pro and con, there is considerable interest from time to time in the announcements of the candidates for the various town offices. This year in particular much interest will center in the office of town clerk for which position Town Auditor Walter R. Bell has aspirations, and announces he is a candidate.

Mr. Bell is one of Manchester's popular young men. He is a prominent member of the Winthrop club, of Magnolia lodge, 149, I.O.O.F., of Conomo tribe, 113, I.O.R.M. and of Col. H. P. Woodbury Camp S. of V. He was graduated from the Story high school in the class of 1895, and for the past seven years he has been in business with his father, at Bell's Combination store, on Beach street.

In 1902 Mr. Bell was elected town auditor by a strong vote and for the past two years he has been re-elected to that office without opposition. His work has been most faithfully carried out and now his friends seek to give him higher honors, with the result he is this year a candidate for town clerk.

Laying Telephone Conduits.

The work of laying the conduits for the telephone wires on Beach street, Manchester, was started yesterday morning, and despite the difficulty met in digging at this season of the year, work has progressed quite favorably.

It was the intention of the telephone company to lay wooden conduits, and the material for that purpose was shipped the early part of the week, but according to the stipulations of the franchise the work must be done under the supervision of the Superintendent of Streets, who was not interviewed on the matter till the material had arrived. He would not permit wooden conduits to be laid, and hollow brick pipes, such as was used by the Manchester Electric Light company, were shipped from Boston Thursday.

J. W. Mowatt of Boston, foreman in charge of the work, says it will take about one week to lay the conduits. The work of thawing the ground is accomplished by piling lime along the street over the section to be dug, covering with sand and snow and leaving for some hours. Three man-holes are to be constructed, one near the railroad crossing, one in front of Pulsifer's block, where the wires enter the building, and the other at the head of Beach street.

Harnessing Ocean and River Power.

The idea of utilizing river and ocean power is a matter which is attracting wide-spread attention. It is looked upon with especial importance right here at home from the fact that our shores are washed by the broad Atlantic, and because a corporation known as the Tidal Power Company of Rockport, in which Gloucester parties are interested, has petitioned the legislature for permission to sell of electric and other power for transportation, heating and lighting purpose, to be developed from the ocean.

A similar scheme it is understood is to be attempted on the Pacific coast, and the Great Northern Power Company was incorporated a short time ago to make use of the St. Louis river for the development of electrical power. This power will run two railroads, and it is said there is 200,000 horse-power available.

This business of developing electricity from the rivers is just beginning in this country, and augurs well for harnessing ocean power as well. It has accomplished wonders already in France, in Italy and in the United Kingdom.

In a few years power from the rivers of the west will be applied not only to the great railway systems of the west, but in developing our mines and in running the great steel and other corporations.—Gloucester Times.

In the treasurer's report it was shown that the total expenses of the year of St. John's, Beverly Farms, amounted to $2,412.42. For payment of debts due by St. John's, $1,112.05. Other expenses of St. John's, $244.26.

MAGNOLIA.

[From our Correspondent.]

Mrs. Arthur M. Lycett gave a whist party Tuesday afternoon for the parsonage. The party was a success, both financially and socially. Mrs. Lycett was assisted in serving by Miss Helen Lycett, Alice Story, Helen Crispin and Ethel May.

One of the most successful affairs of the winter was the benefit box party, given Tuesday evening at Magnolia hall. Dancing was enjoyed during the evening, and at 9.30 Mr. Lafayette Hunt auctioned the boxes. Mr. Hunt is an efficient auctioneer, and the boxes sold at high prices. Master Theophilus Doucett was the winner of the guess cake, his guess being that it contained a watch chain. Mr. Dolliver gave the use of the hall free, and Mrs. Chane and James Chane furnished the music. People were present from Manchester, Manchester Cove and Fresh Water Cove. About $120 was realized.

The Ladies' Aid society gave a supper, Wednesday evening from 6 to 8 o'clock, after which dancing and whist were participated in.

The Smart Set club of Gloucester enjoyed a sleighing party to Magnolia Wednesday evening, where they were entertained by one of their members, Miss Katharine Macaulay, at her home on Fuller street.

Mrs. Jonathan May entertained the Ladies' Aid society Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Thornberg will give a whist party the 15th of February.

MANCHESTER.

W. D. Denegre's horses arrived on this morning's freight from Tuxedo Park, where Mr. and Mrs. Denegre went after closing "Villa Crest" in November. The Denegres have returned to New Orleans, but they will open their West Manchester house in the early spring.

Rev. Mr. Pratt of Chelsea, whom the committee of the Congregational church look upon as a most favorable candidate for the vacant pastorate will preach at the church a week from tomorrow evening. The pulpit in the morning will be occupied by a supply.

Harry Kingsman, who has been in charge of W. B. Walker's poultry stock, has concluded his work and returned to his home in Bridgewater, Wednesday.

Messrs. Crocker and Edmunds yesterday completed housing their second "crop" of ice, work on which was started Thursday morning.

Prof. Ralph W. Allen of the Brooklyn Boys' high school, formerly of Manchester, gave a very interesting lecture at a Brooklyn church, Thursday evening, on his recent visit to St. Louis and the South.

Fred J. Merrill started yesterday for Savannah, N.Y., where he will spend two weeks as guest of his sister, Mrs. Giddings.

William J. Johnson will give an informal talk on his visit to the St. Louis fair at the meeting of the Rebekahs next Friday evening.

"Rhubarb" was the subject of a very interesting discussion at last evening's meeting of the N.S. Horticultural society. The subject was introduced by Fred Brasch.

The initiatory degree will be worked upon three candidates at the next meeting of Magnolia lodge, 149, Odd Fellows.

The committee in charge of the February meeting of the Wednesday evening club, to be held next week, have an excellent program provided. A speaker has been engaged for the evening and other interesting numbers may be looked for.

The Social circle of King's daughters will meet next Thursday evening with Miss Rita Crombie.

The Springfield Republican, in its issue of last Friday spoke in a most complimentary manner of Prof. W. S. C. Russell, former principal of the Story High school, who is this year lecturer of the Springfield High school. Mr. Russell gave a lecture in Springfield last week on "Arctic Flora: a Study in Environment."

Miss Alice Witham has returned to her duties at the post office with renewed vigor, after a month spent with relatives in Rockport.

John A. Morrison, foreman for Connolly Bros. on the big construction job on the James Speyer estate at Scarborough, N.Y., has been spending the week at the Farms.

Mrs. F. A. B. Ward of Boston is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Seabury, at her home here.

John West colony of Pilgrim Fathers held a very successful whist party and dance in Marshall's hall last night at the close of their regular meeting.

Stephen J. Connolly went to Worcester the early part of the week to spend a few days with relatives. Mrs. Connolly has been spending a month there.

The new post office was opened for business Wednesday evening for the first time. The office, which is located in Neighbors' block, is a decided improvement over the rather cramped condition in its old quarters. One hundred new boxes have been added, thus making a total of 300 besides the lock boxes.

Mrs. Clifton Long Bremer has been entertaining her sister, Miss Morrison, at the "Jackson cottage," a few days the week past.

Michael J. Connolly and James E. McConnell of Boston were visiting friends at the Farms over Sunday.

The members of the Hook and Ladder company called on Mr. and Mrs. Fred Day, who were recently married, at their Hale street home, Wednesday evening, and presented them with a dozen handsome silver knives and forks.

William Crafts.

William Crafts, for many years a resident of Manchester, passed away at his Beverly home, 107 Elliott street, last Sunday, at the age of 70 years. He was a shoemaker by trade, but in his earlier days he followed the sea. His death occurred after a comparatively illness. He was a member of Golden Star Council, O.U.A.M., and of the American Mechanics. A widow, two sons and two daughters survive him. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at his late home, and interment was at the Hale street cemetery.

Sleigh ride parties have been quite the vogue this week ; and well they should be, for seldom has the sleighing been in better condition. A party of sixteen boys and girls of the Story high school went to Salem last night, leaving here in season to see the "County Chairman" at the Salem theatre, and arriving home about midnight.

Miss Eleanor and Mr. Fred Andrews entertained a party of their young friends at their Vine st. home on Tuesday evening. Whist was enjoyed. Miss Andrews intends to start Monday for Indianapolis, where she will spend some time visiting her sister, Mrs. Rebecca Hodges.

Horace M. Andrews of Hartford, Conn., was in town Thursday, a guest of his sister, Mrs. Susan E. Allen of Vine street.

A big party of Gloucester high school boys and girls drove as far as Manchester Monday night in a four-horse pung, and a party of young people drove up from Gloucester on Tuesday night also.

Sayre Merrill entertained a party of his gentlemen friends at his home on Central street last Thursday night, at which time a mock trial was carried out, which proved a very interesting diversion for the young people.

Whist Party.

A whist party was held at the headquarters of the Daughters of Rebekah in Manchester last evening after the regular meeting, which proved a very pleasant affair. There were nine tables and the prizes were won by Mrs. S. Albert Sinnicks and Chester H. Dennis. The party was under the direction of Liberty Circle, D. of R., and was in charge of Mrs. Martha Kimball, Mrs. Abbie F. Lee and Mrs. M. Grace Robbins.

Killed by Train.

John C. Flynn, Beverly's veteran lamp-lighter, was struck by a train at Paradise Crossing yesterday afternoon and instantly killed. He was driving on his route, lighting the street lamps, and attempted to cross the tracks at the fateful crossing as the Boston bound Gloucester branch train was approaching about 1.48. The horse escaped serious injury, but the pung and the unfortunate man received the full force of the swiftly moving train.

Birthday Party.

Miss Ruth Harriet Beaton entertained fourteen of her school friends at her School street home last evening on the occasion of her 14th birthday, the party being a very pretty affair. The young people played games and all joined in having a very pleasant time. During the evening Miss Beaton was presented with a beautiful signet ring. Her guests included Elsie Dow, Prinnie Dodge, Harriet Brewster, Annie Coughlin, Minnie Olsen, Annie Younger, Alice Hoare, Maud Smith, Agnes Sjolund, Alice Tappan, Abbie Floyd, Alice Lations, Mabelle Lodge and Bertha Haskell.

Exhibition Drill.

The boys of the B. B. Brigade in Manchester are working hard in preparation for their exhibition drill and entertainment to be given in Town hall on Monday evening, Feb. 27. For the short time they have been drilling they are doing remarkably well and they will be expected to make a good showing when they first appear before the public.

"Via, Veritas, Vita" will be the theme upon which Rev. C. S. Pond will speak at Beverly Farms Baptist church to-morrow morning. Communion will be administered at the close of the sermon. In the evening the subject will be "Philip and the Eunuch." After the sermon a baptism will take place.

Tables Turned.

The tables were turned in last night's pool matches in the tournament between the Red Men and Winthrop clubs at Manchester, the Winthrop club team winning over their opponents 185 to 115 points, making a total of 328 points for the Winthrop club to 272 for the Red Men.

The summary of the matches follows:

WINTHROP CLUB.	RED MEN'S CLUB:
Wheaton..... 28	Martin..... 32
Bennett..... 42	Cool..... 18
Bell..... 34	Spry..... 26
Needham..... 40	Knight..... 20
Carter..... 41	Lethbridge..... 19

Total.....185 Total.....115
Standing: Winthrop club, 328;
Red Men's club, 272.

Last night's whist proved even more disastrous for the Winthrop club than a week ago, when the score stood 133 points to 86 in favor of the Red Men. Last night R. J. Baker and W. J. Mitchell of the Red Men beat Geo. A. Kitfield and Percy A. Wheaton of the Winthrop club 171 to 102, thus making a total of: Red Men, 304; Winthrop, 188.

In the checker matches between J. N. Lipman of the Winthrop club and Orrin A. Martin of the Red Men's club, seven games were played, as two of the matches resulted in draws. Martin won three out of five. This makes the matches even thus far.

The tournament will be continued next Friday evening at the Red Men's rooms. Hot chocolate and sandwiches were served last evening. George E. Scott acted as referee of the pool matches and Alex. Robertson as score keeper.

The Baptist church at the Farms was crowded Thursday evening, when Gen. Stopford was present and gave his illustrated lecture on the "Cuban War," which was very interesting throughout. The affair was under the auspices of the men's class of the Bible school.

JOINT INSTALLATION.

Manchester Orders of A.O.U.W. and Degree of Honor hold Installation of Officers.

The joint installation of the recently elected officers of North Shore lodge, A.O.U.W., and Seaside lodge, Degree of Honor, of Manchester, Tuesday evening of this week proved a very pleasant occasion. There were guests present from the lodges of Danvers, Salem and Gloucester. After the installation remarks were made by members of both orders, following which the members and their guests adjourned to the banquet hall, where awaited them a finely prepared New England supper. The evening proved a red letter one in the history of both organizations.

A very pleasant feature of the evening came after the installation of the officers of the Degree of Honor, when the installing officer, Mrs. Dennison, presented Mrs. Elizabeth Henderson and Mrs. Susie Crombie with beautiful P.C.H. badges.

The officers of the Workmen installed were as follows:

Chas. W. Fritz, past master workman; Manuel Lopes, master workman; George F. Evans, foreman; Charles A. Lodge, overseer; William Mitchell, guide; Thomas B. Stone, recorder; Chas. W. Sawyer, financier; Horace Standley, receiver; Henry A. Porter, inside watch; Manuel Travers, outside watch.

The officers were installed by D. G. M. W. Shove S. Symonds of Salem and suite as follows: P. G. M. W. C. A. Staten, G. F. Howard C. Henderson, G. O. Wm. Wolfe, G. G. James Sullivan, G. R. John W. Going, G. Rec. Percy W. Wheeler, G. F. W. Dennison, G. I. W. Edward Haraden, G. O. W. Lewis Killam.

The officers of the Degree of Honor were installed as follows: Mrs. Susie Crombie, past chief of honor; Mrs. Lizzie Peabody, chief of honor; Mrs. Sarah Loomis, lady of honor; Mrs. Ida Mason, chief of ceremonies; Mrs. Mary Agnes Dougherty, recorder; Mrs. Edith Morgan, financier; Mrs. Margaret Fenton, receiver; Mrs. Eunice Killam, usher; Mrs. Lizzie Floyd, inside watch; Lewis Killam, outside watch.

Some well-known North Shore matrons were included among the patronesses at the vaudeville in aid of the St. Stephen's kindergarten and industrial classes at Potter hall, Boston, Wednesday night of this week. Among the number were: Mrs. Henry L. Higginson, Mrs. Boylston Beal, Mrs. Charles P. Curtis, Mrs. Francis L. Higginson and Mrs. Arthur Cabot.

The A. M. Merriams have closed their West Manchester house for the balance of the winter and have returned to Boston.

Among the well-known North Shore folk on the entertainment committee in connection with the annual fair in aid of the Industrial School for Crippled and Deformed children, to be held at the Hotel Somerset, Boston, Feb. 16 and 17, are: Mrs. Gordon Abbott, Mrs. R. C. Hooper, Mrs. H. G. O. Colby, Mrs. R. S. Bradley, Mrs. E. D. Jordan, Mrs. Lester Leland, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Morgan, Mrs. Alexander Cochran, Mrs. Harcourt Amory, Mrs. E. Preble Motley (chairman), and others.

Work is soon to be started on extensive alterations to the "Moorings," the beautiful summer home of the Wm. A. Tuckers on Norton's Point. Several additions are to be made, also, both interiorally and exteriorally.

The Eben D. Jordans probably will not occupy their beautiful estate at West Manchester the coming season as Mr. Jordan has just leased from the Duke of Argyle, the famous Inverary castle, at Argyleshire, Scotland. The castle is one of the show places of Scotland, and has been in the Argyle family for several centuries.

Several parties have been in town this week looking over summer property with intentions to hire.

Automatic Signal at Baker's.

Congressman A. P. Gardner has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives for the erection of an automatic signal at Baker's Island, off the North Shore, at a cost not to exceed $10,000.

No Objection to Lay Out.

A meeting was held at the office of the Manchester Board of Selectmen, Wednesday evening, to hear parties in objection to the intentions of the selectmen to lay out, as a town way, the private way known as Elm lane, and taking land of Samuel Knight, Frederick J. Merrill, Roberts & Hoare, heirs of Asa Richardson, and the town of Manchester. Though there were a dozen or more voters present, no objections were offered and the meeting was dissolved.

Streets Freed of Snow.

Superintendent Kimball of Manchester and his army of snow shovellers, who combated the snow drifts last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, breaking out every street and sidewalk in town, turned their attention to hauling off some of the over-supply Sunday and Monday of this week, and by Tuesday noon the streets were in what might be called excellent condition, considering the fierceness of last week's blizzard.

Four teams were kept busy all day Sunday and Monday, 186 loads of snow being carried away on the former day and 208 on the latter. Tuesday forenoon was devoted to patching up the bare places—"teaching the Almighty object lessons," as Supt. Kimball puts it.

The town and highway department is to be congratulated on the celerity and manner in which the streets were cleaned. In surrounding towns the streets were not opened up, in some cases, a day after they were in Manchester.

The cost of the recent storm in Manchester was a little over $600.

Hesperus Hotel to be Sold.

The Hesperus Hotel and land at Magnolia will be sold at auction sale on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 25, at 2.30 o'clock, by virtue of the power of sale continued in a certain mortgage deed given by Orra Paige and Helen T. Paige to Frank D. Bennett, dated Dec. 31, 1902.

The sale is subject to any and all unpaid taxes and also three mortgages, one to the Gloucester Safe Deposit and Trust Co., $20,000; Susanna B. Fuller, $5000; and Maria M. McClure, $5000.

MASTERS OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.

Richard Hooker, 1553—1600.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

In contrast with the gay and chivalrous Sidney, the next name on the bead-roll of great masters of English literature is that of a grave ecclesiastic, an unambitious scholar, a philosophic divine—Richard Hooker, a man of profound reasoning powers, but little fitted to shine in courts and destitute of those qualities which win popular admiration.

Hooker was a poor boy, but rose to be an influential churchman as well as an eminent scholar, in an age of great churchmen and scholars. He was simple in his tastes and habits, and of a healthy and cheerful mind and disposition; he seems to have had a special love for the country and for country life; it was his delight "to see God's blessing spring out of his mother earth." He declined flattering offers of preferment in the church, choosing to pursue his grave and laborious studies in his quiet parsonage; he said "God and nature did not intend me for contentions, but for peace and quietness," and high office in church and state in Hooker's time was an arena for strife and turmoil.

To Hooker belongs the honor of being the first to develop the power and majesty of English prose. He belongs to the royal breed of authors. His massive eloquence and vast stores of learning make his style worthy of study, deformed as it sometimes is by long and intricate sentences and many Latinisms. He is distinguished by his stateliness and elevation, his force of reasoning and his grave, judicial tone, which has given him the name of "the judicious Hooker." It has been said "he searches all the depths and rises to all the heights of his subject." The great critic, Taine, says of him: "The learned and excellent Hooker, one of the sweetest and most conciliatory of men, the most solid and persuasive of logicians . . . a methodical writer, correct and always ample, worthy of being regarded as the Father of English Prose." Hallam describes him as "the finest as well as the most philosophical writer of the Elizabethan period."

Hooker's greatest work is his "Ecclesiastical Polity," a work undertaken with the purpose of strengthening the English church of the Reformation, both against Prelacy on the one hand and Puritanism and Independency on the other. Admitting the soundness of its premises, it is difficult to avoid its conclusions. But for Hooker and his fellow-churchmen, the day of tolerance was not yet risen; not to them was given all light for all coming days. For its time, however, the work was a noble plea for what its author and many other good men of his age deemed indispensable to the very ex-

PULSIFER'S BLOCK, MANCHESTER.

The above picture is of Pulsifer's block, Manchester-by-the-sea, and is a fair sample of the enterprise which is making Manchester,—historic, old and conservative though it may be—thoroughly up-to-date. The building was constructed two years ago and is owned by James K. Pulsifer, formerly engaged in the wood and coal business in Manchester. It is located on the corner of Beach and Union streets on the spot where stood the old Kinsman house, until a few years ago one of the landmarks for a century or more. In the building is located the Post Office, and almost a dozen of the leading business concerns of the town, including Bullock Bros., grocers; Smith's Express Co.; Semons & Campbell, provision dealers; Harry S. Tappan, dry goods; Joseph Pink & Co., harness makers; M. G. Reveles, fruit dealer and the Manchester tonsorial parlors. On the second floor is located the New England Telephone Company, who are now installing an office; the Red Men's club, George E. Willmonton, insurance; and the North Shore BREEZE office. Isaac M. Marshall, editor of the Manchester Cricket will also soon occupy part of an office on this floor.

istence of religion, namely, a national establishment. The world has moved since Hooker's day; the conditions of church existence and growth are better understood, but this need not prevent us from doing honor to him as a mighty and accomplished champion of what seemed to him a great and fundamental truth. The "Ecclesiastical Polity" is of worth to us, not for its argument or doctrine in all respects, but for its style: this is noble, lofty, and often musical; it has been called "the first monument of splendid literary prose that we possess." In force of reasoning, it is justly regarded as a masterpiece. Its influence was wide and lasting. Perhaps it is not exaggeration to say that it has colored the whole history of the English church. It is a work of massive logic and masterful philosophical thought; its breadth and range of argument and its command of legal principles show that its author, if he had not chosen the church as a profession, might have been a great constitutional lawyer or a jurisconsult.

The massive and erudite learning and forceful and majestic style of Hooker fairly justify what might seem the excessive praise of Hallam: "So stately and graceful is the march of his periods, so various the fall of his musical cadences upon the ear, so grave and noble his diction, so little is there of vulgarity in his racy idiom, of pedantry in his learned phrase, that I know not whether any later writer has more admirably displayed the capacities of our language, or produced passages more worthy of comparison with the splendid monuments of antiquity."

A few extracts will serve to show the dignity and impressiveness of Hooker's style:

"The use and benefit of good laws all that live under them may enjoy with delight and comfort; albeit the grounds and first original causes from whence they have sprung be unknown, as to the greatest part of men they are."

"Many talk of the truth, which never sounded the depth from which it springeth; and therefore, when they are led thereunto they are soon weary, as men drawn from those beaten paths wherewith they have been inured."

"Of Law there can be no less acknowledged than that her seat is the bosom of God; her voice the harmony of the world; all things in heaven and earth do her homage; the very least as feeling her care, and the greatest as not exempted from her power; both angels and men, and creatures of what condition soever, though each in different sort and manner, yet all with uniform consent, admiring her as the mother of their peace and joy."

Surely, these last words are worthy of being inscribed on the walls of every court-house and legislative chamber, and town hall, and school house, and university, of every place of business and every private home, as a lesson for the times, to remind us, as President Roosevelt has recently said, "material well-being, success in arts and letters, great industrial triumphs, all of them and of the structure raised thereon will be evanescent as a dream, if it does not rest on the righteousness that exalteth a nation."

A Good Profit.

At the meeting of Col. H. P. Woodbury Camp, 149, S. of V., in Manchester, Tuesday evening, treasurer E. R. Sargent of the fair committee reported the net proceeds of the recent fair to be $336.61. All things considered, this is regarded as a remarkably good showing, and emphatically bespeaks the feeling of good-will the townspeople have toward the G. A. R., for whom the fair was run, indirectly. Great credit is due to the committee having the fair in charge. Two S. of V. notices will be found in another column.

County Treasurer Reports.

County Treasurer David I. Robinson and the County Commissioners of Essex county have issued their annual report for 1904, and the following are some interesting statistics relative to Manchester: For county tax, Manchester paid $12,489.31. The town also paid into the county treasury for dog licenses $336.20, receiving back $236.71. The amount of damage done in Manchester by dogs, as announced in our last issue, was $23.55.

Real Estate.

Among the recent real estate transfers is the following: William Johnson of Manchester conveys to Fred W. Johnson five acres of woodland in Gloucester on the Essex town line.

Vote of Thanks.

Col. H. P. Woodbury Camp, No. 149, Sons of Veterans, desire in this public manner to express its sincere thanks to the merchants of the town and to all who by gift or personal assistance did so much to make our late fair a social and financial success.

The Camp appreciates the hearty response so bountifully given, and desires to express to each and all this memorandum of our cordial esteem.

L. W. FLOYD, Commander.

E. W. BAKER, Secretary.

Resolutions.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst our fellow member, Cyrus A. Crombie; be it, therefore, RESOLVED by the Fireman Relief Association, in meeting assembled, that in the death of Cyrus A. Crombie the Association has lost an efficient and conscientious worker; be it further

RESOLVED, that our sympathy be extended to the family of the departed member by forwarding to them a copy of these resolutions, and that the same be spread upon our records and published in our weekly papers.

Flying Trip.

Daniel Brown, better known as "Steb," of Manchester, well known in police circles the county over, made a flying visit to Manchester last Saturday, and was entertained at the police station over Sunday.

"Steb" has a failing. He drinks. For the past month he has been enjoying the hospitality of the Salem jail, and Saturday morning was liberated. It was too much for him. Overcome with joy he drank of the "pure air" of freedom, came to Manchester, where Officer Jones stumbled upon him Saturday night as the happy "Steb" was trying to hold up a fence on Beach street.

In court, Monday morning, Judge Safford extended an invitation to Brown to spend the balance of the season in Salem jail, giving him 30 days more.

Great Bargains in Damaged Goods.

Alex. Pattillo, the Gloucester dry goods man, is arranging for one of the greatest smoke and water sales in dry goods that Gloucester has ever seen, and it will pay Manchester and Magnolia buyers to call and look over the bargains. In the big fire a week ago Mr. Pattillo's stock was damaged, and beginning next Monday these goods will practically be given away. The stock is said to be in good condition, not having been damaged by fire, and great bargains may be anticipated.

West Beach Corporation.

The annual meeting of the West Beach corporation of Beverly Farms will be held February 20 (third Monday), at which time the regular annual report of the board of directors will be given, the treasurer will make his financial statement, and officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

The principal matter which will come before the meeting will be that of the proposed change at West Beach—the taking away of the old bath-houses along the beach bank and the building of a handsome public boating and bathing pavillion—such as was suggested in the BREEZE several weeks ago.

At the meeting several plans will be presented for consideration, one of which the corporation may be called upon to adopt. It is the feeling of many of the members that some definite action should be taken at this time, while others want to discuss the matter for some time, and make a decision later.

Serenaders at the Farms.

There was music in the air at Beverly Farms, Wednesday evening—the wedding bells chimed out. It was not the chimes of delicately tuned bells, however, but the wild clatter of cow bells that announced to Joshua Younger, just wed, that his friends, 50 in number, were serenading him.

Headed by the Bingville Drum Corps, so called, their way lighted by lanes of red fire, half a hundred men and boys made their way from the engine house, up Hale street to Mr. Younger's house. From the noise accompanying the marchers, made by fire crackers, revolvers, guns, etc., one would think an army approaching.

Mr. Younger had tried to keep the marriage a secret, but the news leaked out and the serenaders had a gay time. They were received by Mr. and Mrs. Younger with smiling faces, and were treated with light refreshments, cigars, etc.

George Burchstead acted as chief marshal of the parade, and Rep. W. R. Brooks aided much in carrying the affair out.

The mild weather Wednesday morning was indirectly responsible for two lively runaways. Some snow on the roof of the Swanson house on Union street, loosened by the warm rays of the sun, slipped from the roof and with a loud quash struck the ground in front of William Cheever's horse. The horse dashed wildly down Union street and in its flight frightened a horse attached to Prince's milk wagon, which joined in and galloped down toward Central square. Byron Manion succeeded in stopping Mr. Cheever's horse before any damage was done, and one of F. M. Whitehouse's men stopped the other.

Says Sewell Stetson.

Sewell Stetson left Manchester this morning on the 8 o'clock train for Mechanics Falls, Maine. When he returns next week he will bring with him a pretty young wife.

Mr. Stetson is a young man of 23 years, and for some time past has been engaged as driver for Samuel Knight & Sons, coal dealers, in Manchester. The pretty young woman who will tomorrow become his wife lives on a farm in Mechanics Falls, Maine.

Last summer the prospective groom ran across a matrimonial paper; and "out of deviltry," he says, he had his name inserted, with occupation, age, color of hair and eyes, and ended by saying "Object, matrimony." This card attracted many of the fair sex all over the country from California to Maine, school teachers, widows, young, old and indifferent.

Finally, just before Christmas came a letter from Miss Rose E. Lunt of Mechanics Falls. Unlike all the letters preceding, however, this one had a tiny little arrow in it which pierced the heart of Mr. Stetson, with the result that he started this morning to bring Miss Lunt to Manchester, his wife.

He has been to Maine once to see the young woman he intends to marry. Next Wednesday he expects to return to Manchester with her and they will live for the time being with Mr. Stetson's uncle, M. W. Stevens, on Washington street.

LESS SELF GOVERNMENT BETTER FOR THE FILIPINO.

Edward C. Knight says in a Talk Before the Wednesday Evening Club of Manchester the Filipino is not Capable of Self Government.

Edward C. Knight, who recently returned from three years spent in the Philippines, in connection with the educational department, gave a very interesting talk before the Wednesday Evening club in Manchester this week, telling of his experiences there and speaking briefly of the characteristics of the Filipino and their fitness for self government.

The meeting was largely attended, the Wednesday evening meeting proving a success socially as well as in point of entertainment. Some very pleasing musical numbers were rendered both before and after the intermission of twenty minutes, when all were given an opportunity to see the table loaded with curios Mr. Knight had brought in connection with his talk.

Oliver T. Roberts, chairman of the committee having the affair in charge, was master of ceremonies. The rest of the committee was composed of Edward A. Lane, J. Alex. Lodge, Miss Carolyn E. Allen and Miss Lila G. Goldsmith.

The program was opened with a piano solo by Miss Annie L. Lane, who played a selection from Wagner's "Flying Dutchman." This was followed by a song by Miss Jenkins of Lynn, very sweetly rendered. Miss Jenkins sang Newcomb's "Celeste" as an encore.

Abbott Hoare, who had been heard with so much favor on former occasions, sang the "Toreador's Love Song," and gained much more applause in his rendition of "Gypsy John."

Following the talk by Mr. Knight Miss Carolyn E. Allen sang Weil's "Spring Song," and on being called back for an encore sang Bohm's pretty little ditty, "The Vow." Miss Allen later met with equal favor in a group of songs, all of which were very finely rendered.

The readings by Mr. C. E. Fish, superintendent of schools, added in no small degree to the success of the evening's entertainment. This was his first appearance as a reader since coming to Manchester. "Laughing in Meeting," one of Sam Lawson's fireside stories, was bubbling over with fun. Mr. Fish read "Singing for the Millions," by Tom Hood, as an encore.

In his preliminary remarks Mr. Knight spoke of the geographical location of the Philippine islands, the climate, products, etc. He said the climate was a very desirable tropical climate; there were two seasons, the wet and the dry, and that there was very little difference between winter and summer. In winter the average temperature is 65 degrees, and in summer it runs on an average to 100 degrees. He referred also to the difficulty encountered in traveling in the wet season, saying that very often it took three hours to travel ten miles.

There is one railroad in the Philippines at present, 120 miles long, but since the Americans have taken possession the road has been very much improved and wagon roads built. The government encourages American enterprise to establish an electric road in Manila.

"Whatever we may say about the Spaniards in the Philippines," said Mr. Knight, "great credit is due the friars, who withstood the difficulties they met with fortitude and courage.

"Owing to the geographical condition of the islands, there being a large number of islands, there is a great difference in the native Filipino. When we speak about the Filipino we don't mean anything very definite. The various tribes speak different dialects—they do not understand each other. The common language is Spanish, which they speak about as a Chinaman speaks English.

"The Filipino doesn't know anything. His good virtues are few. He will lie to you as often as he tells the truth. He is superstitious, ungrateful, cruel and lazy.

"Any system of government, any effort to govern, which does not take into consideration the Filipino is a child, will meet with failure. They are fatalistic. He has a hatred for the white man. He likes our roads, and our system of education, but he does not like us.

"The Filipino has more civil rights now than he ever had before. Our government is not fitted for the Philippines. We never should have gone there. A government that is fitted to our constitution is not fit for governing them. But I don't know how we can give it up now. We would have to abandon the islands, and that is not feasible. We must stay there and govern them as best we can.

"The quicker we agree to giving them less self government than they now have the better for the Philippines."

The following committee has been appointed to have charge of the March meeting: Hollis L. Roberts, Joseph Lipman, Arthur Olsen, Miss Jessie Hoare and Miss Amy B. Haskell.

Following is the program of the evening's entertainment:

Piano solo, "Spinning Song" (from the Flying Dutchman)..... Wagner

What's the Trouble?

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

The sidewalk on the easterly side of School street from Mr. D. L. Bingham's house to Lincoln street has not seen a plow or shovel in any of the storms of the past few weeks. What seems to be the trouble? With all the money spent on the roads it certainly seems that tax payers and citizens could have the privilege of having the streets on which they walk cleared of snow.

TOWN MEETING.

Political Pot in Manchester Beginning to Boil, but Enthusiasm not Hgih.

The political pot is simmering; it is not boiling, though it undoubtedly will be ere another week shall have passed. In fact, politics in Manchester—town meeting politics—is below par this year for some reason or other, and enthusiasm doesn't seem to run high.

Aspirants for the various offices begin to appear; papers are being taken out; articles to be inserted in the town warrant are collecting, but politics—the thing that makes us chew—seems to be dull.

True it is there are no great issues to come up this year, or at least none have appeared thus far.

We are led to think, however, there may be inserted in the town warrant an article calling either for an appropriation for the erection of a kindergarten school, or for the appointment of a committee to look into this matter. This will no doubt be met with much favor by a large majority of the voters.

From appearances, however, it would seem now that the feature of the town meeting this year will be the election of town officers.

For Selectmen.

As usual, considerable interest will centre in the selection of a board of selectmen. At present the board consists of W. H. Allen, Fred K. Swett and W. E. Kitfield. Mr. Swett and Mr. Kitfield are candidates for the offices this year, but Mr. Allen will not run. This leaves a vacancy which must needs be filled, and until yesterday no candidates had appeared for that office, when T. W. Long and T. B. Stone each took out papers.

Other names have been mentioned, among them Alfred S. Jewett. Mr. Jewett stated to the BREEZE man Wednesday that he was not and will not be a candidate for selectman this year.

Mr. Knight May Run.

Still other candidates may appear later, and several names have been mentioned. Edward S. Knight, the School street florist, has been spoken of as a prospective candidate. Mr. Knight has served on the board of selectmen before, and the fact that he might consider running for the office now will be met with much favor by many voters. To the BREEZE man last night Mr. Knight said he had not given the matter much thought, and he declined to commit himself.

For Town Clerk.

There are two candidates for town clerk—Alfred S. Jewett, the present incumbent, and Town Auditor W. R. Bell.

For Auditor.

Frank G. Cheever yesterday took out papers for town auditor. Allen S. Peabody took his papers out Wednesday, and Howard M. Stanley has taken papers out for that office also. Leon W. Carter is also a candidate. With these four young men there is promise of a lively fight for the office.

Water Board.

Nathan P. Meldrum, who has been chairman and clerk of the Water Board for two terms, announces he is a candidate for re-election. It is said Clarence W. Morgan is also an aspirant for this office, but last night Mr. Morgan refused to commit himself.

Constables.

Papers were taken out yesterday for the re-election of Leonard Andrews, Lewis O. Latons and George E. Hildreth as constables of the town.

Tree Warden.

William S. Spry is a candidate for tree warden, and will run against William Young, the present incumbent. He intends to take out papers today.

Park Commissioners.

J. S. Reed, who has served the town as tree warden for two years, and who ran against G. S. Sinnicks last year for Park Commissioner, announces that he is a candidate for the office this year. He will run against C. O. Howe, who is a candidate for re-election.

Pound Keeper.

Raymond C. Allen stated to a BREEZE man several days ago that he would not be a candidate for re-election to the office of Pound Keeper at the coming election. It is understood that Alfred C. Hooper is a candidate for this office.

Whisperings.

A man in a western town on returning home the other day found his neighbor just leaving his home, and being of a jealous nature, got his gun and filled the man's legs with fine shot. A law suit followed and it was learned that the man was there to borrow the local paper. The lawsuit cost $75 and the doctor's bill was $25 and $1 would have saved the trouble.

There is a moral to this which is that if you want to avoid trouble subscribe for your local paper and have it left regularly, then you won't have to go mousing around as a newspaper borrower.—Ex.

* * * *

I hear a story being whispered around about a barber who works not very far from the Manchester post office. It seems he went down to Singing Beach last Tuesday with a gun under his arm bent on bringing home a duck for the next days meal. All went well. He saw a duck, and climbed over the icy rocks at the end of the beach so as to get nearer his bird. He got ready to fire. He fired, but the next instant he felt himself sliding toward the ice cold water. The "jar" was too much for him. He dropped the gun and the last seen of it, I am told, it was going out of sight between the small cakes of ice that edged the shore. And the bird—that too disappeared beneath the water, but it came up again a few rods away.

CYRUS A. CROMBIE.

Manchester Man Passes Away After Lingering Illness of Three Years.

After a lingering illness covering a period of almost three years, Cyrus A. Crombie passed away at his late home on School street, Manchester, Tuesday evening at the age of 44 years. Death resulted from valvular disease of the heart, more commonly called rheumatism of the heart.

Mr. Crombie was very well and popularly known in Manchester. He was born in the town April 23, 1860, and has always made Manchester his home. He leaves a widow and one son, Fred, besides a mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Crombie; a brother, Frank; and two sisters, Miss Bertha Crombie of Manchester, and Mrs. Alice Holmes.

It was almost three years ago that Mr. Crombie first complained of heart trouble, and more especially the past year and one half has he been ill disposed. He has been unable to work for the past four months. All hopes for recovery were disposed of by his family and physicians a month or six weeks ago, so that his death was not unlooked for.

Mr. Crombie was a mason by trade. He was a charter member of Conomo tribe, 113, I. O. R. M. of Manchester, and of the Manchester Firemen's Relief association.

Singularly enough, his death is the second recorded by the association since its organization in 1894, John H. Coughlin, who died two weeks ago, being the first.

Funeral services were held at Crowell Memorial chapel yesterday afternoon, Rev. E. H. Brewster officiating. Large delegations from the Red Men and the Relief Association attended, the Red Men conducting their burial services outside the chapel at the close of the services within. A mixed quartet composed of Mrs. A. E. Hersey, Mrs. Edward Preston, A. E. Hersey and A. J. Orr sang "Abide in Thee" and "Come unto Me."

The pall-bearers were Curtis Stanley, Frank Martin, George Hobbs, C. O. Howe, Herbert Stanley and George Gould.

Many very pretty floral remembrances were sent in, among the number being: Pillow, with the words, "Conomo Tribe," sent in from the Red Men; pillow, with "Husband," sent in from wife and family; wreath, with "M. & B. U.," sent in from the Masons and Bricklayers union; pillow, from fire department; wreath, E. G. Black; crescent, F. H. Crombie and family; bouquet, John Babcock; pinks, Miss Nellie Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Carr, C. O. Howe, Mrs. C. A. Whippen, Mrs. J. L. Knight, I. F. Andrews and family; bouquets, Mr. and Mrs. William Follett, Miss Rita Crombie, A. P. Bullock, W. S. Spry, J. H. Rivers, Mr. and Mrs. James Gray, Senter Stanley; violets, Miss L. Perkins; 43 pinks, B. M. Crombie.

Event of the Season.

The grand ball and dancing party to be held in the Manchester town hall, Wednesday evening, Feb. 22, under the auspices of Conomo tribe of Red Men, will undoubtedly prove the social event of the season. Extensive preparations are being made for the event. The grand march will be led on that occasion by Mayor Macdonald of Gloucester, who has assured the committee he will be present. Fred K. Swett will be floor director. The aids will be: George Rowe (Gloucester), George Sinnicks, George Kimball, W. R. Bell, Richard J. Baker, Ralph Stanley, A. S. Peabody and George Gould.

INTEMPERANCE.

Rum is a Pirate on the High Seas of Life, says Manchester Minister, and is to be Feared and Dreaded.

"The Shadow on the Hearth" was the subject of a very interesting temperance sermon by Rev. E. H. Brewster at the Baptist church, Manchester, last Sunday evening. The text which suggested the theme was found in 2 Kings, 20:15, — "What have they seen in thine house?"

"As we look about us," interrogated the preacher, "is it not a shadow on the hearth which we have seen?"

"What is this shadow they have seen? The shadow of intemperance and that shadow has been seen in thy house, in my house, — everywhere it is seen, and it stays there until some angel hand sweeps it aside.

"My friends, intemperance doesn't stop where it starts, but stretches out.

"When I go and sell myself to intemperance, that shadow stretches, and deepens, and influences everybody in the home until the whole community is basking under that fearful darkness. It sometimes deepens until the home itself falls.

"On every ship that goes to the mission fields with laborers for the cause of Christianity go barrels of the stuff, until it seems as if the heathen receive more rum than religion.

"Religion is antagonistic to this thing which we call intemperance.

"I do not see how religious people can look favorably upon it. They cannot teach intemperance and temperance of the Gospel. How any sanction can be given by religious people to this shadow which destroys our homes, I cannot comprehend.

"Is not this a national question? Our nation has seen the fruits of intemperance as well as God. Our greatest characters have been stained by this shadow.

"There are people who say that because the thing is legalized by law let it stand, but I say we cannot allow such a thing to stand. It never stays within the law. It is a pirate upon the seas of life. Young ships with beautiful pure white sails are stained with blood by this pirate. I believe that piracy in 1905 is to be feared and dreaded.

"The parent has seen that shadow. It is an enemy to the peace of the home. Half the trouble we see in our homes would be done away with if this thing could be stamped out. It is the greatest enemy to the peace of the home. Sometimes the child's earliest recollections are of this shadow on the hearth. His opportunities are curtailed vitally by intemperance. The child inherits these seeds which come down from the past.

"You have seen the shadow. Don't let it stain; take it out."

MANCHESTER.

Miss Cora Robbins left Thursday for a two weeks' visit with Mrs. George Prince, in Salem.

Nelson Cook met with a painful accident while chopping wood, Thursday, receiving a severe gash in the leg, which necessitated taking several stitches.

The 39th annual encampment of the department of Massachusetts, Grand Army of the Republic, will convene in Faneuil hall next Tuesday at 10 o'clock. Several local veterans are planning on attending.

Israel Harvey was taken to the Beverly hospital Tuesday, where he is under treatment for some internal trouble.

Revere Pulsifier and Sayre Merrill of this town have been selected on the prize team of the Gloucester High school to drill against the militia team at Gloucester during the S. of V. fair the last of this month. General Miles will inspect the drill.

New Doctor to Locate.

Dr. Tyler of Somerville, who formerly practiced for a short time in Manchester, has been down during the week with a view to opening an office here, with the result that he yesterday decided to come to Manchester during the coming week. For the time being he will have an office in the house which Walter R. Bell occupies, in the square opposite the G. A. Priest school, and he will probably move his family here at a later date.

Red Men Win.

The Red Men's club of Manchester won the series in the pool, whist and checker tournament by defeating the Winthrop club in whist and checkers. The last match was played last night at the Red Men's room.

Allen Curtis was down from Boston last Saturday afternoon to note the progress being made on the buildings being constructed at his summer estate.

Miss Rebekah Bruorton of Reading has been appointed to fill the position recently made vacant by the resignation of the teacher in grade 5 of the Farms school.

There were two baptisms at the Baptist church last Sunday morning.

Miss Mae Mountain of Gloucester has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Publicover the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walen are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a daughter at their Pride's Crossing home.

The Misses Loring have closed their Pride's place for the balance of the month.

C. Southerland, coachman at the Thomas McKee's, left the early part of the week for a two weeks' visit to Montreal.

Several local young people attended the private dancing party given by Miss Marjorie Maloon in Beverly last Saturday evening.

Miss Eleanor Macdonald has returned to her Dorchester home after a delightful visit of two weeks with friends at the Farms.

Plans are being made for a big concert in Marshall's hall on St. Patrick's day under the auspices of the choir of St. Margaret's church.

Installation of Officers.

The recently elected officers of Oliver W. Holmes council, Knights of Columbus of Beverly Farms, were installed Wednesday evening by District Deputy Donohue of Lynn and staff. The work was carried out very successfully. The various committees were appointed. A collation was served after the exercises.

Younger — Rogers.

Joshua Younger and Miss Lydia Rogers of Beverly Farms were united in marriage at Mr. Younger's home on Hale street, Beverly Farms, Wednesday evening, by Rev. Clarence Strong Pond.

Both bride and groom are well known in Beverly Farms. Mr. Younger is senior vice commander of Preston post, G. A. R., and the bride has been for some nine years housekeeper for Mr. Younger.

Only a few close friends were present at the marriage ceremony. Eli Hodgkins and Mrs. Perry stood with the couple.

Sent to House of Correction.

Frank D. Allen of Manchester Cove was tried before Judge Fox, in the Superior court at Salem, Tuesday, on the charge of assault with a revolver on George Blair and was found guilty. He was sentenced to six months in the house of correction at Ipswich.

The assault for which Allen was tried occurred in the Magnolia station on June 24 last. At that time he was found guilty and sentenced to nine months, but appealed.

Blair testified in court Tuesday that Allen pointed a revolver at him and threatened to shoot him.

Allen claimed the revolver was not loaded, but he pointed it to scare Blair.

Judge Fox said that he would as soon be shot as to be frightened to death, and forthwith directed the clerk to find Allen guilty and sent to house of correction for six months.

Won Much Favor.

Miss Nancy Quinn, the young violinist, who has many friends in Manchester and Beverly Farms, won much favor at a concert given last evening at Pierce hall, Boston, under the direction of Mr. Linwood Scrivon, one of Boston's leading musicians. Miss Quinn played before a large and enthusiastic audience, and her music did much to make the affair a brilliant success. The pretty little musician concluded by giving a reading, accompanied by her violin. The reading, entitled "Ma Black Eyed Sue," was certainly the hit of the evening. Miss Quinn impersonates this shy little darkey to perfection. It is understood that Mr. Scrivon is to give a series of concerts in Boston and vicinity in the near future. And much to the disappointment of her score of friends, Miss Quinn, owing to her delicate health, will be unable to appear in any of these concerts.

Poverty Social.

A "poverty social" was held in the vestry of the Baptist church, Manchester, Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Farther Lights. The event proved very successful, $17.05 being realized. Admission was by calico bags.

During the evening a very interesting program was carried out, composed of vocal solos by Miss Alice Tappan, singing by a chorus, and a missionary dialogue, "Profit and Gain," by Misses Alice Rainville and Harriet Brewster. Rev. Mr. Brewster was to have given a talk on Japan, accompanied by stereopticon views, but the lantern did not arrive, and the lecture was given last evening after the prayer meeting.

Frank Robinson, district deputy marshal of Magnolia lodge, 149, I. O. O. F., and grand marshal John A. Hawson of Gloucester, paid an official visit to Magnolia lodge Thursday evening.

Recently recorded: born, Feb. 3., a son to Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hamilton (Lillian Parsons); a son to Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wade.

"Old Ship Masters and Vessels" was the subject taken up at the meeting of the Haphazard club, which met Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Needham.

The condition of Mrs. Solomon Parsons who has been confined to her bed the past two weeks with fever is reported gradually improving.

Rev. E. H. Brewster went to Medford Thursday evening where he delivered an address before the Sons of Veterans camp of that city on Lincoln, the occasion being the anniversary of Lincoln's birthday.

The 24th anniversary of the Y. P. S. C. E. was observed last Sunday by a special program at the Congregational chapel. Deacon O. T. Roberts, one of the charter members of the society here led the meeting.

The gold medal offered to the children of the Junior Y. P. S. C. E. for the member having the best attendance for six months was awarded last Sunday to John Carter.

The Republican town committee will meet in the caucus room of the Town hall, Monday evening, at 7.30 o'clock, for organization.

There will be a sale of ice-cream, cake, tea and home-made candies at the School street home of the Misses Brown, next Wednesday afternoon and evening. The sale will be held under the auspices of the Ladies' Social Circle of the Congregational church and deserves generous patronage.

The Pattillo Store 122 Main St. GLOUCESTER

REOPENING

Monday Morning at 9 o'clock

Every article in the store will be sold at prices marked away below first cost.

Shortly before the fire we were getting ready for a great sale and had boxed up several thousand dollars' worth of dry goods in our cellar. After the fire these boxes, together with other goods, were found floating in six feet of water. The goods on the other floors also received their share of the deluge of water.

Since the fire we have packed up the stock and have sent many boxes to the Excelsior Laundry where the goods have been rough dried and some of them returned. Several boxes of goods were also sent to a Boston laundry to be rough dried. The goods are returning in excellent condition and our force is busily engaged in getting the store ready for the sale which opens

MONDAY MORNING AT NINE O'CLOCK

The people of Manchester and Magnolia are familiar with the general excellence of our stock. Come to the sale and you will be astonished at the remarkable bargains—the lowness of the prices and the quality of the goods.

Society Notes.

The excellent sleighing on the North shore roads last Sunday attracted many gay parties of Boston people. Miss Juliet Higginson and Miss Curtis were down over Sunday, and had a thoroughly good time, hiring a stable hitch at Pride's Crossing.

"Jack" Thorndike was also down on the shore Sunday enjoying the fine roads.

Dr. Porter and his son were down Sunday and drove along the Beverly shore from Beverly Farms. They boarded the train at Beverly. The Porters will probably occupy the Sohier cottage again next season. Sunday's trip was partly with an idea of looking around for a summer cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Bement will join the summer colony at Beverly Farms during the coming season. They have taken one of Mrs. Luke's cottages. Mr. and Mrs. Bement were guests of the J. D. Moultons last Sunday.

No recent engagement has merited so much interest among the North Shore set as that last week of Miss Henrietta Wigglesworth to Alexander Sylvanus Porter, jr., of Boston. Miss Wigglesworth is the handsome young daughter of Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth who has a beautiful summer home off School street, Manchester, opposite the Essex County Club grounds. She has a decided talent in art and has spent some time in Germany perfecting herself in that direction. She ranks among the most popular of the younger set on the North Shore.

Another engagement of interest to North Shore folk is that of Miss Elizabeth Wood to Mr. Emile Paul of Brookline. Miss Wood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Wood of Brookline, who have a delightful summer home on Cobb avenue, in Manchester.

There will be automobiles galore on the North Shore the coming season from all indications, and the fad will be adopted as much by owners of smart stables as otherwise. Frederick H. Prince, whose string of horses is unexcelled on the Shore, will be among the new owners of cars, he having just bought a big 40 h.p. Mercedes car in Paris.

No one of the Boston smart set has been receiving more attention in Washington society the past week than Miss Hetty Sargent of Manchester and Boston. She has been visiting relations there for the past two weeks and many social functions have been given in her honor.

Gordon Abbott of Manchester and Boston, accompanied by his father-in-law, Dr. Louis McLane Tiffany, is making a three-weeks hunting and fishing trip to the various clubs on the east and west coast of Florida.

Among the many North Shore folk who are spending the late winter abroad are the Washington B. Thomases. They sailed this week and are to travel in Southern Europe. Mr. and Mrs. George Lee sailed on the same boat.

Mrs. Eben D. Jordan also sailed this week in company with her niece, Miss Helen Jordan. Mrs. Jordan will join her daughter, Miss Dorothy, in Paris, and later they will be joined by Mr. Jordan and Robert Jordan. Their Manchester house will not be opened this coming season.

The Magnolia Fire association held its annual reunion and supper Tuesday evening. Among the invited guests were the board of engineers and committee on fire department. Remarks were made by Aldermen Waldron and Shiverie, President Carleton H. Parsons and Councilman P. M. Longan. Mayor Macdonald was invited but was unable to be present.

The Ladies' aid society met with Mrs. Edward Symonds Thursday.

MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA.

Dr. R. H. Fitz was down from Boston last Saturday afternoon on a flying visit looking around his summer place at West Manchester.

If present indications are any criterion the coming season is to be a busy one on the shore. Dozens of people have been down during the past week or two looking around for summer houses with intention to hire.

A party was down last week looking over the A. G. Thayer house at West Manchester, and other property has been espied with similar intentions.

Timothy L. White, one of the local boat builders, has just received the contract for building two 18 foot knockabouts for Messrs. Rice and Dennison of Tri Mountain, Michigan. The boats are of Crowninshield design. Mr. White has recently completed a racer for Joshua Crane, jr., to be sailed in Buzzards Bay waters next season.

Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby and Mrs. Boylston Beal of the Manchester summer colony are sailing this month for Europe where they will spend the balance of the winter season.

Lew Dockstader's Minstrels.

Lew Dockstader's great minstrel company, which will appear at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, for two weeks, beginning Monday, Feb. 13, is one of the largest and most expensive organizations of the kind ever gathered together in the history of minstrelsy. This company has two sixty-foot baggage cars crowded with scenery and mechanical and electrical effects, three full quartets and ten solo singers, twenty-piece orchestra and a dozen comedians, who are not only genuinely funny, but who portray the real darkies. Of course, Lew Dockstader is the star of his company, as he is recognized as filling a unique position in minstrelsy, there being no one who even approaches him in magnetism, in comedy or reputation. In addition to really artistic setting for the first part, and in this particular, surpassing even the more pretentious of his rivals in the business, he has made his second part largely a series of beautiful and sumptuous stage pictures which are appropriate to the various musical or comedy features presented. In brief, his show of this season is a splendid spectacle, which in addition to its beauty, has the merit of always being thoroughly apropos of what the company is presenting.

Special patriotic services will be held at the Baptist church tomorrow evening in commemoration of Lincoln's birthday. The S. of V., G.A. R., and W. R. C., will attend. Special music. Topic: "Abraham Lincoln, the Voice in the Wilderness."

Rev. Arthur Peabody Pratt of the Third Congregationalist church, Chelsea, will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church tomorrow evening. The committee have been to Chelsea to hear Mr. Pratt and were quite favorably impressed with him as a possible candidate for the vacant pastorate. Mr. T. M. Corson of Salem will supply the pulpit tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Sarah Giles will entertain the Ministering circle of Kings Daughters at her School street home next Thursday evening. Subject: "Neighbors."

Mrs. Sadie Tappan sang very pleasingly at the morning service of the Baptist church last Sunday "The Bird with a broken wing." Miss Marion Scott rendered a violin solo in the evening and Mrs. Hattie Preston sang.

A very interesting meeting of the Junior C. E. was held last Sunday afternoon. Readings, illustrated by pictures, were given telling what Christian Endeavor has done in the land. Beatrice Long sang a solo, and a double duet, "He loves me," was rendered by Dorothy Blaisdell, Dora Marshall, James Gray and Roland Knight.

Miss Grace McGregor will be leader of the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting tomorrow evening at the chapel. Subject: "Christ a servant — and we are servants."

The topic of the Junior C. E. tomorrow afternoon will be "Five 'Thou shalt nots'." Leader: Miss Dora Marshall.

Mrs. Fred J. Merrill entertained the ladies' social circle at her Bridge street home, Thursday evening.

John Holloran of Manchester and Miss Annie McHugh of Boston were united in marriage by Rev. Fr. John J. Downey, in Beverly Farms, Wednesday evening. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the house on Morse court, Manchester, to be occupied by the couple, at which were present a number of friends, including relatives from Boston, New Hampshire and Vermont. Mr. Holloran is employed as section hand on the Boston and Maine. Gregory Connolly, a cousin of the groom, and Miss Mary McHugh, a sister of the bride, stood with the couple.

Rinaldo R. Sargent.

Rinaldo R. Sargent of Gloucester, who was shot to death by his wife in Boston a week ago last night, it is alleged, was well known in Manchester. For some months he has been a member of the Manchester Mandolin club. His unfortunate death came as a severe shock to his many friends here. Burial took place from the home of his sister, Mrs. Carrie Dixon in Gloucester Tuesday. Director Blythe, and Frank W. Fleming, Bert Floyd and Harry Floyd of the Manchester Mandolin club acted as pall-bearers.

Who was John Eveleth?

Through the Genealogical column of the Boston Transcript on Monday last the following question, pertinent to the Rev. John Eveleth, to whom Rev. D. F. Lamson refers in his "History of Manchester," is asked:

Note *681. Eveleth. Rev. John Eveleth of Manchester, Mass., 1687-95. Will someone tell us what became of him, and who he was? Savage says: "John Eveleth, Harvard College, 1689, minister of Manchester, 1693-95; minister of Stow, 1700, and after; later minister at Arundel, Me., died 1734, buried at Kittery, Me.," and in this the historians of Gloucester and Essex agree with him. But Lamson—"History of Manchester"—says Rev. John Eveleth was preaching there as early as 1689, and gives Rev. John Eveleth in list of residents in 1687. Now the Kittery man was born 1670, so could hardly have been Reverend in 1687 at age of seventeen.

Again, Savage says, this John, Harvard College, 1689, described as schoolmaster of Chebacco, Ipswich, married Mary Bowman of Charlestown, Dec. 2, 1692. I have reason also to believe that he is the Mr. Eveleth received in full communion at Watertown, 1699, and had a son baptized there 1700.

This is entirely consistent with the Arundel-Kittery ministry, and perhaps not inconsistent with that of Stow. Indeed, I believe he was at Stow. But it is hardly likely that one who was known as Reverend in 1687 should be described as simply schoolmaster in 1692, and as Mister in 1699. Besides the Manchester minister was in charge of church there, 1692, so could hardly be schoolmaster elsewhere, even as near as Ipswich.

Savage also says that there was a John Eveleth of Ipswich (probably uncle of the other John), who had a wife Mary, and by her a daughter Mary, born Nov. 13, 1683. This John is reputed to have lived to the age of 107. Could this have been the Manchester minister? J. M. I.

Infant Dies.

Florence, the pretty little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy L. White, Central street, Manchester, passed away in the arms of its mother, at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, at the age of 1 year, 11 months and 1 day. The child had been ill only two weeks, and death resulted from spinal meningitis—the second child of Mr. and Mrs. White to die from this disease. Burial was at Gloucester yesterday afternoon.

"The Kingdom of Heaven."

Rev. M. Holman Patton of Palmer occupied the pulpit at the Congregational church last Sunday, as candidate, and preached two strong and very interesting sermons.

"The Kingdom of Heaven" was his morning subject, the text which suggested the theme being found in Matt. 3:2,—"The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand," and in Rom. 14:17 and Luke 17:21.

"I might leave off with these three verses," said he, "and you would understand just so much about Heaven as if I talked an hour. But I like to sometimes trace this thought of the Kingdom of God through the Old and New Testament. It seems as if everything else moved onward with great rapidity, but truth. And yet truth moves on slowly. Christianity is spreading, and the word of God is reaching millions upon millions of people today that it did not reach ten years ago.

"The Kingdom of God is here now, in your heart and in mine. God is continually setting up his Kingdom of love and his Kingdom of peace upon the earth. There are dark spots in the world, but by and by the Light will get down into the valley and will light up our lives."

John o' the Tubs.

BY JOSEPH A. TORREY.

A little yellow man from far Canton,
Is living near me, just across the way—
What tho' I rise betimes at break of day,
Earlier Wah Lee anticipates the dawn,
And rubs and scrubs while day to night wears on.

Late homeward faring from the ball or play,
His lighted window guides my devious way,
For at his tubs still rubs and scrubs my John.

Perhaps you think I mean to moralize,
And quote the ant, the beaver and the bee
With sundry maxims, wise or otherwise,
Concerning thrift and virtuous industry.
Jess so! No doubt that way my duty lies;
But then, too muchee work no catchee me.

"A SIMPLICITY OF WHAT JESUS TAUGHT."

We Need to Come Down to This, Says Chelsea Pastor in Manchester Church.

A Little More Clearness of Thinking.

Rev. Arthur Peabody Pratt of the Third Congregational church of Chelsea, preached in Manchester last Sunday evening as a candidate for the vacant pastorate of the Congregational church. A goodly number were out, and Mr. Pratt left a most favorable impression with the people. He is, in fact, one of the most favorable candidates thus far heard.

He selected for his theme "The Church," emphasizing the need of new life and a coming back to a simplicity of Jesus' teachings.

"This is a great mystery: but I speak concerning Christ and the Church," was the text, selected from Eph. 5:32. He said in part:

"We are hearing so much said these days about evangelism and revivals, I take this chance to say a few words regarding the Church. If it were possible for us to go back to the time of Paul at Ephesus we should find much not clear to us.

"It would seem as if Jesus were standing against a background of clouds, and in the foreground he could see his cross when he said, I am going to build a church against which the gates of hell would not prevail.

"When we talk of revivals and the need of evangelism, we must first realize that the base of the Church is: I am Christ, the son of the living God.

REV. ARTHUR PEABODY PRATT, OF CHELSEA.

"The one supreme thought upon which the Church must be founded is that of confession to God. Jesus went to the afflicted, the poor, the blind, the downtrodden, and 'Out of you,' he said, 'I will build a Church.'

"All of our failure can be accounted for in that we have forgotten this conception of God. Christ's conception of the church was to have a mediator to attract men. We fail when we do not recognize in Christ the Mediator.

"The purpose of Christ the Living God may be summed up in two words, peace and light. The purpose, first of all, is to bring peace into the world and to bring light with it. When the church fails of these two, she is not accomplishing her purpose.

"Men say the world has changed and we need epistles suited to the times. Yes, the world has changed. Then boats were propelled by oars, now we have steam; then men rode in chariots, now we ride in steam or electric cars, etc. In all the change one thing has remained constant, and that is the human heart and its craving for sympathy.

"We need to come down to a simplicity of what Jesus taught in his time, and that it means today just what it did then.

"If you think sin, you sin; and man hasn't altered much from the time of Christ in that regard. Men don't grow good all at once. They don't go to bed sinners and wake up saved.

"If there is anything that we need it is that we come back to the simple translations of the teachings of Christ. We need a little more clearness in thinking.

"Our churches are so filled with clubs in our day, I wonder they live. They use up the life of the church in organization.

"There is such a thing as a society being over-organized and its members using up all their organization there. It is the purpose of life to take the man so as to make him worthy of leaving it—and that should be the aim of the Church."

Horticulturalists Appeal to Property Owners.

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

The brown tail moth committee of the North Shore Horticultural society request property holders to read the following article, copied from the Youth's Companion in part as follows:—

"It is a queer coincidence that two of the most notorious pest-insects of Europe have been colonized side by side, within five miles of each other, in eastern Massachusetts, while the rest of the United States has so far escaped them.

"For a dozen years the Bay State has fought the first of these, the dreaded gipsy-moth, which destroys fruit and forest trees; yet it is more numerous today than ever. Now on top of its ravages, come those of the new brown-tail moth, bought over some seven years ago by a grower of Dutch roses in Somerville, and already spreading into Maine and New Hampshire. The gipsy moth was imported by a French scientist, who had an idea of crossing it with the silkworm moth.

"The brown-tail moth is worse than the gipsy moth in two uncomfortable respects. The female gipsy moth does not fly. Consequently, her eggs are laid in a limited district, and can be destroyed by careful work within its limits. The gipsy moth spreads as far and fast as a caterpillar can crawl—that is all.

"The brown-tail moth flies strongly and far, and consequently spreads beyond any hope of extermination. Great swarms of these moths are caught by the winds and helped in their flight. They love light, and swarm into the cities around the electric lights.

"The brown-tail moth poisons any one unlucky enough to come into contact with its hairs. These hairs, brown, barbed and brittle, are produced in the greatest quantities, and are very easily molted. Each one that touches human flesh produces a swelling like a mosquito bite, painful and often lasting for several days. Persons have been made seriously ill by them.

"The brown-tail moth protects its eggs by covering each egg cluster with a mass of brown hairs. These clusters are usually found on the under side of the leaves of fruit and shade trees, but sometimes on tree trunks, house walls, lamp posts, and so forth. The eggs are laid in July, hatched in August, and the young caterpillars, feeding in a crowd, soon begin to prepare a house for the winter for the whole brood.

"They draw together a number of leaves, and spin a tenacious waterproof web round them, leaving tiny holes for entrance and exit. Here, unlike any other caterpillars, they winter when only one-quarter grown, and on warm autumn days crawl out to feed, creeping back at night.

"When it becomes really cold they close up the holes and sleep away the winter days. But in the earliest spring they are out again, eating more than other sort of caterpillar—first buds, then blossoms, then foliage, leaving one tree when stripped, and marching to the next.

"In Germany, France and Belgium, where the brown-tail moth has long been disastrously active, there are laws obliging each property-owner to destroy whatever 'winter webs' can be found on his premises. If he neglects this, government employees do it for him, and the cost is added to his taxes. When the webs are cut off they are carefully burned. This is the easiest and most effective way of dealing with the creatures. Spraying in early spring, with five pounds of arsenate of lead paste to one hundred gallons of water, or with paris green, or kerosene emulsion, or even strong soap suds, is also found discouraging to the new enemy. Collecting the eggs and trapping the moths by light have turned out less useful forms of attack."

The following is the record of the number of nests brought in by the pupils of the G. A. Priest school:

Grade. I.....	56	Grade V.....	1,548
" II.....	267	" VI.....	5,284
" III.....	1,655	" VII.....	6,842
" IV.....	3,699	" VIII.....	4,792

Total.....24,142

While this is a very great help, as each nest contains from 200 to 400 caterpillars, still it does not do the work in as thorough a manner as it should be. The only way would seem to be to have the town appoint a commission, who shall work energetically over the whole town, as the nests are scattered all through the forests, especially on the white oaks.

Anyone who is not alive to the urgency of this matter should see the thickly-infected districts of Middlesex County.

We hope everyone will realize before it is too late how deplorable it would be to allow these insects to ruin the vegetation of the North Shore.

Society Notes.

North Shore roads have never afforded better sleighing than they have during the past week. And many of the Boston smart set have availed themselves of the pleasure by coming to the Shore to enjoy the sport. Several house parties were down at Beverly Farms over Sunday, and others have been down during the week.

Miss Catherine Tweed, Miss Olivia Thorndike and Miss Elliot and Harry Tweed composed a gay party of young people who were down at Beverly Farms last Saturday.

Charles H. Tweed of New York was also down at his Beverly Farms place the early part of the week.

Among the fashionable affairs which will take place in Boston society circles next month will be a sale in aid of the Students' club. Miss Olivia Thorndike and Mrs. Henry S. Grew, 2d, will be among the well-known North Shore ladies at the heads of the various tables, the former being in charge of the cake and candy, and Mrs. Grew will be in charge of bundles.

Some well-known North Shore ladies are included among the patronesses and subscribers for Mr. Wilhelm Heinrich's morning recitals of songs at the Tuileries, Boston, during Lent. Among the number are: Mrs. R. C. Hooper, Mrs. T. K. Lothrop, Mrs. F. R. Sears, Mrs. Guy Norman, Mrs. Oliver Ames, Mrs. Herbert M. Sears, Mrs. W. Scott Fitz, Mrs. C. P. Curtis, Mrs. J. H. White, Mrs. Henry S. Grew.

Mrs. R. C. Hooper, Mrs. Herbert Sears, Mrs. Henry D. Burnham, Mrs. Bryce Allen, Mrs. Oliver Ames and Mrs. Charles Head were among the most prominent North Shore folk who attended the assembly which took place at the Somerset, last Friday night. Mrs. Hooper led the cotillion, and this was her first appearance in society after an absence of two years on account of mourning.

Miss Barbara Higginson and Miss Mary Bigelow were among the most prominent young people who assisted at the tea tables at the fair in aid of the Industrial School for Crippled and Deformed Children in Boston, Thursday.

The friends of Dr. Geo. W. Blaisdell were pleased to see him out again the early part of the week, after being confined to his Union street home for two weeks. The doctor is feeling much improved, and will soon be about his duties again.

The hunter's and warrior's degree was worked upon a candidate at the meeting of Conomo tribe of Red Men, Wednesday evening.

Mrs. J. Alex. Lodge entertained the Sewing Bee at her Desmond avenue home last evening.

Many Manchester people are planning on attending the music festival in Gloucester, Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Magnolia lodge, I.O.O.F., will work the first degree upon several candidates at their meeting next Thursday evening.

The intensely cold weather the first of the week, after the thaw of last Saturday, made walking rather bad on the slippery sidewalks, but Supt. Kimball lost no time in spreading sand, having a small force at work Sunday morning and again on Monday. Manchester people who were out of town Monday or Tuesday, could readily appreciate the work of our efficient superintendent in this regard.

Principal Saben of the Story High school has been confined to his School street home all the week with an attack of grippe. Supt. Fish has taken charge of the school in his absence.

Mrs. Chas. A. Lodge is spending a few days in Roxbury, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Pitts.

Rev. E. H. Brewster was one of the speakers in Gloucester, Monday evening, at the Lincoln Day celebration in G. A. R. hall. The other speakers were Rev. Mr. Eddy and Lawyer Charles Smith of Gloucester.

Mrs. George F. Allen has been housed the past few days with a severe cold.

Window Shades

Ready-to-Use

At a moment's notice—not the cheap kind made in factories by poor labor, but good substantial shades made in our own work-rooms during the dull season by shade experts. They're sure to run true—to hang straight; mounted on rollers made by Harts-horn; they always satisfy. The only cheap thing about them is the price, viz.: 25, 35 and 50 cents.

A Successful Affair.

The sale held at the beautiful School street home of the Misses Brown, in Manchester, Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Social Circle of the Congregational church, was a grand success, both as a social event and in point of the amount of money raised to carry on the work of the society.

The various tables were in charge of the following named ladies: Candy, Misses Gertrude and Mabel Goldsmith; cake, Misses Annie L. Lane and Eleanor Morgan; tea table, Miss Charlotte Brown. Ice cream was also served.

The sale was from 2.30 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 7.30 to 9.30 in the evening. Some very pleasing piano selections by Miss Edith L. Wheaton added greatly to the pleasure of the event.

The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. F. M. Andrews (chairman), Mrs. Abbie Allen, Miss Hattie Allen, Miss Elizabeth Allen, Mrs. Geo. D. Haskell and Miss Sarah Brown.

Brown-tails Collected.

The work of collecting brown-tail moth nests, begun last fall by the pupils of the G. A. Priest school in Manchester, reference to which is made elsewhere, has been hindered somewhat by the weather of the past few weeks, but during the week past it has been resumed.

The total number brought in by the pupils thus far is 24,142. The names of the fifteen pupils collecting the most nests follow:

MAGNOLIA.

[From our Correspondent.]

The Magnolia Engine company gave a graphophone party at the Engine company's rooms Monday evening. Later in the evening the fire gong was sounded for the benefit of those present. It was interesting to note the intelligence of the horses and the short time that elapsed for the performance.

Mrs. Fred Long of Manchester gave a dancing party Tuesday evening which was well attended. In two of the dances partners were selected by matching the numbers on little heart shaped valentines.

Mrs. H. M. Curry, who is having a fine residence built here was in the village Wednesday and registered at the Stanley cottage.

Mr. Penhallow and Mr. Williams with a party of friends registered at the Stanley cottage, Sunday.

The Committee on Highways of the City of Gloucester was here on Wednesday looking over the Shore road, relative to its being made a private way and after viewing the premises held an informal hearing at the engine house, to ascertain the feeling of the residents in the matter, who expressed themselves in favor of the petition as asked by the summer residents.

Mrs. Thornberg gave a whist party Wednesday afternoon at her home on Norman avenue. The next whist party will be at Mrs. F. F. Story's, March 1st.

Mr. George M. Barnard was found dead in bed at the Willow cottage Wednesday noon. Mr. Barnard retired Tuesday night in his usual health. Death was due to heart failure. Mr. Barnard was formerly of Methuen and was about 60 years old.

Miss Hudson's Thursday evening dancing party was omitted this week.

Quite a party from here attended the dancing party given in Manchester, last night.

Shooting on the Lord's Day.

Henry Brown and John Olsen thought last Sunday's weather conditions most favorable to duck shooting, so with boat and guns they started down Manchester harbor, and off between the islands. They had brought down only a few of the birds when Deputy Officer Dixon of Gloucester perceived their work and when they landed with nine ducks they were placed under arrest. In court Monday morning they were fined $20 each on the Lord's Day.

INSURANCE

IS YOUR LIFE INSURED? IF NOT, WHY NOT?

THE JOHN HANCOCK MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

issues all forms of LIFE and ENDOWMENT Policies, each of which contains the Cash and Paid-up Value that may be realized on any anniversary after the payment of the 3d annual premium.

These values are, in every policy, guaranteed by the Massachusetts Non-Forfeiture Law. Should the insured desire to use the amount of cash that could be realized on his policy without surrendering his contract, the Company will loan him the Cash Value; hence he is not tying money up in a company year after year, without having the right to demand it when he feels so inclined.

In Contracting for Life Insurance, it is not: The Size of a Company, the Amount of Business it Does, the Hope of Large Returns Years Hence, the Patronage of Friends and Acquaintances, that should govern your selection of a Company or form of policy. These are not the elements of a desirable insurance. A Life Insurance Policy is a Contract between the Company and the Assured. THE POLICY CONTRACT is the all important thing to be considered.

GET THE BEST CONTRACT.

The one that best protects you and your estate under all circumstances that may arise. There are other contingencies to be considered besides death and ESTIMATED returns years hence. . . . TOWN POLITICS.

Political Pot Not Even Boiling and Town Meeting Only Two Weeks Away.

The political pot must needs be stirred, for there appears to be nothing to excite enthusiasm, and town meeting only two weeks away. Nothing save the appearance of a few new candidates has added to the conditions of the political atmosphere the past week. Everything in the line of "issues" seems to be lacking.

The most important move of the week was the decision of former selectman Edward S. Knight to run for the office again this year and the subsequent filing of nomination papers for him by several of the business men. Mr. Knight was announced exclusively as a probable candidate in last week's BREEZE.

Orrin A. Martin has also taken out papers for selectman this week.

These two, with T. W. Long and T. B. Stone, who was a member of the board in 1900, and the two members now serving on the board — Fred K. Swett and W. E. Kitfield — constitute the list of candidates for that office thus far.

Another new candidate this week is Curtis B. Stanley, who has taken out papers for School committee and will run against Edward A. Lane, whose term expires this year. Mr. Stanley aims to improve the playground off Brook street, which is controlled by the School Board.

Joseph N. Lipman has taken out papers for Tree Warden to run against Wm. Young and Wm. F. Spry.

The full list of candidates for the most important offices up till this morning follows:

Whisperings.

I am in receipt this week of a very interesting letter from Henry B. McCollom, who left Manchester two weeks ago for Florida, and from Mr. McCollom's description I am led to think he has not been bothered much with zero weather, frozen water pipes or an over abundance of snow this week. He says he went down to the beach, which he explains as being "smooth and level, running as far as the eye can see," without his overcoat, and he speaks of the beautiful scenery, the palm trees and foliage, — quite a contrast indeed to the intensely cold days of the past week we have been experiencing on the North shore. Mr. McCollom is located at Sea Breeze, which he says is a resort about the size of Magnolia.

* * * *

St. Valentine's day, with all its romantic connections has come and gone and as usual was accompanied by much of the fun and jollity that goes with the day.

I saw many new designs and ideas in the line of valentines but none which struck me so much as a crude looking home-made one I saw in Beverly Farms. It was simply a piece of cardboard cut heart shaped with two raisins on it, cloves sticking out of them, thus giving the appearance of two miniature turtles. And written on the card was this very suggestive sentence:

"There's more than one raisin why I love you."

* * * *

I am in receipt of the following note addressed to the Editor of Whisperings column, which, undoubtedly, one of my Pride's Crossing readers can answer:

"Who was the Pride's Crossing man who went to Boston on Wednesday last and who fell down and smashed his hat while there? He seemed quite happy until he found what he was sitting on.

"Looker-On."

* * * *

The joke has been going around Manchester the past week about five of our young men who went out walking last Sunday. They are all fond of tramping, but the tramp which they took last Sunday proved enough for awhile. They walked from Manchester to Essex on the finely worn-down road, but on the return thought it would prove a novel experience to tramp through the woods by way of the old Essex road. They proceeded about one quarter of a mile when they found the road was unbroken beyond. Rather than turn back, they pushed on through the snow, which, because of the mildness, was quite soft in some places, and towards dark, after three hours' weary toil, reached Manchester.

Mr. Jewett Strongly

Indorsed for Re-Election.

In none of the offices to be filled at the coming town meeting in Manchester is there so much interest centering as in that of town clerk, for which office Town Auditor Walter R. Bell is a candidate against Alfred S. Jewett, the present incumbent.

Since 1888 Mr. Jewett has served the town in this capacity, thirteen years of which time he was also chairman of the board of selectmen. Previous to 1888 he served on the school committee for several years, was town auditor, and for several years was one of the trustees of the public library.

Mr. Jewett is a Grand Army man. He was a member of the famous 38th Massachusetts regiment and served his country three years. He has ever been interested in matters which are for the best interests of the town, and his years of public service make him a man of rare experience in conducting the affairs of this office.

Lee Marshall arrived home from Dartmouth last night for a few days.

Manchester Couple Married Through Advertising in Paper.

MR. AND MRS. SEWELL E. STETSON OF MANCHESTER.

"American 24, brown hair and eyes, 5 ft. 5, wt. 135, Congregationalist, object matrimony. Sewell E. Stetson, Box 77, Manchester, Mass."

This ad., inserted in a matrimonial paper, is what brought Sewell E. Stetson a wife. An account of the romantic circumstances leading up to the marriage of the two was given in last week's BREEZE.

Mr. Stetson arrived at Mechanics' Falls, Me., last Saturday afternoon, and at 8 o'clock that night he and Miss Rose E. Lunt were united in marriage by Rev. Henry F. Burden, the Congregational minister. Wednesday the bride and groom arrived in Manchester on the 4.13 train and were showered with rice at the station by a number of friends who had awaited their arrival.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Newell (Miss Stetson) of Essex, who were married last summer by this same Cupid, spent the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Stetson, Wednesday.

Marooned on Ram Island.

Robinson Crusoe with all his experiences and thrilling adventures on the desert island was never more lost than were three Manchester men for about an hour Tuesday afternoon.

George E. Scott, Robert Allen and James Nazzaro were the three unfortunates. With guns and plenty of ammunition they started by boat from West Manchester in the early afternoon and landed on Little Ram Island. The thermometer was around zero but that did not make duck shooting any the less attractive, so they went at the sport with a will.

While thus engaged the gunners did not notice that the wind had changed and the tide had risen and their boat had been carried out into the icy water more than 50 yards from shore.

Nazzaro, who is a barber, was the only swimmer of the three, but his courage failed him when it was suggested that he swim out and get the boat.

It looked pretty bad for the three men. It was getting along towards night and if their predicament were not discovered from the shore they would have to spend the night on the island. They fired their guns in the air several times to attract attention, and waved their hats. Leslie Mason who was also gunning, on Smith's Point, saw the boat adrift and the three men signaling. He went to town and with Special Officer Leary started with a boat in Smith's express pung for the point. Meanwhile Martin Olsen and another workman at Lester Leland's place near the West Manchester station saw the signaling of the marooned gunners and put off in a boat and rescued them. They say they do not care to repeat their experiences again for awhile, at least.

MANCHESTER.

President Ellen I. Horton, past president Jennie Dennis and delegate Julia E. Reed of the local W. R. C. attended the department convention of the organization in Boston this week.

The boys of the B.B.B. are working hard to make their drill and exhibition, to take place in Town hall a week from next Monday night, a success. Capt. Hermon Swett put in about three hours drilling the company Wednesday night.

Local horsemen were well represented at the Beaver Dam speedway in Gloucester Monday and Thursday, and at Idlewood Lake Wednesday. M. E. Gorman's "Calaton," which is sired by "Alaton," carried everything before him Monday. Alfred E. Hooper held the ribbons.

The friends of Geo. E. Dyer, the Summer street machinist, are pleased to see him about again, after being kept indoors all last week with an attack of grippe.

Past Grands George Kimball and George Hobbs went to Danvers Tuesday night to attend the roll-call of the Danvers lodge of Odd Fellows, which proved a most pleasant occasion.

Another Shock.

Chairman Allen of the Manchester Board of Selectmen, suffered another ill-turn while at his office Monday afternoon and has been confined to his bed since. This morning he was reported greatly improved, but in all probability he will not be out for some weeks to come. Mr. Allen has not been well for some months, and only about six weeks ago suffered a shock. Though his last attack was not so serious as the first, his health is such that he will not in all probability do further work in his office as selectman.

Master of Sciences.

Edward C. Knight of Manchester has this week received the appointment as Master of Sciences in St. Paul's school, Concord, and will take up his work there next week.

St. Paul's is one of the largest and best known private schools for boys in the country. It has an enrolment of 400 and its faculty is composed of 40 instructors. Many North shore families have sons attending the school.

Mr. Knight graduated from Harvard in 1900 and since then has been connected with the Education Department in the Philippines.

BEVERLY FARMS.

Miss Minnie Reardon entertained a merry party of young people at a valentine party at her Hart street home last Tuesday evening. Tom Murray added much to the pleasure of the evening with his magic lantern views.

Mrs. Thomas Gauld and Mrs. Lydia P. Williams, representing Preston Relief corps, 93, attended the state convention of the W. R. C. in Boston Tuesday and Wednesday.

Rev. E. H. Brewster of Manchester occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church last Sunday morning, exchanging pulpits with Rev. Mr. Pond. His sermon was on "Life of Ministry."

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Younger entertained at their Hale street home Wednesday evening the members of Preston Post, G. A. R., of which Mr. Younger is an officer.

"Jack" Campbell returned home from Watch Hill, R. I., Thursday afternoon after three years' service with Uncle Sam. He will not return to the service. Mr. Campbell served in the Spanish war under Col. Stopford, and after the war enlisted in the coast artillery. He went first to New London and later to Watch Hill. He has always been prominent in athletic sports, and his Beverly Farms friends are glad to welcome him home.

Commander Chas. H. Day and Past Commander Andrew Standley attended the convention of the State Department G. A. R. in Boston Tuesday and Wednesday.

The summer cottages along this section are being taken for next season and now only a few more remain. C. L. Davis is to occupy one of Mrs. Luce's houses which was occupied last season by the Brooks Fennos.

A. F. Bemis will occupy the big Jackson house next season.

A merry party of 14 young people enjoyed a sleigh ride to Danvers Monday evening, partaking of a chicken supper in a restaurant there before returning.

Local horsemen have been much in prominence at the Idlewood Lake speedway the past week and many a brush has been participated in. John Wyatt carried everything before him with his trotter. Dr. Reardon has also been in evidence.

Hearing on Matter of Playground at Farms.

It is a matter of much interest to Beverly Farms people to know that the joint committee of the city government, to whom was referred the matter of a public playground, will give a hearing in Ward 6 on February 24 — next Friday.

A petition was put before the city government two years ago bearing on the subject of a playground at the Farms, but it was pigeon-holed, referred, hung up and sidetracked from month to month. This hearing is the nearest to any definite action that has yet been taken.

Visiting Day.

"Parents' Day" was observed at the Farms school, Thursday, for which invitations were sent out to all parents at the Farms to visit the school and inspect the regular school work, and also to see the new pictures and casts recently obtained by the proceeds from an entertainment last fall and by other generous gifts of the summer residents.

St. Margaret's Sodality.

A Ladies' sodality was recently organized by Rev. Fr. Downey at Beverly Farms and the following officers were elected: Miss Minnie Reardon, prefect; Miss May Connolly, first asst.; Miss Jennie Watson, second asst.; Mrs. John Henry Watson, treasurer; Miss Mary Wiseman, secretary. The regular meetings are held at St. Margaret's church every Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A Men's sodality is to be organized later.

S. of V. at Convention.

Col. H. P. Woodbury Camp was well represented at the convention of the Massachusetts division, Sons of Veterans, held in Boston this week. In fact, one of the envied offices, that of being chosen delegate to the national convention to be held next summer at Gettysburg, was awarded to Commander Lyman W. Floyd of the local camp, after a bright nomination speech by Rev. E. H. Brewster. Mr. Floyd was the first delegate chosen.

Rev. E. H. Brewster was selected to carry the greetings of the convention to the convention of the Women's Relief Corps, in session in People's temple.

Among the local Sons who attended the convention were Delegates F. K. Swett and T. O. D. Urquhart, Alternates E. H. Brewster and S. S. Peabody, Commanders L. W. Floyd and Frank W. Bell, Edward W. Baker, S. L. Wheaton, Thomas A. Baker and Ezra Crombie.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Rev. E. H. Brewster Pays Tribute to the Martyred President.

Lincoln's Birthday was observed in Manchester last Sunday by special services at the Baptist church in the evening, which were attended by delegations from the local camp, S. of V., Allen post, G.A.R., and the Allen Relief corps.

"Abraham Lincoln: the Voice in the Wilderness," was the subject selected by Rev. Mr. Brewster, and his address was one of the best ever heard in the church. His text was from John 1:23 — "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, make straight the way of the Lord." He said in part:

"In the chaos and distraction of the days of secession there was but one clear voice to be heard, and it fell like an eagle's cry on the waste stretch of a wilderness. The voice that roused the North — from its bed of jealousies and bade it stand guard over its arsenals and forts; that imparted to the South a warning of the awfulness of the impending conflict, until for a moment she shrank behind the entrenchments at Charleston; that brought the flash of a holy purpose into the eyes of the listless youth; that gave a new and more splendid interpretation of the sovereignty of the constitution — was the voice of Abraham Lincoln.

"How strange the environment of this greatest American. Born in Harden county, Kentucky, Feb. 12, 1809, he felt his way toward the light in that region of whispering solitude and the swift march of the Ohio. Lincoln is the Lotus plant in America. 'Is not this the carpenter's son?' the world might well enquire. 'Whence hath he wisdom, never having learned?' and yet, like Him of old, an angel had laid a finger on his lips, and given to his dark eyes a vision of truth and power.

"His strong simplicity is the characteristic that recommends Lincoln to our love. Whittling with his knife, playing town ball or charging a jury, he was ever the same, winding his way among men and things like a mountain brook, clear and sweet to the bottom. At Washington during the crisis of his administration, he hated any formality or contrivance which served to keep the people at a distance from him. He received the supplicant, general, priest, on the same footing of kindly interest. His love for his friends was touching, while they lived, and their death he mourned with peculiar intensity.

"His industry was phenomenal. While at New Salem as a grocer's clerk he studied law and by dint of indefatigable application won for himself distinction at the bar. In the legislature of Illinois and later as congressman he put the standard of industry so high it has rarely since been touched. During the war he was conversant to the point of punctiliousness with the movements of the army, and on his great map could trace each day the progress of his generals. He saw the flash that opened each struggle, and heard the last echoing volley that shut the door on that day and handed the key to history.

"His patriotism is a complete exposition of the patriot. He placed his country just behind his God. His soul rebelled against the sophistries of Clay and later of Douglas, though he seemed always to respect Calhoun. Of those who spoke loftily of state rights he said with inimitable humor, 'They think the big kettle should be placed inside the little one.' He never faltered, even when the storm at the front was supplemented by wasp-like attacks from the rear, but held right on and hammered at the heart of the Confederacy.

"At last, peace broke upon the weary Lincoln like a summer day. The lines upon his brow had deepened with the lengthening of the strife, and with a sigh of relief he laid down the sword to heal the wounds of his children. It was then his influence mounted high. But all too soon, even while the plaudits of his second inauguration lingered in his ear, occurred that fatalest of tragedies, and the tall prophet lay dead at our feet. Then did the prairies sigh for him whose voice should never again waken their solitude to song, while Ohio's voice gurgled up from the swirling eddies calling for the dark-haired boy whose head had been pillowed on his banks. The Father of Waters rushed murmuring on, hugging to his muddy breast the shadow of the young flat-boatman who years before had followed his current to the sea.

"We cannot help but feel that had Lincoln lived the period of reconstruction would have had a different history, though in the main the great leader's work was done. 'He had finished the work that was given him to do.' In the shadows of another Gethsemane, while the hounds of war lay deep in sleep, he drank the martyr's bitter cup. The Calvary of Lincoln wrought the Resurrection of the Nation,

'And though the warrior's sun is set,
Its light shall linger round us yet,
Bright, radiant, blest!'"

MANCHESTER.

Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock as one of Samuel Knight & Sons heavy teams loaded with loose hay was coming down Union street, in front of Bullock Bros. store one of the runners sank in the recently filled trench dug in connection with the telephone conduits, and hay rack, hay, man and all went over in a heap on the road.

Charles Williams, who with two other Manchester men went to Jamaica the early part of the winter to work on the construction of a large hotel, arrived home Monday. He declares there is considerable difference in the weather of the two places. Mr. Williams will spend the next week at his former home in Maine.

Dr. Tyler of Cambridge has this week opened an office in town, and is for the present at W. R. Bell's on Union street.

Station Agent F. Clifford Rand entertained as guests at his Union street home last evening a number of Boston & Maine "magnates," also a representative of the Armstrong News Co. An excellent dinner was served at 8.30. Dennison's orchestra rendered a musical program during the evening.

The Event of the Season.

The Red Men's ball in Manchester, next Wednesday evening—Washington's Birthday—has promise of being the event of the winter. Mayor MacDonald of Gloucester is to be the guest of honor, and he will be accompanied by a large delegation of Red Men from the Gloucester and Rockport tribes. Allen S. Peabody, who is chairman of the committee of arrangements, is making plans for a gala time.

Mayor MacDonald will arrive on the 6.42 train, and will be met at the station by two of the past sachems and will be escorted to Town hall. A reception will be held from 7 to 8 o'clock, when all attending will have an opportunity to meet the Mayor. In the receiving line will be Mayor MacDonald, Supt. Geo. Kimball, Geo. S. Sinnicks, Selectman Swett and Allen S. Peabody.

During the reception Miss Edith L. Wheaton will render piano selections.

The hall will be handsomely decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting. Town Treasurer Edwin P. Stanley will superintend the decorating.

Dancing will be from 8 to 12 o'clock. Long's orchestra will furnish the music. From the manner in which the tickets are selling it would seem the hall will be crowded for the event.

To Hold Show in Beverly?

Henry Menkin, gardener for Francis M. Whitehouse at Manchester Cove, was the principal speaker at the North Shore Horticultural society meeting last night, his talk being on "Chickens," which topic proved very interesting indeed.

As a result of action taken at last night's meeting it is likely that the regular chrysanthemum show of the society, held in Manchester formerly, will be held in Beverly City hall next fall.

"Village Improvement" will be the subject of the next meeting.

A very pretty feature of last night's meeting was an exhibit of cyclamen in bloom, from the W. B. Walker estate, displayed on three small tables by Thomas Jack, gardener.

A Pretty Party.

The first dancing party under the direction of Long's new orchestra, in Manchester Town hall last evening, was a decidedly pretty affair and was a pronounced success. There were more than 70 couples on the floor. The grand march was led by Mr. and Mrs. George S. Sinnicks, who were followed by 30 couples.

The matrons of the party, who were stationed in the corner of the hall opposite the stage, were Mrs. Frank P. Knight, Mrs. Frank G. Cheever, Mrs. C. L. Norton and Mrs. George S. Sinnicks.

The new orchestra, which played exceptionally fine last night on the occasion of their first appearance, is composed of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Long, Joseph Allen, Chester Cook, Claudius Temple, Byron Bullock, Matthew Hamilton and John Prest.

Frank Abbott of Magnolia acted as prompter last night. About fifteen couples came over from Magnolia by barge for the party.

Lively Runaways.

Yesterday afternoon as Charles Hannable was turning around in W. L. Putnam's sleigh in Central square, Manchester, the light runabout tipped over and frightened the horse so that it ran away. Up School street it dashed, narrowly avoiding other sleighs, and past Baker's, up Mill street to Ayer's ice pond on Forest street, where Mr. Hannable found it sometime later. The sleigh, which was pulled on its side over the entire distance, was considerably battered. No other damage resulted.

Another runaway occurred Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock when one of W. B. Walker's horses took fright at something in Central square and galloped furiously up Union street, around post office corner, down Beach street and over the crossing just before the train arrived. It was found later at the McMillan estate.

The Town Auditorship.

It is quite interesting to note that in the selection of a town auditor this year the voters of Manchester will have four names to choose from, a greater number than has ever before run for the office.

The four men who are candidates are Allen S. Peabody, Frank G. Cheever, Howard M. Stanley and Leon W. Carter.

Mr. Cheever, the last candidate to appear, is one of Manchester's most popular young men. He is proprietor of the Frank G. Cheever Co., druggists. Previous to entering into the drug store business he was for 14 years connected with the Boston and Maine railroad. During that time he rose through the ranks from messenger boy at the local station to operator, assistant agent and from 1895 to 1903 agent of the Manchester station.

Mr. Cheever is a prominent member of the Odd Fellows, Red Men, Winthrop club and Red Men's club.

Work of Art.

The Manchester public library has this week been presented by Charles W. Fitz of Woburn an interesting work of art, which came into the possession of Capt. Charles Fitz, whom many of Manchester's older residents will remember, on one of his trips to South America. The work represents a group of natives of Surinam, preparing cassava from which tapioca is made. In the foreground flows a river and on the banks of this are fourteen natives, some in the crude looking dwelling, others bringing into the camp game and fish which they have caught, and others at work under the tall mangrove trees.

Augustus Tappan.

Augustus Tappan, a native of Manchester and for many years a resident here, died at his home in Tewkesbury the early part of the week and was brought to Manchester, Thursday for burial. The deceased was a son of the late Col. Israel Tappan, and two sisters now survive him, Mrs. Abbie Gray and Miss Bethiah Tappan, both of whom live in the Tappan home-stand on Bennett street. Rev. E. H. Brewster officiated at the funeral in Memorial chapel Thursday.

MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hooper went into Boston last Friday for the big assembly at the Somerset, one of the leading social affairs of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner M. Lane were down to Manchester last Saturday and again the first of the week. The Lanes are to have a few minor alterations made at their summer place later on.

C. W. Ward was down from Brookline last Saturday, also, and was at his Sea street house.

Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth and her daughter, Henrietta, whose engagement was announced last week to A. S. Porter, jr., has gone South for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Boardman, whose summer home, off School street, is always the scene of gay house parties in the summer months, gave a dinner for 20 at their Washington home last week. Miss Hetty Sargent was among their guests.

Several of the summer colony have been noticed down on the shore the past week.

Among the owners of new automobiles on the North Shore the coming season will be Ezra C. Fitch. Mr. Fitch has just had a 24-h.p. Winton made to order. The car is thoroughly up-to-date, 1905 style, four cylinder, chainless, lenizine body and canopy top. Mr. and Mrs. Fitch are abroad at present, having sailed last week on the Deutschland, but they will return early and will be among the first arrivals at Manchester. Conover, their son, will use Mr. Fitch's old 16-h.p. Winton, which is now undergoing repairs at Dyer's machine shop and later will receive a coat of paint at Lation's in Manchester.

A Remarkable Record.

It may be of interest to holders of insurance policies in Manchester to know that of the eleven companies doing business here through its agents the John Hancock has the remarkable record of doing slightly more business than all the rest of the companies combined. This record was established by District Agent Geo. E. B. Strole of Rockport, who represents the company in Essex County. Mr. Strole is well known in Manchester. He has been connected with the John Hancock for eleven years, and at present he has the record of being the second largest insurance writer in the county and one of the largest in Massachusetts. These facts would seem to indicate in no uncertain way that the John Hancock is the most popular company doing business in this section.

Baptist church, Rev. E. H. Brewster, pastor. Morning service at 10.45. Sermon by the pastor; subject: "The Conviction of the Spirit." People's evening service at 7 o'clock; Topic: "The Eleventh Hour."

Sacred Heart church. Rev. Fr. John J. Downey, pastor. Mass on Sunday at 8.30 o'clock. Sunday school at 3 and vespers at 3.45 o'clock.

Rev. R. W. Wallis of Somerville, who preached here some weeks ago, will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church again tomorrow as a supply.

The Church Aid society of the Baptist church met in the vestry, Wednesday, and added one more to the number of quilts they have made this winter and sold in aid of the church. Several other quilts are engaged, and the work of raising funds has been most advantageously carried on by work of this kind.

Mrs. Sarah Giles entertained the members of the Ministering Circle of King's Daughters, at her School street home, Thursday evening.

A quartet, composed of Miss Carolyn E. Allen, Mrs. F. C. Rand, A. C. Needham and Abbott Hoare, sang "As Christ upon the Cross," by Bullard, and "In Heavenly Love Abiding," a response, at the Congregational church last Sunday evening.

"Gloryfying God in our Home," will be the topic at the Y.P.S.C.E. meeting in the chapel tomorrow evening. Miss Annie L. Lane will be the leader.

Rev. E. H. Brewster is announced to speak in Bridgewater next Wednesday evening before the Plymouth County Association of Churches.

In the Baptist vestry next Friday afternoon the Women's Home Missionary society will hold a mite box opening. Tea will be served at five o'clock and there will be an address in the evening by Mrs. Reynolds, one of the secretaries of the Home Mission Board.

J. Davis Baker and Mrs. Edward Preston sang very pleasingly "I will take Jesus with me," at the evening service of the Baptist church last Sunday.

The Mission Band of the Baptist church held a mite box opening in the vestry yesterday afternoon.

The Home Missionary Circle of the Baptist church shipped a barrel of second-hand clothing to Winton, N. C., this week.

Next Thursday evening the Baptist Young People's societies of the Cape Ann churches will meet at the Baptist church. Rev. Mr. Schumway of Swampscott will deliver the address of the evening.

"An Unpopular Moment" was the subject of Mr. Brewster's talk at the Baptist prayer meeting last evening.

Rev. Clarence Strong Pond of the Beverly Farms Baptist church exchanged pulpits with Rev. E. H. Brewster last Sunday morning. Mr. Pond's subject was "Little Things."

Christian Endeavor Union.

The annual meeting of the C. E. Union of Salem and vicinity will be held in Peabody on Feb. 22d, '05, in a Union meeting with societies of Salem Baptist Assoc., First Baptist church.

There will be usual interesting musical and devotional exercises with addresses of special interest by Rev. Mr. Padelford of Lynn and Miss A. P. Jones of Falmouth on "Floating Christian Endeavor," in the afternoon, and in the evening, Revs. Drs. Van Der Pyle and Blackburn will speak.

The election of officers and a social time will occur between afternoon and evening sessions.

Services begin at 2.15 in the afternoon and 7 o'clock in the evening. As the local societies are members there will no doubt be quite a few attend from Manchester.

Pretty Homes.

A drive or promenade about our cities and their suburbs reveals numerous pretty homes, every appearance of which indicates comfort and happiness.

In some of these homes the place at the table where the father and breadwinner used to sit is vacant.

But he was wise in his day and protected his home with insurance in the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company.

His widow is not condemned to drudgery, nor are his children denied an education.

See to it that your own are secured against disaster by John Hancock policies. *

Drawing an Inference.

In a story-telling contest being conducted by the Boston Herald, the following by Edward C. Knight of Manchester appeared last Sunday:

Capt. John Buck kept a grocery store at Manchester, Mass., for thirty years or more, and sold, as was the custom in those days, good old New England rum. His son-in-law, Bill Levett, worked with him in the store.

One Saturday night, after the store was closed, Joe Day, a friend of Bill's who was known to love his Medford, knocked at Capt. John's door and inquired, "Where is Bill?"

"I don't know where Bill is," said Capt. John, "but the rum is all gone."

Republican Town Committee.

The Republican Town Committee of Manchester met in the small caucus room, town hall, Monday evening and organized with same officers as last year, as follows: Franklin K. Hooper, chairman; Samuel L. Wheaton, secretary; and Benjamin S. Bullock, treasurer.

Board of Registrars.

As announced elsewhere, the Board of Registrars of the town of Manchester will be in session at the selectmen's office next Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock, and again next Saturday from noon till 10 p.m., to add to the list of voters the names of any who are qualified to vote, whose names do not now appear on the list.

Guarded Against Attack.

All that any man can get out of life is contentment and peace of mind.

But no right-minded man can have peace in his soul unless he has made sure that those dearest to him are guarded against the attack of want.

A policy on your life in the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company will so guard them.

Isn't the next thing to do pretty obvious to you now. *

Clear Through To The Backbone

Run the colors on these Linoleums. They'll wear you out trying to wear them out, they are so tough and strong. Yes, they're

Inlaid Linoleums,

Of course, but they're the IMPORTED ONES, that you don't see everywhere because everybody doesn't care to buy large enough quantities to last for a season and import them, so they buy the domestic kinds and call them "just as good." The patterns are more like carpets than they are like linoleums — florals, tiles, and the like — very attractive and new this year.

A NEW PROPOSITION

We shall sell them as low as $1.00, Printed Linoleums in sheets twelve feet wide — the no seam in the room kind, all new and perfect goods, Winter Sunset.

Sêe, out of purple twilight, how the trees
Press o'er the downs, in troops, to heaven's rim,
Dipping dark forms, and antlered brows, where seas
Of soundless glory wash, and over brim.

What more may lie beyond? What burning word
Rolls earthward with diurnal cataclysm
On this gold tide's gold lips? The hills have heard,
And bare their laboring heads for holy chrism.

What can this message be whose potent balm
Bids our poor planet, travailing in pain, Rise with each dawning, new-create, and calm,
To move in beauty round its pole again?

SELECT PARTY.

Mayor MacDonald Guest of Honor at Red Men's Dance at Manchester.

The dance in the Manchester town hall, Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the entertainment committee of Conomo tribe, 113, I. O. Red Men, was a pronounced success. George Washington was a Red Man and most fitting, indeed, was it that the day on which his birth is commemorated should be selected for a party of this kind by the Manchester order.

There were almost 100 couples on the floor when the dancing started at 8.30. The grand march was led by Mayor MacDonald of Gloucester and Miss Ida Smith of Boston, followed by Floor Director F. K. Swett and Miss Edith L. Wheaton.

MAYOR MACDONALD OF GLOUCESTER, GUEST OF HONOR AT MANCHESTER.

Previous to the dance a reception was given Mayor MacDonald, who was the guest of honor. In the receiving line with him were Selectman

Fred K. Swett, Supt. of Streets Geo Kimball and Geo. S. Sinnicks.

The ushers were Orrin A. Martin, George Gould, Walter R. Bell, Allen S. Peabody and J. Alex. Lodge. Miss Edith L. Wheaton rendered some very pretty piano selections during the reception.

Fred K. Swett was in charge of the floor, and Geo. S. Sinnicks was assistant floor director. The aids were: George Rowe of Gloucester, George Kimball, Walter R. Bell, Ralph Stanley, Richard J. Baker, George Gould and Allen S. Peabody.

The committee in charge was composed of Allen S. Peabody (chairman), Orrin A. Martin (secretary), Charles Williams, William Mitchell, Harry S. Tappan, Frank G. Cheever, Charles Mason, D. Milton Knight and Lyman W. Floyd.

Large delegations from Gloucester, Rockport and Beverly Farms were among those from out of town who attended the party. Long's orchestra furnished music. During the evening L. W. Floyd served punch.

Financial Statement.

The financial statement of the Board of Selectmen of Manchester for the year closing February 1, shows the "Town by the Sea" in a better financial condition than it has been the privilege of any previous board to report for many years.

The accompanying picture is of one of the scores of sea coast views which make the North Shore famous. The view shows the monstrous waves breaking in fury over the bold rocks off Smith's Point, near Lobster Cove, Manchester, and is one of the collection used by L. W. Floyd, the Central Square news and novelty dealer, on his souvenir postal cards. It is at this season that the coast scenery is at its best.

Besides reducing the outstanding debt by $26,802.17 during the past year, a balance of $20,523.97 remains in the treasury at the present time, and this in spite of the fact the rate of taxation the past year was decreased 50 cents on $1,000.

Last year the debt was decreased by only $5,800, and at the close of the year the cash in the treasury was $16,004.99—a difference of some $25,000 less than the present year.

These facts reflect great credit on the present board of selectmen, and particularly on Chairman W. H. Allen, whose indefatigable work has been largely responsible for the excellent record; and also on the heads of the various departments and to the town in general.

Practically all of the town debt is on Park bonds of $100,000, dated Aug. 1, 1898, and on Water bonds of $150,000, dated Nov. 1, 1891, which have been reduced to $40,000 and $72,000, respectively. Other bills, notes, etc., amounting to $3,264.43, brings the total indebtedness up to $115,264.43, while the cash in treasury Feb. 1, 1905, and other credits make a balance against the town Feb. 1, 1905, of $78,935.01.

These facts are certainly indicative of the manner in which the present town officials have conducted the affairs of the town the past year, and should impress the voters with the necessity of electing such men this year as will continue the good work.

The music festival at Gloucester Monday and Tuesday by the Gloucester Choral Association, of which several Manchester people are members, attracted many from here on both days. The festival was said to be one of the best musical entertainments ever planned in this section. The Manchester ladies who sang in the large chorus of 180 voices were, Miss Gertrude B. Goldsmith and Mrs. Jessie A. Stanley, sopranos, and Miss Annie L. Lane, alto.

MANCHESTER.

The selectmen have submitted the names of two men who have applied for the position of enumerators to take the decennial census, May 1. They are Thomas B. Stone and T. W. Long.

Two big piles driven in the flats off the town pier at Beach street park were lifted bodily out of their places by the tide Thursday. Clothed in heavy coats of ice the piles could not withstand the immense tidal pressure and the shifting of the ice surrounding.

The oldest residents say they have not seen such a field of ice as was off the shore the early part of the week for many and many a year. The harbor was packed and, in fact, far out between the islands was all one mass of ice. The southerly wind of the past few days, however, has carried it out to sea.

Frank W. Fleming and Bert P. Floyd spent Washington's birthday with friends in Everett, enjoying the trip over the road behind Frank's pacer.

A party of twenty school boys and girls from North Beverly came to Manchester on a sleighride Wednesday evening stopping at the Beach street cafe for one of Mr. Reed's delicious oyster stews.

Alex. Robertson, color sergeant of the 2d Corps of Cadets, was in Boston Wednesday and acted as color bearer for Governor Douglas at the large public reception at the State House, bearing the Governor's personal flag, the triangular banner of white silk with the seal of the State thereon.

Miss Helen Boyle was home from Wellesley a few days this week, but returned to her studies Thursday.

Several Manchester men, members of the order and friends, attended the Masonic celebration and banquet in Beverly on Washington's birthday, among the number being F. K. Hooper, R. C. Allen, Edward S. Knight, Horace Standley, Alex. Robertson and James Hoare.

Miss Marion G. Scott has been spending a few days with friends in Gloucester this week.

Lee Marshall, Dartmouth, '08, returned to his studies at Hanover yesterday, after a week spent at his home on Central street.

Mrs. W. J. Johnson entertained the Ladies' Afternoon Whist at her Bridge street home yesterday.

W. J. Myler and Miss Jennie Sweeney of Cambridge were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Bohaker, at their home on Masconomo street, over Washington's birthday.

Edward C. Knight left here Wednesday for Concord, N.H., where he takes up his work as master of sciences in St. Paul's school for boys, as announced last week.

After their meeting, Wednesday night, the members of the Degree of Honor partook of a light collation. It is probable that at the next meeting of the order, March 8, the anniversary of the lodge will be observed.

A party of 26 little children of Grade III., George A. Priest school, went to Beverly on a sleighride, Tuesday, in one of Smith's express pungs. The party was gotten up by George Fleming, one of the pupils, and Mrs. Edward Height went with the little ones as chaperone. A delightful afternoon was enjoyed by the children.

Miss Valeria Goodenow, teacher at the High school, had her sister, Miss Goodenow of Cambridge, as guest the first of the week.

Mrs. Enoch Crombie entertained at her Smith's Point home, Wednesday evening, fourteen members of the local W. R. corps.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Leach of Boston were guests over the holiday of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Crowell, Lincoln street.

Mrs. Chas. L. Norton gave a pretty Washington's Birthday party for her two little boys, Masters Teddy and John Norton, at her Union street home Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. Eighteen of the little folk were present, — mates of the two boys in Grade I of the Priest school and a delightfully pleasant time was enjoyed. Before departing all sat around a table laden with dainty refreshments in the center of which was a birthday cake. This was cut by Mrs. Norton and was as much enjoyed by the children as if it were Washington's own cake made by his good wife Martha. Each of the children was presented with a miniature hatchet and a small flag.

Three Manchester men went to Gloucester Tuesday and were admitted as full fledged American citizens, having passed the last of their naturalization papers. Several others took out first and second papers.

Miss Ruth Pulsifer is recovering from a severe attack of grippe, having been confined to her School street home all of last week.

The local police had three cases before the court the first of the week, two cases of drunkenness and one for alleged obtaining money under false pretences. The two former were put on probation and the latter settled.

The will of the late Lucy A. Kitfield of Manchester was proved at the Probate Court in Salem, Monday.

Many of the North Shore younger set are to be prominently connected with the Vincent club production again this year, rehearsals for which begun a week or two ago. "Alice in Wonderland, Continued," is the name of the show. There are more than a hundred girls in the cast. Misses Olivia Thorndike, Elsie Carr and Mary Curtis of Manchester are the solo dancers. One of the most amusing and clever humorous dancers will be Miss Margaret Winthrop. Miss Juliet Higginson of Pride's Crossing will be the head usher this year.

Mrs. H. Casimer de Rham, who, by the way, was one of the brightest stars in the Vincent club shows when she was Miss Frances Dana, will be greatly missed in the cast this year. She has been making a delightful impression in her new home, and only last Friday was given a large reception by Mrs. Chas. de Rham, jr., at her Fifth avenue home, New York.

The "Isis," the finely appointed steam yacht of the Spauldings, who summer at Beverly Cove, will be one of the fleet of American steam yachts at the Mediterranean races the coming month. The yacht has been in European waters for some weeks now, and with W. S. and J. T. Spaulding and a party of friends on board, will cruise the Mediterranean.

Next Thursday afternoon, at her Commonwealth avenue home, Mrs. Robert S. Bradley is to give the first of a series of musical at homes, at which Mr. Francis Rogers will sing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley, by the way, gave one of the smartest dinners of the season a week ago Tuesday night, covers being set for eighteen. The Bradleys will probably spend next season at their Pride's place, not having been here last season, except in the spring and in the late fall.

What Men Do.

Some men take all the insurance they can carry early in life, and are happy in the contemplation of the fact that they are sound and healthy, and that their families are fully protected in case of their death.

Other men put it off until they are uninsurable, and then worry along, certain of nothing but the uncertainty of their own impaired vitality and the future of their dependents.

Only healthy people can be insured in the "John Hancock." So do it now. *

A number of ladies met at the home of Mrs. C. P. Lefavour a few days since to sew for the Beverly hospital. The stock of linen at the present time is much reduced, as the number of patients during the winter has been unusually large, and consequently a new supply of sheets, pillow cases, towels and household articles is much needed.

Albert Boyden and a party of friends are enjoying the cool, crisp New Hampshire weather at Tamworth, N. H. Snow-shoeing is proving a fascinating sport for them.

Rev Francis J. Curran, who has been reported as quite ill, is much improved.

Albert Hurlburt, who has been stationed with the Heavy Artillery on the Pacific Coast for the past three years, has returned to his home in this city.

Frank H. Cameron has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to attend to his office duties.

A number of Beverlyites witnessed the blooded-horse race between Wiltonwood and Grey Ghost, two of the fastest racers seen on the snow track for many a day, at the speedway in Gloucester on Washington's birthday. Grey Ghost won three out of four heats.

Willard O. Wylie has accepted the tendered position of chairman of the Prohibition State committee.

Miss Blanche Munroe is ill at her home on Central street.

Miss Helen W. Carter of Sunapee, N. H., has been the guest of friends in town the past week.

Rev. Everard Walker Snow captained a party of boys to Idlewood Lake on Washington's Birthday, where an enjoyable day was spent skating, skeeing, and snow-shoeing. Dinner was served in F. W. Stuart's cottage.

Mrs. Robert B. Beck of Dorchester has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Eaton, the past week.

Friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Younger made an unexpected call upon them Wednesday evening and presented them with a handsome lamp and extended congratulations upon their recent marriage.

A party of eighteen young people enjoyed a sleighride to Danvers last evening, stopping at the Ferncroft Inn for supper.

Two barrels of magazines and books have just been packed and sent to the Seamen's Bethel and Institute for Sailors at Gloucester as the result of a magazine sale at the Baptist church.

Handsome Window Centre.

Mrs. Charles Tilden of Boston has recently presented to the Beverly Farms Baptist church an excellent piece of glass, with a handsome design painted upon it, the work of the late Mrs. Whitman of Boston and Beverly Farms. This gift has been formally received and accepted, and will be incorporated in one of the windows of the church at some near time. Willis A. Pride and Oscar Hakanson have the matter in charge

Fire Department Inspection.

Mayor Wallis, the city committee on fire department and the board of engineers, included Beverly Farms in their inspection of the city's fire department on Washington's Birthday, and pronounced the equipment in splendid condition. The party arrived at the Farms shortly before 4 o'clock and were greatly pleased with the condition of the engine house and the quick hitches made by Drivers Woodbury, Morgan and Pike. The artistic decorations of vari-colored sand was a feature of the visit here. In front of each stall was worked the name of the horse, "B.F.D.," and the decoration extended back of the stalls also. Christian Culture Course

Lecture at Manchester.

The Young People's societies of the Cape Ann Baptist church met with the Manchester Baptists Thursday evening when Rev. W. B. Shumway of Swampscott delivered a lecture in the Christian Culture course being conducted by the societies. His subject was "Sin: God's part in Redemption and man's part." His talk was of a most interesting nature and was greatly appreciated by the large audience which filled the church. A delegation of about 50 from Gloucester and Rockport attended the exercises.

Elected President.

Albert Cunningham of the Manchester society of Christian Endeavor was elected president of the Salem Christian Endeavor union at the joint convention of this union and the Salem Associational Baptist Young People's union in Peabody Wednesday. Several young people from Manchester attended the convention.

Miss Etta Woodbury, teacher of Grade I, George A. Priest School, has passed her resignation to the school committee, to take effect at the close of this term, April 7. A successor has not yet been appointed.

Mrs. Miller Ropes (Hattie Knight) came on from Springfield to spend the holiday with her family here. Her father, Samuel Knight, we regret to report is rather ill-disposed in health, even more so than he has been of late.

Henry B. Sears, an inspector of the New England Insurance exchange, was in town the first of the week re-rating property here.

Miss Belle Greve of Boston has been spending a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen, Lincoln street.

Miss Bessie Flanders of Salem has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Gorman a few days this week.

Miss Nancy Quinn of Boston, one of the operators at the local exchange part of last summer, has been visiting friends in town the past few days.

Fuller A. Andrews has petitioned the Gloucester city council for a license to construct a stake weir in tide waters at the westerly sides of Dana's island, off Manchester Cove.

A special agent of the Census Bureau has been in town this week collecting data in connection with the "manufactures."

While at work Saturday at Standley's blacksmith's shop John Bishop met with a painful accident as the result of a fall, cutting a severe gash on his chin, necessitating three stitches being taken.

"Jack" Balfe of Boston was in town over the holiday renewing acquaintances.

Miss Irene McGregor has returned to her Boston home after a very pleasant visit with Mrs. Baker, widow of Eben Baker, at her Summer street home.

The Manchester brass band has been engaged by Allen Post 67, G.A.R., for Memorial day, both afternoon and evening.

Several members of the Manchester Mandolin club went to Boston last Saturday evening and enjoyed "Winter's Tale" at the Hollis street theatre.

Mrs. Charles Grant and Miss Trevo of Gloucester spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. William F. Mitchell, Summer and Beach streets.

Three candidates were given the first degree at the Thursday evening meeting of Magnolia lodge of Odd Fellows.

Albert Cunningham, who is living in Boston this winter, was home over the holiday and was among the local Endeavorers attending the Y.P.S.C.E. meeting in Peabody, Wednesday.

Miss Alice Mason was in town over Washington's birthday, a guest of friends.

Manchester seemed to have been the rendezvous for sleighride parties the early part of the week. Three parties from Beverly stopped in the center of the town Monday night and "warmed up" on hot chocolate at the local drug stores, and one from Gloucester Tuesday night.

Mrs. Sarah A. Porter, who was taken to the Beverly Hospital some weeks ago for treatment is reported steadily gaining. She is now able to be up about an hour each day.

The town hall and police station were in darkness last Saturday evening for several hours owing to some trouble with the pipes connecting the gasoline tank with the buildings. The lights were turned on about 8.15.

Miss Emma Johnson was home from Lynn to spend the holiday.

Judicious Husbands.

Husbands toil and delve and plan, so that wives and children may be comfortable, well educated and happy. But who can guarantee that life will last long enough to achieve these ends? Nobody. And so, when life is lost, all is lost. Not at all, to those families whose heads have been wise enough to protect them with John Hancock policies, which step into the breach caused by the death of the bread-winner. Therefore, we say:

"Judicious husbands invest in the policies of the John Hancock." *

Whisperings.

Those of my readers who are interested in historical matters, and especially in genealogies, will be interested in the following item, bearing on Manchester, which I take from the Boston Transcript. It is a reply to a question which we printed in these columns a week or two ago regarding the Rev. John Eveleth, whom Rev. Mr. Lamson says in his "History of Manchester" taught school here in 1700. It follows:

* * * *

Rev. John Eveleth was grandson of the colonist Sylvester Eveleth and his wife Susannah, who were registered in Boston, First Church, 1643. Sylvester died 1689. His son Joseph, the father of Rev. John, 1641-1745, married Mary Bragg. John, born in Gloucester, Mass., Jan. 25, 1670, graduated at Harvard college, 1689, taught school at Manchester, and was called to the pastorate in Stow, was ordained in 1700. Meanwhile he had married Mary Bowman of Charlestown, and their eldest son died while in the pastorate at Stow. But as he appears to have died in Charlestown, it seems he was a student at Harvard college.

Rev. John Eveleth resigned his charge at Stow in 1717, and within a few years became chaplain at the fort in what is now Biddeford, Me. He was also pastor at Arundel, 1717-1729, a hamlet not far from Cape Porpoise. He was laboring in those places 1714-1726. (See "History of Biddeford.") Some time about 1730 Rev. John Eveleth removed to Spruce Creek, near the line of Eliot and Kittery, Me., where the people erected a house of worship and near which he died in 1734. His father Joseph survived eleven years, living at Boston, Gloucester and Chebacco, where his married years were spent till 1745. He was one of the Salem jury, 1692, in the famous witch trials.

Through an error in the print or news item John had been confused with Joseph, but there is no plain record of any John Eveleth besides the Rev. John of Harvard till much later than 1689. Mrs. Mary Bowman Eveleth spent her last years in Stow, and her tombstone is in the ancient cemetery there. Descendants of this pair may be found in Worcester County, in New Hampshire and in Maine. The Bragg-Eveleth family comprised Rev. John, 1669-1734; Elizabeth, 1671; Joseph, Jr., May 31, 1674; Isaac, 1676; Edward, 1679; Moses, 1682; Mary, 1683; and Hannah, 1685. The mother, Mary Bragg Eveleth, died in Chebacco parish, Ipswich, Jan. 23, 1713-14, aged 64 years.

Rev. Ephraim Eveleth, born in Princeton, Mass., 1801, died in New York 1829, as also Rev. Joshua Eveleth, born in Stow, Mass., and settled in Princeton, Mass., who died in Worcester, Mass., 1829, were doubtless descendants of Rev. John Eveleth, 1669-1734. (See Babson's "Early Settlers" and Cowell's "Essex," page 150, Sibley's "Harvard Graduates.") C. H. E.

* * * *

It's a shame to give it away, but the following story which came to my ears yesterday morning about two Manchester young men, is too good to keep. It appears they went to the Hub Washington's birthday to spend the holiday, and from accounts enjoyed themselves hugely. In the evening they took in one of the theatres—and they were not all alone, either—and leaving the theatre in good season, they thought plenty time was at hand to accompany their two fair companions to their respective homes. This they did, and by real quick connections with electric, elevated, etc., they arrived at the North Station at about 11.23 all out of breath, but just in time for the theatre train which leaves at 11.24. Not aware of the fact that all of the cars on the track did not go out with the train, the two young men clambered into the first car they reached and by the time they had collected their thoughts the theatre train ahead of them was pulling out of the station, leaving the extra cars behind.

They remained in Boston all night.

But that is not all. When the train arrived in Manchester the two "sight-seers" were not on it. They did not arrive home at the hour they were expected and the two households began to wonder. Neither of the boys being accustomed to be alone in a big city at night was the cause of considerable worry for their parents. But they survived, and arrived home next day all safe and sound.

No New Candidates.

No new candidates have appeared for any of the offices in Manchester during the past week. In fact, nothing new has developed during the week which would indicate any warm contests or debates during town meeting, which opens next Monday, March 6, at noon.

Washington's Birthday.

The holiday passed very quietly in Manchester, there being nothing out of the usual run, save the Red Men's dance in the evening. Places of business were closed before noon. Many people went to Salem or Boston to the theatre, and in the afternoon a large crowd of horse racing enthusiasts went to Gloucester to witness the race for a purse of $200 between A. C. Cumming's bay mare Wiltonwood and W. W. French's Grey Ghost, won by the latter three out of four heats. M. E. Gorman's Collerton was one of the many horses which were sent over the speedway in brushes between the heats.

ANNUAL BANQUET.

Annual Reunion of Horticulturists in Manchester a Pleasant Affair.

Lee's hall was crowded last night with the members of the North Shore Horticultural Society and their friends on the occasion of the annual banquet of the society. A very finely prepared supper was served at 6.30 o'clock, when fully 130 people sat down, and a most attractive entertainment was offered by the committee following this.

The program was opened by a vocal solo by Abbot Hoare, who sang with pleasing effect Shield's "I am a Friar of Orders Grey." For an encore he sang "Alexander," Miss Edith L. Wheaton following with a piano solo, "Brise Primtaniere" by Bohm. Miss Wheaton rendered as an encore Godard's "Danse d'Etoiles."

The guest of the evening was the State Forester, Alfred Akerman of Boston, who spoke very interestedly of his work. He was followed by Miss Carolyn E. Allen, who sang with very pretty effect Harris' "The Hills o' Skye," and gave as an encore Thomas' "Japanese Love Song." Miss Marion Scott followed with a violin selection, the "Serenade," and as an encore played a popular selection, "Let's all go up to Clark's," by Mills.

The program was closed by a reading by Allen S. Peabody, which was given with marked effect. It was entitled "John Smith, U.S.A." As an encore he gave a comic selection, which was inclined to cast reflections on the horticulturists, and which gained him much applause.

Mr. Akerman's remarks were of a thoroughly informal nature. He spoke of the policy along which he was conducting his work, and told why the office was created. He said the lines of work taken up included a course of lectures to be given by the State Forester at the Amherst Agricultural college, which should be especially designed for those who proposed to have charge of farms later on, in case these farms have wooded land.

He spoke also of the state forest nursery which is to be established at Amherst in case there is sufficient appropriations made by the state.

"For practical work for owners of woodland" said the speaker, "the state offers to give advice in the management of woodland if he is willing to pay the travelling expenses of the forester or his assistant engaged in the work. If the condition of the woodland makes it advisable the forester will draw up a written scheme of management, known as a working plan."

He referred to the perplexing moth question as one of the forest problems, and spoke also of forest fires.

After the entertainment the floor was cleared and the balance of the evening was passed in dancing.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of John Baker (chairman), H. W. Clark and John Desmond. These young ladies assisted in serving: Mrs. L. W. Carter, Misses Grace Macgregor, Alice Sargent, Nellie Jackson, Hattie Baker, and Alice Clark. President Sanborn was master of ceremonies.

Mr. Martin's Qualifications.

Mr. Orrin A. Martin has this week filed his nomination papers for the office of selectman of Manchester. Mr. Martin's qualifications for the office to which he aspires may be briefly reviewed with satisfaction.

As a business man he has had long and practical experience. His education along these lines dates from his boyhood, when he entered his father's employ and proved himself adaptive to business methods. He later assumed the larger part of the technical work and familiarized himself carefully with the many and varied details of commercial usage.

He has for many years been engaged in the real estate business, buying and owning many hundreds of acres here and elsewhere. His peculiar knowledge of Manchester and his long experience in handling real estate should mark him as one who would be valuable as an assessor.

Mr. Martin further states in a clear cut declaration that if elected by his fellow townsmen to this worthy office he will, with strict impartiality, carry out the vote of the town on any and all questions. It is Mr. Martin's desire to represent Manchester and to serve her highest interests.

MANCHESTER.

Charles M. Young of Hartford, Conn., will preach at the Congregational church tomorrow.

Mrs. E. A. Lane returned yesterday from a very pleasant visit of a few days with Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Quint of Falmouth.

Miss Clara F. Allen and Mrs. Charles Parker are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Allen, School street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Baker entertained some fifteen relatives and friends at Fairview, Wednesday evening, on the occasion of Mr. Baker's 47th birthday. A most delightful evening was passed by those present.

The cable for the telephone conduits arrived in town yesterday and the work of pulling them through the pipes will be started at once. It is now thought the connections with the new office will be made so that the transfer can be accomplished a week from tomorrow.

Supt. Kimball with a crowd of men and teams spent practically all day Thursday in spreading snow on Beach street from Union to the railroad crossing, which had been laid bare as a result of laying the telephone ducts.

Miss Carrie Peach of Gloucester has been spending a few days as guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Morgan, Bennett street.

At the 25th reunion of the 23d Mass. Regiment Association in Beverly this week Nathaniel Morgan of Manchester was elected president.

The little Misses Marie and Careen Lampron returned Wednesday from a week's visit with their sister Mrs. Murray in Boston.

A large delegation from Oliver Wendell Holmes Council, Knights of Columbus, went to Gloucester Washington's birthday, when the third degree was worked upon about thirty members. The event was one of the largest ever held in K. of C. circles in this section for years, 800 Knights being present.

The horse race at Beaver Dam also attracted many Farms people, Wednesday, when Grey Ghost beat A. C. Cummings' Wiltonwood three out of four heats. Dr. J. J. Reardon of the Farms was one of the judges.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKee, who have been located at the Waldorf Astoria, in New York, since leaving here some weeks ago, went South this week for a couple of weeks.

Mrs. George D. Batchelder was called to Providence, R.I., Wednesday by the death of her father.

Wilbur Pierce spent the holiday in Malden visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCoy were in Topsfield over the holiday, guests of their daughter, Mrs. Robert P. Williams.

Misses May and Anna Connolly have been spending a few days this week visiting friends at Providence. While there they attended the ball of the Phi Kappa fraternity of Brown university.

Coasting during the past week has been exceptionally good, and has been enjoyed by both young and old alike, and, with the exception of Miss Lillian Holtman, who was run into by a double runner and somewhat hurt, has been free from other accidents.

A number of young people went to Manchester Wednesday evening to attend the Red Men's dance.

James Zampell has purchased the store on Hart street, formerly owned by Guissippe Denta, and will conduct it on about the same lines as formerly—groceries and fruit.

The extreme low tides the past week has afforded the opportunity for securing deep sea clams, which has been taken advantage of by many.

Rev. and Mrs. C. S. Pond entertained the choir of the Baptist church at their High street home, Tuesday evening.

At the regular meeting of Preston W.R.C., 93, Tuesday evening, the president, Mrs. Grace Gauld, in behalf of the corps, presented Mrs. Mary A. Wood with a handsome signet ring as a token of the corps' appreciation for past services. Mrs. Wood, who is the retiring president, thanked the members for their testimonial.

Edward B. Haven was a guest of the J. B. Moultons over Sunday.

The successes of Charles C. McCarthy of this town, representing Georgetown University of Washington, D.C., in the sprinting races at Mechanic's hall, Boston, last week, where he won second honors and also was elected captain of the Georgetown track team which is to take part in the important college meets in the near future, has been a matter of much pleasure and congratulations from his large circle of friends at the Farms.

A gang of men have been at work on private estates the past two or three weeks clearing the trees of brown-tail moth nests.

The United Shoe Machinery dance in City Hall Tuesday evening attracted many of the young people from here.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McDonnell are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a baby girl in their home.

Alexander Carr has been confined to his home part of this week with an attack of grippe.

E. Fred Day and Edward F. Campbell were winners of prizes in the guessing contests of the Odd Fellows fair in Beverly last week.

Next Friday evening a whist party will be held in Marshall's hall under the auspices of John West Colony, Pilgrim Fathers. A delegation from Manchester made a visitation to the meeting of the lodge last Friday night.

Miss Lottie Allen, teacher of Grade II at the Farms school for a number of years, has resigned her position to accept one more lucrative, and Miss Elsie Preston has been appointed to take her position.

Miss Alice Witham spent the holiday with relatives in Rockport.

A checker tournament has been going on for the past two weeks at the West Beach hotel, the result of which is that Michael J. Murphy is the leader in the greatest number of games won so far.

To Build Addition.

At a meeting of the standing committee of the Beverly Farms Baptist church, Monday evening, a committee, consisting of Willis Pride, Oscar Hakanson and Deacon Edwin Pride and Pastor Pond, was appointed to consider the advisability of building a new room to the left of the organ, adjoining the main auditorium, for the use of the choir and as a robing room. The need of such change has been felt for some time.

Messrs. Samuel Carr and Chas. E. Cotting were down at their West Manchester estates on the holiday for a brief visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow were among the summer colonists who were down to the shore Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Goodrich and T. Dennie Boardman were down from Boston a few hours on Washington's Birthday and were at the "Chubbs," in West Manchester.

Miss Hetty Sargent was at her Coolidge's Point house Wednesday for a short visit.

Mrs. Hall McAllister, who sang with so much favor at several North Shore functions last season and was for some time a guest of Mrs. Henry McKean at Pride's Crossing, met equally warm greetings at Jordan Hall Monday afternoon when she sang at Miss Terry's concert.

The dog show which opened at Mechanics hall, Boston, Tuesday, attracted many of the North Shore folk who entered some familiar pets in the various classes.

The W. B. Walkers will open their West Manchester house again next week, but probably will not return themselves till week after next.

Prominent Men WillAddress Horticulturists.

Two very interesting speakers are announced for the next two meetings of the North Shore Horticultural Society at Manchester. At the meeting next Friday night, March 3, Kenneth Finlayson of Jamaica Plain will lecture on "Greenhouse Management," and on March 17, John A. Pettigrew, Superintendent of Parks of the City of Boston, will speak on "Village and Roadside Improvement." These talks are always of a very interesting nature, and the public is cordially invited to attend these next two meetings.

Meeting of the WestBeach Corporation.

The annual meeting of the West Beach corporation, in Marshall's hall, Beverly Farms, Monday evening, brought out some heated debates when the matter of a public pavillion at West Beach was brought up.

It was late when the regular business of the meeting had been disposed of, and when article 7 of the warrant was taken up, pertaining to the building of a large public pavillion at the beach and the taking away of the old bath-houses, the large number who had gathered for no other purpose than to dabate this matter became interested.

As soon as the matter was brought forward, someone motioned to indefinitely postpone action, which was aimed at killing the matter. This motion resulted in a "Yea" and "Nay" vote, which was 34 in favor and 38 against postponing action. After considerable discussion pro and con, a special committee was appointed to confer with the directors and report at an adjourned meeting fixed for Monday evening, March 6.

At that meeting some lively debates are anticipated, and some definite action will undoubtedly be taken on the matter.

The following officers were elected: James B. Dow, president; I. T. Eldredge, vice-president; Howard E. Morgan, clerk; and Elmer Standley, treasurer. The old board of directors were re-elected.

MANCHESTER.

Mrs. Henrietta I. Price started this week for an extended visit with her brother in Ohio.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Merrill, on Bridge street, was the scene of a very pleasant gathering on Washington's birthday, the day being also the anniversary of Mr. Merrill's birth. Some fifteen were present, including Miss Ida Merrill, Mrs. Allen, Miss Mae Allen and Mrs. O. M. C. Holman of Newton Centre, and Lawrence Mayo and three sons of West Newton. The day passed most delightfully.

Deacons F. A. P. Killam and Joseph A. Torrey have been on the sick list this week. Samuel Knight has been confined to his Central street home most of the week, also. Mrs. L. O. Lations, who has been confined to her bed almost three weeks, continues unimproved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lodge started for Peterboro, N.H., this afternoon, Mrs. Lodge's grandfather, Charles Bullard, passing away yesterday at the age of 82 years.

Little Miss Florence Bradley had a very pleasant party of her young friends at her Pine street home one afternoon recently, when she gave a fair and candy sale, the proceeds of which went toward filling her mission mite box.

Mrs. Chas. E. Bell entertained the Sewing Bee at her School street home last evening.

A delightful evening is in store for those who attend the exhibition drill and entertainment in town hall Monday evening by the Baptist Boys' Brigade, when a well arranged program will be carried out.

MAGNOLIA.

[From our Correspondent.]

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dunbar of Dorchester were down over Sunday.

Mr. Orrin D. Sawyer of Winchendon was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sanborn Sunday.

Two Wellesley girls registered at the Stanley cottage over Sunday.

About sixteen people from here attended the concerts given by the Gloucester Choral association Monday and Tuesday.

Miss Addie J. Stanley gave a very pretty whist party in aid of the parsonage, Washington's birthday. The house was prettily decorated with red, white and blue. The gentleman's prize was won by Mr. Philip Sanborn, and the lady's by Mrs. Arthur M. Lycett, a bottle of candied cherries. The booby was given to Mr. Arthur M. Lycett, a hatchet, and the lady's to Mrs. Hannaford, a cocked hat. About forty people were present.

A party of ten young people from here attended the party given by Arthur Sewall and George Cameron, in Savings Bank hall, the 22d.

Several of the young men attended the dance in Manchester, Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Story are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a son, Washington's birthday.

The Y.P.S.C.E. will give a chafing dish party at the home of Miss Ethel May next Tuesday evening.

The Open Championship.

It has been decided that the open championship of the U. S. A. Golf association will be held at the Myopia Hunt club in Hamilton the week of September 17. The event will probably bring more expert golfers to the North Shore than any golf event in former years.

"With the open championship to be held at the Myopia H. C. the week of Sept. 17," says the Boston Herald, "Massachusetts players and enthusiasts will have a chance to see the best play that the country affords over a course which, if it reaches next September the same condition it did last, will test the play to the utmost and allow of no flukes. Those professionals who may have had a bit of bad luck at times in the lie of the ball at previous open meetings held at Myopia, will marvel at the change in the situation which the committee has made possible, and no such greens, when they are at or approaching their best, can be found anywhere in the United States and only rarely on the courses of Great Britain."

"THE ELEVENTH HOUR."

Rev. Mr. Brewster Says the Disposition to Postpone is a Growing One.

Rev. Edward Hersey Brewster preached at the Baptist church last Sunday evening on "The Eleventh Hour," taking his text from Luke 23:42, "Lord, remember me when Thou comest into Thy kingdom." In part, he said:—

"The disposition to postpone till the eleventh hour matters of utmost consequence, appears to be a growing one. Words of praise that should have been spoken to a struggling heart while the dew of youth was fresh upon the lips, are left to be spoken at the eleventh hour, when the heart has cause to struggle, and their sound must be mingled with the voice of the tolling bell.

"And yet the eleventh hour has one beneficent phase. It leaves one brief moment to the ingrate to murmur a broken word of appreciation; one tense moment to the profligate to repudiate his wretched extravagance; one divine moment to the sinner to whisper a prayer to his God.

"The dying thief is the personification of the interests of the eleventh hour. Railing upon the Christ with coarse invective during the first awful moments of Calvary, he becomes silent toward the last and finally breaks into a plea for mercy. His prayer was one of faith, of humility, and of fervency, 'Lord, remember me when Thou comest into Thy kingdom.'

"His penitence lit up the darkest moment in the life of Jesus and threw an unfading luster over all the scene. Thus from even the darkest hearts there may creep forth a gleam, when the Cross has entered into the soul, and the frowning heavens but lend a background to the spectacle of the Son of God crucified with us.

"We believe the eleventh hour wrought salvation for the thief. A 'death-bed repentance,' if genuine, is accepted by God as surely as an earlier one. But the loss occasioned by long years of sin is ours, and the knowledge that our life has counted for nothing lends a mocking echo to our failing steps.

"'Today thou shalt be with me in Paradise.' This was Christ's personal promise to the thief. It was enough. Calvary came to a close, and Death wrapped the sinners and the Savior in his robe of shadows. They took them from the cross and buried them far apart. But that one hour of companionship had fixed a destiny, and ere the evening spread her starry mantle over Galilee the thief and his Redeemer were together in Paradise."

Awarded Banner.

The Young People's Union of the Beverly Farms Baptist church was awarded the banner for best attendance at the joint convention of the Salem Associated Baptist Young People's Union and Salem Christian Endeavor Union in Peabody, Wednesday. Sixteen went from Beverly Farms, and the newly elected president, Albert Cunningham of Manchester, presented President Doane of the Farms union with the pennant with well chosen remarks. Rev. C. S. Pond of the Farms' church made the prayer at the evening session.

The Town Warrant.

Many Important Matters to Come Before the Town at Meeting Next Week.

The town warrant, posted this morning at the customary places, calling the Manchester voters together on Monday, March 6, contains many articles which will undoubtedly provoke much spirited discussion. There are fifty-nine articles in the warrant this year against fifty-four last year. Many of these, of course, are the regular articles calling for the regular appropriations recommended by the various officials and boards, but there are other articles entirely new, which surely merit the attention of the voters.

Articles 7, 8, 9 and 10 call for concrete sidewalks on Lincoln street, from School to Arbella; on Summer, from Lincoln to Forest; on Pleasant, from School to Essex; and on Tappan street.

Other articles which will prove of general interest to the voters follow:

ART. 14. To see if the Town will empower the School Committee to select a suitable lot of land for a school building, and to report at the adjourned meeting.

ART. 15. To see if the Town will purchase a lot of land for school purposes and erect thereon a school building, and appropriate money for the same.

ART. 17. To see if the Town will instruct the School Committee to have the school houses protected from lightning, and appropriate $350 for the same.

ART. 26. To see if the Town will make a special appropriation of $1,500 and authorize the Water Board to employ a competent engineer and have surveys made as regards a high service water supply for this Town.

ART. 29. To see if the Town will authorize and instruct the Selectmen to take the necessary measures for lighting the Town Hall building by electricity and raise and appropriate money for the same, as per petition of Wm. C. Rust et al.

ART. 34. To see if the Town will authorize the Selectmen to construct a sectional band stand on the Town Common according to plans herewith submitted, and appropriate money for the same, as per petition of Lyman W. Floyd et al.

ART. 35. To see if the Town will appropriate the sum of $400 for a series of band concerts to be given by the Manchester Band on the Town Common during the summer of 1905, agreeable to Chap. 152, Acts of 1904, as per petition of Charles O. Howe et al.

ART. 42. To appropriate $12,000 for the maintenance and improvement of highways, bridges and sidewalks.

ART. 49. To see what action the Town will take for the suppression of the brown-tail and gypsy moths, as per petition of John Baker et al.

ART. 50. To see if the Town will allow a portion of the Town Farm, possibly 125 feet square, to be set apart for the benefit of the children in the eastern part of the Town as a play ground, on petition of Henry Menken et al.

ART. 55. To see if the Town will accept and allow the Elm Street layout, as made by the Selectmen, Feb. 25, 1905, and reported to the Town at this meeting, also to make an appropriation to defray the expense of constructing the same.

CHURCH NOTES.

Manchester.

Congregational church. Morning service at 10.45. Evening service at 7 o'clock.

Baptist church, Rev. E. H. Brewster, pastor. Morning service at 10.45. Sermon by the pastor; subject: "Immanuel." People's evening service at 7 o'clock: Topic, "The Other Fellow."

Sacred Heart church. Rev. Fr. John J. Downey, pastor. Mass on Sunday at 8.30 o'clock. Sunday school at 3 and vespers at 3.45 o'clock.

Miss Agnes Sjolund sang "The Story has Never Been Told," as a solo at the Junior Christian Endeavor meeting last Sunday.

"A Story of a Golden Calf" will be the subject of the Junior Christian Endeavor meeting tomorrow, led by Dorothy Blaisdell.

Miss Susie Allen will lead the Y.P. S.C.E. tomorrow evening. Subject: "Heroes of Home Missions: What They Teach Us."

Rev. R. W. Wallis of Somerville preached at the Congregational church last Sunday, being greeted by large congregations at both morning and evening services. In the evening he gave an interesting talk on "Finding," it being a continuation of his former Sunday evening talk on "Seeking." He emphasized the fact that not everybody that seeks finds, but that we are all prone to disappointment, and he illustrated his point by examples of this fact.

The Home Missionary Union of the Baptist church held a mite-box opening at the vestry yesterday afternoon. Tea was served at 5 o'clock. In the evening Miss Reynolds of Boston, one of the secretaries of the home mission board, spoke very interestedly in the evening on the work of the board.

Rev. Mr. Brewster will preach next Sunday night, a week hence, on some temperance topic. It has been customary to hold a union meeting heretofore, but thus far no arrangements have been made for this.

Mr. Willard's Return.

Mr. E. S. Willard, the distinguished English actor, who has not been seen in Boston since November, 1902, will reappear at the Tremont Theatre next Monday to fulfill a two weeks' engagement. He will devote the first week to the presentation of "The Brighter Side," a translation of Alfred Capus' play, "La Chatelaine." The original work was a great success in Paris, where it ran an entire season at the Theatre Renaissance, and there was active competition among managers to secure the foreign rights. Mr. Willard produced "The Brighter Side" during his recent engagement in New York, and his opinion as to its merits was warmly confirmed by large and delighted audiences. Mr. Willard will present no less than four plays during his second and last week, the programme being as follows: Monday and Tuesday evenings and Wednesday matinee, "The Middleman," by Henry Arthur Jones; Wednesday evening, "David Garrick," by T. W. Robertson; Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturday matinee, "The Professor's Love Story," by J. M. Barrie; Saturday night, "Tom Pinch," by Charles Dickens.

STILL ANOTHER

There's no end to the good things this big store holds for you. Every day there's a tussle between this and that as to which deserves most to be told about. One at a time is all we can say. Do we make it interesting enough for you? Should judge so—some of you can hardly wait till tomorrow to find out what is coming next.

Today we'll give you a hint of the dining chair collection, 48 patterns of them. Just think of it, and starting at a solid oak, cane seated beauty at $1.00. Think you can find one at that price elsewhere? Try it. Here's one half way up the line.

A BOX SEAT DINING CHAIR

Know what the "Box Seat" means? Well, it's the stoutest sort of a seat that's put into a chair, all mortised and tenoned, you know. You never hear it spoken of except in connection with the highest priced sort. Now here's an instance of what this store's doing for you.

Manchester Church May

Extend Call to Palmer Pastor.

Rev. M. Oakman Patton of Palmer, who will preach at the Congregational church in Manchester tomorrow, is looked upon as a most favorable candidate for the vacant pastorate. He preached in Manchester some weeks ago and made a very strong impression upon his congregation, as a result of which the committee have asked him to preach here again.

REV. M. OAKMAN PATTON,

Mr. Patton is by no means a stranger in this section. He was for several years pastor of the Congregational church in Newburyport, where he made a splendid record as a worker.

As pastor of the Congregational church in Palmer, his present charge, he has met with pronounced success. He is an influential worker among the young people and has strengthened the church and young people's societies there, materially. Mrs. Patton's health is quite poorly, and should a call be extended Mr. Patton to come to Manchester, this fact as much as anything else might lead him to give up his large field there.

MASTERS OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.

Francis Bacon, 1561 — 1626.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

Francis Bacon, son of the Keeper of the Great Seal of Queen Elizabeth, is known in the peerage as Baron of Verulam, Viscount St. Albans, and Lord High Chancellor of England. To us he is known by his name, Francis Bacon, a name like George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, greater than any title can make it.

Bacon rose rapidly to influence, obtaining at the age of twenty-eight the appointment of Counsel Extraordinary to the Queen, and might have secured further preferment, had he not by his opposition to large subsidies, which had been applied for, given offence to the sovereign. He began his literary life with resolutions worthy of Milton. "For myself," he says, "I found that I was fitted for nothing so well as for the study of truth." It was his ambition to "make all learning his province." His "Essays" and other writings are a mine of intellectual wealth, combining in a remarkable degree conciseness of expression with fulness of thought. They are like treasure ships laden with the precious ore of distant climes, for he may be said to have made all learning his debtor. Izaak Walton calls him "the great secretary of nature and all learning." Bacon was no doubt one of the greatest intellects the world has ever seen, one of the "great, creative minds" in the realm of thought, and his massive and luminous intellect was disposed to clothe its ideas in the most sumptuous dress. "In no other writer," it has been said, "is so much profound thought to be found, expressed in such splendid eloquence." His style, like that of many other great writers of his age, may be overloaded at times with learning, but it is stately and melodious.

Bacon is perhaps better known and more truly estimated now than in his own generation; and he himself seems to have had some presentiment of this posthumous fame, his last Will containing this remarkable passage: "My name and memory I leave to foreign nations and to my own country, after some time is passed over." It is safe to say that the world, with all the increase of science and literary culture, will always be indebted to this great man. Ben Jonson no doubt voiced the sentiment of later times quite as much as of his own. "My conceit of his person was never increased toward him by his place or honors; but I have and do reverence him for the greatness that was only proper to himself; in that he seemed to me by his work one of the greatest men and most worthy of admiration that had been in many ages. In his adversity I ever prayed God would give him strength, for greatness he could not want."

Bacon's "Essays or Counsels, Civil and Moral," are the best known and most read of his works. For just, original, striking observations, for reach of thought, variety and extent of view, sheer solid sense, and admirable sagacity, such Essays as those on Travel, Studies, Riches, Truth, Atheism, can never be surpassed. His philosophical works, as the "Advancement of Learning," and the "Novum Organum," were written in Latin, as was the custom of the time, and are monuments of stately erudition and profound thought. He wrote a History of Henry VII., planned a Digest of Law, a Natural History, and even a romance; his "Apophthegms," which Macaulay calls the best collection of jests in the world, were dictated from memory on a day when illness rendered him incapable of serious study; so versatile and multifarious were this man's abilities. And he was of note as a speaker as well as writer. Ben Jonson says of him: "There happened in my time one noble speaker, who was full of gravity in his speaking. No man ever spoke more neatly, more pressly, more weightily, or suffered less emptiness, less idleness in what he uttered. His hearers could not cough, or look aside from him, without loss. He commanded when he spoke, "the fear of every man that heard him was that he should make an end."

Bacon's most ambitious work, that which he himself considered his greatest, is the "Novum Organum;" as its title indicates, it is an attempt to furnish a new rule, or system, or instrument of thought, by which the intellect might be helped to break through obstacles, to accomplish tasks and to gather knowledge which had hitherto been beyond its power. It was a gigantic task, worthy the powers of a master mind. But the Baconian philosophy has been found too cumbersome for practical use; the work it could do can be done more easily another way. This may be said, however: If Science has not followed the Baconian method, if while we pay homage to the name of Bacon as one who led the human mind out from the jungle of mediæval scholasticism we decline to follow his leading, he did much by breaking the bondage of the intellect to old systems, to prepare the way for the Renaissance and the Reformation. Bacon's philosophy, unworkable as it may have proved as intellectual machinery, has this in its praise; it disabused the human mind of age-long error, and laid down principles which have brought forth fruit in all the regions of thought. Bacon may be said to mark the influx of Idealism into England, and where that goes, as Emerson says, "is poetry, health and progress."

Of Bacon's malversation in office, of the charges of corruption which mar his fair fame and drag his ermine in the mire, we have little room, and less heart to speak. He did not exculpate himself, but he could truly say that his fault was a venial one in that corrupt age. "I was the justest judge in England these fifty years; but it was the justest censure in Parliament that was these two hundred years." His fine was remitted and he was pardoned, but the next year he died.

In his confession to the House of Lords we hear the cry of a wounded spirit, "I beseech your Lordships to be merciful to a broken reed." Grasping one day a volume, he exclaimed, "Surely, for this only was I fitted." It would have been well if he had made learning his sole pursuit, and abjured the world of politics and the court, where his love of display, his extravagant habits, and his timidity exposed him to temptation and involved him in entanglements which proved too strong for his moral nature; teaching us that the most ignoble motives have sometimes force over the noblest minds, and that none of us are beyond the need of the prayer, "Lead us not into temptation."

Miss M. E. Gladwin, the matron at the Beverly Hospital, will recount her experiences with the Red Cross in Japan, in an address to be given in the Baptist chapel on Monday evening, March 13, in aid of the hospital relief fund. As stated in the BREEZE of last week, there is an urgent and immediate demand for many necessary articles at this deserving institution, not the least of which is a quantity of linen. The ladies of the directorate, as well as the nurses themselves, are taking a great interest in the work, and the mere announcement of Miss Gladwin's address should suffice to draw a large audience. There will be, in addition, musical numbers and readings by Miss Abbie M. Frost of the High school faculty.

Society Notes.

With the present week and the coming in of March the first impulse of the summer season may be said to be registered. Though there probably will not be any arrivals this month to speak of, extensive preparations will be in progress before the month closes toward opening some of the cottages in April. Much will be done in the line of minor improvements and alterations this month, and carpenters and jobbers may expect a little more activity in their lines from now on.

Several of the Boston folk have been noticed down on the shore the past week. At Manchester, Tuesday, was noticed Mr. and Mrs. Thornton K. Lothrop who were down for a few hours.

Hon. Geo. H. Lyman, Col. Franklin Haven, Mrs. Otis Luke and her mother, Mrs. Bliss, have been noticed at Beverly Farms during the week.

At their Beverly Cove villa the first of the week Mr. and Mrs. Bryce J. Allen had a small party of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac R. Thomas were guests over Sunday of the Frank Seabury at Beverly Farms.

A collection of valuable paintings, bought by Mr. T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr., on his recent visit abroad, arrived Wednesday and were carried to his beautiful new house at Coolidge's Point. The paintings arrived on the Cymric last week. At the first suggestion of spring Mr. Coolidge will open his Manchester house.

Many of the North Shore folk are abroad this winter as usual travelling in Europe and the Mediterranean.

Among the latest to go is Mrs. Henry D. Burnham of Prides Crossing who sailed last Saturday.

Miss Adele G. Thayer who sailed on the Canopic several weeks ago, will probably be absent two years. She will spend the first few months in Algiers.

Mrs. Clifton Long Bremer has had her sister, Miss Morison of Boston at her Beverly Farms home as guest part of the week.

Owners of North Shore estates are beginning to realize the urgency of immediate action in regard to the browntail and gypsy moth pest, and a number of the estates all along the shore are undergoing a thorough overhauling in an endeavor to destroy nests.

Work has been started this week at Manchester on an auto house for Gardner M. Lane. A carriage shed is also to be built. Chester L. Crafts of Manchester has the contract for the work and Daniel Edgcomb is doing the construction work.

Some alterations are to be made on the interior of the Lane house, also. Several of the rooms are to be repainted and other minor changes made.

CHURCH NOTES.

Mrs. L. Gaudreau and son of Salem have been guests the past week of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gaudreau.

Driver West of Marshall & Moulton's express met with quite a painful accident Monday when he succeeded in stopping a runaway horse at Pride's Crossing, his finger becoming caught in the harness, cutting a severe gash in it.

A. C. Holland of Gloucester substituted as operator at the local station in Station Agent Rand's absence the first of the week.

Quite a number from here have been to the Garten-fest of the Second Corps Cadets in Salem this week.

Mrs. R. J. McNeil has been confined to her Haskell street home with an attack of gripe the past week.

Station Agent Frank Rand was called to Portsmouth, N.H., the early part of the week by the death of Mr. Rand's niece, whose funeral was held on Tuesday.

A merry party of young girls enjoyed a sleigh ride to Manchester Tuesday afternoon in one of Connolly Bros. big teams as guests of little Miss Eleanor Connolly, and Wednesday afternoon Master Thomas Connolly had a party of his boy friends out for a sleigh ride.

Miss Metta D. Bradstreet, principal of the Beverly Farms school, has resigned to accept a more lucrative position in the model department of the Westfield State Normal School.

Miss Winnie M. Williams has been appointed to take her place. Resignations at the Farms school to accept "more lucrative positions" seems to be the order of things. "It is to be deplored" said a well known citizen yesterday, "that sufficient inducements might not be made by the proper officials so that our teachers might be induced to stay long enough at least for the scholars to get acquainted with them."

The State Highway.

The Massachusetts State Highway Commission has granted the petition of the city of Beverly and Monday agreed to build the new state highway from Chapman's Corner to the Manchester line.

The state is to bear one-third of the expense and the other two-thirds is to be contributed by the shore residents.

The commission has allotted $6000 for the present year, the balance to be spent next year.

The city is to be allowed 90 cents a ton for crushed stone to Thissell street and Connolly Brothers $1.30 a ton delivered, on the highway below that point, provided the quantity does not exceed 9000 tons, and $1.25 if above that quantity.

The work will be begun as soon as the question of laying new water pipes in that locality is settled.

Hearing at the Farms.

Much interest was manifested in the public hearing at Marshall's hall, Beverly Farms, last Friday evening, on the matter of a public playground. More than 130 people young and old, attended and applauded the speeches. Several sites were advanced for the playground by the various speakers, but there seems to be no one spot in particular which the majority favor. Among the sites mentioned were: Marshall's field, back of the engine house; the Lee place at West Beach; the Larcom estate near the Farms school house; the mill pond site; and the Hodgkins land. Among the speakers were: Ex-Alderman D. W. Hardy, ex-Councilman H. E. Morgan, W. B. Publicover, Chas. Day, John H. Watson, Eben F. Day, W. R. Brooks, Stephen J. Connolly, Thomas J. McDonnell, F. H. Pierce and William Moriarty.

PRIMARY SCHOOL BUILDING.

The New Building Being Agitated in Manchester Likely to be the Subject of Much Discussion at Town Meeting.

No subject that will come before the Manchester voters at town meeting next week has promise of so much discussion as that of a new school building recommended by the School Committee and by the Superintendent in their annual reports.

The articles in the Warrant which will introduce the matter are:

"ART. 14. To see if the Town will empower the School Committee to select a suitable lot of land for a school building, and to report at the adjourned meeting.

"ART. 15. To see if the Town will purchase a lot of land for school purposes and erect thereon a school building, and appropriate money for the same."

The committee in their report say:

"The time has come when we are greatly in need of additional school accommodations. The G. A. Priest School building, in the four lower grades, is very much crowded, one room having fifty-five scholars at the opening of the school in September. We need a Primary School building, and an article has been inserted in the warrant asking an appropriation for that purpose."

Superintendent Fish in his report says:

"My recommendations and my expectations for high grade work are based on the assumption that the town will soon select a suitable sight and build thereon a primary school building.

"This should be a one-story building of four rooms for grades 1, 2 and 3 and a public kindergarten. It is not necessary to repeat the arguments in favor of a kindergarten, which have been well stated by my predecessors in office for many years. The primary grades ought to occupy a separate building having a large playground where the rules and regulations are adapted to such grades."

Whatever may be the feelings of the people of Manchester in the matter, it is evident from the expressions of the officials who are entrusted with school affairs that something ought to be done toward relieving the congested condition of the George A. Priest school and providing a place for the lower grades and give an opportunity for a kindergarten school, something which has long been urged.

Manchester has the name of having good schools, — far better than most towns of its size can boast of. And well it might, for the town can well afford to have good schools. This next step, as recommended, is but another step forward in the work of making the schools on a par with the best in the state, and merits the earnest deliberation of every Manchester voter.

Superintendent Fish

Says Building is Needed.

In an interview with the BREEZE man yesterday relative to the question at issue regarding a Primary School building in Manchester, Supt. of Schools Fish said:

"When we consider that less than one per cent. of the public school pupils ever go to the college or university, and hardly five per cent. attend the high school, we see the lack of wisdom of giving distinction to elementary education from the top down, so to speak. And yet the whole history of elementary education shows that until very recent years that has been the case.

"Within the last decade particularly not only professional educators, but thoughtful people generally have come to feel that in this industrial age a more rational system should be employed in the training of our young children.

"What the wisest and best parent in the state wants for his child, the people of Manchester want for their children.

"I believe that the school is a place where the child should live and express his activities, namely: Communication, investigation, constructive notions, artistic expression — art and music, for example.

"The little desks geometrically arranged, which we see crowded into most of our school rooms, suggest a little group of absorbers, listeners, and not a company of workers.

"Educationally, therefore, in the primary school, when, as Horace Mann says, 'Things are growing,' 'one former is worth a thousand reformers.'

"We need a building and grounds surrounding as suggested in the School Committee report, that the little lives may have the best opportunity possible to secure the training for the social conditions and needs of the present day.

"Prof. John Dewey of Chicago University, in speaking of the worth of the University Elementary school, says the every day work of the school shows that the children can live in school as out of it and yet grow daily in wisdom, kindness and the spirit of obedience, that learning may, even with little children, lay hold upon the substance of truth that nourishes the spirit and yet the forms of knowledge be observed and cultivated, and that growth be genuine and thorough and yet a delight.

"Coming more directly to Manchester people, and arguing not from the educational standpoint, but from the requirements of law to provide proper seating room, something must be done in the near future."

Whisperings.

I was somewhat amused in walking into the Beverly Farms station the other day, to see my good friend Rand with his coat collar turned up, his cap pulled down over his ears almost, and his gloves nearby on the desk, and this in spite of the fact the temperature of the office was around 70 degrees.

He threw me a souvenir postal card when I asked him what the matter was, and I saw at once what was the cause of the cold shivers which I could almost feel myself after reading the postal. It was from Thomas Connolly, the well known contractor, who is spending a few weeks in California. Mr. Connolly extended greetings on a beautiful souvenir postal dated Feb. 20, and incidentally said it was 70 in the shade in California.

"Isn't that enough to send the cold shivers up and down your back?" said Mr. Rand. It was about 15 above in the shade that day in Beverly Farms.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

Endorses Mr. Bell.To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

The candidacy of Walter R. Bell for the office of Town Clerk is being vigorously promoted by many citizens, who, besides sharing the enthusiasm that the seasoned youth of Mr. Bell begets, believe in his ability to adorn the office with pleasing adequacy.

Mr. Bell is 27 years of age, and no comparatively young man is so deservedly popular as he. Being educated in Manchester and graduated from her schools, he may fittingly be looked upon as a product of our home institutions. Unlike many of our young men who seek other and larger fields as soon as they attain majority, he remained in Manchester and became a partner in the business of Frank W. Bell & Son. He has served the town as town auditor with peculiar acceptance for three years.

I believe Mr. Bell would bring to the office of the clerkship the fidelity to detail and integrity of judgment which have already marked him as a man of promise. He would bring new blood and an intuitive faculty for things which would be for the best interests of the town, and with all the rest he would bring his characteristic loyalty to Manchester and things American, which Mr. Bell's closest friends consider his chief charm.

IMPARTIALIST.

Manchester, March 2, 1905.

Endorses Mr. Jewett.To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

As our papers are always open to discussion of matters of a public interest, I take this opportunity of saying through your paper a few words, endorsing the re-election of Alfred S. Jewett to the office of Town Clerk.

The conscientious voters of Manchester, I am sure, are unanimous in their opinion that the town would not be bettering itself this year in electing a man to the office of Town Clerk other than the one now serving us. Unlike other offices in the town, I am of the opinion that we can ill afford to make a change in the office of Town Clerk more often than we have to. Mr. Jewett has served the town faithfully for almost a score of years, and the experience which he has gained makes him too valuable a man to lose. Not that I am opposed to the other candidate for this office; but I am confident the voters of this town will see the wisdom of supporting a man with Mr. Jewett's experience in preference to one who is practically inexperienced in the work of this office. Voters, use your keenest judgment at the polls, Monday!

"ONE OF THE VOTERS."

Manchester, March 3, 1905.

A New Town Hall.To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

I see by the Town Report that the school committee asks for a new school house this year. It seems to me that, as the town is sadly in need of a new town hall to accommodate the increased requirements, it would be better for the town to first get a new town hall and then remodel the old building for the requirements of the school department.

Fellow citizens, think it over!

His talks will be illustrated by stereopticon views. The dates are not yet definitely decided upon.

Mother Love.

BY GRACE M. BROWN.

I kneel at your feet,
My tiny queen,
So dimpled and pink and dear,
And I know that all earth is purified
Because of their impress here.

I gaze in your eyes,
My dearie love,
Those eyes of brilliant blue,
And I know that the angels
In worlds above
Must envy their heavenly hue.

I hold you close,
My treasure child,
With a passionate, conscious power,
And I know that the joy
Of heaven and earth
Is mine this holy hour.

I love you, sweetheart,
My dainty one,
With a love beyond compare,
And I know that all life is glorified
Because of my mother prayer.

New Church for Manchester.

Active steps are being taken toward hastening the matter of a new Catholic church for Manchester. Several sites are in view but none has yet been secured.

"We will have a new church by October," said Rev. Fr. John J. Downey, in an interview with the BREEZE man in Manchester, Thursday. "I haven't my land yet, nor the money to build a church, but we will have a new church by October."

Fr. Downey said he was in Manchester that morning looking around, but that he did not have any spot in particular in mind as a site for the new church, but he felt sure something would soon turn up which would open a way for definite action.

While in Boston Fr. Downey made a proud record for himself in the line of raising money for charitable work, so when he starts to build a new church in Manchester it is an assured fact, almost, the church will come.

BEVERLY FARMS.

Mrs. J. M. Publicover has been in Gloucester the past few days, a guest of relatives.

The hook and ladder truck was put back into operation at the engine house again this week, the snow slowly melting and causing quick progress on runners difficult.

The members of the Masons' Union are planning on a smoke talk at Marshall's hall this evening. Lawrence Walsh and William McKeigue are in charge of the affair.

Miss Mary Downey of Boston was a guest of Rev. Fr. John J. Downey the first of the week.

FIRST APPEARANCE.

Baptist Boys' Brigade Enthusiastically Received on Occasion of First Appearance in Manchester.

The seating capacity of the Town hall in Manchester was taxed Monday, when the Baptist Boys' Brigade, organized some months ago by Rev. E. H. Brewster of the Baptist church, made its first public appearance. The program of the exhibition drill and entertainment executed was very enthusiastically received, and well it should be, for the boys did splendidly.

The various drills and manoeuvres put into execution by the young lads, ranging in age from 11 to 18 years, were carried out with precision and accuracy one could scarcely expect with such little training.

Herman C. Swett was commander of the brigade, and the skill in which he handled the boys and ordered them through the various drills added materially to the success of the event.

The program opened with a piano selection by Miss Alice R. Rainville, who rendered in a most creditable manner, "Polke de la Reine," by Raff. This was followed by a company chorus, "The Boys' Brigade Hymn."

The address of welcome was followed by a quartet, "Swing Those Gates Ajar," by Sergt. Hersey, Privates Cool, Younger and Houghton. Capt. Swett then took the company in review on the main floor of the hall, where they were reviewed by Rev. E. H. Brewster; Principal Albert Mead of the G. A. Priest school; Com. E. P. Stanley, Post 67, G.A.R.; Selectman F. K. Swett; Com. L. W. Floyd, Camp 149, S. of V.; Robert Baker and E. S. Bradley.

Following the review Miss Marion G. Scott played Bohm's "Gavotte" and as an encore, "Roumanze" by Cooper.

The exhibition drill of squads A, B and C, Herman Swett, Commander, the manual of arms drill of a squad of twelve, 1st Lieut. Clarence A. Preston, commander; the bayonet drill, squad of twelve, 2d Lieut. Rodney S. Dow, commander, were all excellently executed. During the exhibition drill Capt. Swett ordered the squad to "form square."

This was followed by "Company Kneel," "aim," "fire," and as the guns levelled at the heads of the audience and loaded with caps sounded forth one would have thought they belched forth shot, from the shrieks that followed.

Other numbers very favorably rendered included readings by Miss Harriet Brewster, — "The Broomstick Train," by Holmes, and "What Adam Missed," and a song, "The Gospel Train," by the quartette. The last number on the program was a camp scene. Byron Bullock was the company musician.

Rev. Edward Hersey Brewster, the organizer and president of the Boys' Brigade, made the address of welcome with well-chosen words, in part as follows:

"The Baptist Boys' Brigade is organized to draw within the bounds of Christian influence boys from 11 to 18 years of age. The principles of the institution are simple, though vital. Living up to the three obligations — abstinence from tobacco and profanity, with strict obedience to superior officers — it is planned to educate the boys in morality, patriotism and manliness. The organization is non-sectarian.

REV. E. H. BREWSTER,

"The exhibition drill and entertainment this evening is the product of three months' life as an organization, and is only looked to to serve as a criterion of future possibilities.

"No perfection in the execution of military manoeuvres is hoped for on this occasion, but enough of accuracy and precision as to vindicate the opinion that such a boys' organization is feasible and the youth of Manchester capable in a high degree.

"The boys have worked faithfully and well, and to them belongs whatever of credit may accrue to the B.B.B. because of their work tonight.

"We thank you in behalf of the Council and the boys of the company for your kindly interest and generous patronage. The former we hope always to enjoy, while the latter, it is hoped, will further equip with accoutrements the boys of the brigade."

Lecture in Town Hall.

John A. Pettigrew, superintendent of parks of the City of Boston, has been secured by the North Shore horticultural society to deliver a lecture in the Manchester town hall on Friday evening, March 17, two weeks hence, on "Roadside and Village Improvement." Mr. Pettigrew is one of the best known horticulturalists in the state, and every man, woman and child in Manchester should hear what he has to say on this very interesting subject. No admission will be charged for the lecture.

Fred Basch, caretaker of the Mc-Millan estate, will be the lecturer for the meeting following this, and he will have for his topic, "Poultry and Incubators."

W. R. C. Supper.

There was a New England supper at G. A. R. hall, Manchester, Thursday evening, under the auspices of the W. R. C., and the affair proved quite successful. The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. George Willmonton, Mrs. Jennie Dennis, Mrs. Brewster, Mrs. Alice Preston, Mrs. Lizzie Floyd, Mrs. Fannie Morse, Mrs. Elizabeth Crocker, Mrs. Effie Morgan, Mrs. Lucinda Baker, Mrs. Perry and Mrs. Ellen I. Horton.

On Greenhouse Management.

"Topics on Greenhouse Management" was the subject of a very interesting paper by Kenneth Finlayson of Jamaica Plain before the members of the North Shore Horticultural Society, Manchester, last evening. There was an unusually large number of the members out to the meeting in anticipation of an instructive talk, and they were not in the least disappointed in this object. Mr. Finlayson spoke of greenhouses and their management in general, pointing out whereby the best results may be obtained, and in reply to questions asked at the close of his talk he gave some good instruction relative to ventilation, size of pipes for heating, temperature for miscellaneous plants, for roses and carnations, method of ridding houses of mildew, use of lime, fertilizers, etc.

Town Reports.

The annual report of the receipts and expenditures of the town of Manchester for the year ending Feb. 1, is published and was distributed about town Wednesday.

It is a well gotten up volume and reflects great credit on Town Auditor Bell as well as upon the printers. Several new departures have been made this year, new reports are included and a list of the qualified voters is also included. As last year, the School and Water Department reports are published with the other reports, but these have been printed separate also for the convenience of the respective departments.

The report was printed by the NORTH SHORE BREEZE print, at the finely equipped office of the Beverly Printing company (successors to W. L. Maloon & Co.), where all the BREEZE work is done, and is a fair example of the excellent work executed at that office.

Bon Voyage.

William Hoare and George S. Sinicks of Manchester, two of the best known business men on the North Shore, departed from Boston Tuesday on the Ivernia for England, and did not the pleasure of the trip repay them for the journey, the royal "send-off" given them by a score or more friends and business associates would suffice to make the event long remembered by them.

When they left Manchester on the noon train Tuesday they were accompanied by a party of friends who went to see that they were safely started on their journey. Among the number were Oliver T. Roberts, Raymond C. Allen, Supt. George Kimball, William W. Hoare, A. E. Hersey, M. J. Callahan, A. A. Cushing, Fred J. Merrill and James Hoare.

The party dined at a Boston hotel before starting for the pier at East Boston, where a still larger number had assembled to wish them bon voyage, including members of the Master Builders association, Jasper Pope, the Beverly lumber dealer; Stephen and Gregory Connolly of Beverly Farms, E. A. Lane, D. T. Beaton, J. W. Carter and Chief Peabody. And to add to the pleasure of this all who went to the boat remembered the travellers with flowers, cigars, "bait for fishing," etc.

The occasion proved a very pleasant one indeed, and was but a small measure of the good feeling for the two very popular men. Mrs. Sinnicks and Mrs. Fred Johnson were also at the boat. Mr. Hoare and Mr. Sinnicks had state rooms opposite each other. Many of the visitors were shown over the steamer before the time for departure had arrived.

Hose-Laying Contest.

Hose company 2 of Peabody won the hose-laying contest in City hall, Beverly, last night, under the auspices of Hose 2 of Beverly. The Beverly Farms Hook and Ladder company 2 won second honor. The time and order of the contesting teams follow: Hose 2, Peabody, 18 3-5 sec.; Hook and Ladder 2, Beverly, 18 4-5 sec.; Hose 3, Peabody, 21 sec.; Hose 5, Peabody, 22 sec.; Hose 2, Danvers, 22 3-5 sec.; Hook and Ladder 1, Beverly, 26 sec.; Steamer 2, Salem, 26 2-5 sec.; Hose 4, Beverly, 27 2-5 sec.; Hose 3, Beverly, 28 4-5 sec.; Steamer 2, Beverly, 29 sec.; Ladder 2, Salem, 29 sec.; Steamer 3, Beverly, 32 sec.

There were some 60 couples in the grand march, and as many more on the floor later in the evening. Capt. Brown of Hose 2 and his daughter led the grand march.

The two teams representing the Beverly Farms department were: E. Fred Day and George H. Burchstead of the Hook and Ladder, and Willard B. Publicover and D. T. Smith of Engine 3.

Miss B. Theresa Dillon arrived Thursday for a few days' visit at her home on Brook street. Miss Dillon has been pursuing a course of study at Carney hospital, South Boston, and was graduated from that institution this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Torrey left Thursday for a few days' visit with friends in Boston.

The Second Corps Cadets Garterfest in Salem the past week has attracted many Manchester people.

John Murney of Beverly has been operating at the local telephone exchange the past few nights, the regular operator, Hollis Bell, being kept at home by ill-health.

James K. Pulsifer and Charles Sawyer have been on the sick list this week, both being confined to their homes.

Born, Feb. 17, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Peters, Washington street.

Rev. A. A. Berle, a Congregational pastor of Salem, has been secured by the local G. A. R. for the Memorial Day address in Manchester.

Mrs. Mary E. Hill, one of Manchester's nonagenarians, is quite ill at her Norwood avenue home.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Willmonton started Wednesday afternoon for Washington, where they are taking in the inaugural exercises today. The trip, however, is not wholly for pleasure, for while at the Capital Mr. Willmonton will interview several of the foreign embassies with whom he has been corresponding, with a view to inducing them to come to Manchester this summer. They will spend the balance of the month in Baltimore, after leaving Washington.

E. Wallace Stanley has been in Boston most of the week as delegate to the annual convention of the Grand Lodge, A.O.U.W. Lewis Killam, a past delegate, was also an attendant at the convention.

Charles W. Fritz sustained a painful accident Tuesday morning while doing some light work at his home. He has been confined to his home all the week as a result.

William J. Lethbridge, who formerly carried on a plumbing business on Beach street, has this week sold out to Edward S. Bradley, the Central street plumber. Mr. Lethbridge has not decided definitely on his future course as yet.

The second degree was worked upon three candidates at the meeting of Magnolia lodge, 149, I.O.O.F., Thursday evening.

Will Go to California.

Two Manchester men will start next Tuesday for the warm climes of California.

Lewis Martin, a Manchester boy, for the past nine years with S. S. Pierce & Co., Tremont Street, Boston, will sail from New York on the S. S. Advance for Panama, and thence by the Pacific Mail for San Francisco. He goes primarily for his health, though should the right opportunity present itself he will settle in California. After spending a couple of months in San Francisco he will go inland about 150 miles and spend sometime with a friend, and from there he will go to Southern California. Mr. Martin was in Manchester a few days this week bidding farewell to his friends, but left yesterday and after spending a few days with his sister in Beverly will go to New York.

Sydney C. P. Jordan, who has been employed as foreman by the Manchester Electric Company the past year, concluded his work Thursday and will start with his family next Tuesday for Northern California, where a bright prospect in the ranching business awaits Mr. Jordan. His uncle, now about 80 years old, owns a ranch with some 2000 acres of rich, fertile land, and it is here the young Manchester man will seek his fortune. The best wishes of a host of friends go with him.

George E. Andrews, for many years sexton at the Baptist church, will next Wednesday remove his family to Roslindale, where they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur L. Melvin (Miss Ida Andrews). Mr. Andrews himself will not leave here till the middle of this month.

[From our Correspondent.]

The Hesperus Hotel was sold at auction Feb. 25. It was bought by Frank D. Bennett of Gloucester for $1000 and the present mortgages and back taxes or other encumbrances. The Gloucester Safe Deposit and Trust Company hold a mortgage of $20,000, the Fuller heirs $5000, and Mrs. M. M. McClure $5000.

The chafing dish party given by the Y.P.S.C.E. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan May, Tuesday evening was very well attended, about 40 young people being present. The feature of the evening was the cobweb. Strings were strung from the cellar to the upper story and on the end of each string was a fortune for a lady or a gentleman. The fortunes were mostly in rhyme and furnished much amusement. An admission of 20 cents was charged and was given towards the parsonage fund.

The whist party given by Mrs. Frank F. Story Wednesday afternoon was a very pleasant affair, about 24 people being present. A light collation of ice cream and cake was served. About $5 was realized towards the parsonage.

The Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. William Symonds this week.

Mrs. Robert B. Williams and daughter of Boston, are registered at the Stanley cottage.

Mr. Willard's Last Week.

Mr. E. S. Willard, who has been cordially welcomed back to Boston by large audiences, has only one more week to stop at the Tremont Theatre, and in response to almost innumerable requests, will devote it entirely to revivals of plays which he has presented during previous visits. On Monday and Tuesday evenings and at the Wednesday matinee, Mr. Willard will give his powerful impersonation of Cyrus Blenkarn in "The Middleman." On Wednesday evening Mr. Willard's polished, graceful and fervent performance of "David Garrick" will be the attraction. Thursday and Friday evenings and the Saturday matinee will be given up to Barrie's delightful comedy, "The Professor's Love Story," in which Mr. Willard plays the dear old absent-minded, warm-hearted Prof. Goodwillie, who falls in love without knowing it, and renews his youth, to the astonishment of all who know him. Mr. Willard will take his farewell on Saturday evening, in the role of Dickens' "Tom Pinch."

Harry Floyd has been going about on crutches the past week as the result of an accident while coasting on High School hill, Monday night. While enjoying the sport with other boys he was thrown from his sled and struck with considerable force against an iron post, severely injuring his leg but fortunately not breaking it.

Mrs. W. S. C. Russell and son, Stanton of Springfield, have been spending the week with Dr. and Mrs. Glendenning, School street.

The friends of Levi Harvie, who was taken to the Beverly hospital several weeks ago for treatment, are pleased to see him home again much improved in health.

Thomas O'Brien, coachman for the E. C. Fitches, has come to Manchester with Mr. Fitch's horses and will spend the rest of the winter here. Until Mr. and Mrs. Fitch return from abroad, Mr. O'Brien will live at the Manchester House.

The Manchester brass band annual grand ball will occur sometime in April, a committee now having the matter in charge.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Brown of Everett were guests over Sunday of Miss C. E. Brown, School street.

Miss Martha C. Knight returned this week from an extended visit with her friend Mrs. Glover, at Lowell.

Reilley — McDonald.

At the parochial residence in Beverly Farms Wednesday evening, Bernard Joseph Reilley of Manchester and Miss Mary E. MacDonald of Dorchester were united in marriage by Rev. Fr. John J. Downey. James Clarke of Salem, a cousin of the groom, acted as best man, and Miss Ellen MacDonald, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

A wedding supper followed at the house, off Lincoln street, being occupied by the couple, at which were present some fifty friends. Nearly 100 attended the reception during the evening.

The groom is well known in horticultural circles along the North Shore, he being gardener and caretaker of "Stone Lea," the beautiful summer estate of Miss Bartlett, at Old Neck, Manchester.

The Democratic Town Committee met Monday evening and organized for the year as follows: Theodore C. Rowe, chairman; Charles C. Dodge, secretary; Theodore C. Rowe, treasurer.

Merely Mary Ann.

Miss Eleanor Robson, whose long success in "Merely Mary Ann" in London and New York has made her one of the foremost international actresses of the day will be the attraction at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, for two weeks beginning Monday, March 6. Miss Robson has just returned from London where she has had one of the most remarkable engagements ever played by an American actress in the British metropolis.

"Merely Mary Ann", the play in which Miss Robson has scored this wonderful success is by Israel Zangwill and tells a simple and pathetic little story of life in a cheap London lodging house.

Her supporting company this season is an exceptionally strong one, headed by Mr Frank Mills, a handsome young leading man, whose latest stage triumphs have been scored in London in the companies of Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Mr. Beerbohm Tree, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Mr. Forbes Robertson and Miss Lena Ashwell. Others in the cast are: Miss Ada Dwyer, Mr. Ernest Mainwaring, a clever English actor, Mrs. Ida Vernon, Mrs. Kate Pattison Selten, Mr. Russell Bassett, Mr. Thomas Graham, Mr. Wm. A. Hackett, Mr. Arthur Story, Miss Margaret Fuller, Miss Louise Lovell, Miss Violet Houk and the Misses Helen and Ethel Strickland.

Nearly 600 Voters.

Twenty-one names have been added to the list of qualified voters of the Town of Manchester during the past month, thus bringing the total number of voters to 581,—the largest number ever qualified to vote in the town. Many of the new names were added to the list at the last meeting of the Board of Registrars Saturday evening, when the last opportunity for registration prior to town meeting next week was given. There were 562 qualified voters here at the time of the presidential election, but since that time two deaths have occurred and the twenty-one names just added brings the total to 581.

The names added to the list during the last sessions of the registrars follow:

Edwin J. Rumrill, A. S. Martin, George N. Sanborn, James Read, Robert Allen, Harry G. Morton, Jos. J. A. Vasconcellos, John L. Silva, S. Parker Bremer, Arthur Walker, Jose A. Sousa, Michael G. Revelas, John Reilly, Patrick Rudin, Albert E. Peters, Richard C. Newman, Thomas B. MacDonald, Leslie B. Mason, John Gustavansen, Fred F. Brasch and Wade A. Brooks.

There are also at the present time sixteen qualified female voters registered.

Just Think

For a moment. Do you really know of anything that has quite the style, quite the tone of a Brass Bed? What housekeeper's mouth doesn't fairly water at the mere thought of owning one? Did you ever "think" or have you always forbidden yourself that pleasure because of your idea of the cost? Now listen to us:

Our Brass Beds

Are the best the country produces. A laquer that holds is what they're famous for; but for all that they don't alter our principle of little price making—For instance: Full 1 1/4 in. jointed posts, 5 1/2 ft. high, 3/4 in. cross pieces and 1/2 in. filling. TOWN MEETING

AT MANCHESTER.

Unruffled by Fiery Debate, the Annual Meeting is Held without Least Sign of a Storm.

With not the least sign of a storm, and only an occasional flurry of excitement as someone innocently dropped a harmless missile into the of the meeting. This was due, no doubt, to the work of the appropriation committee, which does a great deal of the debating before town meeting is held, and thus does away with much of the trivial old time arguing.

There were no particular issues in hand this year, and, save in the election of town officers there was little or quiet waters sending out an inoffensive ripple to be lost among the good nature of the assembled voters, the annual town meeting of the Town of Manchester was held all day Monday and Tuesday evening.

The town meetings of five, ten or fifteen years ago, when words were flung aimlessly about hitting whom they may, and when fiery debates were the order of the day, would have paled in shame along side of this week's meeting.

The celerity in the dispatch of business, the easy manner in which everything was done, and the lack of heated arguments were the features

ALFRED S. JEWETT,
Re-elected Town Clerk.

no interest. The meeting opened at 9 o'clock Monday morning and many of the unimportant matters to come before the meeting were disposed of. The polls opened for the election of officers at 12 o'clock and closed at 5.30. There were 444 ballots cast.

One of the most interesting contests this year was for the town clerkship, between A. S. Jewett and former Town Auditor W. R. Bell. But despite the interest in this, however, there were 85 blank votes cast, and Mr. Jewett polled 207 votes to Mr. Bell's 150.

Fred K. Swett polled high vote for the office of selectmen, being re-elected with 289 votes. Mr. Kitfield followed with 286 votes, and E. S. Knight, the new member on the board received 227.

Frank G. Cheever won the auditorship hands down, polling a total of 269 votes. Allen S. Peabody followed with 70.

The vote for Park Commissioner for three years was the closest, Chas. O. Howe being re-elected by only twelve votes over J. S. Reed, who polled 195.

The license vote stood 245 "No" against 177 "Yes."

At town meeting, a detailed account of which will be found on other pages, more than $140,000 was appropriated and much of general interest was done. The salaries of the town treasurer and clerk of the water board were increased $200 and $100 a year, respectively; $9,000 was appropriated for the improvement of Beach, Masconomo and Proctor streets; the school committee was empowered to select a suitable lot for a new school building; the water board was authorized to employ an engineer and have surveys made as regards a high service water supply; money was appropriated for a series of band concerts the coming summer; and a vote was passed to distribute the town histories one to each family in the town free of cost.

Thousands Appropriated

by Manchester Voters.

It took little time for the Manchester voters to vote away over an eighth of a million dollars at town meeting this week. When the meeting closed Monday night $63,820.25 had been appropriated, but when the meeting adjourned Tuesday night, $142,904.37 had been passed upon, and more than $54,000 of this amount was included in the last motion.

The amounts, with the purpose for which they were appropriated, follow in the order in which they were voted:

Observance of Memorial Day.....	$200.00
Aid for soldiers.....	100.00
Reimburse pupils of S. H. school amount paid for rent of hall.....	5.50

What Was Said and Done at Town Meeting.

Town Meeting was called to order at 9 o'clock, Monday morning, by Clerk A. S. Jewett, who read the warrant, there being present at that time about thirty-five voters.

Article 1.—Franklin K. Hooper was elected moderator without opposition. After being sworn in he thanked the voters for the honor, stating that it was the tenth consecutive year he had been thus honored.

The following tellers were sworn in by the moderator: Raymond C. Allen, James Hoare, T. C. Rowe, Walter R. Bennett, Richard J. Baker, L. W. Floyd. George P. Dole, not being then present, was sworn in later.

E. P. Stanley moved that all unexpended balances of all appropriations of the past year be counted in the treasury. Carried.

C. O. Howe moved that relative to Art. 3 the polls be open at 12 o'clock and close at 5.30. Carried.

F. K. Swett moved that all questions in doubt be decided by hand vote. Carried.

Art. 2.—The reports of the various town officers and committees were heard and accepted.

The recommendation in the report of the Park Commissioners, that all departments having waste material to remove from the streets deposit the same at the Beach street park was accepted; and it was also voted, upon suggestion of the trustees of cemeteries, that the thanks of the town be extended to E. S. Knight for the gift of an urn for the new cemetery.

Art. 4, to accept list of jurors.—W. W. Hoare, John F. Babcock, Howard M. Stanley, T. C. Rowe and Alexander Carter begged to be excused, and on motion of R. C. Allen the list was referred to the selectmen for revision.

Art. 32.—Upon motion of E. P. Stanley the sum of $200 was appropriated for the observance of Memorial Day.

Art. 47. — $100 was appropriated upon motion of E. P. Stanley to be entrusted to the Quartermaster of Post 67, G.A.R.

Art. 36. — Moved by E. A. Lane to reimburse the pupils of the Story High school to the sum of $5.50, such sum having been paid for the rent of town hall on the evening of Dec. 22.

Art. 33. — $500 was appropriated upon motion of C. O. Howe for the celebration of July 4.

Art. 46. — E. P. Stanley moved $1,500 be appropriated, for State and Military Aid. Carried.

Art. 23. — The sum of $1,000 was appropriated, upon motion of C. O. Howe for the maintenance of Parks.

Art. 50. calling for a portion to the town farm, possibly 125 feet square, to be set apart for the benefit of the children at the Cove as a playground, was taken up on motion of William H. Haskell. Selectman Swett stated that Henry Menkin had brought to the board a petition calling for its insertion in the warrant. Mr. Menkin had stated that the children of the Cove had no place to play except in the roadway, which was particularly dangerous, being at the foot of Crafts hill, where automobiles and carriages were continually passing; that he thought if the town gave temporarily a portion of the poor farm not used, for the purpose of a play-ground it would be a great benefit to the people of that section. Mr. Swett added that he could see no reason why this could not be done.

Supt. Kimball moved Art. 50 be referred to the Overseers of the Poor, to take such action as they deemed proper. Carried.

Art. 35. — C. O. Howe moved $400 be appropriated for a series of band concerts to be given by the Manchester band on the common during the season of 1905.

E. P. Stanley: "I do not object to the band concerts, but when you come to figure up accounts in the town hall, on a Saturday evening, with the band playing 'Yankee Doodle,' 'Marching Through Georgia,' etc., on the common, and there are 40 youngsters running through the corridors, you don't know whether 2 and 2 make 4 or 17. So I say, while I do not object to the concerts, I think part could be played elsewhere than on the common."

F. K. Hooper: "I should prefer some other night than Saturday."

(It is understood $400 will permit of 12 concerts—one each week for three months.) Motion carried.

Art. 34. — J. H. Rivers: "As we have voted money for a band now we want a band stand. I motion that in accordance with the recommendation of the appropriation committee $225 be appropriated for a band stand." Carried.

Art. 53. — F. K. Swett moved $250 be appropriated for installing a system of plumbing at the almshouse. Carried.

The selectmen at this point reported on the jury list as revised, the following names being added: J. H. Rivers, Robert A. Mitchell, Arthur S. Martin, Levi A. Dunn, Samuel A. Sinnicks. Messrs. Martin, Dunn and Mitchell wished to be excused, whereupon there was some discussion as to the number supposed to be on the list. Mr. Swett said there was supposed to be one juror for each hundred inhabitants. Mr. Kimball then moved that the list of jurors as revised and recommended by the selectmen be accepted. Carried.

Art. 24, to see what action the town would take in the disposition of the town histories, was called for by F. K. Swett, who stated there was some 900 volumes in the basement of the town hall going to waste.

N. P. Meldrum moved that the histories be given away, one to each family in town, and this started a lively discussion.

Librarian Bingham said the motion was a good one and suggested that the balance of the books be put in the public library. The histories, he thought, would be much more valuable fifteen years hence than now.

E. P. Stanley: "I move the selectmen be authorized to distribute the histories to such of the townspeople as apply and that the rest be stored in the Memorial building. The vault is not fit to keep valuable books and papers in. I wouldn't give two cents for papers kept there."

R. C. Allen: "I think a certain number of the books should be given to the library and the rest given away."

J. A. Torrey: "Can the selectmen say how many volumes there are on hand?"

Mr. Swett: "About 900."

Mr. Torrey: "I don't believe they should be given away. They are valuable and before many years they will be very much more valuable."

Mr. Bingham: "There doesn't seem to be that spirit of town patriotism to buy the histories of the town which we ought to have. I think a good plan is to distribute the books and put the balance in the hands of the trustees of the public library."

Mr. Dodge: "I think we should force these books upon the people by distributing them."

Mr. Torrey: "I don't believe in forcing them upon the people. I would suggest they be sent to every public library in the state that the praises of the town might be heralded far and near."

None of the motions having been recognized, Mr. Meldrum moved that copies of the town histories be distributed, one to each family in the town, under the direction of the selectmen, and the balance be placed in care of the Librarian. Carried.

Art. 21. — $4,000 was appropriated for the maintenance of the Fire Department upon motion of E. P. Stanley.

Art. 22, to see if the town would appropriate $800 to equip the fire alarm system with complete storage batteries and switch board. Fire Engineer James Hoare stated that this system is the safest and best system in use. Motion for appropriation carried.

Art. 13. — $16,500 was appropriated for the support of public schools, upon motion of E. A. Lane.

Art. 18. — E. P. Stanley moved $4,300 and "police credits" be appropriated for the maintenance of the Police Department.

F. K. Hooper said he didn't believe in that way of doing business. He believed in appropriating a definite sum and letting the credits go back to the town. O. T. Roberts gave similar expression.

In connection with Art. 32 (passed upon), J. H. Rivers asked that the use of the town hall for the day and evening of Memorial Day be granted to the Grand Army. Granted.

Art. 17. — O. T. Roberts motioned that $350 be appropriated to protect the school houses from lightning.

E. P. Stanley: "I object to this for one, because the two school houses now have better protection than any wires that could be put there would give them, and that is the flag-staffs and trees."

O. T. Roberts: "I don't think Mr. Stanley knows anything about electricity or lightning. One of the best experts in the country says wires are the best protection against lightning. There are three or four buildings struck in Manchester each year. From my experience those protected by lightning rods are best guarded. If lightning rods are any protection it seems to me we can't afford to let our school buildings go unprotected for the sake of $350. Motion carried."

At 11.40 Moderator Hooper declared a recess and the polls for the election of the various officers were open from 12 to 5.30.

Total appropriations, $30,130.50.

MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA

Undeveloped parcels of land from one to thirty acres. Good view of ocean. Great opportunity to buy for building purposes or investment. ORRIN A MARTIN, Summer street, Manchester, Mass.

Monday Evening's Session.

Monday evening session opened at 7.30.

Otis Lane, R. J. Baker and E. Wallace Stanley asked to have their names stricken from the jury list. Upon motion of George Kimball the names were withdrawn and the list remains as then standing.

Article 3. To choose all other town officers.

Fence viewers: E. A. Lane, James Hoare, F. J. Merrill.

Measurers of lumber: O. T. Roberts, Lewis Killam, C. C. Dodge.

Measurers of wood: George Kimball, C. C. Dodge, W. C. Rust.

Field drivers: George L. Knight, R. C. Allen, Geo. H. Watson.

Pound keeper: Alfred C. Hooper.

Raymond C. Allen was nominated for this position but stated that inasmuch as he had served in the office last year and as the press had stated he was not a candidate for the office for re-election he declined to serve, whereupon A. C. Hooper, whose candidacy was stated exclusively in the BREEZE some weeks ago was appointed.

Mr. Hooper, it is understood, will make several improvements on the pound, among which will be the purchase of a new lock and key.

Art. 5. On motion of Albert Cunningham, the moderator re-appointed F. P. Knight, D. T. Beaton and John Baker on the appropriation committee.

Art. 48. Edwin P. Stanley moved that $1,400 and dog tax ($278.75) be appropriated for the support of the Public Library. Carried.

Art. 25. N. P. Meldrum motioned that appropriations in accordance with the recommendations of the Water Commissioners be made as follows: $3,000 for services and extensions, together with receipts from services and sale of pipe; $7,500 for maintenance; $500 for improvements; $3,000 for meters.

Mr. Cunningham: "How much longer will the Water Commissioners call for $500 for improvements?"

Mr. Meldrum: "As long as improvements are needed." Motion carried.

Mr. Meldrum moved that $800 be appropriated for official salaries for the Water Commissioners, $600 for the clerk and $100 each for the other two members, explaining this was $100 more than last year. Carried.

Art. 26. A special appropriation of $1,500 was made to employ a competent engineer and have surveys made as regards a high service water supply.

N. P. Meldrum moved that a rebate of $11 be granted to the Horticultural society, being the sum paid by them for the use of the town hall on Oct. 26, and Nov. 10, 1904, also that the society be granted use of the hall for a free lecture on the evening of March 17. Carried.

At this point the moderator read "A suggestion for the town of Manchester" concerning beach property from G. E. Sjolund, who suggested that a border of plants and shrubs be set along the bank at Singing beach, fronting the Wood and Cochrane estates, and that the matter be left with the Park Commissioners.

Art. 6. It was voted on motion of F. K. Swett that the matter of repairs and improvements of highways, bridges, etc., be left under the direction of the selectmen.

Art. 7. $750 was appropriated on motion of E. P. Stanley for concreting the sidewalks on Lincoln street between School and Arbella streets.

Art. 8. $575 was appropriated for extending concrete walk on Summer street from Lincoln to Forest.

Art. 9. $400 was appropriated for concreting the sidewalk on the northerly side of Pleasant street between School and Essex.

Art. 10. $500 was appropriated for constructing a sidewalk on the northerly side of Tappan street, without edgestones.

Art. 11. On motion of F. P. Knight $9,000 was appropriated to "thoroughly repair with crushed stone Beach street from the railroad crossing to Masconomo street, Masconomo street from Beach to its termination, and Proctor street from its junction with Masconomo to the town landing."

Art. 12. To see if the town would vote to build a retaining wall in certain places on Forest street, opposite the house of Daniel Edgecomb, passed over on motion of O. T. Roberts.

Albert Cunningham: "Why should the appropriation committee pass over this article in their report?"

A. C. Needham: "The petitioners on this article were granted a hearing, but they did not appear. The superintendent of streets was called in conference but he thought a retaining wall not necessary, and such action would not result so much to the good of the town as to the abutters."

Art. 14. F. P. Knight moved that the town empower the School Committee to select a suitable lot of land for a school building and to report at the adjourned meeting. Carried.

Mr. Cunningham: "I would suggest that they also report price at which lot can be bought."

Art. 15. On motion of Albert Cunningham the subject matter of this article, to the effect that the town purchase a lot of land for school purposes and erect thereon a school building, be laid on the table till the adjourned meeting.

Art. 16. Voted on motion of C. O. Howe that the $300 be appropriated for the improvement and maintenance of the Playground.

Art. 19. F. P. Knight moved that $175 be appropriated for maintenance of relaying of police clock system.

Moderator: "What does this mean?"

Mr. Knight: "The selectmen have requested the telephone company to remove their poles from Beach street, where the telephone conduits have just been laid, and as the police clock system wires are on these poles they too will have to be moved and re-set." Carried.

Art. 20. F. K. Swett moved that $100 be appropriated for re-varnishing and care of ambulance. Carried.

Art. 27. Voted on motion of Mr. Swett that $500 be appropriated for the use of the Board of Health.

Art. 28. C. C. Dodge moved that $7,000 be appropriated for street lighting.

F. K. Swett moved that when meeting adjourned it be adjourned till 7.30 o'clock Tuesday evening, and followed this with a motion that Art. 28, bearing on street lights, be assigned till Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, saying that Mr. Garcia, the manager of the Welsbach Lighting Co., would be present at that time. Carried.

Art. 29. On lighting town hall building by electricity. E. P. Stanley moved the selectmen be a committee to get estimates as to the cost of installing electric lights in the town hall. Carried.

R. C. Lincoln stated the trustees of the Public Library building had intended to insert an article in the warrant for installing light in the memorial building and public library. (This will probably come before the adjourned meeting.)

Art. 30. F. P. Knight moved that $3,550 be appropriated for compensation of the town officers and town committees.

Town Treasurer E. P. Stanley: "It is with a great deal of reluctance that I get up at the present time and ask for an increase of salary. But I am going to give my reasons for so doing."

Joseph N. Lipman of this town was one of the lucky prize-winners at the garten-fest of the Second Corps Cadets in Salem last week. At the contest table Mr. Lipman won a beautiful Pierce bicycle (lady's), and in the "shutzen-fest" he made the highest scores on Monday and Saturday evenings, shooting 139 on the former and 127 on the latter evening, 139 being next to the highest score of the week. A box of cigars was offered for prize each evening.

Sidney Marshall and Abbott Hoare attended the class social of the Gloucester High school, Monday evening.

Miss Mary H. Northend of Salem was in town Tuesday collecting data for a magazine article on the early furniture business in Manchester.

Miss Grace Allen is reported recovering from the effects of an operation for appendicitis, performed at a private hospital in Boston last Saturday.

Henry T. Bingham was appointed administrator to the estate of the late Mary J. Bingham, his mother, in the Probate court, Salem, Monday.

Thomas Wiggin and M. A. McInnes returned to Manchester Tuesday from Jamaica, where they went last fall to work with a Lynn contractor in the construction of a large hotel. Despite the attractive weather in that zone, they expressed themselves as exceedingly glad to get back to good old New England and Manchester once more. They returned from Jamaica to New York on the United Fruit company's boat "Lilly."

Miss Wing of Wareham is a guest of her brother, Oscar Wing, and family, School street.

Richard L. Cheever was in Boston over Sunday, a guest of Albert Cunningham. Mr. Cheever, by the way, has just ordered a new six-horse power engine for his naphtha launch, to take the place of the two-horse power engine he used last summer.

Mrs. Chas. E. Bullard of Peterboro, N.H., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lodge, returning here last Saturday with Mrs. Lodge.

The Phi Alpha Pi society held an interesting meeting last evening, a feature of the program being a dialogue between Samuel Knight and John Gray. A week ago Walter Fleming was initiated into the secrets of the order. The boys are getting ready for some out-door sports this spring, and may have a team to compete against other boys' club teams. They are also to have a checker tournament soon.

W. S. C. Russell returned to Springfield last Sunday, after a few days' visit with Dr. and Mrs. Glendenning. Mrs. Russell has been spending the rest of the week here.

Rev. D. F. Lamson was in town Monday, coming here from Boston to vote.

Among those home Monday for town meeting were Lewis M. Bullock, Albert Cunningham and Frank Clark.

The third degree will be worked upon three candidates at the meeting next week of Magnolia lodge of Odd Fellows.

To Cope with Moths.

Under orders from the general office the Eastern Division road department of the Boston & Maine railroad has organized a department to cope with the gypsy and brown-tail moths on land under its control.

All the trees and shrubs around all the stations from Boston to Portland, including the branch roads, and all the trees alongside the tracks for the same distance, will be carefully cleared of the nests of these tree pests. The work will be most thoroughly done by the regular road department employees.

Society Notes.

An interesting season is in store for North Shore golfists if indications are correct. Besides the big event of the year — the open championship of the U. S. Golf association — to be held at the Myopia Hunt club the latter part of September, two other events which will attract a large number of amateur golfers are already scheduled for the Hamilton links. Applications have been made to Secretary Freeman of the Massachusetts Golf association for open amateur meetings at these links for Memorial Day (Tuesday) and for Saturday, June 10.

No definite schedule is arranged as yet, of course, for the Essex County club, though it may be expected some attractive meetings will be run during the season. Last year's open tournament was such a good success that another may be booked for the coming season.

Among the most recent weddings of interest to North Shore folk was that last week of Joseph Earle Stevens and Miss Marion Ludlow Whitaker, which took place in Grace church, New York. Mr. Stevens spends his summers at Manchester-by-the-Sea, and is one of the most popular of the young men.

Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge, who had intended to go to Jamaica, changed his plans and left last week for California. Among others in the party was Miss Hetty Sargent, who decided at the last moment to accompany her grandfather. They will be gone until April, and soon after their return they will open their houses in

Charles Hawtrey in "A Message from Mars."

The eminent English comedian, Charles Hawtrey, will be seen at the Park Theatre, Boston, for two weeks only, beginning March 13. Two years ago Mr. Hawtrey achieved a phenomenal success with this comedy at the Boston Museum, where it was played for seven weeks to audiences that taxed the capacity of that historic playhouse.

Mr. Hawtrey is the best and most agreeable comedian that England has sent us in many years. He is supported by his own company, numbering 30, the majority of whom have been with the play since its first presentation.

"A Message from Mars" is certainly unique. Mechanical devices are admirably used to point the moral and adorn the tale. The dialogue is of the brightest, snappiest sort, with many a delightful turn and twist.

Mr. George Goodrich and Miss Roxine Goodrich of Newburg, Maine, are visiting Beverly friends.

The annual meeting of the Dane Street parish was held on Tuesday evening. A prosperous state of affairs was revealed by the various reports.

Dr. Clarence O. Hood has been chosen president of the newly-formed Beverly Automobile club. Louis P. Baker is vice-president, while Dr. C. Boardman Burnham will keep the records and handle the money.

The Beverly Improvement society has offered a special prize of $15 to the boy making the largest collection of brown-tail moth nests at Beverly Farms. Dudley L. Pickman has also offered $5 to the Cove boy making the largest collection. The total number of nests destroyed so far is approximately 400,000.

A lunch room is to be opened in the Crosby block.

Miss Sara A. Herrick entertained several Beverly and Salem friends with a chafing dish party at her home on Hale street, Wednesday evening.

Miss Charlotte Fairfield has leased one of the offices in the Ropes building, and will open coal headquarters about April 1.

The men's class of the Baptist church will give a sociable for men in the vestry next Thursday evening, at which time there will be an entertainment and address by Rev. H. J. White of Beverly.

The Ever Ready Circle of King's Daughters will meet next Wednesday evening with Mrs. Gustave A. Knoerr.

"God's house and why we should honor it," will be the topic of the Junior Christian Endeavor meeting tomorrow afternoon. Leader, John Carter.

Miss Etta Woodbury will conduct the Y.P.S.C.E. meeting tomorrow evening instead of Dr. R. T. Glendenning, as announced on the cards. Topic, "The Power of His Resurrection."

Rev. Dr. A.W. Moore of Lynn will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church tomorrow.

Fifth Anniversary.

The members of Seaside lodge, Degree of Honor, of Manchester, enjoyed a very pleasant time Wednesday evening, it being the occasion of the fifth anniversary of the institution of the lodge. After roll-call, old fashioned games, a candy pull and a well gotten up collation were much enjoyed.

After the next regular meeting of the lodge, Mar. 22, a whist party will be held for members and friends, and progressive dominoes will be played by those who do not enjoy whist.

MANCHESTER.

George W. Andrews expects to leave Manchester this afternoon for his new home in Roslindale. His family and household goods left Wednesday. It is with keenest regret that Mr. and Mrs. Andrews part with their life long friends here and go to a new home.

Superintendent of Schools Perkins of Salem was in town over Sunday a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Leach. Mrs. Perkins, Mrs. Leach's mother, has been spending the past two weeks with her.

Miss Annie L. Knight returned to her Dorchester home Sunday after a delightful visit of a few days with her sister, Mrs. E. S. Knight.

Mrs. Fred M. Johnson entertained the Friday Afternoon Whist club at her Bennett street home yesterday.

The Haphazard club will meet Monday evening with Miss Edith L. Wheaton, Norwood avenue.

An inventory was granted at the probate court in Salem Monday on the estate of the late Mary A. Colter for $4,300.

George Woodbury, janitor at the Boston & Maine station, met with quite a painful accident at the station Tuesday afternoon which necessitated three stitches being taken in his left hand. While putting the lamps in their position in the waiting room one of the lamps fell in some unaccountable manner, struck the step ladder and broke, and as George was descending the steps he cut a severe gash in his left wrist.

Charles Hill of Springfield was in town Tuesday visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Mary E. Hill, who is reported somewhat improved in health the past week. Mrs. Hill will pass her 91st birthday the twentieth of this month.

Miss Myra Marshall, who formerly taught in the Story High school, was in town Wednesday.

THE SOCIAL GLASS.

Liberty of the Individual Destroyed by its Foul Touch, says Manchester Minister —An Illiterate at the Polls is Safer Than a Drunkard.

A congregation that filled every seat in the house heard Rev. E. H. Brewster preach at the Baptist church, last Sunday evening, on temperance, the subject being "Ways and Means." As the people entered the church each was presented with a little white bow of ribbon by the temperance committee of the B.Y.P.U. J. Davis Baker and Mrs. E. H. Preston sang a duet.

Mr. Brewster took his text from Mark 10:39. He said in part:

"In discussing the temperance problem as it affects our community, it is incumbent upon the speaker to conjoin the suggestion of some specific remedy with a truthful relation of the malady.

"In our day we are accustomed to hear much about the social qualities of the saloon, and to hear this act of physical debauchery disingenuously styled 'the taking of a social glass.' No glass of liquor ever yet promoted sociability. The hilarious and oftentimes riotous vein so often assumed by a circle of debauchees is no evidence of sociability, and contrasts poorly with the delightful mirth and geniality witnessed among sober friends. Nor does the home of the drinking man enjoy any rare touch of charming fraternity, as some would lead us to believe. Leaving the company of the social glass, 'the prince of good fellows' stumbles through the silent by-ways to his home. The windows redden with no welcome. The door croaks a hoarse warning to the inmates as he enters. The family of his bosom have long since been wrapped in troubled slumber, the vision of a swaying form flitting through their dreams. Such is the social triumph of the saloon.

"It has been claimed that drinking is stimulating and enables one to respond more successfully to the reveille of commerce that summons us to toe the mark for another day's race. Gaze with me at the long, dark buildings which house the criminal throng of our nation.

"Look at the chains, rusty with hopeless tears, that bind their feet; observe the lack-lustre eyes which haunt you with their gleamless depths. Listen to the orders issued periodically by America's railways, in which an impartial anathema is pronounced against drinking employees. Walk the streets of your fair town and identify the ne'er do wells, the inevitable failures, the unprosperous and degenerate. All these views are sections of a horrid panorama which runs its uncanny scenes before us at the mention of the stimulating glass.

"The habit of drinking has done much to debauch our State, and covers with its fumes the cradle of many an unholy alliance. It has mocked our nation at every step in its march of progress. It has defied legislation because it has been backed by the passions. The liberty of the individual has been menaced and in instances destroyed by its foul touch. An illiterate at the polls is safer than a drunkard.

"The only remedy for such evils is the baptism of courage; the courage that made Jesus supreme on his cross; the courage that made China revolt at the importation of opium; the courage that made handsome the pitted face of Mirabeau; the courage that made Beecher the master of rebel assemblies in Liverpool; the courage that made Theodore Roosevelt the 26th President of the United States.

"We need, too, the Baptism of the Golden Rule; that we shall no longer think because we are not directly concerned with this evil we are not concerned at all; that we shall labor diligently and vote intelligently for 'somebody's boy,' the summer of whose youth has vanished in an untimely fall; that the shadow on the dial of girlhood's hours may be turned back and the earth be sweet again."

Anniversary of Camp 149.

The fourteenth anniversary of Col. H. P. Woodbury camp, 149, S. of V., of Manchester, is announced to take place on Tuesday evening, March 28, and a committee is now at work making preparations for the event, which always proves one of the social events of the winter. Among the invited guests will be the members of Post 67, G.A.R., Allen Relief corps and the post associates. E. H. Lynd of Holyoke, the division commander, will be present, and probably several members of his staff.

Bankrupt Sale.

Dane-Smith Co. of Salem and Boston advertise on another page a bankrupt sale of $10,000 worth of hardware, carpenters' tools, paints, tinware, etc., at 226 Cabot street, Beverly. The stock was bought at a fraction of the cost from the bankrupt Woodward & Ober concern and the prices at which these goods are selling are amazingly low.

Addenda.

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

In the paper on Francis Bacon, last week, the following was inadvertently omitted in the "copy." It should follow the quotation from Emerson, in the last paragraph but one.

D. F. L.

Like most pathfinders, Bacon blazed the way in which other men afterward easily walked. He cleared away the rubbish so that those who came after him could build on solid ground. But he did not live long enough to reap the reward of his labors; he sowed much good seed, but was not permitted to eat of the fruit. His great work, "Instauratio Magna," was to consist of six parts, of which we have only one, the "Novum Organum," and that is incomplete. The work as planned was too vast for any one man to accomplish. Like other pioneers, Bacon left his work unfinished; as Cowley sings, he "Did on the very border stand

Of the blessed Promised Land;
And from the mountain-top of his exalted wit

Saw it himself, and showed us it;
But life did never to one man allow Time to discover worlds and conquer too;"
a conceit which Macaulay has worked out with his usual elaborateness of diction in one of his brilliant essays, and which Dean Stanley applies with much force and eloquence to the fate of the great Lawgiver of Israel dying on Mount Nebo, in full view of the land flowing with milk and honey, but not permitted to enter it.

[Written for the BREEZE.]

The Optimist.

He fell ten stories.
At each window bar
He shouted to his friends—
"All right thus far."

The Pessimist.

The world is void and vain.
'Tis dullness and dearth and dole.
There's nothing for me in the doughnut,
Except the whole.

The Hesitant.

The world is a doughnut,
With rim and with hole.
What my share is I know not,—
The hole or the whole.

The Philosopher.

I am always cheerful and happy,
As all of us ought to be.
I never care what happens,
If it doesn't happen to me.

The Early Town Meeting.

BY DEA. A. E. LOW.

[Deacon Low, who passed his 96th birthday last September, writes the following very interesting sketch of the town meeting of the early years of the 19th century. When he first voted in town meeting about 1830—$500 was considered a generous appropriation for school purposes, and all road improvements were made through a labor tax. When he was town treasurer he received $50 a year for his services.—ED.]

In the early years of the Nineteenth century the selectmen had no stated salary. They charged a dollar a day for their services. In giving their yearly report of expenditures, the bills were all footed up, and from the sum total the sum of the principal or larger expenditures was deducted, and the remaining amount recorded as miscellaneous bills, the larger bills being specified, viz.: bills for school department; maintenance of the poor, etc. At the town meeting considerable time was occupied by certain cranks who would ask questions or make speeches, as they were moved, to the great amusement of the citizens assembled, after being encouraged and helped by those who liked a little sport. When carried to the extent of disorder, the Moderator would order the Constable to remove the disorderly party or parties, and on one occasion after meeting adjourned, and the Constable appeared outside, the man who had been forcibly ejected demanded satisfaction. The officer dealt him a heavy blow and the citizens were obliged to interfere. On another occasion one troublesome person was put into the lockup. During the first part of the century the town meetings were held in the church. They were continued longer than one day. The last Article in Warrant, viz.: "Any other business which can legally come before the meeting," was often passed over as "not amounting to anything" in the Moderator's opinion.

Mr. Morgan Resigns.

After eighteen years of service Mr. Nathaniel Morgan last Saturday tendered his resignation as janitor and caretaker of the Memorial hall and Public Library building in Manchester to take effect on or before April 1st.

At the time Mr. Morgan took charge of this building the compensation allowed by the town was $200 per year which at that time was a fair return for the duties which the janitor was required to perform, but as time went by more societies were formed, which made this building their meeting place, thereby increasing the duties many times. While the janitor receives a small income for this work direct from the societies, the long hours required, together with that of the Public Library combined, does not pay the attendant an average of four or five cents an hour.

It might also be said that the Library at the time of Mr. Morgan's first taking charge was kept open Wednesday and Saturday afternoons and evenings only, which hours today would not be adequate to supply the needs of the patrons of the library.

At this time we think we are not amiss in stating these facts, and we do not hesitate to say that whoever Mr. Morgan's successor may be, an increase in the compensation should be made sufficient at least to return a fair reward for services rendered.

ENGLISH HOME LIFE.

Rev. H. J. White gives an interesting talk on the subject before the Wednesday Evening Club in Manchester.

Despite the inclement weather Wednesday evening the meeting of the Wednesday Evening club in Manchester was largely attended and a program of a most pleasing character was carried out.

The selections by the orchestra, composed of T. W. Long, violin; Chester Cook, cornet; Joseph Allen, clarinet; and Mrs. Long, piano; and the vocal solos by Mrs. Colleston, wife of Principal Colleston of the Salem High school, who sang with excellent expression, were features of the evening's entertainment. Miss Harriet Brewster was received with usual favor and Aaron B. Palmer, former principal of the Story High school, was given quite an ovation when he was announced. Mr. Palmer's solos were excellently rendered.

The address of the evening was given by Rev. Herbert Judson White of Beverly, who talked about one half an hour on "English Home Life" and his experiences during a recent visit in England.

"The English race," said Mr. White, "is the product of many races and many years. Like good fruit cake it is rich and old. Time is the friend of all who will make use of it. The English have used their time to excellent advantage. On the whole they have made splendid selection of their common things.

"Among the things selected and enriched by centuries of investment the English home stands pre-eminent. We Yankees criticize about everything the Englishman possesses excepting his home and his home life. The English are a home loving people. They long since have determined that a home must be a fixed place.

"They have found that a furnished apartment in Jordan, Marsh & Co.'s store is only the skeleton of a home. It is good for Americans to enter these English homes. One of the chief lessons in the art of living that Americans are slowly learning is that which relates to the making of a true home. We have been obliged to make so many other things that we have left the making of the home until all the rest is finished.

"I dare not look for a revival of pure religion until our people become more domestic. The nation does not make the home. The home makes the nation.

"To see the English home we must go among the great middle classes. The aristocratic folk are mere flitters, following the call of fashion, while the lowest classes are almost universally drunk sodden, and where this is the case, homes are unknown. But between the dregs of society there is, thank God, a lot of good wholesome stuff. The great middle class is made up of the thinkers, the planners, the workers. Their chief accomplishment, I repeat, is in home making.

"That which we first see of an English home is a high brick wall. The only entrance is through a door in the wall which in solidity resembles the door of a county jail. But when one enters, instead of hard cobble stone pavements and a bare wall a garden sweet and inviting confronts him. He sees a vista,—fruit trees, vines, flower beds, beautiful lawns, bowered nooks, tea houses, and shady walks. One immediately receives the impression that he had already entered the house. He realizes the truth that our best architects and landscape gardeners have taught, that the garden should be as much a part of the house as the parlor. An outer room, in fact. The garden is the beautiful garment of the house. How winsome and lovely are those houses so enveloped in living green. But here in America we have stripped the garments from our houses and left them indecently naked. The Englishman thoroughly enjoys and uses his garden. Many of the lighter meals are served out under the trees.

REV. HERBERT JUDSON WHITE,
Who delivered the address at Manchester.

"Within the house we find that the impression of comfort that was so enjoyed out of doors is strengthened as we pass the threshold. The most prominent room is the living or dining room, where the meals are eaten and where the family assembles. This is the front room."

Mr. White spoke also of the life of the English family, emphasizing the parents' devotion, the respectful air of the children, the obedient bearing of the servants, hospitality, and above all, the loyalty to England.

The committee in charge of the meeting was composed of Hollis L. Roberts (chairman), Joseph N. Lipman, Arthur E. Olson, Miss Jessie Hoare and Miss Amy B. Haskell. The following committee will have charge of the April meeting: Frank P. Knight, A. C. Needham, A. S. Jewett, Mrs. T. W. Long, Mrs. F. P. Knight and Miss Eva Allen.

The program of the evening:—

To Change Publication Office.

The publication office of the BREEZE is to be changed during the coming month from Beverly to Manchester. This is but a step in the steady progress of the BREEZE and is, we believe, for our best good. The change simply means that the BREEZE will be mailed in Manchester instead of Beverly.

BEVERLY FARMS.

Russell Younger, a Beverly Farms boy, who enlisted in the United States coast artillery, stationed in Maine, is on a short visit to his home.

Miss Alice Bolan entertained at her home on Hale street, one night this week, a party of friends, who unexpectedly called upon her in the event of its being her birthday, and presented her with a token as a remembrance of the occasion.

At the whist party and dance held Tuesday evening in Marshall's hall, under the management of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, the prize winners were Mrs. Adelbert Marshall, Mrs. Alex. Carr, Frank Gaudreau and Michael Rudden. The large attendance present proved the popularity of the event and the good times which are enjoyed by all at these parties.

Among the owners of new autos on the North Shore the coming season will be Thomas McKee, who has just given an order for a 60-horse power car of latest make.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seabury, who already own three Stanley runabouts, will probably own a high-powered touring car next summer.

Fifty Years Married.

A golden wedding is an occasion that few couples live to celebrate, but it fell to the happy lot of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Ober of Central street to observe the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage on Thursday, March 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Ober were married by Rev. Edwin B. Eddy, then pastor of the Baptist church, and for many years resided at Beverly Farms, of which place both are natives. Three children, S. Ellis, Clarence P. and Harrie L., have blessed the union, the former being in partnership with his father, under the firm name of S. F. Ober & Son, well-known contractors. Mr. Ober is the oldest living past grand of Bass River lodge of Odd Fellows, while his wife is a past vice-grand of Friendship Rebekah lodge.

A host of friends called to tender their congratulations and respect to this well-known couple on the anniversary occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Ober received in the parlor, which was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and plants. Fruit drink and ices were served by Mrs. H. L. Ober and Miss Mabel B. Perry, Elsie W. Cameron, Amy F. Robertson, Grace Preston and Mabel Williams.

The wedding gifts were numerous, and showed the high regard in which neighbors and friends hold the couple.

Society Notes

Many of the summer residents have visited the shore during the past week, attracted, no doubt, by the decidedly spring-like weather. Among the number were many who were looking for houses.

Indications point to a decidedly busy season, and real estate men say every house on the shore will be taken before the middle of next month.

It is learned from a most reliable source that Mrs. Kane, mother of Senator Kane of Elizabeth, N.J., will occupy the Mrs. Gordon Prince house at West Manchester again the coming season.

Dr. R. L. Raymond and a party of Boston friends were down to Manchester last Sunday and lunched at the Essex County club, which had been opened exclusively for their use.

Mrs. Robert C. Hooper and her pretty little daughter, Miss Helen, were noticed at West Manchester Wednesday.

Mrs. Edward Robinson was at Manchester Thursday for a few hours.

The North Shore friends of Mr. Joseph C. Stevens will regret to learn of his illness at his Commonwealth avenue house in Boston.

At Beverly Farms, this week, have been noticed Mrs. George A. Goddard and son, who were down over Sunday, and Russell Codman.

Mrs. Gerard Bement was down to Manchester Monday for a brief visit.

Mrs. Francis R. Spaulding and her mother, Mrs. Evans, who has been spending some time with her daughter at West Manchester, went over to New York yesterday on a short visit.

Among those who were down from Boston Monday, to vote at town meeting, were: Henry W. Cunningham, Roland C. Lincoln, Charles A. Read, Willirm R. Thayer and Winthrop Wetherbee.

Several North Shore ladies are to be prominently connected with the annual fair for the benefit of the Thomas Morgan Rotch, jr., Memorial hospital for children, at Hotel Vendome, on Friday, March 24, and Saturday, March 25, included among the number being Mrs. Prescott Bigelow of the lamp-shade table, Mrs. James Lowell Putnam of the flower table, Mrs. Gardner M. Lane of the toy table.

Mrs. Susan Cheever is quite seriously ill at her home on Friend's court.

Five tramps have been accommodated at the local police station the past week.

L. A. Dunn, the local expressman, has a horse which has travelled over the road between Manchester and Salem for twenty-three years, and which has this week been put under the care of a veterinary for the first time in its life. The horse has probably travelled in the vicinity of 60,000 miles in its day, and has made no less than 3,500 trips between Manchester and Salem. Mr. Dunn fears it has made its last trip however.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Walker returned to their West Manchester house Tuesday after an absence of almost two months.

The Beverly Improvement society have signified their intentions to aid in making the chrysanthemum show of the North Shore Horticultural Society to be held in Beverly next fall, a success. The show will be held about Nov. 8.

Captain and Mrs. William E. Whelden are spending Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Floyd, having come up from Dennisport this afternoon. Many friends of the genial captain will call at Floyd's tonight to shake hands with him.

The many friends of Levi A. Dunn are glad to see him back on the express team again after an absence of two months. D. M. Knight has been enjoying a few days respite from his work since Mr. Dunn returned, but will be at work again next week.

The free lecture in town hall next Friday night under the auspices of the N.S. Horticultural society, when Supt. of Parks Pettigrew of Boston will talk on "Village Improvements" has promise of attracting a large crowd.

The Farther Lights held a mite box opening at the vestry of the Baptist church Wednesday evening. Mrs. Newcombe, a missionary from India, gave a very interesting talk on her work.

West Beach to Remain Unchanged.

There was a record breaking attendance at the adjourned town meeting of the West Beach corporation, in Marshall's hall, Monday evening, due to the fact that the matter of a public pavilion at West Beach was to be decided upon.

The committee to whom was referred the selection of a plan, to be submitted at this meeting, had on hand a plan, the features of which were explained by Mr. Eben Day, after which speeches were made in favor of the building by H. M. Hodgkins, Howard E. Morgan and others, while the principal speakers in opposition to the plan were Daniel W. Hardy, Wm. M. Moriarty and George H. Bennett. The discussion came to an end by Mr. Hardy making the following motion: "That all plans and specifications pertaining to the erection of a public building upon the property of the West Beach corporation be laid on the table until the Preston law suit be settled," which practically meant that those in favor of the above motion were opposed to the building of the pavilion. The check list was used and a yea and nay vote followed, resulting in 49 votes against the change and 41 in favor, quite a number not voting.

High Hills in Manchester.

In view of the action taken at town meeting, authorizing the Water Board to employ an engineer and make surveys for a high service water supply, it is interesting to know that there are many hills in Manchester much higher than the standpipe.

Among the highest hills in the town are:

Wyman's.....	227 feet high.
Mill Stone.....	222
Dexter's.....	205
Beaver Dam (Agassiz Rock).....	199
Moses.....	191

Water Board Organized.

The Manchester water board met on Wednesday and organized with N. P. Meldrum chairman and clerk. F. M. Andrews was reappointed superintendent and engineer for the thirteenth consecutive year. Archie W. Greenough was reappointed assistant engineer and George F. Evans foreman.

Board of Selectmen Organize.

The Manchester board of selectmen met at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning and organized with Fred K. Swett as chairman and W. E. Kitfield secretary. The board set right to work and made several of their appointments and took immediate steps to carry out the instructions of the town in several matters voted upon in town meeting.

It is of interest in this connection to note that Mr. Swett, the new chairman of the board, is the youngest that ever served in that capacity in the town of Manchester, and we have yet to learn of one in the State who is so young. Mr. Swett is not yet 30 years old, but his work on the board of selectmen the past two years has been such as to merit the highest praise.

BEVERLY FARMS.

Harry Hannable and family have returned from a trip to Kittery, Me.

Special music under the direction of Choirmaster Leo C. Demack will be given at St. John's church during the Lenten season.

The Friends Bible class will hold a social at the Baptist church next Tuesday evening.

A special meeting of the Directors of the West Beach corporation was held Thursday evening.

A very interesting program has been prepared and a very pleasant time is in store for those who attend the concert in Neighbor's hall tomorrow evening. An excellent collection of musical numbers has been arranged and many other attractions are promised. That the hall will be crowded is evidenced from the fact 1,000 tickets have already been sold. Thos. A. Mullen of Boston, ex-secretary to ex-Mayor Quincy, will make the address of the evening.

Miss Stella H. Lufkin of Beachmont has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Rand, High street, the past week.

Chas. Trowt has been confined to his Pride's home the past week with an attack of grippe.

Miss Janette Ford has been in Washington, D.C., attending the inauguration exercises and visiting friends.

Fire in Town Hall.

A lighted cigarette butt, thrown carelessly into a box of saw-dust, placed in the entry way to the town hall during or after town meeting Tuesday night was responsible for an incipient blaze, which might have left the building a smouldering mess of cinders had it not been detected in time.

Chas. Hannable, in driving through town shortly after 6 o'clock, discovered the flames and informed George Hobbs, who gave a still alarm. Driver Page and Curtis B. Stanley were on deck in an instant and three minutes after the alarm they were hustling the chemical across the Common to the town hall. One stream from the chemical sufficed to quench the flames. The damage was probably about $50.

TOWN MEETING.

When my salary was first set at $1,000 I handled for the town about $160,000, receiving that much and paying out that sum. In 1904 we spent $251,000, an increase of $77,000 each way, which means that rising of one-half a million dollars passed through my hands last year. Thus you can see one-third more money passed through my hands last year than when my salary of $1,000 dollars was first set. While I am satisfied that $1,000 is all right for the work, I consider I get nothing for the responsibility of handling that money. You understand that I am responsible for all losses. Some of you understand my surety stands good for that, but not till all of my possessions are gone first. It costs me $100 a year for clerk hire.

"It is for you to say whether you think I am amply paid for the work I am doing. I simply ask for an increase of $200. Certainly I feel that while I want to perform all the duties of my office I feel that the citizens of this town want their officers paid,—especially those who occupy responsible positions."

M. E. Gorman: "I don't want to go on record as opposed to the salary of any town official, but when the town pays a man $1,000 or $1,200 he should pay all his time to the office and not let us find in the next issue of the paper, 'Real Estate, Auctioneer, etc.' I hope he will give all his time to the office."

"I have heard that Mrs. Stanley's wife had awoke in the middle of the night and found him at work on his books, but whether it was the town books or his insurance and real estate I do not know."

Mr. Stanley: "In reply to that gentleman I want to say that I never came into this town hall and told what my wife had to say. I have never yet received any money from real estate business. I have worked nights, and Sundays too on my town books."

Mr. Cunningham thought any increase in salaries should have been brought before the appropriation committee.

Mr. Needham: "The committee feel it only in their power to act on specified funds."

O. T. Roberts: "Increase of pay—it seems to be in the air. Honest service ought to be rewarded. I don't believe $1,000 salary for being responsible for one half a million dollars is the right thing. When I see anything brought before our attention with merit I want to advocate it. For the service rendered $1,000 is inadequate. I do claim that it calls for quite a good degree of financial skill to handle the affairs of this town; there is a great deal of care and risk, and I don't feel this $200 increase is anything out of the way. If Mr. Stanley agrees to go to church Sundays I think I would vote for it."

C. C. Dodge: "I think that salary is very low. I move you the salary of treasurer and tax collector shall be $1,200 a year." Carried.

W. R. Bell: "Being well acquainted with the duties of auditor I move you the salary of auditor be raised from $250 to $400."

F. K. Swett: "I think the chairman of the board of selectmen, who has all the responsibility and receives the blessings and curses, the one who gives up all other business and spends his time in the office, is deserving of an increase over the present salary, and I move you that the chairman of the board of selectmen receive a salary of $1,000 a year."

Mr. Dodge moved that the matter of compensation of the town officers and of the town committees be referred to a committee of five to be appointed by the moderator and referred to the adjourned town meeting. Carried.

The moderator appointed the following committee: O. T. Roberts, G. W. Jewett, C. M. Dodge, R. C. Lincoln and J. W. Carter.

Art. 31.— On motion of O. T. Roberts $1,000 was appropriated for the care of cemeteries and chapel.

Art. 37.— $300 with the interest of the Tuck's Point fund was appropriated for the care of Tuck's Point.

Art. 38.— $100 was appropriated for clearing snow from Central pond.

Art. 39.— E. P. Stanley moved that $831.98 be appropriated for crushing stone.

fore the appropriation committee on this matter. We have a plant here which cost in the vicinity of $3,500 and a boiler and engine worth $1,200 more. We have 3,000 tons of stone to crush and we have about 2,000 tons ready to be put into the crusher. The ledge is exhausted, — you have no more ledge that it would be practicable to blow out.

"Thus you see we have a plant worth $4,700 and no use for it except to crush 3,500 tons of stone.

"What do you want to do? — abolish it? sell it? or buy some more ledge and crush some more stone?"

"Some people said nine years ago the child was still unborn who will ever see the end of that ledge. There have been lots of children born in Manchester since then, but the ledge is gone. This $831.98 on hand is enough to put the crusher in condition and crush the stone on hand now."

Mr. Kimball moved that the whole subject matter of Art. 39 be referred to a committee of three to be appointed by the chair. Carried.

Art. 40. On motion of F. K. Swett $2,000 was appropriated for clearing off snow.

Meeting adjourned at 9.35.

Appropriated $63,820.25.

Tuesday evening session, 7.30 o'clock.

Art. 41. Frank P. Knight moved to pass over this article, relating to concrete sidewalks, in as much as several appropriations had already been made for concreting sidewalks.

Art. 42. Voted on motion of F. P. Knight that $13,500 be appropriated for maintenance of streets and salary of superintendent.

Art. 43. A. S. Jewett moved the care of Common dump and Wharf be left in charge of the selectmen. Carried. $100 was appropriated for the care of same.

Art. 44, with reference to town beaches and landings, the placing of bath houses on and taking of sand and muck from the beaches. Mr. Jewett moved the regulations regarding same be in force as last year. Carried.

Art. 45. On motion of F. K. Swett $1,200 and receipts was appropriated for support of in-door poor and $1,000 and receipts for support of out-door poor.

Art. 49. John Baker moved that $1,000 be appropriated for the purpose of the extermination of the brown-tail and gypsy moths, to be expended under the direction of the selectmen, also that it is the sense of this meeting that the town is desirous of doing all in its power to suppress the ravages of this pest. Carried.

Art. 51. $300 was appropriated for the care of trees.

Moderator: "I think a certain number of new trees ought to set out each year. I don't know as this appropriation covers that."

J. S. Reed: "The law compels a town to set a certain number of trees each year, I think not less than twenty."

F. P. Knight: "The tree warden stated before the committee this appropriation covered new trees."

Moderator: "It seems to me a town like this should give considerable attention to the setting of trees."

Art. 52. $400 was appropriated for the extermination of insect pests as recommended in the tree warden's report. Mr. Knight explained that this amount was to be expended under the direction of the tree warden on the highways, while the $1,000 was to be expended under the direction of the selectmen, not on the highways.

Art. 54. Voted on motion of A. S. Jewett that all taxes shall be paid on or before Nov. 1, 1905.

Art. 28, relating to street lights. Selectman Swett read a communication from the Welsbach company in which the company agreed to discontinue the present lights and install the very latest pattern boulevard light, and to keep the same clean and in first class condition and painted. The company offered to furnish light for 220 lamps for three years, the same to burn 26 nights in the month for $27.60 a light per annum. If the town felt disposed to continue the terms for five years, the same would be furnished at the rate of $27.20 a year. Furthermore, after two years the town can terminate the contract, if it so sees fit, at a year's notice, and if continued for five years the difference between the three years and five years terms will be rebated to the town at the end of the five years. Mr. Swett stated the town was now paying $29.

Richard Garcia, representing the Welsbach company, was present and allowed to take the floor. He was ready to answer any and all questions. He advised the town to take advantage of the offer, as the price of oil at the present time had dropped somewhat, and later it might be more, so that the company would not be able to give them such a low rate. He would say that when the system was installed in Manchester, five years ago, 10,000 of these lights were in operation, while today there was over 250,000.

O. T. Roberts: "Is your company lighting the town of Hamilton?"

Mr. Garcia: "No, sir; but we are lighting the town of Wenham."

Mr. Roberts: "I was surprized in driving to Topsfield to find these same boulevard lamps you offer us. I think the lights are excellent, but I do think it is peculiar that boulevard lamps are installed there in the woods, while we are privileged with only a few here."

Mr. Garcia: "Whenever we install new lights we put in boulevard lamps, but here you had the square lamps, and when we renewed a contract for only one year we did not install all boulevard lamps."

Moderator: "What is the percentage of cost with cost of electricity?"

Mr. Garcia: "Our lights are 20 to 25 per cent. less."

Mr. Garcia explained that existing conditions were due to no fault of the service. The man who had been appointed to do the lighting did very well at first, and then gave it to a boy and poor service was the result. An effort was made to remove him, but each time too much pressure was brought to bear. The service would be no worse than the past year.

Mr. Knight: "Is it a fact that you limited him to a certain number of mantles each month?"

Mr. Garcia: "No, sir; that was utterly false. We do not limit our lights. Our instructions are to keep everything in perfect condition."

Robert Mitchell: "That contract says the lamps shall be lighted 26 nights of the month. Do I understand that if the other nights are dark we are to be in darkness?"

Mr. Swett explained that on stormy and dark nights, when no provision for lighting was made, the company would have the lamps lighted, the expense of the same to be at the same rate as for other nights of the month.

Art. 55, relating to Elm street layout. E. P. Stanley moved that the article be laid on the table till some adjourned meeting, and in the meanwhile the selectmen to take measures to see if the abutters will waive all rights of damage. Carried.

Art. 39. The committee to whom was referred the matter of crushing of stone reported that they did not recommend any temporary repairs on the crusher; if the adjoining lot could be purchased at a reasonable sum, it should be purchased and permanent repairs made on the crusher; that the committee or selectmen ascertain the value of the adjoining land and report at an adjourned town meeting.

Austin Morley said that he advised the committee to look at the ledge on the lot and ascertain the value of the stone before taking any action.

It was voted to accept the report and suggestions of the committee and lay the matter over to an adjourned meeting.

On motion of Mr. Swett it was voted that when the meeting adjourn it be to Tuesday evening, March 14.

Art. 56. E. P. Stanley moved that the town treasurer be authorized, with the approval of the selectmen, to borrow $70,000 in anticipation of taxes. Passed.

Art. 57, calling for an appropriation to cover any deficiencies appearing in the annual report, was laid over until the adjourned meeting.

Art. 58. On motion of A. S. Jewett it was voted "to appropriate and raise by borrowing such sums of money as may be necessary for any and all of the purposes mentioned in the foregoing articles or reports." This amount included appropriations amounting to $51,280.00.

The recommendations of the appropriation committee that all town officials and committees interested with expenditures of money, keep within the appropriations as voted by the town, was adopted.

Mr. Edward S. Knight said he desired to resign as one of the appropriation committee, but was later induced to withdraw his resignation.

The meeting adjourned a 9.20 to Tuesday evening of next week.

Total appropriation $142,904.37.

Literary Society.

The following very interesting program was carried out at a meeting of the Literary society of the Story High school, Manchester, Tuesday:

Composition, "Training of a Knight," Edward Wheaton
 Recitation, "Enlisting of an Army Nurse," Josephine White Vocal duet, "It don't seem like Home to Me," Barbara Smith and John Dillon
 Recitation, "The Brook," Stephen Hoare
 Debate, "Resolved: That Capital Punishment should be Retained," Aff., H. C. Swett; Neg., Chas. A. Lodge, jr.
 Piano solo, Mary Barry
 Composition, "The Advantage of Reading Good Literature," Beth Jewett
 Recitation, "In the Children's Hospital," Ann Coughlin
 Recitation, "River Driving on the Penobscott," Elizabeth Dillon
 Recitation, "Wheeler at Saratoga," Fred Leach

The duet by Miss Barbara Smith and John Dillon was a very pleasing feature of the meeting, while the piano solo by Miss Barry was also very beautifully rendered.

Genuine Wilton

A big shipment of the celebrated Fibre Carpets arrived today. Come and see them, they are all beauties.

In these Worsted Velvet Carpets of ours. You've nearly the wear as well, for they are made of exactly the same substance, there not being quite the same quantity to the square inch in the pile, that's all. They're not the regular run of velvet carpets, the patterns and colorings would indicate that fact. Instead of being made with just a wool face, they are made of tough, tightly twisted worsted yarn, which will outwear in looks and in life any wool faced fabric made.

The patterns and colorings are pretty, the softest greens and reds you ever saw in geometric figures that stamp them stylishly, and reproduced Turkish and Persian designs that make beautiful bordered library effects.

Exclusive goods for exclusive trade are these. We shall endeavor to supply every cultured need with these worthy carpets this spring by offering them made and laid for

This is the Only Way to Enforce the Law
Says W. Choate Rust at Manchester
Town Meeting.

The Puritanic air which pervaded the sessions of the Manchester town meeting last week received a vigorous jolt Tuesday night when W. Choate Rust appeared on the scene and made his annual tirade on the enforcement of the liquor law.

He demanded that the instructions the selectmen gave the police for the enforcement of the law be produced. He struck at the police, the selectmen and everybody else, because, he alleged, the law was not enforced. He declared the spotter system was the only remedy for the condition.

The sane and well-pointed remarks of Rev. W. H. Ashley, who made a strong plea for the enforcement of the law and the abandonment of the saloon in the interests of the home served only to further bestir the feelings of the former speaker, who indulged freely in personalities after Superintendent of Streets Kimball spoke on the question.

Besides appropriating $300 for the enforcement of the liquor law $1,200 was appropriated for repairing the stone crusher, and $831 was appropriated for crushing stone; a vote was passed to install electric lights in the town hall building; $2,800 was voted for the Elm street layout, and an additional $425 for concreting. A full and complete account of the meeting will be found in another column.

What was Said and Done at Town Meeting.

The Tuesday evening session of Town Meeting, adjourned from last week, came to order at 7.35.

The moderator announced that John Desmond requested his name be dropped from the list of jurors. Granted.

Oldest Librarian in Massachusetts.

The honor of being the oldest librarian in the State is an honor any man might justly be proud of, and Manchester can well feel proud of claiming that man in its venerable librarian, Delucena Lothrop Bingham, who has this week been reappointed librarian of the Manchester Public Library.

Mr. Bingham celebrated his ninetieth birthday on the seventh of last November, has served the town as librarian for 23 years and has been accorded the honor of being the oldest librarian in Massachusetts for some years. He has been a trustee of the Public Library since 1876.

Though Mr. Bingham was instrumental in bringing about the erection of the beautiful library building in Manchester, and has been at its head since the structure was built and presented to the town by T. Jefferson

D. L. BINGHAM,
Manchester's Veteran Librarian.

Coolidge in 1887, his first connection with library work was not at that time. It dates back to over 60 years ago, some few years after the Lyceum was founded here, the object of which was, like all other institutions of its kind, to promote the cause of education. A small library in connection with the work was formed, and this was the nucleus of the present library.

Since entering its new home the volume of books has steadily increased until it now numbers 11,703. It is needless to say that Mr. Bingham is peculiarly adapted to this work. He is thoroughly conversant on all the books of the day, and knows what books should and should not be in the library. He is ever genial, ready and anxious to do all in his power to help those with whom he constantly comes in contact.

Telephone Exchange

In New Quarters.

The telephone exchange of the New Eng. Tel. & Tel. Co., formerly located in Lee's block, Manchester, was removed last Saturday night to the new quarters in Pulsifer's block, the preparations for which have been going on for six weeks past. The work of "cutting over" was started at 9:30 and by 2 o'clock Sunday morning, after four hours and a half work, everything was in almost perfect running order.

The new office, when complete, will be one of the best of any town of the size in this section. The company has always sought to give its patrons good service and the change from Lee's block to these new quarters will undoubtedly offer an opportunity for much better service than formerly, when there was a lacking of space.

There are nine "positions" now where there were formerly six, and of this number three are for local calls and six for toll service, which is very heavy here in the summer months. The latest style magneto "board" has been installed. The battery and pole changing room is in the small room in the rear of the main room. Electric lights are to be installed in the building at once, which will add greatly to the facilities.

Fifteen men were employed in changing the offices last Saturday night, Robert Evans being in charge of the switch boards and John Woodward of the cables.

More Appropriations

at Town Meeting.

With the additional appropriations made at the adjourned town meeting in Manchester Tuesday evening the town has now voted to expend $148,786.35 during the coming year. The following amounts were passed upon Tuesday night:

Concreting Vine street	$ 325.00
Concreting Bridge street	150.00
Repairs on stone crusher	1,200.00
Crushing stone	831.98
Elm street layout	2,800.00
Installing electric lights in town hall	275.00
Enforcing liquor law	300.00
Previously appropriated	142,904.37

MANCHESTER.

Mrs. Howard M. Stanley returned Monday from a few days' visit with her mother in Dorchester.

At their Ashland avenue home, Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Mead entertained at dinner Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. C. E. Fish and Miss Fish.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sullivan of Durham, N. H., were guests the first of the week of the Misses O'Neil, Union street.

Dr. Augustus S. Knight of New York made a flying visit to Manchester the latter part of last week, calling on his brother, Samuel Knight, whose health, we are pleased to report, is somewhat improved.

Miss Alice Smith of Medford was a guest over Sunday of her aunt, Mrs. W. K. Fleming.

Miss Lillian Lucas entertained three tables at whist at her Summer street home last Friday, a very pleasant evening being enjoyed. First prizes went to Miss Perrson and Andrew Dagle, and Eddie Kitfield won the booby.

A party of about thirty young people from here attended the concert in Marshall's hall, Beverly Farms, Sunday night, given under the auspices of St. Margaret's church.

Miss Bessie Allen is substituting as bookkeeper at Fenton's for her sister, Miss Grace Allen, who is reported almost fully recovered from the effects of an operation performed in Boston two weeks ago today.

The many Manchester friends of John Parsons Hubbard will greatly regret to hear of his death on March 4, at the home of his daughter in Everett. Death resulted from pneumonia, and his remains were laid at rest at his former home in Maine. Mr. Hubbard lived in Manchester several years, moving away about a year and one half ago.

"Blacky," the faithful express horse of L. A. Dunn, which we referred to last week as having travelled some 60,000 miles in its day between Salem and Manchester, was shot Monday and ere now composes a generous part of some fertilizing compound. The animal was twenty-three years old and was used on express teams between Salem and Manchester for sixteen years instead of twenty-three as we stated, by F. W. Bell, George H. Watson and Levi A. Dunn, successively.

If you have repairing you wish done as it should be you are sure to be pleased if you leave it with F. S. Thompson, jeweler, of Gloucester. Read ad. *

Reunion and Roll call.

Wednesday evening, March 29th, will be unique in the history of the almost 36 years' existence of Magnolia lodge, No. 149, I.O.O.F., of Manchester, inasmuch as there will be for the first time a roll call of all its members, which now nears the 200 mark. The reunion will be held in town hall and the banquet will be at 7 o'clock.

Dr. Gordon's Good Job.

The following by Edward C. Knight of Manchester, master of sciences at St. Paul's school, Concord, N.H., appeared in the "story telling contest" page of the Herald last Sunday:

One day Dr. George A. Gordon spied in his congregation an old friend of his youth, who had come up from Bangor, Me., to hear the noted clergyman preach. Dr. Gordon greeted him very warmly and invited him home to dinner. In the course of the long conversation which followed, his friend, who was a blacksmith, by the way, said: "George, how much do you make up here?"

"Ten thousand dollars a year," replied Dr. Gordon.

"Is that so? Say, George, I would advise you to hold on to that."

"Early Roads and Modes of Travel in Manchester" was the topic discussed at the meeting of the Haphazard club, which was very pleasantly entertained at Miss Edith L. Wheaton's, Monday evening.

Among the newcomers to the North Shore the coming season will be James Higginson and family of New York, who will occupy the Mrs. S. Parkman Blake house, on Highland ave., West Manchester. Mrs. Blake, who went abroad shortly after closing her cottage last fall, is a sister to Mr. Higginson. The Higginsons have formerly spent their summer on the South Shore.

Miss Rosamond Saltonstall of Boston and Pride's Crossing, one of the star golfists on the North Shore summers, won distinction in California last Friday by capturing the Woman's Open Championship at Coronado. She defeated Miss Ada N. Smith of San Diego, 4 up and 3 to play. Miss Saltonstall is a second cousin of Miss Alice Roosevelt, having been first cousin of the president's first wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bacon and Miss Bacon, who had a cottage at Beverly Farms last summer, sailed last Friday on the American liner St. Paul for Southampton, from New York.

On the same steamer went Mr. and Mrs. Henry King of Pride's Crossing, who will join in the Mediterranean Mrs. King's mother, Mrs. Mahlon Spaulding, and John and William H. Spaulding, for an extended cruise on the Isis.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Head and their two daughters of Manchester are spending a couple of weeks in Havana, Cuba.

Among the recent departures for the other side are Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby and her sister, Mrs. Boylston Beal, who sailed from Boston last week on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse for the Mediterranean. Their trip will be a comparatively short one, however, as they will both return in time to come to their Manchester houses in May.

The concert at City hall, Wednesday evening, by Miss Minnie L. Donkin, soprano at the Dane Street church, was a delightful affair and was liberally attended. Miss Donkin sang in her accustomed pleasing manner, rendering groups of new songs, which were exceedingly gratifying. She was assisted by Leverett B. Merrill, whose efforts are always appreciated; Mr. Carl Webster, 'cellist; Mrs. Evie Burnett Willard, reader, and Mr. Carl Lamson, pianist, all of whom made favorable appearances and were well received.

Miss Marion R. Dexter, daughter of Samuel R. Dexter of Summer street, won the Stanton prize for declamation at Bates college last week.

Leroy T. Stratton, who has been a resident of the city for the past six months, has returned to his home in Narragansett Pier, R.I.

The budget, as passed by the Common Council on Tuesday evening, calls for an appropriation of $433,362.03, which is some $50,000 in excess of last year's amount.

B. A. H. Varian, the popular announcer at the Boston & Maine station, has removed from North Beverly, where he has made his home for many years, to a house in the city proper.

The E. T. A. club held a delightful dancing party at Rogers Hall on Tuesday evening. The party was entirely informal, and a number of young people from this and other towns attended.

The quarterly prayer meeting of the four Baptist churches in Beverly, Beverly Farms, Wenham Neck and Manchester was held with the Beverly church on Thursday afternoon. A large number attended.

"TREES ARE NOBLEST PRODUCTS OF NATURE,"

Says Supt. of Parks Pettigrew of Boston in Address at Manchester Last Night.

"Street and Wayside Planting" was the subject of a decidedly interesting and instructive address by John A. Pettigrew, superintendent of parks of the city of Boston, at the Manchester Town hall last evening. The address was given under the auspices of the North Shore Horticultural society.

The speaker is one of the most prominent horticulturists in the country, and was, before coming to Boston, superintendent of the park systems of Chicago, Milwaukee and Brooklyn. His remarks were in part as follows:

"Recognition of the value of trees as an adornment to streets in this country dates from an early date. As early as 1655 interest was manifested in the preservation of trees. In one respect we have not progressed since that day. We have with us today, as the early founders of Boston had, those who 'cut, hack, or otherwise spoyle trees.' We have, also, in goodly number, the small boy, with his ever-ready pocket-knife, to whom the smooth stem of a tree is a sore temptation—a temptation as irresistible as was the cherry tree to George Washington in his boyhood days.

"Then, too, the trees on the curb of every street bear ghastly evidence of the gnawing of generations of unhitched horses; indeed, it is not an uncommon thing to find hitching rings driven into fine, old trees.

"When one sees these battle-scarred veterans of the streets enduring ill-use, year after year, and sometimes decade after decade, yet still putting forth leaves in the spring in a struggle for existence, one cannot but realize that Nature has endowed many of our trees with remarkable endurance and great adaptability for planting in our streets.

"Trees may be ranked among the noblest products of nature. Carelessness and the fierce fight for gain are among the causes which despoil our trees. In addition to shading our streets and waysides, trees lend a softening effect to the inharmonious appearance of streets and thus appeal to the artistic sense.

"It is to be regretted that in laying out new streets the tendency of the day is toward the narrowing of the sidewalks and the omission of any provision for a tree-planting space. That the early settlers of New England transmitted their love for trees to subsequent generations, the magnificent elms to be found in our New England towns give evidence. The New England elms are noted far and wide; the charm they add to the wayside is beyond price. Is it not important, then, that every effort should be made to encourage the growth of and to protect all wayside trees?

"Laws have been enacted in Massachusetts making it obligatory on the part of towns to elect tree wardens, who shall have the care and control of all public trees. The idea is sound and the influence on civic beauty will be very powerful. Let it be a popular service to see that competent wardens are elected and that their duties are faithfully performed. Laws and ordinances are of little avail unless supported by the hearty co-operation of the public."

The speaker then enumerated some of the best trees for street planting, saying that first of all comes the American elm. Others named included the European elm, the horse chestnut, the soft maple, American ash, the buttonwood or sycamore, the maiden-hair tree, the hard or sugar maple, the Norway maple, the sycamore maple, the American beech, the silver poplar, the American linden, the European linden, the tree of Heaven, the white willow, the tulip tree, the red oak and the pin oak. He described each of these trees, and gave the best and surest method of handling them.

"The planting of street trees," he said, continuing, "requires as much care as does their selection. It is not enough to merely dig a hole and crowd the roots into it. Street trees, generally, are planted too closely together, and they grow, overcrowding and injuring each other, destroying not only their own individual beauty, but also the symmetrical arrangement which an avenue of trees should have.

"To sanitary and hygienic reasons streets ought not to be too much shaded. Sixty-five feet apart is the minimum distance, I think, at which street trees should be planted. For large, growing trees, as the elm or soft maple, 75 feet or 100 feet apart would be none too much space.

"Wayside or highway trees need not be set with the same precision as street trees. An irregular planting, conforming, in general, to the surrounding scenery, would be in better harmony.

"An important matter, also, in the care of trees is the pruning of all broken or diseased limbs or branches, by cutting the limbs off closely at the bole of the tree. Cut off smooth and paint over the wound with coal tar.

"If planting is worth doing at all it is worth doing well, for on this depends the well-being of the tree. It is safe to say, if you have $20 to spend on planting a tree, let $19.50 of the amount be spent on the preparation of the ground to receive it."

Mr. Pettigrew's only reference to the insect pest was: "The insect question I have not touched upon. This, however, is so exhaustingly covered by our entomologists that no one need work in the dark for want of knowledge of how to exterminate insect pests, or, at least, to hold them in check."

[From our Correspondent.]

The whist party given by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sanborn, Wednesday evening, was a success, both financially and socially, and another neat sum was added to the parsonage fund.

After the regular dancing class, Thursday evening, a very pleasant dancing party was held in Magnolia hall.

John Burnham has returned from Long Island, New York, where he has been spending the winter with his son, Mr. Samuel Burnham.

The Ladies' Aid society will give an entertainment in Magnolia hall next Wednesday evening.

The Magnolia Engine company are planning for a graphophone and whist party Tuesday evening.

The Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. Fuller Andrews this week.

Mr. Frank Regan, formerly of the firm of Bolger & Regan of Gloucester, has taken a place on Shore Road and expects to open up his place of business next week. Mr. Regan is very well known in Magnolia and has made many friends here. Mr. Regan has just taken a contract for the plumbing work at Mrs. F. S. Ayers' house.

Mrs. E. M. Stevens of New York has taken the large Knowles cottage on Shore road for the season.

To Seek Legal Advice.

One of the matters which came before the Essex voters at town meeting last week was that pertaining to the opening up of the old wood road leading from Essex to Manchester. This has been agitated by the summer contingent at Manchester, Beverly Farms and Hamilton for several years, and this year the Essex voters were assured that if they would grant the right, the summer residents would improve the road, which offers one of the finest wood drives on the North Shore, without any expense to the town of Essex.

A motion was made that the privilege be granted, but the question arose as to whether the town would be liable for damages in case of accident and the matter was laid on the table, awaiting legal advice.

BUSY AT BOAT YARDS.

Pleasure Yachts and Racers in Course of Construction at Manchester.

Business at the Manchester boat yards is rushing, there being at the present time no less than five boats in course of construction, including the Seawanhaka cup boat, a 50 horse-power pleasure yacht for Guy Norman, at Fenton's and a 12 horse-power motor boat racer for Norman Greeley at White's.

The Seawanhaka cup boat started at the David Fenton Company's yard last week for A. H. Higginson is to be 39 feet over all, 26 feet lower water line and 8 feet 8 inches beam. The boat is to be built of very best material and equipped with best appointments for racing purposes.

The general outline of the boat is long, narrow and flat, only about 18 inches deep, with flitter on the bottom and with quicker bilges. She will be built so as to carry her weight more forward and aft than did the other Seawanhaka boat. She will carry tremendous sail. Her mast will be 27 ft. 6 in. high; boom 23 ft. 2 in.; peak 13 ft. 5 in. The deck is to be planked diagonally with two thicknesses of 3-16 white pine, covered with light seamless cotton cloth.

Mr. Norman's pleasure yacht, which will be called "The Limit," and will hail from Newport, is very nearly completed. Two Standard gasoline engines of 25 h.p. each have been installed the past week and the finishing up part of the work is now being done.

The boat is of a rather peculiar shape, 72 ft. long, 60 ft. water line, 15 ft. extreme beam and 8 ft. deep, gunwale to rabbet, with a sharp stern. She is designed for pleasure, rather than for speed, though she will undoubtedly be set at a fast clip when her sails are spread together with the power from her 50 h.p. engines.

The boat is being built in first-class manner in every respect. Arthur Binney is the naval architect. The deck is to be of white pine, matched, covered with duck, laid over a coat of crude turpentine. The cabin is to be in mahogany finish. Ascetyline gas will furnish light.

At White's boat-yard in Manchester is being built for Norman Greeley of Boston and Beverly Cove a 12-horse power motor boat to be used for racing this summer. She is of the latest racing type, similar in design to S. Parker Bremer's "Velthra." She will be built of mahogany throughout, with nickel trimmings. Her stern is rather striking in appearance, being between a turtle and torpedo. She is to be equipped with a three cylinder Essex engine of 4 h.p. each. Norman L. Skene is the architect.

Work is also being rushed on two sister 18-foot knockabouts for F. W. Denton to be raced in Lake Michigan waters this summer. The boats are of Crowninshield's design. They are to be shipped to Michigan by April 15.

Joshua Crane, jr's, 21-foot racer is practically completed. She is to be sailed in Buzzard's Bay during the racing season.

County Convention of Endeavorers.

Lynn Endeavorers are looking forward with great interest to the next annual County Convention which is to be held in Lynn, April 19th.

The first Congregational church, centrally located on the corner of South Common and Vine streets, has generously offered the use of its entire edifice for the convention. Not only the auditorium with its seating capacity of 1,000, but the chapel and three committee rooms will be at the disposal of the endeavorers.

It has been thought best that meals, including dinner and supper, be served outside the regular meeting place of the convention.

Other churches have offered the use of their rooms for this purpose. The most able speakers will be secured and the committee feel confident that it will be the largest and strongest convention ever held in the county. See posters.

Mr. Rust Failed to Enforce Liquor Laws.

It is interesting to note in connection with the vote passed at town meeting in Manchester, Tuesday night, for the enforcement of the liquor laws, and the tirade of W. C. Rust against the police and selectmen, that Mr. Rust himself reported to the town several times, years past, that the law could not be enforced.

In 1885, when $200 was appropriated to enforce the laws, Mr. Rust was on a committee which reported:

"If anyone expected that the vote of 'No' license, and the choosing of a committee, would stop the sale of all liquors and prevent all drunkenness, they had too much faith in the power of the law * * *. One raid was made during the year, but no intoxicants were found."

$300 was appropriated in 1889 for this purpose yet the committee, of which Mr. Rust was chairman, reported:

"We called to our assistance detectives from out of town; we succeeded in buying liquor at the Manchester House, in violation of the law, but owing to informality on the part of the detectives, and the uncertainty of witnesses, we did not get our case. It is the opinion of your committee that liquor is sold there now but we are powerless to prevent the same."

Various Appointments by Manchester Selectmen.

The new board of selectmen of Manchester have made several appointments during the past week, though many of the officers are not appointed till April 1. Those appointed this week include:

GEORGE KIMBALL,

Re-appointed Superintendent of Streets.

Superintendent of Streets: George Kimball.

Board of Health: George W. Blaisdell.

Agent Indigent Soldiers and Sailors: Edwin P. Stanley.

Sealer of Weights and Measures: Edwin P. Stanley.

Fire Wards: N. P. Meldrum, Lawrence McKinnon, Ralph Tredick, Frederick Burnham, Jacob H. Kitfield and Allen S. Peabody.

Weighers of Coal: Lyman W. Floyd, N. P. Meldrum.

Master of Almshouse: W. H. Haskell.

Matron of Almshouse: Mrs. W. H. Haskell.

The selectmen have also closed a contract with the Welsbach Lighting company for five years, with a special concession that the contract start April 15, at the new rate, instead of July 1, when the old contract runs out—a saving of $75.

Whisperings.

My friend the "Man about Town" had this to say of our Superintendent of Streets Kimball of Manchester, Thursday:

"Highway Surveyor Geo. Kimball of Manchester, formerly of Danvers, will not outgrow his propensity for practical joking if he lives to reach the age of 100. A few days ago he visited old friends in Danvers and while standing on the corner of School and Maple streets observed a large pool of water across the way, at the head of Cherry street. The drain had become choked with ice and the water was running into cellars and across the sidewalks—in fact about everywhere but into the catch basin, various efforts having failed to dispose of the flood. Mr. Kimball enlisted the services of some small boys and when the new Danvers surveyor, Charles F. Aiken, came upon the scene, the 'kids' were seated on barrels, equipped with fishing rods, lines and hooks and each in the act of lifting a smoked herring from the pond."

My good friend Kimball needn't feel the joke will be returned just yet, at least, for he has a way of keeping Manchester streets from being in any such condition.

* * * * *

My attention was called this week to a matter which should surely merit the attention of every liberty-loving citizen of the town of Manchester, and that is the dastardly mean action on the part of some person or persons in Manchester in breaking or stealing thermometers, hung at various places in the centre of the town. During the winter two large thermometers have been stolen from Sheldon's market, one from D. T. Beaton's, one from J. W. Carter's, one hung at Charles Hooper's store and the last one was destroyed this week at Dennis & Campbell's store.

These thermometers are for the benefit of the public and such malicious mischief as leads anyone to steal or destroy them should be dealt with severely.

* * * * *

I am informed that Henry Menkin, caretaker for F. M. Whitehouse at Manchester has had splendid luck with raising chickens this winter. Two weeks ago he had a brood of 135 hatched and only a few days ago 130 more little chicks appeared. They are being raised on thoroughly scientific lines.

Delicate Operation.

Dr. W. H. Tyler, who opened an office in Manchester some weeks ago, assisted by Dr. Merritt Long, performed quite a delicate plastic operation at his office last Sunday on little 5-year-old Roy Mason of Revere. The child fell on a sharp stone two years ago cutting a severe gash in his forehead, just over the eyes, which left a rough looking scar. The purpose of the operation was to remove this scar and leave only a straight, slightly discernable mark. The lad will be brought to Manchester today to remove the bandages.

MANCHESTER.

While making preparations for rebuilding the wall on Elm street, near its junction with Central street, Thursday, Superintendent Kimball discovered there is at that point a shelving, or sloping ledge, similar to the one which caused the stone wall near the police station to fall over a year or two ago. Before rebuilding the wall, holes will be bored in the ledge when the water is out of the channel, and the ledge will be blown out with dynamite at high tide. Mr. Kimball was in Rockport yesterday, ordering stone for the Elm street layout.

Miss Alice Sargent entertained a party of young people at whist last evening, the first prizes going to A. L. Gould, who won a silk umbrella; Barbara Smith, sterling silver brush and comb; and boobies to Bert Floyd, a French briar pipe, and Ethel Stanley, a picture. Last evening's party was the last in a series of six.

Mrs. Leonora F. Gorman has this week purchased the Ida Brown cottage and property on Pine street.

Born, Monday, March 13, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Dougherty (Miss Agnes M. Coughlin).

Everett Sanborn of this town, who was formerly night operator at the local telephone exchange, but of late chief operator at South Framingham, has just been given a position as telephone inspector at Concord.

Captain and Mrs. W. E. Welden were up from Dennisport last Sunday and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Floyd over Sunday. Captain Welden says the "Velthra" is being put into commission and will be brought to Manchester the middle of next month. Mr. Bremer's chauffeur and electrician, Wm. Penniman, arrived Tuesday for the season, and the Bremers will probably open their house early in April.

J. F. Rabardy is making some improvements at his Cove house, among which is the construction of a wall fronting the estate.

Mrs. Rose Hoyt of Omaha, Neb., wife of Luther Hoyt, who will be remembered by many of the older residents, was a guest of Mrs. Josephine Hoyt recently.

Mrs. George Dole entertained a party at whist at her Norwood avenue home Wednesday evening.

Mrs. George A. Purdy and children are in Ipswich today visiting Mrs. Purdy's father, F. B. Ross, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of that place, who today observes his 89th birthday.

Hotel on Misery Island.

The BREEZE is able to report on what it considers reliable authority that George McCue, for several years steward of the Salem Country club, has hired what was formerly the Misery Island club house, and will conduct a hotel there this summer. It is said he will take possession April 1. The "Comrade," a ten-ton steamer, will be used for service between the island and West Beach.

Hearing on Fish Wier.

The Manchester board of selectmen gave a hearing last night on petition of Fuller A. Andrews of Magnolia for a privilege to set a fish wier off Dana's island for a term of five years. No objection was raised, and R. H. Dana was the only one of the summer colony heard from in reply to notices sent out by Chairman Swett. Mr. Dana gave his permission.

To Present Drama.

At a business meeting of the Manchester Mandolin club Tuesday evening, it was decided to give a play in Town hall some time during the early spring. Plans are now being made for the event, which will undoubtedly be of much interest.

A Hold-up in Manchester.

Clerk William E. Kitfield of the Manchester board of selectmen was the victim of a hold-up in the Cove woods last night, according to his own story. It was about 7 o'clock that he was coming through the dark woods from the Cove. He reached the top of Craft's hill when a tall man, without an overcoat, and wearing a slouch hat, walking toward Gloucester, bumped into him. Mr. Kitfield said nothing but hurried on, only to find that the man turned and followed him. When the stranger hastened his step, Mr. Kitfield dug his toes into the frozen roadway and covered the remaining distance in short order. Later reports have it that several persons saw a drunken man wending his way toward Gloucester about this time.

Odd Fellows, Notice!

Odd Fellows residing in Manchester, not members of Magnolia lodge, are invited to attend the roll call and reunion of that lodge to be held in the town hall, March 29th, at 7 p.m. Admission will be by ticket and brothers desiring to attend should notify Raymond C. Allen not later than March 22d.

C. T. Lincoln of Hartford Theological Seminary will preach at the Congregational church tomorrow.

The Ever Ready circle of Kings Daughters will meet next Wednesday evening with Mrs. G. A. Knoerr. A full attendance is desired.

Next Wednesday evening from 7 till 10 o'clock the Farther Lights will conduct a candy sale at the parsonage.

Last Saturday afternoon the Boys' Brigade marched in uniform from the church to the Story High school where they posed for their pictures. The boys will meet next Monday evening at the vestry.

A special meeting of the Congregational church was held Wednesday evening to take a vote on extending a call to Rev. M. Oakman Patton of Palmer. An informal ballot was cast and the result was such as to not warrant a call being extended.

"Glorifying God in Our Daily Work," will be the subject of the Y.P.S.C.E. tomorrow evening, Frank A. Rowe, leader.

Roland Knight will conduct the Junior Christian Endeavor tomorrow afternoon. Topic: "A Story of some willing givers."

The Easter class of the Baptist church will meet: Boys Tuesday at 4 o'clock, and girls Friday at 4.

Interest in the course of lectures to be given by the well-known lecturer, Nat M. Brigham, on April 5, 12, 19 and 26, under the auspices of the Men's class at the Baptist church is to be very popularly met, from indications.

Services are being held at the Sacred Heart church during the Lenten season on Wednesday and Friday evenings, — with a sermon and benediction on the former and with Stations of the Cross and benediction on the latter.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Willmington returned Wednesday from their trip to Washington and Baltimore.

MANCHESTER.

Lee's hall was the scene of a pretty party last evening when the gentlemen entertained the ladies of the Friday afternoon whist club. The first of the evening whist was enjoyed. This was followed by a spread, served by an out-of-town caterer. Dancing concluded the evening's entertainment.

Frank K. Fleming has been appointed janitor of the Baptist church, vice Geo. W. Andrews, who last week moved to Roslindale to live.

Miss Grace McGregor, the popular bookkeeper at Smith's express, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation, and started the first of the week for a visit with friends in Brookline.

Nicholas Georgvolas, the Rowe's block fruit man, has put an order team on the road this week in charge of John Collinalas.

Miss Edith Swett spent last Saturday and Sunday in Gloucester as guest of the Daniel Allens.

Rev. Mr. Brewster's remarks were bright and interesting. It was on "The American Woman." He closed with the following toast:

"Long live the American woman, pure as the rills which flow to quench our thirst, fair as the skies whose dimpling depths are mirrored in our seas, healthful as the spring which embroiders the banks of Saw Mill brook with laughing daisies, and clothes our fields with every species of fragrant verdure,—the American woman; may God bless her!"

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Jennie Walen, Mrs. Lottie Hildreth, Mrs. Grace Bell, Mrs. E. I. Horton and Mrs. Edith Morgan.

A reception preceded the supper. In the line were Past Presidents Sarah Crombie, Helen Willmonton and Mrs. Horton. The ushers were Mrs. A. E. Hersey, Mrs. J. S. Reed and Mrs. Mary Lane.

Society Notes.

The Automobile shows which have been on at Mechanics and Symphony Halls, Boston, this week has attracted many of the North Shore residents, quite a number going for the purpose of making their 1905 selections.

Gerard Bement who has taken the Luke cottage for the coming season has selected a large Columbia touring car of 40-45 h.p., while an electric victrola was also purchased by Mrs. Bement.

Frank Seabury who has only missed one day this winter in running his auto upon the streets of Beverly Farms will appear shortly with a new Columbia of 18 h.p.

Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, Jr., was down at her Pride's Crossing estate the latter part of last week, looking over her house preparatory to having some minor alterations made.

A. P. Loring was also noticed at Pride's Crossing last Saturday.

Miss Diana W. Rockwell will not occupy her beautiful Smith's Point estate in Manchester this year, her health being such that she has just started for California for a few weeks. She has been under a doctor's care at Belfast, Me., all the winter and will return there when she comes back from California.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Moulton, who have been occupying the Ober cottage on Valley street, Beverly Farms, started the early part of the week on a southern trip. They will spend much of their time with Mrs. Moulton's mother at Oxford, N.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Sears and Frank L. Higginson have been down at their Pride's Crossing estates this week. Mr. Sears made his return to Boston over the road in his white touring car which he has had in storage during the winter months.

At the Hotel Touraine, Boston, on April 4th and 5th, a fair for the benefit of the Deaf Mute school of Beverly will be held under the direction of Mrs. Fannie Leighton Luke of this place, who with Charles N. Trowt and Thomas D. Connolly are members of the Board of Directors. The object is indeed worthy of the patronage of all as the Deaf Mute school is a charitable institution and must necessarily receive aid in this way to insure its maintenance.

The social under the auspices of the Bible class at the Baptist vestry, Tuesday evening was a very successful affair. The evening's entertainment was interspersed by pleasing numbers, among which were the vocal solos by Miss Alice Witham and the phonograph selections, by Harry Howell.

Some eight or ten young men from here went to Beverly Tuesday evening at the meeting held with a view toward reorganizing Company E.

Miss May Mountain of Gloucester has been a guest of her sister, Mrs. J. M. Publicover, the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wallis are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a bouncing baby in their home, Monday.

Harry Howell entertained his Sunday School class of boys at his Hale street home, Monday evening.

John Daniels and A. O. Marshall have been on the list of grip patients this week.

J. Albert Maybury, for the past few years superintendent for J. T. Wilson & Sons, carpenters, has severed his connections with that concern. It is said he intends to go in business for himself soon.

A large delegation of Odd Fellows from here attended the working of the first degree upon candidates at Bass River lodge in Beverly, Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Connolly who have been spending the past six weeks with friends in California plan to start on the return trip Monday. They will come by way of Denver, Chicago, etc., and will break the monotony of the journey by stopping off at these and other cities.

It is rumored around the Farms that Frank L. Bemis of Boston has purchased the Whitman estate, off West street, and will occupy it the coming season.

George Lee was noticed at the Farms Wednesday.

Some minor improvements and alterations are soon to be made on the Meadow house to be occupied this summer by the Gerard Bements.

The meeting of St. Margaret's Court, M.C.O.F., has been changed from Wednesday to Tuesday evenings during Lent.

Michael Sheehan of Boston, formerly of Beverly Farms, was in town this week, renewing acquaintances and looking over the ground, preparatory to opening a barber shop. Mr. Sheehan conducted a barber shop here several years before his removal to Boston.

Out to Win.

The Beverly Farms hose laying team, Messrs. Fred Day and George Burchstead of Hook and Ladder 2, are out to win at the contest to be held under the auspices of Steamer 2 of Salem next Wednesday evening. They came within a second of winning at Beverly two weeks ago and are feeling confident of making better time next week. Engine 3 team — D. T. Smith and W. B. Publicover — will also seek honors next Wednesday night. A large delegation from the Farms are planning on attending.

A Successful Firm Located in Beverly.

The firm of F. W. Bernard Co. located in the Rogers Block, Beverly, have made a remarkable record in developing gold mining properties in California. Beginning in June, 1904, with their first mine the La Rita, the first dividend was declared August 1st and four dividends have been paid up to Jan. 1st, 1905. Dividends at the rate of over 100% per annum have been paid stockholders. No stock is for sale at the present time.

Their second property the Bay State mine, was secured in June, a tunnel was started at once to strike the channel of the ancient river bed. January 8th the gravel was struck, and proved to be remarkably rich. The stock was put on the market in October at 75 cents per share. Dividends began Jan. 1st, 1905, and will be paid monthly.

In November, 1904, a new mine was purchased in Angels Camp, Calif.; this will undoubtedly become one of the large mines of Angels Camp. The property is situated within a few hundred feet of the railroad, and consists of 16 claims in all, with inclined shaft and thousands of feet of underground workings, 2½ miles of ore bodies. The mine is completely equipped with all modern improvements and is now running night and day. The mine is already on a dividend paying basis, but no dividends will be paid until July first. The latest report from the mine shows that ore to the amount of $2,500,000 is blocked out and in sight.

The remarkable success of this firm in so short a time is very gratifying. The firm consists of F. W. Bernard and J. H. Meyers of Forest Hill, Calif. Mr. Bernard attends to the financing of the company and Mr. Meyers to the managing of the mining properties. *

Miss Alice Haraden attended the Master Mariner's banquet and reunion in City hall, Gloucester, last evening.

Miss Flora B. Hadley of Lowell was a guest a few days this week of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lodge, Desmond avenue.

An interesting feature of last evening's meeting of the Phi Alpha Pi was a dialogue between Revere Pulsifer, Charlie Hooper, Willard Rust and Harry Slade.

Mrs. Abbie Baker who attended the quarterly meeting of Baptist churches in Beverly this week has been a guest of her brother, Henry Woodbury at Rial Side the past few days.

Prescott Bigelow was down last Saturday looking over his estate at the Cove.

T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr's electric runabout was taken to Boston over the road yesterday by Mr. Coolidge's coachman, Mr. Corin.

What came near being a serious conflagration was narrowly averted last Sunday when an oil heater in the store formerly occupied by the Manchester Provision company exploded. John White was in the store at the time and with the aid of those at hand quickly put the blaze out.

Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Gilman of Boston were in town over Sunday.

Ernest R. Sargent, formerly with Bolger & Regan of Gloucester, gives up his position with that concern to accept one with D. T. Beaton, the Central street plumber.

Miss Mary Achrenburg entertained four tables at whist at the Cove Monday evening. Miss Alice Sargent and Willis Giles won first prizes, and Warren Heath the booby.

Miss Anna Ohlund of Boston has been visiting Gustaf Sjolund and family of Bennett street the past week.

At the office of the Selectmen, Wednesday evening, the trustees of the M. C. Martin fund organized with the choice of W. J. Johnson, president; E. A. Lane, clerk and treasurer; and F. K. Swett, G. W. Jewett and T. B. Stone, finance committee.

Liberty lodge, D. of R., held a candy and apron sale in Lee's hall, Tuesday evening.

Archie Peters, a young lad of about six years, was knocked down and narrowly escaped being run over by one of Sheldon's market wagons, Monday, in front of the library building. A scare and a few slight bruises was the extent of the damage, however. No blame is attached to Everett Allen, who was driving the wagon.

Fenton Building Boat for Seawanhaka Cup Race.

All of the arrangements have been made for the Seawanhaka club cup race, the challenge of the Manchester Yacht club having been accepted. The date of the first race has been set for July 20. The race is to be sailed off Pointe Claire, on the St. Lawrence.

Designer Edwin A. Boardman has received two orders for challengers, one from John L. Bremer and another from Alex. H. Higginson, and the trial races between these two boats will be run off Manchester for the selection of the boat to race for the cup. Fenton started work on building Mr. Higginson's boat at Manchester last week.

New Finding List.

A new finding list of the books in the Manchester Public Library, containing a list of nearly all the books added since July, 1898, has just been published and is now to be obtained at the library at the nominal price of ten cents. This is finding list No. 3, and some 3,000 or 4,000 books are catalogued. Everything is systematically arranged and reflects credit on Librarian Bingham and his assistant, Miss Sargent. The Dewey system of cataloguing is used.

You May Take a Tour of the Whole World in One Little Corner of Our Store

For here you will find representatives from almost every foreign land. They are little new arrivals, too, not having been in this country but a very short time. They are very distinguished, aristocrats, if you please, the first of their respective families. They represent an industry that goes toward the making of a very artistic home, and that part of the house that more people see than any other—the outside.

THEY ARE LACE DRAPERIES.

Among the many come the REN-AISSANCE, made of hand-knit braid, sewed to the heavy cable net by the peasants in their tidy homes. These are made in the white. Then come the ARABIAN POINTS, after the nature of the above, with a cord inserted through the edge; these are made up in ecru.

Then something entirely new, a straight-hanging drapery, "BONNE FEMME," made of heavy braid on an ecru net. Then the "Fad of the season," "CLUNY'S," with their hand-crocheted lace edge and insertions. A drapery suited to any house and to every room in the house, in both white and ecru.

Then there are Antiques

Of a little cob-web lace, tough as twine, made up with a soft madras that suits a bed-room to a T and will wear forever.

Again come the BRUSSELS LACES, dainty and refined. The designs are all over these, the net is soft and fine, and for a delicately furnished room these help to set ten things and bear out the dainty idea.

IRISH POINTS, that you all are very familiar with. Let us merely say of these that the designs are much improved and that it's a wonder, the curtain you can get in these at the price.

Then for Colored Window Draperies

There are the MADRAS CURTAIN effects that are surely swell.

Ground work of white and ecru, the designs are worked up in geometric figures and odd-shaped florals in colors that no one but the foreigner can produce. These are perfectly beautiful for the den or dining room, and the beauty of them is they are exclusive. They are not in any other store and you'll not find them in everybody's home. Besides having these in regular curtains we have now the Madras goods by the yard to make up curtains especially for your windows, and the effect this way, especially for a "Den," almost makes the room.

You'll be astonished at the bound our Drapery Corner has made this Spring.

Almost everything is foreign, exclusive, goods imported by ourselves direct which means a big saving to you and also protection in not having things that every one else has got.

TOWN MEETING.

Art. 41, called for by F. M. Andrews, who motioned that the sidewalk on the eastern side of Vine street, from its junction with School street to the dividing line of the Samuel Knight land, be concreted, and that $325 be appropriated for the purpose. Carried.

E. S. Knight: "Which is the eastern side?" (The street runs east to west.)

Mr. Andrews: "It is the right hand side from School street."

M. E. Gorman moved that the town concrete the sidewalk on Bridge street from Norton's mountain to the beginning of the Prince estate, and that $150 be appropriated for the purpose.

Moderator: "I think all these things should go before some committee. We have already appropriated large sums for concreting, and we might keep this up all night."

I. M. Marshall: "If anybody has had occasion to go to West Manchester the past two weeks I think he would have no doubt as to the feasibility of doing this. The sidewalk is under six inches of water part of the time for 150 feet at this point."

Mr. Gorman thought the $150 would raise the sidewalk as well as concrete it. Motion carried.

Art. 39, relative to crushing stone. The clerk read the report of the committee having the matter under their supervision, as reported at the last meeting. F. K. Swett reported further that the committee recommended that $1,200 be appropriated for repairs on the stone crusher; that the adjoining property be purchased, but that the investigation be continued relative to this; and that the $831.98 recommended by the appropriation committee be expended in crushing stone.

The recommendations of the committee relative to repairs and the crushing of stone were accepted and adopted on motion of W. C. Rust.

C. C. Dodge: "I move this matter of purchasing the adjoining property be laid on the table till the adjourned meeting."

W. C. Rust: "I move that the committee get an option on the property, so that the town can take it later at a stated price."

M. E. Gorman: "I wonder if it wouldn't be wise to appoint our superintendent of streets, Mr. Kimball, on this committee. He is a man of practical experience and good judgment in this matter."

Moderator: "I am ready to entertain a motion on this recommendation of the committee."

On motion of E. P. Stanley, the same committee was instructed to make further investigation and to obtain an option and price, and to report at the adjourned or some other meeting of the town. Carried.

Art. 55. To see if the town will accept the Elm street layout as presented, and appropriate money to defray expense of same.

Selectman Swett reported that all the abutters had agreed to claim no land damage, whereupon W. C. Rust moved the town accept the lay-out.

James Hoare moved $2,800 be appropriated for the construction of the same. Carried.

Art. 57. It was voted to appropriate money to cover the deficiencies as they appear in the annual auditor's report.

Art. 29, relative to installing electric lights in the town hall building. Selectman Swett reported that the estimated cost of completing the electric light system in the town hall building to be $258.20, of which amount $208 was for re-wiring, fixtures, and the 140 globes at 18 cents, $25.20; connecting with main, $25.

Approximate cost of lighting :

Basement and office floor . . .	$165.00
Main hall and entry	66.00
Odd Fellows' hall and entry . . .	70.00

Approximate cost per year . . . $301.00

W. C. Rust: "It is well known that there are four orders that meet in the upper hall, and every member would testify as to the very poor quality of the lights. It is impossible sometimes to see across the room. We have to bring in candles and lanterns to see how to do our business. If we have been so free with our money so far, I don't think the town would be at all wrong in appropriating money for this purpose. I move the report of the selectmen be accepted, and that the necessary steps be taken for lighting the town hall building and that $175 be appropriated for the purpose."

John I. Allen stated that he represented the company who put in the gas lights, and said the trouble with the lights was the lack of pressure. This could be remedied with little trouble. The pressure should be two inches, he said, but on test he found it to be only one-half an inch.

Mr. Rust: "I think the cost of breakage of chimneys and mantels alone in the upper hall, due to poor gas, would exceed $75, the cost of electric lights."

E. P. Stanley: "As far as my office is concerned I can say that my lights have always been good when the material is good. If you have first-class mantels you will get first-class lights. I have had one mantel 18 months, and I have spoiled a dozen of another kind in two months. Keep the quality of gas up, have good mantels, and you would have good lights."

C. C. Dodge: "I was one of the committee that installed the gas machine some years ago. In Odd Fellows' hall the gas is supplied by only one-half inch pipe, and that is all clogged up with refuse, rust, etc.—not W. C. Rust. We should clear these pipes out and give the gas machine a good chance."

O. T. Roberts: "As far as I can find out the cost of lighting this building by electricity and by gas is practically the same. It is a matter of fact that a low-studded room does not permit of such good lights from gas service as high-studded rooms. If we can light the building just as cheaply with electric lights as with gas, we should do so."

W. J. Johnson said he thought it was time to do something toward improving the lighting facilities in Magnolia hall.

F. K. Swett thought the condition of the lights in Odd Fellows' hall depended a great deal on how they are kept. They had been very good the last few nights because the Town hall janitor had taken care of them instead of the regular janitor (Mr. Rust).

Mr. Rust: "I venture to say that if you go up stairs the chimneys are black now. I don't care who takes care of them, you can't prevent that."

Mr. Meldrum said he did not understand the gasoline machine must be put out of commission if electric lights are installed. He was of the opinion, in fact, it would be a good scheme to keep in case of emergency. The original motion to install electric lights was carried.

E. A. Lane stated that the school committee has made some progress on securing a lot for a new building, and expected to be able to report at that meeting. He moved that when meeting adjourned it be till next Monday evening at 7.30. Carried.

W. C. Rust then called for Art. 3.

"To choose by ballot, etc?" queried the moderator.

Mr. Rust: "Well, go on down through the article—as regards granting of licenses for sale of liquor, etc."

Moderator: "Do you want to appropriate money? If so, Art. 58 is what you want."

Mr. Rust: "Yes."

It was voted to take up Art. 3.

Mr. Rust: "I congratulate the town on again voting no license. I had no doubt they would do this. I note, Mr. Moderator, that the unexpended appropriations were turned back into the treasury. I would like to call for the instructions the selectmen gave the chief of police regarding the enforcement of the liquor law."

Clerk Jewett read that $200 had been appropriated at the last March meeting to enforce the liquor law.

Mr. Rust: "That's all right as far as it goes; but I want the instructions of the selectmen."

Moderator: "Has the clerk of the board the records?"

Mr. Swett: "I can go to the vault and get them."

Mr. Rust: "All right, I would like to hear them. It is known that the past year has been outrageous as regards the enforcement of the liquor law. I have known of many people saying that men defied the police to touch certain people. I have it on good authority that there are a dozen kitchen bar-rooms in Manchester. We vote to instruct the selectmen to stop the sale of liquor, and I am surprised to hear such things. Anybody can sell it."

At this point Selectman Swett read from the clerk's book under date of April 30: "Voted to instruct the chief of police to enforce the liquor law as per vote of the town at the March meeting."

Mr. Rust: "Do I understand that was the written authority presented to the police?"

Mr. Swett: "Yes."

Mr. Rust: "Then it is up to the chief of police. I have been told by the friends of the chief that if instructions were given him this state of affairs would not exist. Now he has been instructed, and it is up to him. If the chief had done what he ought to have there would be no such state of affairs. There is no man who sells liquor in Manchester but what could be found out."

"President Roosevelt has a body guard to look out for him; why should not the chief of police have men go around for him and see where liquor is sold?"

"I move that the selectmen be instructed to give the chief of police orders to enforce the liquor law. And if the police don't carry out the orders get somebody else who will. I want to get the sense of the meeting, and then see if the chief of police takes his course."

Rev. W. H. Ashley: "I second that motion. I don't agree with Mr. Rust in all he says, but I stand in opposition to the liquor traffic. I believe in abolishing the saloon, then there would be no need of agitating this question. I believe the youth of the United States and Manchester, precious in God's sight and yours, should be protected. There would be no need of law if men would accept Christ."

"I am a member of the school committee, and if we gave the superintendent of schools certain instructions and he didn't carry them out, we would give him his walking ticket, and get another. If the selectmen instruct the chief of police to see that the liquor law is enforced and if he did not enforce, and he is still in power, then it is up to the selectmen to say why he is still in power. That's where I stand."

"The reason that the selectmen do not discharge the police, is because the town fail to discharge their servants. There's where we stand. Mr. Rust wants to know what the sense of the town is. The sentiment of the town is you don't want the law enforced.

"You don't want license because of the name; but you do want what license gives.

"I have little use with the redemption of the drunkard compared with keeping the boy from becoming a drunkard. I would rather you men go out on the streets and plead in favor of alcohol and stand for it, than go out and make believe you don't stand for it. You may call men cranks who plead for the enforcement of the law, but don't with laughter sneer. Remember that it is something that is touching your own home. Be men; go out and stand for it and plead for it; let your boys know where you stand. Don't be hypocrites."

Mr. Rust: "I am very much pleased with the remarks of the gentlemen. They are very nice, but I have had 30 years' experience in dealing with this issue, and I have found that one good spotter in this town would do more good than all the prayers you can offer. This bringing men to Christ is very far off; it isn't in our generation. Have one man paid to look out for this thing. I believe that the majority would like to see things go a little better than in the past few years.

"Moral suasion is very good, but force is better. I believe in fighting the devil with the devil. One gentleman said to me: 'Why don't you go to such and such a place and close up this man or that.' I asked him how he knows liquor is sold there. 'I have bought it there,' he replies. 'Then get after him?' 'No; I'll be hanged if I will.' And there's where you are. If the chief sent out notices and had detectives sent around we can stop this thing."

George Kimball: "I don't know as I ought to say anything on the temperance question myself, but if I should it would be of no use to get on the Common and ask people to come and hear me pray. I want to say a word in favor of detectives. My mind carries me back a few years when a former chief of police (Urquhart) made a statement and had signatures which showed that certain parties did not want the police to act where blood was thicker than water."

Mr. Rust (excitedly): "Mr. Chairman, I——"

Moderator: "If the gentleman will give way you may speak."

Mr. Kimball: "I would like to finish what I have to say."

Mr. Rust: "But Mr. Chairman,—"

Moderator: "Mr. Rust you are out of order."

Mr. Kimball, continuing: "I also recall that some parties were in favor of enforcing the law but not equally, as they wanted to strike out grocery stores. Perhaps the grocery stores sold rum, but he would not care to trouble them, but only those places which sold over the bar. Yet this same gentleman tonight says stop the kitchen bar-rooms. But I say that rum sold in the kitchen bar-rooms is just as dangerous as that sold over the bar. I believe if a man has anything to say let him be so clear that he is not floored by his own argument."

Mr. Rust: "I do not want to go into personal matters nor go back into history on things which I have before explained, but since this gentleman has referred to the grocery stores I feel I ought to explain. The chief came to me and said he would enforce the liquor law, and asked assistance. He said he would set the spotters to work on the grocery stores. Then I looked the matter over and told the chief that if the grocery stores were to be the only ones troubled I would have nothing to do with the matter. He then told me that if I would not agree to prosecute the groceries he would throw up the whole thing. I will say of that man he falsified; he was the most untruthful man I ever had anything to do with. And I say that man (pointing to Mr. Kimball) who backs him up is no better than he."

At this point the moderator called the speaker to order with a vigorous pound of the gavel.

Mr. Ashley: "That is the trouble with Manchester; just as soon as this matter is discussed, it is a personal offence. The question is before us. In the interest of the homes and children of the town decide it rightly. It is not a question where personalities should enter in. There are times when silence speaks vastly louder than words."

The vote passed on motion of Mr. Rust was "That the selectmen be and hereby are instructed to enforce the liquor law and instruct the chief of police to do the same."

$300 was appropriated to enforce the liquor law.

On motion of O. T. Roberts the selectmen were instructed to have the face of the town clock repainted and regilded and all necessary repairs made.

At 9.10 the meeting adjourned till next Monday night at 7.30.

Exterminating Moths

by the Thousands.

The work of exterminating the brown-tail and gypsy moths in Manchester was begun in earnest Wednesday and has continued with unabated interest throughout the week.

At a special meeting of the selectmen the following were appointed a committee to carry on the work: John Baker, P. R. Sanborn, C. M. Dodge, W. B. Jackson, James Macgregor and James Salter. This committee met Monday evening and organized, laying out the course to be pursued. Mr. Jackson and Mr. Sanborn were to start at the Gloucester line and work toward the centre; Mr. Baker and Mr. Dodge were to have oversight over the Plain-section, and Mr. Macgregor and James Salter were to have charge of West Manchester and Smith's Point. Four men have been working in each of these three squads.

THE BROWN-TAIL MOTH.
Nest and Egg Cluster.

At town meeting last week $1,000 was appropriated to carry on this work, but it is not the intention of the selectmen to spend the whole of the amount now, but to continue the work next fall.

Tree Warden Young Hustling.

Tree Warden William Young started last Friday with a force of three men and has put in a busy week gathering the brown-tail nests from the trees along the Manchester highways. Starting at the Beverly line last week it is his intention to work through every street to the Gloucester line, and from Essex to Smith's Point. Last year the tree warden did good work toward suppressing the moths on trees bordering the highways, but his efforts in this regard are almost useless unless the trees on the adjoining properties are also freed from the pest. The town has appropriated $400 for this work.

Three Thousand Plants of Golden Glow.

[The following description by Jeffrey S. Reed of Manchester, which appears in The Garden Magazine for April, will prove of interest to our readers. The article is reprinted by permission and the picture of Mr. Reed's garden, so familiar to many of our readers, is reproduced through courtesy of The Garden Magazine, also.—ED.]

I was awarded first prize for the best-kept grounds by the Village Improvement society at Manchester, Mass. My lot is 45 x 114 ft., and about half of it is occupied by my restaurant and dwelling. The lot is enclosed by a board fence 6 ft. high, which I cannot control. This fence is an annoyance to me. I should much prefer a wire fence that could be completely covered with vines. To hide the fence as much as possible, I chose Rudbeckia Golden Glow. I could not afford to buy enough plants to screen the whole fence in one season, but in four years I have succeeded in hiding the whole fence without paying a cent for plants. Four years ago a friend gave me about a peck of roots, which when divided and set a foot apart, made a single row about ten or twelve ft. long. The second spring, I dug up all the plants, divided them, and had a row of fifty or sixty ft. long. The third season, I dug up the plants during a January thaw, and got remarkably good results by dividing them at that unusual season. Some of the ground was frozen and I put the plants in the sunlight to thaw out. This gave me a row the full length of the lot (114 feet), clear across the back (forty-five feet) and along the other side as far as the house. The fourth year I doubled the whole border (now 220 feet long) by making it two feet wide. Thus I estimate that I have about three thousand plants, all healthy, prolific and remarkably uniform. I wonder if any other amateur has propagated so large a stock from so small a beginning in four years, and whether such a record would be possible with any other plant than the wonderful Golden Glow? I believe it is the most popular hardy perennial introduced during the last twenty-five years. What a fortune for some one who could get it in other colors!

The fence is now hidden by a living wall of green, and I have untold thousands of flowers from August until frost. Nor do I find it monotonous because it is all one kind of plant. Ordinarily, the Golden Glow grows about six feet high, but with me it attains nine or ten feet. To keep it from falling forward, I have invented a little scheme for keeping the plants in place, which is effective and practically invisible. Vertical stakes six feet high, about an inch wide and thick, and painted dark green, are placed every ten feet in a row parallel with the fence and about two and a half feet away from it. These stakes carry a wire near the top, which prevents the flowers from falling forward. Every two feet I have a wire from fence to running wire to keep them from sagging in wind or rain storms.

The other plants shown in the picture are dahlias, Lavatera (an excellent pink and white flower of the mallow family) and candytuft. J. S. REED.

Misery Island Hotel.

The report in last week's BREEZE that a Salem man had hired the Misery Island club house and will conduct a hotel there during the coming season has been confirmed during the week. As stated, Geo. C. McCue, who has been steward of the Salem Country club, will have charge of the hotel, which will be opened for the season about the first of June. It will be run as a public hotel, paying especial attention to dinner parties. The rooms are to be fitted for occupancy and the house put in first-class condition.

Arrangements have been made to secure a large boat to carry passengers to and from the island, and boats of the Beverly Transportation company will also make the island a stopping place.

Literary Society.

The following very interesting program was carried out at Tuesday's meeting of the Literary Society of the Story High school in Manchester:

Recitation, "The Gift of Frierrius,"... Mary Coughlin
Recitation, "The Removal,"... Annie Crombie
Recitation, "The Brave Fireman,"... Nellie Jackson
Composition, "Robin Hood,"... Joseph Spinney
Stump Speech, ... Sidney Marshall
Recitation, "Cobbler Keepzar's Vision,"... Harold Stanley
Dialogue, "More than a Match,"... Henry Merrill and Joseph Floyd Composition, "Richard in History and Richard in Ivanhoe,"... Marjorie Sargent
Piano Solo, "Karama,"... Samuel Rowe
Recitation, "The Garrison of Cape Ann,"... Jessie Andrews Critic, Beth Jewett.

A feature of the program of the next meeting will be the reading of an original play by Frank W. Fleming.

Stage Pictures and Songs.

Rarely have audiences been so pleasantly taken by surprise as those which have assembled at the Tremont Theatre to greet the much boomed and long anticipated musical play, "The Cingalee." Apart from its spectacular effects, "The Cingalee" may be voted one of the most successful of modern musical comedies. The score is full of tuneful melodies, and contains several numbers which cannot fail to take the public fancy. The funny Monkey Duet by Mr. Norris and Miss Julia Millard promises to be one of the humorous ditties of the season. The cast is exceptionally strong. The production will remain at the Tremont Theatre all next week.

John J. Giles left yesterday for Atlanta, Ga., where he will probably live for some time with his son, Arthur F. Giles. Of late Mr. Giles' health has not been very good and he now seeks a change in climate hoping to improve his condition. Joseph N. Lipman has gone South with Mr. Giles, but will return again next week.

Many young people from here are planning on attending the dance given by the Salem Commercial school pupils in Salem next Wednesday evening.

The members of the Degree of Honor enjoyed whist after the meeting Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Killam were in East Boxford, Thursday, to attend the funeral of Mr. Killam's aunt, Elizabeth, wife of Geo. E. Killam, who was almost 80 years old when she passed away last Monday.

A dance will be held in the town hall next Friday evening under the auspices of the Manchester Brass band. The boys have been paying out money all the winter for lessons and this dance is being held as an effort to replenish the treasury, and incidentally help toward getting in trim for summer. Everybody should help the good cause along by buying a ticket and attending the dance. Tickets are 50 and 25 cents.

Thomas B. McDonald and family have this week moved into the Mahoney house on Washington street.

Gentle Spring.

"Come, gentle Spring! ethereal mildness, come!"

Oh! Thomson, void of rhyme as well as reason,

How could'st thou thus poor human nature hum?

There's no such season."

That's what Hood said of Spring a good many years ago, and North Shore folk can justly feel his words still hold true.

Officially, Spring made her appearance Tuesday, but she was ushered in with a snowstorm that called out the sleighs and puns Wednesday and sent carriages and wheeled vehicles back to winter quarters again. The warm rays of old Sol, however, has taken away a good part of the snow ere now, and we can again walk on solid earth. But yet we whisper "Come, gentle Spring."

New Club for Manchester.

Dame rumor has it that steps are being taken to organize a new club in Manchester. Though the BREEZE is not in a position to state anything, it knows positively that a Salem lawyer is now drawing up papers for a charter for a club in Manchester.

Charles H. Nichols of Salem and Chicago has taken a lease of the James Beaton cottage, corner School and Lincoln streets and will occupy it during the coming week, it is thought.

Society Notes.

The advent of the Frazier Harrisses among the North Shore colony the coming season will be welcomed by many of the younger set in particular, who have met Mr. and Mrs. Harris on their frequent visits to the Harvey Childs at Manchester Cove. Mrs. Harris was Miss Virginia Johnson, a daughter of Mrs. Childs by her first husband. They have taken the Dr. Channing house on University lane, occupied by the Mooreheads of Allegany last year, for the season. The Harrisses come from Pittsburg.

The Charles Heads, who are now in Cuba, will not spend the summer at Manchester this year, but will go to their beautiful country place of some 500 acres in Westport N.Y., bordering on Lake Champlain. After returning from Cuba they will come to their Manchester estate about the latter part of April and will remain till the first of June. They will come to the North Shore again in September and will remain till the late fall as last year. A prominent New York family will occupy their Manchester place, it is said.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow were noticed about their Manchester Cove place the middle of the week.

Among the earliest arrivals at West Manchester, undoubtedly, will be Mr. and Mrs. Lester Leland, whose beautiful new house is nearing completion. Mr. and Mrs. Leland arrived in New York last week, after a winter spent abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKee of Pittsburg, who have been at the Southern resorts the past six weeks, are expected back to their Beverly Farms house before the first of April. A week ago Thursday night Mr. McKee was one of a stag dinner at the Beach club at Palm Beach, given to the tennis players in the men's single tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. John Caswell of Pride's Crossing have also been prominent figures in the Palm Beach events the past two months. Mr. Caswell is getting to be a star motorist. He gained much prominence with his new 40-horse power car at the Florida beaches this winter, and has just returned his machine to the factory to be overhauled before bringing it to the North Shore. He has entered his car in the 1,000-mile endurance run, which is to run this summer, and which will include the Hub for several days' stay.

The death of Albert Perry removes from Beverly's business circle one of her most influential public-spirited men, one whose interests were always for the uplifting and good of the city. Mr. Perry was the president of the Beverly National Bank which position he had held for some time and where he was well known.

The young people of the Ballou club enjoyed a Blue Jay social at the Universalist chapel on Tuesday evening. A large number of members was present and enjoyed the evening's festivities. Each person on entering the hall was measured. The short ones had the advantage; for it cost them less. Three cents for each foot and a half-cent for every inch over a foot was the admission fee and not a small amount of money was received from this source.

Merton R. Lovett of the University of Maine is spending the spring vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solon Lovett, North Beverly.

There is hardly a vacant store left on Cabot street at present. Within the past week there have been numerous places rented and changed hands that will increase the business interests of the city immensely. F. W. Woolworth & Co., are to open one of their popular 5 and 10 cents stores where Woodward & Ober were located in the Rogers block; Almy, Bigelow & Washburn have taken another store in the Mason Building, while the remaining store between Plummer's Drug store and French's Creamery has been leased to Gale, a hardware man, who comes hither from Connecticut.

There seems to be a lively interest in the affairs of Company E, and the young men of the city are taking hold of the project of a new company in town with a vim. A large number of men have been drilling for some time expectant of the result of inspection.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Universalist church held their meeting this week with Mrs. Mary Holding of Cabot street.

A. C. Rollins and Albert Warren of the local Salvation Army are enjoying a vacation at Alton Bay, N. H.

Lawrence L. Wood of New York City has been the recent guest of his father George Wood.

Hose Laying Contest.

At the exciting hose-laying contest in Cadet Armory, Salem, Wednesday evening when twelve companies from Salem, Peabody, Danvers, and Beverly participated. The Beverly Farms Department were represented by Messrs. Smith and Publicover of Engine 3, and Day and Burchstead of Hook and Ladder 2. Both teams made excellent records. Day and Burchstead, who won second prize at the Beverly contest, recently, secured third money, doing the trick in 19½ seconds. They were beaten for the first prize by only one second, while the time of Smith and Publicover was only 22¾ seconds, which is also good work. Both companies received hearty applause and from the large delegation of friends from Beverly Farms who were present.

GIVES UP BUSINESS.

Beverly Farms Druggist Retires and Lynn Man Continues Business.

Asa O. Marshall for twenty-seven years proprietor of Marshall's Drug store at Beverly Farms, has retired from the business, and F. W. Varney of Lynn is now conducting the business, having purchased it from Mr. Marshall some weeks ago.

Mr. Varney is a chemist by profession, and has had twenty-five years' experience both in retail and wholesale drug business. He was formerly with J. D. Knowlton of Boston, and more recently with Sharpe & Doane of New York. He was graduated from the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy in 1889 and has been registered since 1885.

Mr. Varney does not intend to make any change in the business as conducted by Mr. Marshall, but will continue along the same lines, and will offer the people of Beverly Farms and the North Shore an up-to-date retail drug store.

Helen Collamore Wallis.

The death last Saturday of Mrs. Helen Collamore Wallis at her late home in Beverly Farms, has cast a gloom over the whole community. Funeral services were held at her late residence on Greenwood avenue Monday afternoon, Rev. Clarence Strong Pond officiating. A quartette sang "Face to Face," "Nearer my God to Thee" and "The Homeland."

The pall bearers were Herman McDonald, Irwin Davis, Edward May and Richard Davis. A beautiful selection of flowers were sent in.

Mrs. Wallis was a Beverly Farms young lady, being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Collamore. A husband, a two-weeks-old infant, father, mother and sister survive her. The whole community extends to the family their sincere sympathy in their sorrow.

Seeing a big auto bounding through the slush at Beverly Farms, Thursday afternoon, the mud and water splashing mercilessly over the two ladies and two gentlemen on the seats, reminded me of the small boys I had just seen around the corner, who seemed to seek the muddiest spot on the sidewalk on which to play marbles. It is peculiar what kind of sport appeals to some people.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING.

Manchester Voters Decide to Have Primary School Building.—Site Selected.—Plans being Made.

Manchester is to have a Primary School building as the result of a vote passed at the adjourned town meeting Monday night, when it was voted to pay $8,300 for a site, and the school committee were empowered to get plans and specifications for a building to be erected later.

The site selected by the committee and accepted by the town is that on the corner of Brook street extension, and Norwood avenue, owned by Morley, Flatley & Co., Lucy Carroll and J. J. Winn, which lot adjoins the playgrounds and is, withal, a most desirable location, being quite central and not far from the George A. Priest school.

This matter was the first brought before the meeting Monday night, E. A. Lane presenting the report of the committee, which, after some little discussion as to the most desirable location of the several presented, was accepted. Not a dissenting vote was cast,—another indication of the position the Manchester voters take when the question of schools come before them.

This was practically the only business transacted at the meeting, which was well attended, considering the fact it was an adjourned session. The adjourned meeting will be held on the second Monday evening in May.

What was Said and Done at Town Meeting.

The second adjourned session of the Manchester town meeting was called to order Monday evening at 7.40 o'clock.

School committeeman Edward A. Lane called for Article 14 of the warrant, "to see if the town will empower the school committee to select a suitable lot of land for a school building, and to report at the adjourned meeting." Mr. Lane read the following report:

"To the Citizens of Manchester :

"Gentlemen: At the annual town meeting, March 6, 1905, the school committee, favorable to Article 14 of the warrant, were empowered to select a suitable lot for a school building and report at an adjourned meeting. We have attended to that duty and beg leave to submit the following report.

"In considering the location of a new school building the committee have endeavored to find the most central and also the most desirable location for that purpose. In the minds of the committee a point near the junction of Norwood avenue and Brook street seems to them the proper place.

"We have had under consideration the past week three locations: first, the lots owned by Morley, Flatley & Co., Lucy Carroll and John J. Winn, situated on the northerly corner of Norwood avenue and Brook street; second, the lot of land nearly opposite the playground on Brook street, owned by the heirs of George A. Brown and heirs of Frederic Allen; third, the lot on the southerly corner of Norwood avenue and Brook street and owned by the heirs of H. O. Roberts. Either one is well located for school purposes.

"The Morley, Flatley lot has a frontage on Norwood avenue of 362 ft. and on Brook street of 152 ft., an average depth of about 120 ft., and contains about 45,000 sq. ft. of land, or approximately, an area of one acre.

"The Carroll lot has a frontage of about 69 ft. on Brook street and a depth of about 140 ft. and contains approximately 115 of an acre.

"Both of these lots join the playground in the rear and for that reason it would be very desirable that the town should own it. At our first interview with the owners of this land the price submitted in writing to the committee was so excessive that we could not consider it. But they have since made some concessions which we think should be considered, and have offered to sell the land for $8,300 divided as follows: Morley, Flatley & Co., $4,800, Lucy Carroll, $2,700, and

J. J. Winn, $800.

"While the price is still excessive, yet in the minds of your committee there is some doubt whether the town should let this opportunity pass. Owing as we do the playground in the rear, and knowing the conditions as they exist at the present time in that locality, we think it would be for the advantage of the town to purchase this land and sacrifice the difference between the cost of this and either of the others, rather than let the opportunity to secure it pass out of our hands.

"The cost of the land at the price mentioned would be approximately fifteen cents per square foot. Miss Carroll reserves the right to remove the house, and Morley, Flatley the right to remove the crushed stone, lumber and loam which they have deposited upon the lot.

"The two lots owned by the heirs of George A. Brown and the heirs of Frederic Allen combined would make a desirable location and have received a somewhat favorable consideration by the committee. These lots are situated on the southerly side of Brook street extension nearly opposite the playground and on the curve of the street. They have a frontage of 410 ft. on Brook street and the combined area of the two lots is 40,490 sq. ft., or about 11-12 of an acre.

"The price submitted to the committee for the George A. Brown lot is $3,000 and for the Frederic Allen lot $2,500, making a total of $5,500, or approximately 13½ cts. per sq. ft.

"The lot owned by the heirs of H. O. Roberts is well situated for school purposes. It has a frontage on Norwood avenue of 430 feet and on Brook street of 163 ft., an average depth of 140 ft., and contains 55,562 sq. ft., nearly 1¼ acres. The price asked for this lot is $6,000, or approximately 11 cts. per sq. ft. This lot costs less than either of the others. The size of this as compared with the Morley, Flatley lot and the Carroll lot combined is nearly equal.

"In view of the fact that the town owns the land in the rear of the Mor ley, Flatley and Lucy Carroll lots and the possibility that in the near future there will be buildings placed there which will be a detriment to the rear land, we recommend that the town purchase from Morley, Flatley & Co., Lucy Carroll and John J. Winn all the land they own on the northerly corner of Norwood avenue and Brook street adjoining the playground.

"Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD A. LANE,
LYMAN W. FLOYD,
School Committee."

Manchester, March 20, 1905.

E. P. Stanley moved that the report of the committee be accepted and the recommendations adopted.

J. A. Torrey: "I would like to hear the latter part of the report again."

Moderator: "It will take but a few minutes; I will read the whole report. This is an important matter and it is well to know just what we are doing."

Mr. Hooper then read the report.

E. P. Stanley: "I came to the conclusion in the first place that if this land (the Morley, Flatley lot) could be purchased, it would be the best thing to do. When we take into consideration the playgrounds nearby, the great number of people who use the grounds, and the way it is crowded at times, I think the purchase of this adjoining property the best thing to do. The drainage is much better than either of the other two lots and is much more desired for that reason."

O. T. Roberts: "I didn't know but Mr. Stanley was going to speak on both sides of the question and then ask us to vote, as he usually does. I think the committee have done good work, but Mr. Stanley, I think, is wrong when he says this land is the best for drainage. I believe the Roberts lot is the best for drainage, and is the best for building purposes, too."

"But in this age when we must have places for exercise I don't know but this lot joining the playground is best for our purpose. The playground lot was intended for the boys and girls as a playground, but I notice the older ones, that could better play at a buck-saw or a hoe, use it as much, if not more than the children. Yet we recognize the fact in this age that even the boys of older growth must have a place to grow, and I think this place is the best."

"I believe with the committee this is a fair proposition, and I feel I should agitate this purchase." Mr. Roberts called attention to the question between Samuel Knight and Mr. Morley regarding the line caused by the change in the line of the brook, which matter, he thought, should be settled before the town bought the property.

Civil Engineer Allen explained that though the course of the brook had been changed the old line was still plainly in sight and in case of a dispute the matter could easily be adjusted.

Mr. Roberts: "I don't know as there is any dispute; it is simply a matter of deciding one way or another."

Anstin Morley: "This is a matter of no consequence. It can be attended to in a few minutes."

F. K. Hooper: "Did the committee make an effort to get lowest prices on other lots?"

Mr. Lane: "There was no attempt made to get a 'lowest price' on the other lots, or on this one (the Morley lot). The parties got together and decided on it themselves."

Mr. Stanley's original motion was put and carried, unanimously.

Art. 15. Mr. Lane moved that the selectmen be instructed to purchase from Morley, Flatley & Co., Lucy Carroll and John J. Winn all the land they own on the northerly corner of Brook street extension and Norwood avenue and that the sum of $8,300 be appropriated for that purpose. Carried.

On motion of Mr. Lane $300 was appropriated to be used by the school committee to procure plans and specifications for a school building and to report at an adjourned or some other meeting of the town.

Charles L. Lucas requested by communication that his name be stricken from the jury list. Granted.

C. O. Howe moved that the moderator appoint a committee of seven to carry into effect the appropriation for the Fourth of July celebration. Carried. The moderator appointed the same committee, but R. C. Allen and H. M. Stanley declined and two others were appointed. The committee now is composed of G. S. Sinnicks, C. O. Howe, Ralph G. Stanley, W. W. Hoare, George Kimball, L. W. Floyd, and C. O. Lee.

C. C. Dodge: "At this time, if there is no objection on the part of the house, I would like to have you turn back to the reports—the auditor's report, for instance. I would like to make to the meeting a little explanation, for the sake of those who were deceived. On page 38 you will notice 'Paid, C. Dodge Furniture Co., fire alarm whistle, $462.00.' Quite a number of people have said to us, 'you fellows roasted the town that last year.' But the auditor has lumped two bills together, 97 days of the preceding year being added. I think if the auditor's report was a little more explicit sometimes, there would be less chance for misunderstanding."

At 8.15 the meeting adjourned till the second Monday in May.

Whisperings.

My good friend George S. Sinnicks certainly has not lost his propensity for a good joke during his short stay abroad. Superintendent Kimball received a souvenir postal from him a few days ago. On the card was written: "One like this for Manchester." Above this was a picture of the Liverpool Town hall, a magnificent granite building, with beautiful marble pillars in front, and, withal, a most imposing structure. Mr. Kimball has passed the postal over to Town Treasurer Stanley for his approval. But never mind; Manchester's new town hall is not so very far in the distance, and it may not be built of wood, either.

* * * *

Lots have been said of the doings of the wild winds and the capers they cut up sometimes, but when they drive a person from their nice warm abode out into the cold snow, what they say and do is more of a reality than a dream. The experience of a certain young married woman in Manchester came to my ears yesterday. It was during the snow flurries of Tuesday that she opened the front door of her house on School street, and with broom in hand swept the accumulating snow crystals from the piazza. She had turned to re-enter the house when the door closed with a bang. But how unfortunate! There was a patent lock on the door, and curiously enough the door refused to open. The key was inside; but—her husband had a key, and it took less than half an hour for him to come up from down town and let his wife in. Oh, ye wintry winds!

The Citizens discuss affairs of state,
And the Town Warrant thrills with new Desires.

Come! shed the ulster, brush the shoe and hat,

The time behooves to reckon where we're at,
Who best shall guide municipal affairs,
With Ed or Fred or Winfred at the bat.

And as they talked, all those who stood before

The tavern, shouted, "Open wide the Door!
You know how little we can get to drink
This side of Gloster. License will give more."

Some said, "Prohibit is the thing, of course,
To cure the evil at its very source;

But then again, of Course we do not mean
The Law too drastically to enforce."

A Jug of Liquor underneath the rose,
We do not wish to needlessly expose.

Whether at Yarmouth or at Tater Row,
Whether at Caliban's or Mascomo,
Or at the truly rural Hockey Club,
Who love the Drink will get it, don't you Know?

Time was we meant and voted Yes or No,
To stop or check the Liquor's ceaseless flow.

Now we have found an easier way to do:
Our sentiment is Yes, our ballot No!

Sometimes I think there never was so cute
A plan our laws and morals to confute,—

To whip the Devil round the Temperance stump,

And keep intact our piety and repute:

Shall I with force and law and bigot rage,
Invoke the aid of sneaking espionage?

Shall we give license and a loose, free reign?
Or to raise public sentiment engage?

Can we by Law remove the general curse.
Without entailing something greatly worse?

This but evokes evasion and revolt,
So long as human nature is perverse.

Ho, Fellow Cits! make clean the Cup, and clear

Today of past regret and future fear.
Tomorrow, Yes, tomorrow you may be Where you must give account of deeds done here!

"So when the Angel of the darker Drink
At last shall find you at the river-brink,
And, offering his Cup, invite your Soul Forth to your Lips to quaff, you shall not shrink."

The Song is passing, and Town Meeting's past.

The tumult and the shouting dies at last.
Forsook the Forum, silent is the Hall,
Hooper is hoarse, blowers have blown their blast.

THE BACKWARD LOOK.

BY KATE RESTIEAUX.

It was on Sunday afternoon of January 19 that I attended a religious service in one of Boston's most beautiful temples. While much impressed by the solemnity and grandeur of it all, I yet carried away with me a feeling of sadness and an inward assurance of something unsatisfying and un-Christlike which I could in no way define. But the return to my daily avocations and the practicals of our country town life had, in a few days, almost effaced the impression, when, on a wild and stormy night, after sleeping soundly for some hours, I seemed to wake. I do not know if it was dream or vision, but there came to my mind a curious train of thought that bore very nearly on my Sabbath experience, and which I deemed worthy of preservation.

It seemed to me that the world—the whole world—was dead; as if some vile miasma, some noxious gas, had suddenly enveloped the Earth, stifling out all life from all things. Then, amid the utter silence of a deserted world, there appeared to be a Personality, a Presence, as of another realm. This Presence seemed to hover above and around the still cities and empty houses, like an angel of judgment come to weigh the fruits of our immortal life.

Then the scene changed and I seemed to see the stranger, returned to his natural sphere to bear witness of what this silent World had revealed to him. And I will try to, give as nearly as possible, his words,—the words of my dream.

"O great and wise people, my people, I as your representative have visited the EARTH the abode of a race extinct and have wondrous things to report of her people. It was most truly a world of work, and wonderful are the results of it labors.

"Great cities were wrought in wood and stone, and the bridges that span Earth's streams with the palaces of her great ones, beggar description. But I passed over their luxuries to learn, if possible, something of the thought of this unfortunate people.

"I soon found that their wisdom was compiled in books, and there were beautiful buildings, in which these treasures were stored; but while there were some localities in which this book lore seemed lacking, there were few in which I did not find a structure to which I could not, at first, give a name. In the large cities these buildings were numerous and must have been raised up at great cost to Earth's people. I found that they were used neither as dwellings, nor storehouses, nor yet as places of shelter, or for dispensing of necessities, for no mark of use was on their velvet carpets or carven doorways. They seemed formed for the eye alone and as if to overawe, perhaps to intimidate the people. How else came they to be raised up in such numbers. Truly it passeth all comprehension and is difficult of understanding.

"I spent much time in one of the grandest of these structures amid the ornaments of gold, the silver chancel, great organ and hangings of priceless worth. At last, I understood, they had been raised as temporary abiding places, in which the people might worship their Gods at stated intervals. I found no two of these temples whose devotees professed quite the same belief, but a general resemblance ran through all. In very many, I found the Bible a great book, telling the religious history of the ages, and most sweetly of all, the story of one Christ, a Nazarene who lived in the latter part of the age of Man. Wherever the Bible had gone, there I found greater stores of learning and marks of progress. Every where, in song and story, was repeated the life of the pure hearted loving man, Jesus Christ. Though many were the opinions held of him, there was always the same uniform deference paid to his goodness and truth and to the wisdom of his teachings.

"But my surprise may be imagined when I say that in all Earth's cities and towns, I found unmistakable signs of poverty and misery. In the books I read of little children, fatherless and motherless, cold and half-starved, existing everywhere. Mothers, worn and broken-backed, bent over tasks of hardest labor.

"These things were admitted and in many cases but slightly noticed. And, wherefore, asked I, come the grand temples to the God they worship and to the man, Jesus Christ, while such abundance of sorrow and poverty are tolerated.

"In truth, I can find no way in which to associate all this grandeur with the life of the Christ as I read of him, and the fact that he walked barefoot and suffering through his native land in the hope of showing to others the sympathy that fellow suffering alone can show. That these grand temples should have been built to carry on or exemplify the teachings of this meek and lowly man, and that the men and women who professed to be his followers should have taken this means while claiming to be reasonable beings, passes comprehension. But I must not indulge in speculation and will relate further of what I have learned.

"The records of art and storehouse showed, beyond a doubt, that millions of these people toiled in an almost hopeless condition, having few comforts above the beasts of the fields, and near to the great temples this degradation was often most apparent.

"That their Christ had failed of his mission, that time would not change the condition of things for these temple-building idolators, did not seem to occur to many of their writers, so the hope that from so wrongful a course, at last some good would come, had sustained the people.

"I have yet to search through the archives of this dead world for what may throw more of light, and another time may reveal what I have failed to learn; but alas! for the Christians who know not Christ, and Alas! for the victims of an old delusion.

"I awoke or ceased my dreaming for it was a waking dream. I had found a reason for the feeling that had stolen into my mind as I sat in the great temple in Boston, the light from the stained glass windows falling over me and over the great congregation sitting stiff and unreal in the rank and file of the gloomy pews.

"Nowhere did I get a glimpse of the Christ, not even in the music of the intoned prayer, from which all trace of naturalness had been carefully eliminated. I thought of Scotland's poet, and the brave words of his psalm.

"Compared to this how poor religion's pride,
In all the pomp of method and of art,
Where men display to congregations wide,
Devotion's every gift, except the heart."

"I could have answered my own question, now. It was not Christlike, not what the teacher of Nazareth would recognize, could he visit our city today. It was all forced, all wrong, all overlaid with form and ritualism, and I gladly turned in thought to my little home church where at least a trace of the old idea remained."

"Clasp, angel of the backward look,
The leather covers of thy book.
Life broadens in these latter days,
The century's aloe flowers today."

Society Notes.

With the close of the present week considerable impulse will have been given the opening of the summer season, for the opening up of the summer houses along the shore, the taking off of shutters and activity in "fixing up" the beautiful estates always lend an air of rejuvenation and new life to the monotony and dullness of the winter months.

Already the shutters have been removed from many of the houses and in some few cases the houses have been opened and week-end parties will be the vogue for the next month or six weeks. S. Parker Bremer's house at Manchester was opened last week.

Mrs. Charles A. Read had a party of Boston friends at her Smith's Point house in Manchester over Sunday.

Everett B. Webster, who has a fine summer residence on Grover street, Beverly Farms, arrived in Boston this week from a three month's stay abroad.

Mr. Webster is an enthusiastic automobilist and has devoted much of his time while abroad in this form of recreation.

Among those who have visited Beverly Farms during the week have been Mr. and Mr. Allan Curtis, L. Carteret Fenno, Russell Codman, Beverly Rantoul and A. N. Rantoul.

Miss Frances H. Stearns, who has been spending the winter at the Crafton in Washington, will be among the early arrivals at Magnolia this year. Her charming villa is among the most attractive on the shore and was last season the scene of many pretty parties. Miss Stearns will leave the Capitol week after next and will spend a few days in New York on her way to Boston, where she will be located for some weeks at her apartments in the Berkeley Hotel, before opening her house on the North Shore.

Gordon Abbott was noticed in Manchester the first of the week, having come down from Boston to look over his place at West Manchester

Mr. and Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr., are again receiving congratulations on the birth of a son which came into their Boston home Tuesday. This is the fourth son, and undoubtedly, much delight prevails in the Coolidge family on the happy outlook in preserving the historic family name.

Large Auction Sale.

The auction sale of horses, pigs, harnesses, wagons and other articles at the Hooker Morgan farm, Pine street, Manchester, Tuesday afternoon, Michael E. Gorman, auctioneer, was one of the largest and most successful ever held in Manchester. Despite the inclement weather there was a large attendance from Gloucester, Beverly, Salem, Ipswich and other surrounding towns.

Those who were buying horses had a good selection of green animals from which to choose. Twenty-eight horses were sold, but among that number were Mr. Gorman's "Calaton," which has cut quite a figure on the ice tracks hereabouts this winter, sold to Elmer Lothrop of Beverly at a good figure; and Fred Hartley's fast stepper, which went at a neat figure also. Semmons & Campbell sold three of their horses. Abraham Lampron bought the forty pigs offered for sale. Five wagons, several harnesses, butcher wagons and other things were sold. The sale continued till dark.

Lively Runaway.

There was a lively runaway in Central square, Manchester, late Wednesday afternoon, and as a result one man narrowly escaped serious injury. James Coulter, coachman at W. B.

Walker's, drove up in front of Floyd's news store in a Goddard buggy and was just entering the store when the horse started. Mr. Coulter succeeded in grabbing one rein, but his hold was not sufficient to bring the animal to a stop. Through the square it dashed, over the curbing at Lee's drug store, and then it went toward Hooper's grocery store, when Mr. Coulter let go of the rein, fell, and the light wagon passed over him. He received only a few scratches on the legs. The horse was stopped at the Essex County club grounds by Mr. Mitchell.

The New State Highway.

In connection with the new State highway from Chapman's Corner to the Manchester line, the Beverly Water department has this week received five car loads of iron water pipes, which have been distributed along the highway, commencing at Chapman's Corner. It is the plans of the officials in charge that all sections of the water service over the proposed route shall be in first-class condition before the macadam road is built, so that there shall be no breaks of any consequence to come later to injure the road surface, which would naturally be the case with an unreliable water main.

Pointers on Life Insurance

"Life Insurance is the strongest protection a man can make against disasters that may await him in the future. It is the laying up for a rainy day while the sun is shining the brightest. It is the strong door that stands as a guard for the wife and little ones when the natural protector has been removed by death. It is the most beneficial institution that the genius of philanthropy has evolved, and the most stable that financing has ever established."—TALAMGE.

The BEST Insurance is None Too Good. Don't Trust to Makeshifts. GET THE BEST. Buy a HANCOCK Policy.

Every prudent man protects his property by insurance from the remotely possible loss by fire. How much more is it his duty to guard his family against the loss entailed by the absolute certainty of his own death? Nothing can take the place of life insurance. The man who says he prefers to save the money which life insurance costs, forgets that while he is saving, his wife and children are without protection in case of his death. Let him insure his life, and he immediately arrives at the position to which, by any other plan, he can only look forward after years of labor and saving. Don't wait to insure because you don't feel able to take out a policy for a large amount. Your "more convenient season" may never come. There may come a day when by reason of failing health you are no longer insurable. Death may forever rob you of your opportunity. Besides, every year of delay increases the cost and decreases your opportunity to get life insurance on the most advantageous terms. Take out a policy now. We offer you a contract that embodies all the advantages found in any life insurance policy that is written:—

A POLICY That affords Positive Protection: That constitutes a Safe and Profitable Investment: That may be used as Collateral: That becomes automatically Non-forfeitable after three years premiums have been paid: On which the guaranteed Cash and Paid-up Values established by law are plainly endorsed: That contains an Extended Insurance provision: That allows the holder 30 days' grace in payment of premiums after the first year: That give Five Options of settlement, including various forms of whole life and limited annuities: That pledges the Company to loan on satisfactory assignment, upon the attained Cash Value: That is entitled to Dividends of the Surplus, annually or quin-quennially, as elected in the application: Under which the Policyholder assumes no liability beyond the voluntary payment of the premiums on his Policy. Another Purchase.

The transfer of real estate, recorded this week, from Charles Butler of Boston to William H. Moore, makes public the addition of another valuable piece of property to the already large estate of Judge Moore of Pride's Crossing.

The above property is located on Hale street, at Pride's Crossing, and consists of a dwelling house of one story, a barn and other buildings, formerly owned by William R. Brooks. Mr. Moore will improve the property at once, it is understood. The land borders the Linehan estate.

Site for a Church?

M. E. Gorman, the Manchester real estate man, has this week purchased the Kerr house and property on North street, Manchester. Mr. Gorman says he has bought the property for investment. It is known, however, that parties interested in the proposed new Catholic church in Manchester have been looking the property over, and it is thought the purchase may have been made in this connection.

Morse Block Not Sold.

There has been a continual rumor rife in Manchester the past few weeks relative to the sale of the James H. Morse block, on Beach street, Manchester. The BREEZE man made an effort to get at the facts of the matter yesterday, and learned from Mr. Morse that he had no immediate prospects of disposing of the property at present. He said several parties had been negotiating with him relative to the building, but nothing in the way of a sale had yet been put into effect.

Candy Sale.

A cake and candy sale was held at the Baptist parsonage in Manchester Wednesday evening from 7.30 to 10 o'clock under the auspices of the Farther Lights, the occasion proving very successful. Miss Olive Cook was chairman of the committee having the affair in charge. The cocoa table was in charge of Misses Harriet Brewster and Elsie Dow; the candy table, Misses Olive Cook, Ethel Stanley, Alice Sargent and Nellie Walen; cake, Mrs. Brewster. Games were indulged in at the close of the sale. About $7.50 was realized, the object of the sale being to raise money toward sending out a missionary.

CHURCH NOTES.

Manchester.

At the Baptist church tomorrow evening, when Rev. E. H. Brewster will preach on "Lessons from Brockton's Tragedy," resolutions will be adopted and an opportunity given to contribute to the relief fund for the sufferers. A quartet will render several selections.

The Ladies' Social circle will hold an entertainment and sale at the chapel next Thursday evening, March 30, at 7.30 o'clock. Admission 10 cents.

The B.B.B. will meet in the town hall next Monday evening for drill at 7 o'clock. Admission will be by pass only. The boys drilled on Lincoln street last Saturday afternoon and in the vestry of the Baptist church Monday evening.

Vocal solos by J. Davis Baker and Mrs. James K. Tappan were features of last Sunday evening's service at the Baptist church.

C. T. Lincoln of Hartford Theological Seminary, who preached here last Sunday, will occupy the pulpit in the Congregational church again tomorrow.

The Ever Ready Circle of King's Daughters will meet next Monday evening with Mrs. C. L. Crafts. April 27 is the date set for the "Mysterious Seven Social," and it is to be held in Lee's hall. Admission will be 7 cents.

The prayer meeting at the Cove school-house, Thursday evening, was led by Charles Andrews.

"Christian Endeavor Comradeship: with other churches, at home and with distant lands," will be the topic of the Y.P.S.C.E. tomorrow evening. Frank Rowe, leader.

Grace Merrill will lead the Junior Endeavorers tomorrow. Subject: "A Story of Some Willing Workers."

Susan Hannah Cheever

Last Sunday morning, about 7.30 o'clock at the house on Friend's Court, Manchester, where she was born and lived practically all her days, Mrs. Susan Hannah Cheever passed away at the age of 84 years, 3 months.

Mrs. Cheever was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Friend. She married Samuel Cheever, a minister, who died some twelve years ago. She and her husband were both charter members of the Baptist church. She was a woman of quiet and loving disposition and was greatly respected by all who knew her.

She had been confined to her bed only two weeks, but when the end came it was not unexpected for she had failed rapidly. Burial services were held from her late residence on Friend's Court, Tuesday afternoon, Rev. E. H. Brewster officiating. A quartette composed of J. Davis Baker, F. K. Swett, Mrs. J. K. Tappan and Mrs. E. F. Preston sang several selections. Deacons W. K. Fleming, T. B. Stone, J. Davis Baker and R. Baker were the bearers. Burial was at Rosedale cemetery.

Class Social, '07.

The social of the Class of '07, Story High school, in the Manchester town hall last evening was highly successful. A delightfully entertaining program was carried out as follows: Piano solo, Samuel Rowe; recitations, Jessie Andrews; mandolin duet, Harry and Bert Floyd; vocal solo, John Dillon; piano solo, Miss Kauffman. Dancing was enjoyed till 12 o'clock. An orchestra from the school, consisting of Mary Rust and Daniel Riordan, violins; Frank Pinette, cornet; Lagory Wade, trombone; Fred Leach, drum; and Samuel Rowe, pianist, furnished the music.

STRONG SERMONS.

Theological Student Occupied Manchester Pulpit.

C. Arthur Lincoln of the Hartford Theological Seminary, preached at the Congregational church in Manchester last Sunday and left a most favorable impression with the congregation, both morning and evening,— so favorable indeed, that he has been asked to occupy the pulpit again tomorrow.

"Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven." was the text of the morning sermon.

In introducing his subject the speaker called attention to the fact that familiarity with certain well-known Biblical phrases may lead to indifference as to their vital meaning.

"It is possible for us to repeat the Lord's Prayer in the house of God," he said, "and think only of the grandeur of the words as a form of prayer while we make no use at all of these familiar words to press home a real petition to the throne of God.

"Why do we pray to God saying, 'Thy will be done?'" Two facts must be recognized and admitted at once. The first is that God's will is not done on earth as it is in heaven; the second is that God actually desires the accomplishment of such a condition on earth. The answer to our petition depends upon our own wills.

"We do not, or, at any rate, we ought not to pray for the arbitrary sway of God's will over the material universe. Such a rule is already established. We know that every event which takes place in Nature is the result of the especial will of God. The phrase 'The reign of law' should therefore be changed to the expression voiced by Henri Van Dyke, 'The reign of God through law.' This makes it possible for you and me to pray for the recovery of our sick since God controls all physical events and does mould all physical results.

"But neither do we pray for the arbitrary sway of God's will over the human will. Such a rule over man would destroy his manhood. Take away man's freedom and his manhood is gone.

"The rule of God over the human heart must be by a very different law than that which holds the stars in place, swings the moon about the earth, and the earth and moon about the sun, with wondrous speed, and fills the dark spaces of the sky with the thoughts of God. God will never overwhelm a man by love or any other means into joining a band of angels.

"For us to pray 'Thy will be done' means 'Thy will be done in us and in the hearts of all men in earth.' God loves all men, even tramps and loafers and criminals, God loves them and He desires the willing obedience of them all but He will have nothing to do with forced obedience."

"When a man prays to God saying, 'Thy will be done' he virtually pledges himself, soul and body to be worthy of his prayer."

"Jesus, who for the joy that was before him, endured the cross, despising the shame said to his disciples, 'There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth.' Let no one fear to pray, 'Thy will, O God, be done in me 'for God loves you and His will is good for you, so good, indeed, that we can shout with the Psalmist, 'I delight to do thy will, O my God.'"

The text for the evening was "Redeeming the time." The speaker spoke of the different ways in which men treat opportunity and the thought was made prominent that Paul, like a modern business man, was willing to buy his opportunity, and the opportunity he was willing to buy was the opportunity to save the souls of men."

"Paul was not writing to a ministers' association, a body of Sunday School teachers or a Christian Endeavor convention. He was writing to ordinary church members. If we could buy eternal life with money how hard we should labor to get that money."

"If we could bring men to the Lord Jesus by an exchange of coin, how gladly would we buy the opportunity. But when it comes to parting with pride and timidity and ease of mind how we hesitate to pay the price. God help us to come with such vital contact with Him, who loves all men that we shall in some measure get the spirit of Him who redeemed us at the cost of His life."

BURGLAR CAPTURED.

Manchester Police Catch Man in the Act of Going Through a Summer House.

A light in the upper story of the "Apple Lane Cottage" in Manchester early Sunday evening led to an arrest on the charge of burglary, and the subsequent holding of the man for the May sitting of the superior court.

Several persons passing up Bridge street toward West Manchester between 8 and 9 o'clock Sunday evening were attracted by a light in the attic of the house, which is occupied summers by Mrs. William LeBrun of 62 Commonwealth avenue, Boston. I. M. Marshall, Ellery Rogers, M. E. Gorman and others saw the light, but nothing was done till Mr. Gorman telephoned to the police shortly before nine.

As soon as the news reached the station Chief Peabody dispatched Officers Andrews and Lee, who were just about to start on their respective routes. He went himself, also, going by way of Ashland avenue and the railroad track. Selectman Swett, A. C. Hooper and several others were on hand with the police and surrounded the house.

The work of the man inside could be followed by the movement of the light. Shortly after they had arrived at the house the man came down stairs with his arms full of booty. Officer Lee could see him as he passed through the second story rooms and started for the basement, where he had entered. Just as he was about to step out Officer Lee flashed his light in the burglar's eyes and advised him to hold up his hands, which he made no bones at doing as soon as he saw the officer's revolver and that of Officer Andrews, who had arrived at the entrance just behind Lee.

The man was placed under arrest and taken, with his booty to the station. The officers returned to the house and found access to the building had been gained through a cellar window, and that a pane of glass in a door leading to the first floor had been broken and the lock cut out of the door in order to gain entrance to the upper part of the building. Everything had been thoroughly overhauled, trunks cut and valises opened.

Among the things taken were silver knives, silk dress patterns, gold thimble, gold bowed glasses, fountain pen, clothes line, and numerous other articles, all worth about $75.

The man gave his name as William Welsh. In court Monday he plead guilty to the charge of entering the house but said he did not break anything. He was held over until Thursday.

The police are inclined to believe his story that he was a fisherman and on his way to Gloucester. On him were found eight pawn tickets dated at various times from Nov. 16 to Mar. 10. Chief Peabody went to Boston Wednesday to look these up but found nothing which would indicate Welsh a dangerous man. Most of the articles pawned were clothes.

In court Thursday Welch was bound over in $500 bonds for the May sitting of the superior court.

After Chief Peabody, Night Officer Lee and Sergeant Andrews had testified the judge asked the defendant:

"Do you wish to make any statement?"

The defendant said he did, and after being sworn in said:

"Your honor, I have been in this country since 1882 and this is the first time I have been arrested. I have always followed the fishing business. Sunday I was on my way to Gloucester for the spring fishing. On the way down the track I fell in with a man; I never saw him before, more than the man in the moon, as you might say. He said 'let's go to that house.' I went more to sleep than anything else. He didn't break anything that night; he opened a window and went in. He lighted a lamp and went up stairs. He tied up a roll of things he intended to take with him. I foolishly picked up a few articles. I broke nothing in the house. I am here just through falling in with that man."

"Where is your residence?" asked the judge.

"On fishing schooners."

"Did you go out last summer?"

"Yes, your honor; from Gloucester and Boston, and on the coast trade in the fall."

"When did you get through?"

"Three days before Christmas."

"What became of your companion Sunday night?" queried the judge.

"That's it; where did he go? He was smart enough to get away."

"How long before the officers came did he get away?"

"I don't know; about five minutes," replied the defendant.

"You make a very serious mistake regarding breaking and entering," said the judge. "You think it constitutes breaking. That is not so; it is just as much a crime to enter the building to sleep as to steal."

SCHOOL ITEMS.Manchester.

The percentage of attendance in the different grades of the George A. Priest school, Manchester, is a matter of much import to the children from week to week. The week just closing the percentage is: Grade I, 97.1; V., 96.82; IV., 95.5; VII., 93.93; III., 93.9; VI., 92.52; II., 92.3; VIII., 87.92. Last week's attendance was: Grade V., 98.72; IV., 98.45; II., 98.29; III., 97.90; VII., 97.51; I., 97; VI., 95.13; VIII., 93.34.

Masters Ralph Stearns and Arthur Kehoe who have been absent on account of measles have returned to school.

The following visitors were in school during the week: Mrs. C. L. Crafts, Rev. Walter H. Ashley, Mrs. C. M. Dodge, Mrs. Albert Mead, Mrs. O. B. Wing and Miss D. M. Wing.

Several songs for Memorial Day have been assigned by the music teacher the past week.

Rodney Dow, Gordon Slade, Forster Tenney and Raymond Crocker of grade eight, have been appointed guards to have charge of the drill in marching Memorial Day.

The boys of the sloyd classes will be pleased to have their parents and friends visit them while at work Tuesday mornings.

Hannah Lee Allen.

Miss Hannah Lee Allen, daughter of the late Isaac Allen and Harriet Allen died at the home of her sister, Mrs. H. S. Johnson, at Nahant, yesterday afternoon at the age of 67 years, 11 months. Funeral services will be held from her late home on Washington street, Manchester, Monday afternoon, March 27, at 2 o'clock. Relatives and friends are cordially invited to attend.

Miss Allen was born in Manchester in 1837, and has always made her home here. For the past two months her health has not been very good. Death was due to heart failure.

One brother, Capt. John Allen of Manchester, and one sister, Mrs. H. S. Johnson of Nahant, survive her.

Mary Francis Pert.

After an illness of several months Mrs. Mary Frances Pert, wife of William J. Pert, passed away about 4 o'clock last Saturday afternoon of heart trouble. Mrs. Pert was born in Portsmouth, N.H., Sept. 8, 1829, but she has made her home in Manchester for the past 52 years.

She was a woman of good, kindly deeds, and was loved and respected by all. In her younger days she was quite active in local social affairs. She was one of the charter members of Allen Relief corps. She suffered an ill turn several nights before the end came.

One sister, Martha Pert, who married a brother to her own husband, survives her in Chelsea, and also a husband, and one son, Charles R. Pert, the only one of seven children remaining.

It was only two years ago that Mr. and Mrs. Pert celebrated the golden anniversary of their marriage, and the event was one of the pleasantest in her life.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Memorial chapel. Rev. W. H. Ashley officiating. A quartet composed of F. K. Swett, F. J. Merrill, Miss Hattie P. Allen and Mrs. F. G. Cheever sang.

Dr. R. T. Glendenning will remove next Thursday from the house he now occupies on School street to the Fitz house on Church street.

James Beaton and family will soon occupy the Gilman house, corner School and Brook streets.

Just 10 days ago we purchased the Woodward & Ober Hardware Stock, 226 Cabot Street, Beverly, Mass. This makes 4 stores we have bought out in Beverly within 5 months. They all know we have the cash and plenty of it. NO STOCK TOO LARGE — NONE TOO SMALL.

We watch every sale and every failure. "We look after houses on the verge of bankruptcy and ruin with cash in hand to buy the lump or the lot of first-class merchandise that we can get at far less than its value and to sell at prices that have never been quoted in this market or any other." We teach you the difference in dealing with live and with dead men. Buy here and get double value for every penny you spend. Our prices will crush into oblivion those moonshine merchants with their tough and tremendous long time prices.

Time and space will not permit at this issue to name prices, but rest assured you can buy at just about half the price you pay elsewhere. ONLY A FEW DAYS MORE. Then after we close our doors there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth at the prices you will have to pay competitors.

Talk on Labrador.

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell of Labrador, a well-known physician and explorer, who has devoted his life to the work of civilizing and educating the inhabitants of Labrador, will be at the Dane Street church, Beverly, Sunday afternoon, April 26, at 4 p.m. Dr. Grenfell will tell of the work being done among the seafaring people who live in the great wastes of ice and snow, and illustrate his talk with stereopticon slides.

As this is an opportunity seldom given, many will no doubt take advantage and be present.

A silver offering will be taken for the Doctor's work.

Organist Resigns.

Mrs. George A. Brown, for twenty-five years organist at the First Baptist church, Manchester, has this week passed in her resignation, to take effect April 1. Her successor has not yet been appointed, but Miss Alice R. Rainville, who has played very acceptably on previous occasions, will preside at the organ tomorrow. Mrs. Brown's health has not been very good of late. She left yesterday, with her friend, Mrs. Lydia Murray, for a few weeks' visit with her son, Edward Brown, in Gloucester.

THIRTEENTH ANNIVERSARY.

Manchester Sons of Veterans Celebrate Their Anniversary with a Gala Time in G. A. R. Hall.

Col. H. P. Woodbury camp, 149, S. of V., celebrated the thirteenth anniversary of its institution, in G.A. R. hall, Manchester, Tuesday evening, in a most interesting and successful manner. With that patriotic fervor which usually predominates occasions of this nature, the event was carried off, and the scores of people who crowded the hall thoroughly enjoyed every minute of the time.

A reception preceded the entertainment, at which time the members of the G.A.R., the associates and the W.R.C., who were guests of the camp, and others were given an opportunity to visit the guests of honor. There were in the receiving line Comm. E. H. Lynds of Holyoke, S. V. D. C. Frank L. Kirchgassner of Boston, Div. Insp. Walter Penny of Lynn,

REUNION AND ROLL-CALL.

Magnolia Lodge of Odd Fellows have big time in Manchester.

Wednesday evening of March 29 will go down in the annals of Magnolia lodge, 149, I.O.O.F., of Manchester as one of the red letter events in the history of the organization, for on that evening the first roll-call of all its members in the almost 36 years of its existence was held. This coupled with the celebration of the anniversary of Odd Fellowship went to make the occasion one of the most memorable since the lodge was instituted in August of 1869.

More than 130 Odd Fellows, members of Magnolia lodge and visiting brothers, sat down at the banquet tables and 113 members answered

DR. GEO. A. PRIEST,
First N.G. of Magnolia Lodge.

when their names were called. The lodge has 164 members on its rolls and the fact that over 70 per cent were present added greatly to the pleasure of the occasion.

In the early evening the members began to assemble in the meeting room in town hall building. Members who have not been at any function or meeting for 25 years were present, and many members from out of town were also on hand, all joining in making the event successful.

Shortly after seven, 133 filed down stairs to the town hall where were arranged five tables laden with a bounteous spread prepared by a Lynn caterer. After prayer by Past Grand

FRED J. MERRILL,
Toastmaster.

Frank P. Knight, the following menu was discussed:

Escaloped Oysters	Peas
Chicken Croquettes	Hot Roast Chicken
Mashed Potatoes	Cranberry Sauce
Radishes	Olives
Banana Fritters, Sauce	Roman Punch
Frozen Pudding	Sherbet
Harlequin Ice Cream	Cake
Coffee

The committee had provided a neatly printed folder on which was printed the menu, the program of entertainment, a list of the charter members and officers, and on the front page of which was reproduced a picture of Dr. George A. Priest, the first Noble Grand of the lodge,—a face so familiar to the older members present. Several of the speakers paid words of tribute to Dr. Priest during their remarks later.

During the banquet Miss Jessie Hoare rendered several selections on the piano, and after the tables had been cleared, a quartet composed of Fred K. Swett, Abbott Hoare, Frank A. Rowe and Fred J. Merrill, sang "In Absence."

Fred J. Merrill was toastmaster of the evening, and he welcomed the brothers with brief, well chosen remarks. He spoke of the good reputation Magnolia lodge has long enjoyed for good entertainments.

"The lodge has for many years celebrated the anniversary of Odd-fellowship in a manner which has reflected great credit on those in charge," he said. "There has been a variety of entertainments, from a dance to the more sumptuous affairs of recent years. The lodge has truly become one of the institutions of Manchester, and these affairs are always looked forward to. They are to preserve friendship, to increase our brotherly love and to promote truth. These objects have all been attended to, and Oddfellowship is certainly stronger therefor. It is my place to welcome you, and I can find no more appropriate words than to say I welcome you in truth."

In introducing D. D. G. M. Frank Robinson of Gloucester, who responded to the toast "The Grand Lodge," the toastmaster said "We would not forget the allegiance we owe to the grand lodge, and we would bespeak for her the harmony she has so long enjoyed." All arose and joined in a toast to the grand master.

"I bring to you the best wishes of the Grand lodge," said the speaker. "Looking at the charter members of Magnolia lodge, it is almost impossible to recognize the oldest members of our order. It seems almost incredible to know the Grand lodge has grown to such proportions. It is the largest—we have over a million members—and it is the wealthiest order in the world."

After Secretary W. J. Johnson had read the roll-call from A to H, Fred K. Swett sang "At the Bottom of the Deep Blue Sea." William C. Rust, who has ever been one of the leading members of Magnolia lodge, responded to the toast "Our Charter Members."

"Magnolia lodge owes a great deal to its charter members," said the toastmaster, "and it is fit that at this time we should offer our feelings of fellowship to our charter members. If you were to name any one man who has continually worked for the upbuilding of the order I am sure you would say that man was W. C. Rust." H. T. Bingham arose and called for three cheers and a tiger for Past Grand Rust, which were given with a will.

Mr. Rust gave a brief history of Magnolia lodge since its institution in 1869. He was not sure he would be present so he had his remarks typewritten. "I never read my sermonss," he said, "but to-night I have prepared what I have to say. In 1869 there were 29 Odd Fellows living in the town, members of various lodges. There had been some talk previous to that of a new town hall and we said we would take a hall in the new building if one were erected. We had our hall and the next thing was how to start a lodge.

"I must say," remarked Mr. Rust at this time, "I can't read as well as I can talk; when I read I lose my wind, but when I talk the wind comes of itself.

Continuing he said, "The money matters being settled, the next thing was a name for the lodge and Masconomo was suggested by one brother, but finally we decided on Magnolia, from the beautifully scented flower that grows on our shores. Though the grand lodge had some doubt as to a lodge surviving in such a small town, we finally got our charter and the next thing was to organize and make arrangements for institution."

The speaker then read the records of the first meeting of the lodge, which were of much interest to those present.

"When we look at these charter members and see what they went through, the sacrifices they made that our lodge might live I can not but do justice to them if I read the account of their savings the first three years.

"They built our lodge over foundations that, if you follow out, the lodge will live as long as time shall be. I was an Odd Fellow 17 years before Magnolia lodge was born. I love Magnolia lodge and I have always

New Building at Beverly Farms.

As soon as the weather permits work will be started on the erection of a building at Beverly Farms on the lot of land between Harlow's grain store and Publicover's carpenter shop. A. O. Marshall, who owns the land, is to have a building erected, 50 ft. front by 62 ft. deep, to be used by Charles Martin as an automobile station and bicycle store, while one office and the entire upper floor will be used by Publicover Bros., in connection with their business.

Have they been lost on the Playground?

The residents of Beverly Farms are wondering what has become of the special Committee of the Beverly City Government who have in hand the matter of securing a play ground for Beverly Farms. Several weeks ago this committee gave a hearing in Marshall's Hall which was a large and enthusiastic one, all present being heartily in favor of the scheme; in fact every one seemed to be of the same mind that a play ground was a public necessity. Since then there seems to have been nothing done. "As far as the Farms people can understand," said a well known Ward 6 man this week, "this committee needs some more prodding before they wake up to the fact that they are the public servants and that their constituents are due a certain amount of courtesy at least in the matter. If it is the intention of the committee to let this affair stand for another year or so the people would like to know it."

Anent this matter and in order to bring the proper officials to some action there has been in circulation this week another petition to the City Fathers that some favorable action be taken and a suggestion that the Mill Pond lot, so-called, be considered. While all are not favorable to this exact location it is earnestly hoped by all that some place will be secured at once which will keep the children from dodging automobiles and horses, as the only place for recreation at present is the public streets.

Comm. of Allen post Edwin P. Stanley, Pres. Allen, R. C. Mrs. Ellen I. Horton, Ex-Mayor Ramsdell of Lynn, Hon. C. O. Bailey of Newbury and Comm. L. W. Floyd.

The ushers were Thomas A. Baker, C. H. Dennis, Orrin A. Martin, E. W. Baker and E. R. Sargent.

A buffet lunch, consisting of salads, fruits, coffee, cakes and ice-cream, was served by the committee in charge of the entertainment—Curtis B. Stanley, William D. Goodwin, John L. Prest, Arthur Smothers and Chas. Morse. Bullock was the caterer.

The evening's entertainment was opened with a selection by a brass quintet, and then, with a trooping of the colors, all joined in singing "The Star Spangled Banner." Rev. E. H. Brewster was toast-master of the evening.

Commander L. W. Floyd responded to the toast "The American Flag" with the following eloquent remarks:

"The student of American history will recall that in the years 1812-14 this then infant republic had a little difficulty with Great Britain. It is a matter of record that on the 12th of September, 1814, sixteen of his majesty's warships, under command of Admiral Cochrane, appeared off the city of Baltimore. These vessels had not been delegated by King George the Third to convey to this republic the felicitations of his majesty, but on the contrary from the mastheads waved in defiance the union Jack, while from the open port-holes, frowned the muzzles of a hundred guns. Guarding Baltimore by land and sea was Fortress MacHenry, from the ramparts of which, waving in the newday breeze, was that flag which had been borne to victory at Yorktown and at Lundy's Lane.

"Jameson, in his 'Facts on U. S. History,' implies that boats of Cartell had been sent down the harbor to interview the British admiral, and that certain hostages had been detained by him, among whom was Francis Scott Key.

"On the day of the 14th of September, at the word of command the British seamen, stripped to the waist, rammed home the charges, and at the word 'Fire,' a hell of shot and shell was poured upon the rugged sides of Fortress MacHenry and upon the city of Baltimore. All through the day this bombardment continued and even the evening shadows saw no secession of hostilities.

"Anxiously, we may imagine, Francis Scott Key paced back and forth the deck on which he was confined a prisoner. As the longest night must have an end, such was the case in this instance. And as the first glimpse of the morning sunlight, made resplendent the eastern sky, we may see Scott Key shading his eyes and anxiously looking for the flag. The rising mists of the early morning, for a time obscured his vision, but as the sunlight grew stronger and the day away and there, floating proudly began to dawn, the mists rolled over the ramparts of Fortress MacHenry, the flag of his country, the one which he loved, and under the inspiration of the time and the occasion, he wrote the stanzas which we have just sung (The Star Spangled Banner).

"Shall we change the scene to another spot in Maryland? Frederick City stands unique in the history of this republic as the only one the most historic spots in Maryland. to the speaker's knowledge which was compelled to pay cash tribute to the rebel army. It was alternately occupied by the forces of the contending armies and it is one of

"It was the speaker's privilege as well as pleasure, some years since, to be the guest of one of its most We passed into the city streets. It was in the glow of the eventide. Behind the Maryland hills the sun loyal citizens, and at his invitation was setting red. From the lowlands could be heard the chirp of the cricket, while from the chestnut to inspect the points of interest, boughs on the side of old Brad-dock's mountain could be heard the plantation call of the whip-poor-will.

"We wended our way to the resting place of the city's heroic head. In the immediate foreground, fronting the main entrance, was a giant shaft to which the speaker paid not particular attention, until his host, advancing to the pedestal, removed his hat. I then observed on the fasade the following inscription:

"By the loyal citizens of this republic, this monument is dedicated to the memory of Francis Scott Key."

And this noble patriot, with the evening zephyrs playing through his white locks, sang in a full round tone every stanza of the 'Star Spangled Banner.'

"The speaker is not much given to sentiment, but I must say that the place and the occasion was such that the tear-drops unwittingly and unreservedly followed one another down my face, and I was taught a lesson in patriotism which I shall never forget.

"Behind the Maryland hills still sets the sun at eventide; the chestnut boughs on the side of Brad-dock's mountain still wave in the noonday breeze, but into the home of that loyal citizen came one day a silent messenger, noiselessly, even as the sunlight comes when the night is done, and at his call, the soul of this patriotic Roman was called to his rest, and if halleluiahs are sung in that land where the brightness thereof is as it radiates from the throne of God, I believe there were joyous acclaims at the home coming of this noble heart.

"The American flag, before which this organization,—as such, from Plymouth Rock to the Golden Gate,—stands at reverend attention, wherever unfurled. It stands for all that is best in civilization,—at the ballot, for freedom of thought, freedom of speech, freedom of press, and freedom to worship God.

"It stands for the purity of woman and the sanctity of home, and the American home with the free public schools are the foundation stones upon which rest the entire structural fabric of our national union. Remove them and God from the constitution, and the republic crumbles even as the dynasties whose relics we are excavating today.

"Across the political horizon of the eastern world are written the words so large that he may read who runs: 'Mene, mene, tekel, upharsin'—weighed in the balance and found wanting. But this American republic, unified by the blood of these hundred thousand slain, bound together by a common brotherhood, is sweeping irresistibly on to greater educational, commercial and political achievements."

After a vocal solo by Fred K. Swett, Mr. Brewster gave a brief history of the camp, in which he traced its progress from the time it was organized, March 28, 1892, till the present. He paid glowing tribute to the late Col. Henry Pickett Woodbury of Beverly, for whom the camp was named. He read a list of the charter members, who, he said, are still in large measure the sinew of the organization.

"The charitable record of the camp is a most gratifying one," he said. "During the 13 years now gone it has expended $704.69. When you realize the fact that this has been earned by the individual efforts of the brothers of the camp, you begin to understand the character of the men who have made '149' what it is today."

He spoke also of the relations between the camp and the G. A. R. The total gain in membership since its organization is 99 members, while the losses by death and otherwise is 23, leaving the present membership 76.

"Brothers, may our future years be our best," he said in closing. "May our numerical growth be appreciable; may our reputation for a zealous camp be wafted far; may our field of service be enlarged, but chiefly in our hearts may there abide an inextinguishable love for the patriots of '61, and may our hands be ever vigilant to light tapers at their shrines."

"The Massachusetts Division," was responded to by the division commander, Everett H. Lynds, who said that it was with a great deal of pleasure he stood before the gathering, representing the Massachusetts division, which numbers 4,300 strong. He spoke for the red letter week for which he is working, set for the early part of May, when he urges every camp to make an object to gain one or more members.

Miss Harriet P. Brewster followed with a reading, in her usual delightfully interesting manner. She read "Little Jack Two Sticks," and by request "When the minister comes to Tea," as an encore.

Senior Vice-Commander Kirchgassner responded to the toast "The Opportunity of the Sons of Veterans." He spoke of the work for the Sons of Veterans, their place in aiding the veterans, and "the priceless heritage which they enjoy." "We are bound together with a mission to fulfill," he said, "and we must so conduct this mission that in history it will shine with the high purpose for which we stand."

Miss Olive B. Cook sang very pleasantly, "Bashful Betsey Brown," and she was followed by Walter Penney, the division inspector, who spoke on "The responsibility of the Sons of Veterans."

"We are living in a growing age," he said, "a moving age. The responsibility of the Sons of Veterans is growing. It is growing every day. It grows as the G. A. R. veterans decrease. If our realization of the responsibility does not increase with the responsibility we ought to get on the shelf.

LYMAN W. FLOYD,
Commander of Camp 149.

"We have three degrees of responsibility, to our country, to the G. A. R. and to our order. The citizens have a right to expect more from the Sons of Veterans than from anyone else because we have the blood of patriots running through our veins. We must be exceedingly strong lovers of that flag.

"Our responsibility to these, our fathers, is growing. Not with the feeling of charity, but of the biblical meaning, — love."

"Walking Abreast of Our Fathers," was responded to by Hon. W. R. Ramsdell of Lynn, who said by way of introduction that he felt like the young man who wanted to propose but didn't know quite how to get at it. After a great deal of nervous twisting he said to the girl he loved: "Sally, if you love me, say so; if you don't love me, say so, if you love me and can't speak, squeeze my hand."

Mr. Ramsdell spoke eloquently of the famous painting "Boy's of '76," which, he declared, symbolized the spirit of the boys '61 and 1905. "I have looked upon that picture," he said, "and I have said let that be our inspiration. Let us walk abreast of these veteran fathers of ours as we walk abreast of the fathers of our republic. There is always something to do. We can 'fall in' anywhere and we shall find good fighting all along the line."

P. H. Boyle read an extract from a speech by President Roosevelt at a meeting of "The Friendly Society of St. Patrick," in New York recently, and he read a poem, "The Strains of Bucky O'Neil," read on that occasion also.

Former Senator Charles O. Bailey of Newbury was the last speaker, the topic being "The Loyalty of the Sons of Veterans." He said in part:

"Much has been said here this evening about patriotism — 'the passion which aims to serve one's country, the characteristic of a good citizen.' There is not a land where there are so many memorial shafts to remind us of the heroes who have fought and died on the field of battle. And it is well this is so. There never was a time in the history of the country when we had more to hope for, and more to be grateful for than now. What more can be given us than this magnificent empire — given us by the sacrifice of our fathers.

"Peace has its victories. It must be our duty to inculcate loyalty and duty into the growing generation. Let us teach the boys and girls, as they gather around the American fire-side to learn from the lips of brave men who gave their lives, how they determined to die, that this country with its cherished institutions might live."

The program was concluded with a vocal solo by Miss Emma Prest, after which all joined in singing "America."

ROBERT EDESON AT THE PARK THEATRE.

A drama of great strength, splendidly done, the best thing Mr. Edeson has ever attempted. This, in a word, is "Strongheart," produced in Boston Monday night at the Park Theatre, before one of the largest and most fashionable audiences of the season.

Every college man from Harvard to Amherst, every high school boy and girl from Boston High to the smallest primary school will be talking of "Strongheart" within the week, and there is every reason to predict that in the new play Mr. Edeson has the greatest success of his stage career, surpassing far his other successes of "Ranson's Folly" and "Soldiers of Fortune."

Edeson is a veritable surprise. His role is radically different from any in which he has recently appeared. He is an American still—the greatest American of them all—an educated, refined and up-to-date Indian struggling to make the red man the brother of the white.

"Strongheart" won a victory and the Park Theatre will no doubt be the mecca of attractiveness for all New England theatregoers during Edeson's stay in Boston.

Nance O'Neil's Farewell.

Prior to her departure for an extended tour in Australia, Miss Nance O'Neil will fulfill an engagement of three weeks only at the Tremont Theatre beginning next Monday evening. As the Australian trip will take some six months, and Miss O'Neil after her return will tour the Pacific coast, the Southwest, the South and the cities on the Atlantic seaboard, a year will have passed by the time she again appears in Boston, and consequently her coming engagement is in the nature of a farewell. During her first week she will play Lady Macbeth on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings and Wednesday afternoon, and on Thursday and Friday evenings and at the Saturday matinee

Real Estate News.

Mr. Bemis Buys Estate.

The rumor which has been in circulation the past two weeks concerning the transfer of the estate of the late Mrs. Henry Whitman to a new owner, and which was reported in these columns two weeks ago, was confirmed this week, when it became known for certain that Frank B. Bemis of Boston has bought the property. This estate is one of the most desirable along the shore, comprising something over an acre of land, located on West street, Beverly Farms, with a large frontage on West beach. There is upon it a villa of artistic designs, built especially to the ideas of the late Mrs. Whitman, who was a well-known Boston artist and designer, and who delighted in giving many teas and luncheons at her summer home to men and women of prominence. There is also a good-sized frame stable upon the estate.

Mr. Bemis is now in Cairo, Egypt, but will occupy the property in its present condition for the coming season, but he contemplates extensive improvements later. Mr. Bemis has been a constant visitor to the North Shore, and last year occupied the "Pump cottage" at Beverly Farms.

Returns from California.

Thomas D. Connolly of the well-known firm, Connolly Bros., of Beverly Farms, who, with Mrs. Connolly, has been spending the past two months in California, returned home Monday, and is brimming over with pleasant recollections of the trip, which, he declares, is the most enjoyable he has ever taken.

Mr. Connolly passed through 26 States from the time he left Massachusetts till he returned, and has been in New Mexico. He visited Washington, Atlanta, New Orleans, San Antonio, El Paso, Los Angeles, Jaurez, Mex., Salt Lake, Denver, Omaha, Chicago and Niagara Falls.

Two weeks ago, when the North Shore was having its last snow storm, the temperature in San Francisco was 70 degrees, and the peach and almond trees were in full bloom. Mr. Connolly saw many interesting things while on his trip, and the BREEZE readers are to have the opportunity to follow Mr. and Mrs. Connolly on their journey in a series of short sketches to be written by Mr. Connolly. These are to start in next week's BREEZE.

Sale and Concert.

The Ladies Social circle of the Congregational church held a sale at the chapel Thursday evening, in connection with which a delightfully entertaining concert was given. The committee having the event in charge was composed of Mrs. J. W. Carter (chairman), Mrs. J. W. Campbell, Mrs. L. W. Floyd, and Mrs. James Beaton. The program was as follows: piano solo, Miss Kauffman; recitation, Nina Sinnicks; song, Mrs. J. W. Three members were initiated into Wm. Jeffrey Colony Pilgrim Fathers, at the meeting Monday evening. A collation was served at the close of the meeting.

Hannah Lee Allen.

At her late home on Washington street, Monday afternoon, funeral services were held over the remains of the late Miss Hannah Lee Allen, whose death in Nahant a week ago Friday was announced in last week's issue. Rev. E. H. Brewster officiated. There was a most profuse and beautiful collection of flowers, mostly pinks and roses. A quartet, composed of Mrs. George D. Haskell, Miss Harriet P. Allen, F. J. Merrill and Abbott Hoare, sang.

Parish Meeting.

The annual meeting of the First Congregational Parish will be held in the chapel, in Manchester, next Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock. The warrant was posted on the Congregational church yesterday morning.

Band's Celebrate.

The Beverly Cadet band went to Ipswich last Saturday night as guests of the Ipswich band on the occasion of the latter's first anniversary, and a most enjoyable time was spent. Previous to the banquet the bands, 60 players, played on the streets and later gave a private concert in the hall, C. E. Grush of Beverly acting as conductor. Senator Schoeffel acted as toastmaster at the exercises following the banquet.

Dancing Party.

The closing dancing party of Prof. A. J. Kenneson's dancing class was held in Beverly City hall on last evening. There was a large attendance of gay dancers who enjoyed the light fantastic, and until past midnight waltzed and schottisched to delight of music by Harry E. Brigham's singing orchestra of Marlboro. Preceding the dance the orchestra gave a charming concert composed of popular catchy music.

THEOLOGICAL STUDENT.

Leaves Favorable Impression with Manchester Congregation. A Possible Candidate.

C. Arthur Lincoln of the Hartford Theological Seminary, who preached at the Congregational church in Manchester two weeks ago, occupied the pulpit there again last Sunday, large congregations greeting him at both the morning and evening services.

Mr. Lincoln is a man of about thirty-two years, unmarried, and was graduated from Amherst College in 1902. He is now in the senior class in the theological school and will receive his degree in June. Many think him a very favorable candidate for the pastorate of the Manchester church.

Sunday morning Mr. Lincoln preached a strong sermon on God's acquaintance with individuals, the purpose for the individual and the idea of characterizing or distinguishing that purpose by giving it a name. He took his text from Luke 1:63,—“His name is John.”

He related the incident of the naming of John, how the neighbors and kinsfolk of Elizabeth, the mother, came together according to custom to name the child, and how they marveled when he was called John, which was not a Jewish name.

“God gives a name to every human being,” said the speaker. “From our faith in Him we are confident that God knows persons. This idea evolves the idea of a purpose for this individuality and he characterizes or distinguishes that purpose by giving a name for it.

“No matter how frivolous a man's life may be, or how busy he is, whether he desires to be known of God or not, it is impossible for him to escape being known. God, my father, is acquainted with me. In these days of extreme biblical criticism there may be exceptions to this.

“He is a peculiar individual that stands in the eyes of God and man as distinct from anybody else. It is true that no man knows what a peculiar place any other man holds in life, and that ‘now we know in part, but then shall we know even as also we are known.’

“God has a place and a plan for every man; for you and for me; for friends, neighbors, rich and poor, enemies,—he has a place and plan for all.

“If Roosevelt were named Smith, it would make no difference as to his purpose. We call this man honest, that man tricky, and this man true,—but whatever the name, the name He has given us is appropriate to our place. What message of life does your name bear to the world? Do men read in your name that God is anxious to be a savior for every man from sin?

“You carry some message. What is it? Plain and even homely names. Oh! yes; but beautiful, for they carry a purpose and plan of life. Let me beg of you that you live so that when you stand face to face with God your name will be a glorious crown of righteousness.”

SCHOOL ITEMS.

The BREEZE last week opened a column, which shall be devoted to school items of Manchester. Matters are continually coming up in school which deserve the attention of the parents, but which do not find their way into our news columns. The children of the four upper grades in the Priest School have charge of the column. Two reporters have been chosen by the pupils who have direct charge. They are: Alice Hoare and Waldo Peart, grade VIII; Harriet Brewster and John Carter, grade VII; Arthur Jackson and Hazel Semmons, grade VI; Helen Wing and Rufus Long, grade V.

Percents of attendance in the different grades of the George A. Priest School for the week ending March 31. Grade V., 98.86; III., 98.04; VII., 97.57; II., 97.23; IV., 96.3; VI., 95.64; I., 91.9; and VIII., 90.83.

Superintendent Fish has made a regulation relative to children remaining after school to complete their studies, and for discipline during the past week to the effect that for the remainder of the year all pupils must not remain after school more than five minutes, except in cases of severe discipline, and that teachers must not remain more than fifteen minutes after the hour of closing. This is done with an object to bring about better class work on the part of the pupils, and to take them out into the open air after the sessions close, and also to relieve the teachers from a great deal of work they now have to do outside the regular routine.

The fire drill was given Wednesday afternoon and the scholars were out of the building in fifty seconds.

Miss Melora Warner, Mrs. Chester L. Crafts, Mrs. George Hildredth, and Mrs. Frances M. Andrews visited the school the past week.

Lewis Catheron of Needham and Revere Pulsifer visited the boys in their sloyd work Tuesday.

The sixth grade boys are now taking manual training and are making the window wedge. The girls of the same grade are making pillow cases.

The N. S. H. Society's offer for collecting brown-tail nests closes April first (today). Over six thousand nests have been brought in the past week.

A room for the use of the principal has recently been installed on the second story of the George A. Priest school, which has already proved a great convenience, inasmuch as parents and others calling to see the principal on matters pertaining to the school and pupils can talk in private and not in the hearing of the pupils, as previously.

To Start in Business.

Gustave A. Knoerr, for several years manager of Clark & Mills North Shore office at Manchester, concludes his position with that concern today and will next week start in business for himself as electrical engineer. Mr. Knoerr has many friends in Manchester, who wish him every success in his new venture.

Dies of Spotted Fever.

One of the victims of the dreaded spotted fever, or spinal meningitis, was a young daughter of George Monteiro at Cohasset. Mr. Monteiro is a brother of Gustave Monteiro, who left here for California last fall, and he formerly conducted a tailor shop in Manchester, over Bell's combination store.

New Stone Crushing Plant.

Messrs Connolly Bros. of Beverly Farms have purchased a new stone crushing plant of the Champion, No. 4 design which is strictly up to date in every respect. It arrived at Beverly Farms on Monday and was taken to their quarry located off Greenwood avenue and will be put in operation at once. This in connection with the plants this enterprising firm has had at work there all winter, will fully equip them to supply any and all demands. They have at present several large contracts on hand to supply broken stone and will furnish the Massachusetts State Highway Commission with most of this material needed in the building of the new road which will soon be under way.

Ocean Pier at Pride's.

There has been started this week for Herbert M. Sears, esq. of Boston, at his estate at Pride's Crossing, an ocean pier which is to be about 420 ft. long, and is to be constructed of oak piling driven into the sand with hard pine stringers and planed spruce plank, together with the necessary galvanized iron trusses, braces, etc. At the water end of the pier will be a runway or walk to the float which is to be of good size, constructed upon the most up-to-date ideas, having steel pontoons. The whole length of pier will also have on each side an iron railing. Messrs Connolly Bros. of Beverly Farms are the builders.

ODD FELLOWS' ROLL-CALL.

been interested in its best welfare. I have led in as outside conductor 138 members. I have never been absent from lodge when in town and well, and I am glad to see the lodge take in young members now."

After roll call H. through M., the quartet again sang. A letter from Deacon F. A. P. Killam, was read with much interest, and Samuel Knight responded to his name with a few remarks.

"I am a long time out of training," said Mr. Knight, "and for me to attempt to follow so many of our brothers who have been for a long time in training would be foolish. I should be sorry to go home tonight though, without in some way showing my appreciation for the kindness shown me. I believe this is the first time I have been out after 5 o'clock for three months. My brother Rust saw me standing on one leg leaning against a neighbor's fence this morning and said to me that out of the depths of his heart he wanted me to come tonight. I knew he meant what he said, and that coupled with what other brothers have said, led me to come."

George A. Martin, F. J. Merrill and F. P. Knight also responded with brief remarks.

Oliver T. Roberts responded to the toast "Fraternity" which he said, by way of introduction, was the offspring of love, and fraternalism, when it crystallizes, is brotherhood.

"I believe Odd Fellowship is one of the orders destined to last. Odd Fellowship has never been a misfit. I believe it will endure because it is founded on Friendship, Love and Truth. It will endure because this principle is eternal."

"Odd Fellowship in Manchester," was responded to by Ex-Rep. F. K. Hooper. He spoke in glowing terms of Odd Fellowship, and said in part:

"I assure you it is a very pleasant thing for me to be here. I was initiated into Magnolia lodge 35 years ago. Odd Fellowship is one of the best orders in the world. It is composed of the best men in the community. It must be that the influence of the order in Manchester is for the good."

After the rendition of a very pretty song by Abbott Hoare and the reading of the roll from N through Z, Past Grand George Kimball responded to the toast "Our Sister Lodges." Mr. Kimball brightened up his remarks by his usual number of jokes and funny stories.

"I can say," said he, in turning to the subject, "as any good Odd Fellow can say, that our sister lodges are a great aid to our Odd Fellowship. I must say, that in my 27 years connection with the order, I have never seen a more cordial lodge on the whole as Magnolia.

"At my church a short time ago (several asked the speaker to repeat) we had a very good speaker who said, when we meet a stranger he is apt to make a lasting impression on one's mind by what he says, the manner he says it and how he looks. If the sister lodges will make the impression Magnolia lodge has made on me, they will make an impression that is lasting."

Letters were read from F. A. P. Killam, J. N. Lipman, Robert Baker, Chas. Rust and S. D. Eldredge. The gathering broke up about 10.15, by all joining in singing "Auld Lang Syne."

The following verses were read in reply to the name of Chas. H. Rust of Philadelphia, one of the charter members:

When this Magnolia blossomed,
In Brotherly Love, long years ago,
From far and near we gathered,
And I was one of "the Boys" you know.

The "Boys" of those days are scattered
Far from the home of their youth:
But still to all the magic words
Of "Friendship, Love and Truth"

Bring to them fond remembrances
Of their Home Lodge far away,
And many hearts are wishing
They could be with you today.

From the City of Brotherly Love
I send Fraternal Greetings to all,
And wish that I your hands could take
In hearty grasp, at this Roll Call.

Of the 29 charter members of the lodge 19 have died and of the other ten the following were present Wednesday evening: Andrew Lee, 2d, Henry T. Bingham, William C. Rust, George H. Martin, Henry S. Dennis and John H. Cheever.

The committee in charge of the affair was: John Baker (chairman), R. C. Allen, Horace Standley, Geo. L. Knight, Arthur E. Olson and James Hoare.

 20 stamps running night and day and the entire 40 stamps in a few weeks.

ARE YOU TIRED OF PROSPECTS?

This is an opportunity to invest in a shipping mine. Your money is safe. A Preferred Stock guaranteed dividend of 12 per cent., beginning July 1st, 1905, with possibilities of from 100 to 200 per cent. in a few years — many of the mines in this camp have paid $50,000, $100,000, $500,000 and $1,000,000 in a single month, when ore has been struck in rich pockets, which is characteristic of the mines on this Mother Lode of California.

THE ESSEX CONSOLIDATED MINES, located in Angels Camp, California, four and one-half miles from the town and only 1,000 feet from station on the Sierra R.R., is just such a proposition.

Write for free booklet "Gold Mining on the Mother Lode" and photographs of property.

The price of stock is now $1.00 per share for the Preferred and fifty cents per share for the Common Stock. For a short time only purchasers of Preferred Stock will be given as a bonus one-half share of Common Stock with each share of Preferred purchased. Investors should take advantage of this extremely liberal offer, as the present price is altogether too low and will soon be advanced.

BROCKTON HORROR.

Manchester Preacher Discussed Catastrophe Last Sunday Evening.

Rev. Edward H. Brewster spoke on the recent Brockton calamity, at the evening service in the Baptist church, in Manchester, last Sunday. Resolutions of sympathy were adopted and have been forwarded to Mayor Keith of Brockton, with a contribution taken at the meeting for the relief fund.

"And there was a great cry in Egypt," was the text, selected from Exodus 12:30. Mr. Brewster said in part:

"Every human heart has been stirred by the recent calamity at Brockton. In this twentieth century we are continually reading of the cries of the suffering; we behold the sky of battle; and yet this catastrophe of the past week is but a repetition of what has been happening through the ages.

"Men ask, what is this terrible thing? What does it portend? Crime and suffering has always been here, yet this sudden calamity stirs our very hearts.

"When some nobleman passes away the whole world mourns his loss. When the pope dies all churches throughout the land become sepulchres. Brockton itself is in tears and mourning. Yet this is of the human things that afflict us.

"Lessons begin to flow from this mass of ruins. God is working out great things. Death is an instrument He has sometimes used to His own glory and to the benefit of the world. God works in His own way to do wondrous things. There are lessons to be had from this tragedy. There are certain things to be adduced.

"The first thing we can say is that there was a blunder. The law was certainly not strictly enforced. Liberty under the law should be the slogan of every community. Law isn't made just for the sake of making it, but for the betterment of the world.

"There is a law for the inspection of boilers, but someone blundered and there was a catastrophe. We should have today in our nation liberty under the law. This one lesson we should learn: we should have our laws living things on the pages of our nation's history.

"Human life is the most valued thing on our planet. But we don't realize this. We don't value life as we should. If you get nothing else from this tragedy, get this thought, that your home is valuable.

"One lesson we learn is the need of preparing for eternity. When we see hearts tapped, life taken away in a flash, we feel the proximity of eternity. Are we prepared for these great things? When we come to be thrust on the sea of eternity the cry will come 'Are you ready'? Let us be ready to answer 'Yes'."

A contribution of $18.60 was taken, half of which was forwarded to Brockton's mayor to be added to the relief fund.

The effect of the thick coat of ice, which has covered the flats in the inner harbor all the winter, was quite well demonstrated Monday when the first tug and coal barge came in. The pressure and weight of the ice had literally squeezed the mud into the channel, almost completely filling it, so that it was with great difficulty the barge, even at high tide, could be brought to Knight's coal wharf.

MASTERS OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.

William Shakespeare (1564—1616.)

By D. F. Lamson.

Shakespeare is one of the greatest names that English literature can boast. He is the great dramatic poet not of England only, but of the world. He had an imagination and poetic genius that places him in the front rank of the masters of song of all time. Dryden says of him, "he was the man who of all modern, and perhaps ancient poets, had the largest and most comprehensive soul." Coleridge applies to him the epithet, "myriad-minded." He may be called one of the great elemental forces in the world's thought. To recur to Ben Jonson's phrase, "he was not for an age, but for all time." "When I say 'Shakespeare,' said Lowell, "I have said it all." "Observe; think; morals draw; part false from true.

He did it all, long ago; and better too.

Go, seek of Thought some yet unsullied strand;

His footprint there confronts you as you land."

Of Shakespeare's youth we know but little, and that little is not much to his credit. Fortunately there was enough genuine manhood in him to slough off boyish follies. He was by no means a precocious lad, although he must have made good use of the advantages of the grammar school of Stratford. Of the extent of his education we have no direct information. It has been supposed that he must have read French and Italian, from the fact that books in those languages from which he took the plots of many of his dramas were not accessible to him in English translations. There is little doubt that he was familiar with Ovid in the original. Perhaps Ben Jonson's statement that he had "little Latin and less Greek" may be offset by Aubrey's report that "he understood Latin pretty well, for he had been in his younger days a school-

In simple piety,
To lead an even-tenored life
In sweet consistency,—
This, with religion, to my mind,
Far better doth agree.

III.

And so a Fast I will not keep
For forty days in Lent,— Renouncing pleasures while my mind
Is still on pleasure bent,—
But take my joy in duty done,
Sincere and diligent.

A BIT OF NORTH SHORE SCENERY.

master in the country." Shakespeare had no title to rank as a classical scholar, but he certainly was not ignorant of other tongues besides his own. Such a mind as Shakespeare's must have absorbed knowledge from every quarter.

The drama of Shakespeare's day had its forerunners in the Mysteries, Moralities and Miracle Plays of the Middle Ages, of which the famous Passion Play of Ober Ammergau is a survival. The purpose of these plays which were performed often by strolling bands of monks and friars, and afterwards by professional actors in town squares and on village greens, was at first to teach Bible history and doctrine and the moral duties to the masses of the ignorant and unlettered; they were under the control of the church. They gradually lost, however, their serious character, and at length degenerated in many cases into buffoonery and blasphemy. The early English drama allowed great license, though some of the playwrights were writers of genius, and some of the plays contained passages of high moral strain as well as poetic merit. The English stage on the whole, in the times of the Plantagenets, was not an inspiration to private or social virtue. It was too often a purveyor to vice.

Charles Lamb's Essays and Henry Morley's great work on English Writers contain all the information of the Early English Drama that most readers need. When the names of Marlow, Heywood, Greene, Fletcher, Webster, Massinger, Ford, Beaumont and Ben Jonson are mentioned, the best and the worst of this species of literary composition is brought to mind. It was at a time when dramatic art held a conspicuous place in the forces that were moulding the life of society in a transitional epoch, when in London the Globe and Blackfriars drew delighted crowds, that Shakespeare burst upon a world in which he at once won admiring regard and a name which has since shined with undimmed lustre in the firmament of letters.

It is true, as has been said, that Shakespeare "rode rough-shod over the unities of time and place and action"; he defied all the rules of art and the canons of the classical drama; but the force of his genius overpowered criticism. Ben Jonson noted that his great contemporary "wanted art," but claimed that all Europe would do him homage. In 1630, Milton wrote,

"What needs my Shakespeare for his honored bones

The labor of an age in piled stones?

Thou in our wonder and astonishment
Hast built thyself a life-long monument."

From the time of Queen Anne, the tide of Shakespeare's reputation has flowed steadily onward. Literature has crowned him with its laurel. Germany has naturalized him. In America he has been studied and admired as greatly as in England. His creations of human life and character appeal to universal humanity, so that no book except the Bible bears so well translating into other tongues. Even his beings of fancy and imagination seem to walk before us in flesh and blood; and the sayings of his characters, as Hamlet and Wolsey, Lear and Macbeth, Mark Anthony and Othello, Falstaff and Portia, are rooted in the speech of the civilized world.

Shakespeare was an imperial master of pure, forceful English. There is in his writings many

"A phrase which lives forever—
An immortal phrase of beauty and wit,
A luminous thought the soul of it,
But with no baffling, wordy fence
Between the reader and the sense."

He uses 15,000 words, and out of every five verbs, adverbs and nouns, as in the last act of Othello, four are Saxon. His language is that of the common people; it is the strong, rich, composite English of the reign of Elizabeth. It must be admitted that there are coarse expressions and passages; but we must bear in mind that speech and manners have been greatly refined since the age of the Tudors. It may be claimed that there are no writings of his time that contain such deep and impressive teaching on human life and duty, expressed in such noble language. He excels not only in fancy, and depth and clearness of vision, but in lofty morality.

The great poet was no doubt one of the most lovable of men; he was called "gentle Will Shakepeare"; Aubrey describes him as "of a very readie and pleasant smooth wit." And Ben Jonson has left this tribute to his friend on record: "I loved the man and do honor his memory on this side idolatry as much as any. He was indeed honest, and of an open free nature, had an excellent phantasy, brave notions and gentle expressions." He touched life at many points, and could picture with almost equal facility the characteristics of Englishman, Frenchman, Roman, Greek and Moor. He loved nature and revered the good and true. There is a sweetness and grace, a majesty and power, in his style that are unsurpassed. He struck every note in the gamut of human joy and sorrow, of triumph and despair. He is the great poet of human nature. With growing age there is a graver and tenderer tone, a deepening of purpose, a broadening of view. The change for the better in his domestic relations may have had something to do with this; after the darkness came light, after the storm calm; pathos mingles more and more with love and tragedy; it is the beautiful autumn time of life, the sun sheds a softer light as it nears its setting.

[Something concerning the sources of Shakespeare's dramas, and his knowledge and use of the Bible, must be reserved for another paper.]

Contract Awarded.

The contract for reconstructing the stone crusher at Manchester, for which purpose $1200 was appropriated at the town meeting, has been awarded during the week to Joseph M. Whittier of Danvers, who quoted $1183. The only other bidder was Pitman & Brown of Salem, who bid $1235. Work will be started at once.

A Testimonial Party.

The members of Post 67 of Manchester were given a pleasant surprise at the close of their meeting last Friday night, when a number of the members of the W. R. C. presented themselves and entertained for several hours. The occasion of their visit was more in the nature of a testimonial for Nathaniel Morgan, one of the oldest members of the post, who has just resigned his position as janitor of the Memorial building and G. A. R. hall, after almost 19 years of service. An oyster stew, coffee and fruit were served, after which singing and speaking were enjoyed. One of the pleasant features of the evening was the presentation on the part of the corps of a briar pipe to Mr. Morgan, presented with a few appropriate remarks by Mrs. Hannah Tappan.

A Boy to clean lawn-mowers at DYERS, MANCHESTER, Mass.

At Last, Spring!

At last it has arrived—Spring, that most cherished of all seasons here on the North Shore. Neither by the gruff sounding horn of the speedy "red devil," nor by the shrill blast of the bugler's trumpet on the approaching four-in-hand, was it announced, but by the appearance last Saturday of the inoffensive, slow-paced, rubber tire-less, ball barren-less hokey-pokey cart on the streets of Manchester.

It was through the influence of Superintendent of Streets Kimball this was made possible, for he gave orders on April 1 to begin cleaning up the streets and to put things in their tidy garb for summer. The water carts were pulled out last Saturday also, and an endeavor was made to keep down the dust Saturday and Sunday. The catch basins have been relieved of their winter's accumulation of sand, gravel and debris, and the initiatory steps toward getting rid of a few of the many thousand dollars appropriated for highway improvements at town meeting are being taken. One of the first things to be done will be the macadamizing of Masconomo and Beach streets and to hasten matters in that direction surveys have been taken during the week, and several catch basins and a good system of surface drainage will be put in.

Mr. Nichols of Salem, who has taken lease of the James Beaton house, corner of School and Lincoln streets, arrived Wednesday.

Amos H. Girdler.

Amos H. Girdler, one of Manchester's oldest sons, passed away last Sunday at his home on Pine street, at the advanced age of 88 years. Only a week previous he had been about his work; but it is thought he contracted a cold while at Singing beach two weeks ago today, which was indirectly responsible for his death. He was taken sick shortly after that and the end came slowly. He passed away as one going into a deep sleep.

In his death Manchester loses one of its typical New England men. He came from the earliest stock. His father, grandfather and great grandfather were born and brought up in Manchester. He was born May 20, 1817 of William Girdler and Peggy Hilton Girdler. In his early days he followed fishing, as did his father before him, going on the Grand Banks generally, but doing coastal fishing at times.

He also worked at cabinet making for a number of years, and at one time worked at the same bench as did our venerable librarian D. L. Bingham. For the past 35 years, however, he has conducted a farming and teaming business.

He was a typical Yankee. A man of true American make, devout, and in late years very spiritually minded. He was greatly interested in the Congregational church for many years.

He married twice, his first wife being Clarinda May, a sister to Mrs. N. C. Marshall of this town. She died May 7, 1897, and that same year he married Miss Anna Stacia McAdams, whom he also outlived.

He had two brothers and three sisters, only one of whom, John Girdler of Beverly, is known to survive him. Two of his sisters, Mary and Lydia lived in California. His other sister, Hannah, never married. He also had a brother named William Girdler.

Funeral services over his remains were held at his late residence on Pine street Tuesday afternoon, Rev. W. H. Ashley, officiating. Interment was at Rosedale.

Parish Meeting.

The annual meeting of the First Parish of Manchester was held in the chapel, Wednesday evening, but after transacting a few items of business, adjourned until a week from next Monday evening.

Alfred S. Jewett was elected moderator, George F. Allen was re-elected clerk after many years of faithful service, and Frank P. Knight, William Hoare and E. A. Lane were appointed as parish committee. Deacon Joseph A. Torrey declined re-election as treasurer and collector.

MANCHESTER.

At their home on Pleasant street, Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Howe celebrated the 35th anniversary of their marriage, the occasion proving a most delightful and happy one. Besides a number of Manchester friends and neighbors who called to extend congratulations to the couple, there were several friends present from out of town. Musical selections added to the pleasure of the occasion. Refreshments of ice-cream and cake were served.

The Pi Alpha Phi will hold their meeting in the chapel tonight. One of the features of the meeting will be an original stump speech by Walter Fleming. Several members of the local chapter are planning on visiting the Y.M.C.A. in Salem next Wednesday.

Misses Margaret Cummings and Lulu Felcer of Cambridge have been spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson on Bridge street.

Lester Temple of Manchester, N. H., has entered the employ of A. J. Orr, the painter.

Mrs. Nathaniel Morgan has had as guest the past week Mrs. I. Lee and son of Huntington avenue, Boston.

Joseph N. Lipman has returned from Atlanta, Ga., where he went two weeks ago in company with John J. Giles, who is now making his home with his son. Mr. Lipman reports a very pleasant trip. He says the apple and peach trees were in full bloom when he left, and everything had the appearance of June weather. Mr. Giles, he says, is already showing the effects of the change in climate, his health being much improved.

Mrs. Anna Symonds and Mrs. Florence Fall of Melrose have been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Howe this week.

Charles W. Fritz has been drawn as juror for the sitting of the Supreme Judicial court in Salem, a week from next Tuesday.

A fine assortment of neckwear may be found at the Keyou millinery parlors in Gloucester. *

RETURN FROM ABROAD.

Messrs. Hoare and Sinnicks Return to Manchester After Pleasant Trip to the Other Side.

William Hoare and George S. Sinnick, two well known North Shore contractors, who have been abroad the past six weeks returned to their Manchester homes Thursday noon and both speak in most glowing terms of their trip across the water to England and back. When they left Boston some weeks ago they were given a royal sendoff by a party of friends and they were received no less eagerly on their return this week.

They left Liverpool at 4.30 p.m., Tuesday, March 28, on the "Ivernia" of the Cunard line, and left Queens-town the following noon. There were on board 2271 passengers, 58 of that number traveling in first class, 210 in second class and 2003 third class.

While in England Messrs. Hoare and Sinnick visited many points of interest and saw much of general interest to the traveler. In a later issue our readers may expect to find a full account of the trip. Among the places visited was Mr. Hoare's former home where a number of days were spent with his aged father.

Benefit Concert.

A company of young actors and actresses of the Young Peoples' Christian Union connected with the Universalist church in Hyde Park are to present a drama in the Manchester town hall, Wednesday evening, May 3, as a benefit for Mrs. Ida Douglas, the invalid and shut-in. "Down in Maine" is the name of the production, which is a domestic drama of 4 acts. It will be given under the direction of Samuel B. Crombie, a Manchester boy, now working in Hyde Park. Mr. Crombie was in town Thursday afternoon making arrangements for the affair.

Chafing Dish Party.

The chafing dish party of the Class of '07, Manchester High school, at the Knight house on School street, recently occupied by Dr. Glendenning, was delightfully successful. Most toothsome dishes, including welsh rarebit, cream chicken, creamed oysters, shrimps, etc., prepared by Misses Kauffman, Goodenow and Weeks, the teachers at the High school, were served by the young ladies of the school. The waitresses were Lizzie Dillon, Beth Jewett, Fannie Knight and Annie Lane. Miss Jessie Andrews served hot chocolate. About $14 was realized from the sale. The room was prettily decorated in the class colors,—red and green. The party was held on Tuesday evening.

Society Notes.

It will be a matter of much interest to North Shore folk to learn that the E. T. Stotesburys of Philadelphia, who have spent the past three or four years at West Manchester, have secured the Eben Jordan house at West Manchester for the summer. It was announced when the Jordans first decided to spend the summer abroad that their house would be closed all summer, but Mr. Stotesbury very fortunately secured its use for this summer.

Rev. and Mrs. William DeWart of Hyde Park were down at their Cove place Monday for a few hours.

Among the number who were at Manchester were Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Russell, who came down in their automobile and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, who came down Saturday afternoon to spend Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Russell have opened their house and are now located at the Cove for the season, but Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow, though they will spend much of their time at their Cove house, will not move down from Boston for the summer till the last of May.

J. Lewis Bremer was down from Boston in his auto Sunday also, and was a guest of his cousins, the Clifton Long Bremers at Beverly Farms for the day. They rode down through Manchester and went over to Mr. Bremer's house at Smith's Point.

Among those who have been in Beverly Farms looking over their estates the past week are: George A. Goddard, Gorden Dexter, Col. Wm. Sohler, Miss Anna Amory and Miss Mary Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Moulton have returned to Beverly Farms, after several weeks spent in the South, most of which was spent with Mrs. Moulton's mother at Oxford, Va.

Frank Seabury came out this week with his new Columbia car, which has promise of cutting quite a dash in North Shore automobile circles the coming season.

Lucy Ann Webb.

Mrs. Lucy Ann (Proctor) Webb passed away at the home of her son, on School street, Manchester, last Saturday, at the age of 85 years, 7 months, after a continued feebleness for the past six months. Death was due to old age and heart trouble.

Mrs. Webb was a woman of very quiet and loving disposition. In her late years, in particular, she has not moved around much and has always been a home body, caring more for her domestic duties than to mingle much in society. She was a woman greatly loved and most highly respected by all who knew her.

She was born in Essex August 28, 1820, but for the past 65 years she has made Manchester her home, living for 63 years of that period in the house on School street in which she died. She was a widow of the late John C. Webb, whose death occurred some 20 years ago. She was the last of a large family, she being the youngest of nine children.

Two sons, John C. Webb of Rockland, Mass., and William A. Webb of Manchester, survive her.

Funeral services were held from her late home, Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Rev. E. H. Brewster officiating. The services were simple, it being her request that she be buried in the manner in which she lived—quietly. Relatives were present from Essex, Beverly and Rockland.

Semi-Annual Meeting.

The semi-annual meeting, with mite box opening and supper of the Ladies' Missionary Society of the Congregational Church, Manchester, Thursday evening, was the occasion of a very pleasant time. The gentlemen were invited in to partake of a baked bean supper at 6 o'clock, after which a social hour was enjoyed. Miss Ruth Whittle of East Northfield, who is visiting in Manchester, sang very pleasingly. The affair was in charge of the following committee: Mrs. Simeon Haskell, Mrs. George W. Jewett, Mrs. Harriet A. Goldsmith, Mrs. John Haskell and Mrs. William Johnson.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

Readers of the BREEZE who are about to change their address, either to move to the North Shore, or otherwise, will confer a great favor upon the editor if they will send their new address to this office, Manchester, Mass. This will not only insure discontinuance at the old, but a prompt delivery at the new address.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

As announced several weeks ago, today's issue of the Breeze is mailed from Manchester post office. There are several reasons why this change is brought about.

In order to have the paper pass through the mails as second class matter, we are obliged by law to have a "known office of publication." Since the first issue of the Breeze this has been in Beverly, because it was more convenient when the paper was first issued to have it mailed in Beverly. It appears, as the paper grows, however, that Manchester is the more desirable place for its office of publication, and the change is made primarily for that reason.

Though the Breeze will continue to be, as it was at the start, a publication "devoted to the best interests of the North Shore," we find, as we grow, that Manchester claims a good percentage of the circulation and advertising, so, for that reason, we feel Manchester a more proper place to have our home.

Then, again, Manchester is more properly the center of the North Shore than is the Garden City.

The change means simply that the paper will be mailed in Manchester and sent from there to our Beverly Farms, Prides Crossing, Beverly, Magnolia and, in fact, all our readers. The paper will remain the same, and it will, for the present, continue to be printed in Beverly.

MY ORCHARDS.

These trees were always old, it seemed to me—

Old, gnarled and staid, of mien grandfatherly.

Here in this quiet place, for aught I know
They were set out a hundred years ago;
But in the memory of man, folk tell
They have not failed to do their duty well,
And no one living now recalls a spring
When they were not arrayed "as for a king."
Now, passing glorious 'neath the vernal skies,

Truly, these have grown old in gorgeous guise,

Proving what grace, what beauty may engage

The ripe fulfillment of a rare old age.

FRANK WALCOTT HUTT.

Whisperings.

I was much interested Thursday afternoon to get hold of a copy of the "Cunard Daily Bulletin," a twenty-four page newspaper, or booklet, published on board the "Ivernia" of the Cunard line, on which Messrs. Hoare and Sinnicks came from England this week. The fact that it is printed on board a ship in mid-ocean is the principal thing of interest about it, and yet, I suppose, the fact that it prints news, — real live news, — the happenings on both continents, while in the middle of the broad ocean is the most wonderful thing in connection with it. This is made possible through the Marconi system of wireless telegraphy.

The copy I have gives the "wireless news from Cape Cod," and is dated Wednesday, April 5. Among other items of news is the latest reports from the seat of war.

* * * *

It may be of interest in this connection to note the amount of food consumed during the eight days' trip by the 2003 third-class passengers: 408 pounds of tea, 820 pounds of coffee, 5,052 pounds of sugar, 60 kegs of pickles, 1,460 pounds jam, 19,800 pounds or 100 barrels of flour, 1,378 pounds dried fruit, 21,219 pounds of beef, mutton, pork, etc., 3,414 pounds fresh fish, 308 fowls, 1,200 quarts fresh milk, 700 pounds ice cream, 18,600 eggs, 39,436 pounds potatoes, and $235 worth of vegetables.

* * * *

I hear whisperings of a new yacht club being formed in Manchester, — a miniature yacht club. And some of the best known young men in the town are instigators in the scheme. In and about Boston there has been for several years past considerable interest manifest over races between miniature yachts. This club being talked of in Manchester is interested in these small boats, too, I am told, and some snappy racing may be looked for this summer. The young men who are interested are said to be Harry Tappan, Hollis Roberts, Harry Swett, George Scott, John Olson and Hans Dehl.

Some of these young men already have yachts, and the rest are having boats built. Last week, while getting ready for a race down at the boat yard, I am told, one of the yachtsmen, so-called, became so intensely interested that he leaped (or did he slip) into the chilly waters.

Nance O'Neil at Tremont.

Those entertaining members of the Shakespeare community, Lady Macbeth and her semi-barbarous husband, were re-introduced to the Boston public at the Tremont theatre on Monday evening last. The young, attractive and popular American tragedienne, Miss Nance O'Neil was the Lady Macbeth, supported in an effective and impressive manner by Charles Dalton as Macbeth, Charles Millward as Macduff and Louis Massen as Banquo. The first week of Miss O'Neil's farewell was divided between "Macbeth" and Giacommetti's tragedy, "Elizabeth, Queen of England," and the same attention to detail was as conspicuous a characteristic in the Elizabethan plays as was observed in the Shakesperean tragedy. The second week of Miss O'Neil's engagement at the Tremont will embrace a round of her most popular and successful plays. The repertoire will be as follows: Monday evening and Wednesday afternoon "Magda," Tuesday evening, "Fires of St. John," Wednesday and Saturday evenings, "The Jewess," and Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoon, "Camille."

Beverly Farms Man Describes Trip From Boston to California and Return.

Thomas D. Connolly of Beverly Farms, who has just returned from a two months' trip to San Francisco, begins this week on a short series of articles which will describe his journey from Boston, through Washington, New Orleans and other cities of interest to California, and the return home by way of Chicago and Niagara Falls. The articles are in the form of notes taken by Mr. Connolly. Today's story lands the writer in New Orleans.

Boston to New Orleans.

On our way from Boston nothing unusual happened, except perhaps, the novelty of the Colonial Express being hauled on to the Steamer Maryland at Harlem River and taken to Jersey City to the Penn. R.R. It uses up about 1½ hours, but all are invited out on the upper deck of steamer for exercise, and the view of New York is grand.

We arrived here at 9.45 p.m., on time. This is our second day here; it is snowing hard, and I cannot see any difference in the climate, though it is a little warmer.

We have done up Washington fairly well, and start this noon on Southern R.R. for Atlanta to New Orleans. I had the good fortune yesterday to hear Bourke Corcoran speak, and I notice that they do not want to run up against him. The debate was about paying higher salaries to the school teachers here. We also heard a debate in the Senate; Marcomber of North Dakota making a very interesting speech.

I saw the bridge yesterday where the Union Soldiers during the late civil war retreated over to Washington at the Battle of Bull Run. Beyond this bridge on the Virginia side is Arlington, where the National Cemetery is located. We went through Georgetown College and saw all the portraits of illustrious graduates. There were pictures of General Rosencranz, Justices White and McKenna of the U. S. Supreme Court, and many others who served both in the Northern and Southern armies during the civil war. We went into the U. S. Supreme Court where we saw Judge Holmes, which caused us to think we were at home. We left Washington at 12.03 noon. After leaving Washington the first place is Alexandria, Va.; then comes Manassas, Culpepper, and Orange. All these places were taken and retaken by the Confederate and Union forces during the war, and near the railroad you see a large cemetery both for Southern and Northern soldiers.

The South has had a hard time of it and still looks poor and forlorn. Lynchburg is quite a city, the largest we have seen since leaving Washington. The Norfolk & Western R.R. crosses here. We notice a large cotton mill, many tobacco warehouses, brick yards and everything that goes to make a brick business town.

We approach Charlottesville, a small city made famous by the former mayor being convicted of killing his wife, and he was hanged February 20th.

The State University of Virginia is situated here and just a little south of this town is Monticello the home of Thomas Jefferson. Then we come to Danville the last town in Virginia. I saw some remnants of the civil war in shape of earth works. There are many tobacco ware houses and a large cotton mill.

If the South keeps on the North will not be in it for manufacturing cotton cloth. The Dwight mills of Chicopee have now a Dwight mill in Alabama.

The next town that we approach is Salisbury, in Western North Carolina; then Greensboro, where on one side of the station the waiting room is marked for white men and on the other side for colored men. General Greene of Revolutionary fame lived here and fought the battle of Guilford Court house, defeating the British. A large monument is here in record of the event.

We arrived at Atlanta at 8.30 a.m. two hours late and had breakfast in the depot restaurant. A large cemetery is here for the confederate dead. There are many beautiful pieces of sculpture, and as you are aware Decoration day was born in the south.

The scenery is not of much account around Atlanta; small cottages without cellars, and the negro shanties with the stone chimney built on the outside.

This has been a cold day — 7° above zero this morning in Atlanta. The "Atlanta Constitution" says "Records of cold weather since 1901 were smashed yesterday. 7 p.m. — 11° above zero; 8 p.m. — 10° above zero; 9 p.m. 8° above zero; 11 p.m. 7° above zero and midnight 6° above zero." This has caused considerable suffering here.

Out of Atlanta there are nothing but cotton fields, negroes and mules, also scattered here and there are cotton mills. A negro will not hire a house with red cedars growing near for they are very superstitious about that tree.

The government has a station of several hundred acres outside of Atlanta, called Fort McPherson. The fields in Georgia are in terraces so as to prevent water from washing the earth away. On these terraces they plant a very tall grass called crab grass. You will see all along little farms, on which negroes are picking cotton, there being three or four bales around each house. They rent the land for $2.00 per acre and a mule for $20.00 per year, the negro to keep him well fed.

I set my watch back one hour at Atlanta so as to be "in it." You see along the railroad the old planters homes of ancient days with four or five great columns in front looking much the same as the Kitfield home in Manchester or, perhaps, like the Bement estate on Jersey avenue.

We have just arrived at a place called Opelika, Alabama, and piles of cotton are ready to be sent out from the railroad station. Montgomery on the Alabama river is the next stop.

We met a young priest riding on the train to Montgomery, who has a small college of fifty colored boys six miles out from Montgomery. He is obliged to cook his own meals, and some days only one meal at that. He had just been 125 miles down the road to baptize a whole colored family, who have been reading some Catholic books and from them received an idea of the Catholic faith. This young priest's name is Francis Tobin and he has chosen the colored missions to care for their spiritual welfare no matter where sent.

The condition of the colored man here is terrible, and the poor white man has a hard time, too. This part of the country we have been travelling through is called the black belt. Mobile is quite a city and the place where Faragut and Young Dewey passed the forts with the old ship Hartford. From Montgomery to Mobile there are splendid hard pine trees, and they tap them, for the turpentine and rosin that they manufacture, in the same way that maple trees are tapped in New England.

We have seen tropical palms for the last two hours, also trailing vines running up to the tree tops.

We arrived in New Orleans at 11.15 p.m. January 26th, and all the hotels in the city were filled owing to the cotton planters' convention, so we had to get rooms in a private house. The next day we went the St. Charles hotel. Thus far we have traveled a distance of 1,595 miles.

THE ARBUTUS.

After the April showers,
The softer breezes play, —
And wakes a lovely blossom,
The floweret of the May.
Loved by the sturdy pilgrims,
It woke in days of old,
And to their hearts so lonely,
Seemed fairer far than gold.
Still on its soft sweet petals,
A blushing hue is born,
That shows in fall-less beauty,
The color of the morn.

Kept on Alert by Brush Fires.

Brush fires were quite the thing in Manchester last Saturday and the first of the week, no less than half a dozen being reported, some of which were such as to be the cause of alarm. The high wind last Saturday was a dangerous adjunct to any fire, should one have gotten beyond control.

About 3.30 o'clock last Saturday afternoon a telephone call summoned the Manchester apparatus to the Davis stable at Magnolia, but before the alarm was rung in, assurance was given that the Magnolia department had a brush fire which threatened the Davis property under control and the Manchester department did not go out.

Saturday noon a brush fire, urged on by the high wind, set fire to some straw around the greenhouse of Mrs. W. Scott Fitz off School street, but some of Roberts & Hoare's carpenters put the blaze out without the apparatus being called.

A brush fire burnt over an acre of land at the W. B. Walker estate in West Manchester, Saturday, also, but workmen with great difficulty got it under control without an alarm.

Sunday night sparks from the 7.08 train, it is thought, caused another fire on the McMillan property at the Row. A telephone message notified the department. Firewards Frederick Burnham and Nathan P. Meldram with several men started out, but could find no trace of a fire, though they searched for some time. Some boys at the brick yard had put the fire out.

Monday afternoon a still alarm was given for a brush fire at the Dr. Fitz estate, West Manchester. Driver Page was just leaving the engine house with the chemical when the fire was reported "all out."

MANCHESTER.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hooper returned this week from a visit to Norway, Me. Mr Hooper is not quite so well as when he went away.

Mrs. Alvah Glidden and Mrs. Charles Danforth of Gloucester were guests of Mrs. Jacob Kitfield at the Cove Tuesday.

Miss Lillian Lucas entertained at whist again Thursday evening at her Summer street home. The first prizes went to the hostess and Andrew Dagle, and the booby to Henry Porter.

Chief Peabody had one drunk before the court in Salem, Monday. Probated.

Mrs. John H. Dennis (nee Harris) of Salem, formerly of Manchester, was in town Thursday, a guest of Mrs. Hattie Perkins.

A delegation from William Jeffrey colony, Pilgrim Fathers, paid a visit to the Swampscott colony, Wednesday evening.

George F. Dyer, the Summer street machinist, has this week had a telephone installed in his shop—an indication of his steadily increasing business.

A lot of gents' $1.00 shirts to close at 50 cents at G. F. Allen's. *

Police Appointments.

The Manchester Board of Selectmen have made the following appointment of police officers during the past week: Samuel S. Peabody, chief of police. Leonard Andrews, sergeant of police.

Jacob W. Lee, 1st patrolman.

Geo. A. Jones, 2d patrolman.

T. William Lomasney, 3d patrolman.

The following special policemen were also appointed: Chas. L. Lucas, Joseph P. Leary, Thomas Sheehan, Oliver Gilman, George M. Morgan, George Kimball, Jacob H. Kitfield and George O. Moulton.

Frank Allen.

Frank Allen, fifteen years old, son of Samuel Allen of Shrewsbury, died last Saturday morning of spotted fever at his Shrewsbury home.

Last week it was stated erroneously in this paper that Samuel Allen had fallen a victim to the dreaded disease, but it has since been learned it was Mr. Allen's son, who is a nephew of Mrs. Abbie Baker of this town. His father was a native of Manchester and formerly lived here.

The spring opening of the Keyou millinery parlors in Gloucester was last Wednesday. *

New Teacher at Manchester.

Miss Laura Ivenetta Norton has been appointed teacher of the primary grade in the G. A. Priest school, Manchester, to succeed Miss Etta F. Woodbury, resigned. Miss Norton is a graduate of the Middlebury (Vt.) High school and of the Potsdam (N. Y.) Normal school. She has taught very successfully at Littleton for several years past, and at other places. She will take up her work in Manchester at the beginning of next term.

Society Notes.

All along the North Shore there is an apparent air of activity such as would indicate a good season. Summer houses have been generally taken up and many families find it impossible to obtain houses suitable to their wants. Many new families will be included in the colony this year. The vanguard of the colony has arrived and from now on the houses will be opened and more or less life will be apparent till the first of May, when the real influx will begin.

The John R. McGinleys of Pittsburg have secured the Bullard villa at "Old Neck" for another season, and will be among the early June arrivals.

Many well-known North Shore ladies were included among the patronesses of the annual organ benefit concert, held at Berkeley Temple, Wednesday evening. Among the number were Mrs. Oliver Ames, Sr., Mrs. L. Carteret Feno, Mrs. R. H. Fitz, Mrs. M. B. Mason and Mrs. Seth Mandell.

Negotiations are pending for the letting of the Masconomo House this summer, but nothing definite is yet decided upon. Mr. Schoeffel probably will not spend much of his time at Manchester himself this summer, as he is having a 90-foot cruising steam yacht built, on which he will spend much of his spare time. The boat is now in its completed stages at a Neponset boat yard. She is a substantial boat, and will carry two 35-horsepower engines.

White has just taken an order for a 40-foot cabin launch, 30-horsepower, for a Boston party, to be built at his Manchester yard. Guy Norman's new gasoline cruising yacht, almost completed at Fenton's, measures 52.70 tons gross and 45.87 tons net.

The George M. Morgans will not occupy their Smith's Point house this year, but will spend the summer abroad.

Mrs. Robert Paine will open her Coolidge's Point house the last of this month and will move down from Boston for the summer about May 1, a little earlier than usual.

Despite the cool winds which made the North Shore a rather disagreeable spot last Sunday, many people were down from Boston looking over their summer estates, preparatory to opening their houses and making improvements.

ELM ST., GLOUCESTER.

BEVERLY FARMS.

John A. Ober, formerly of the firm of Messrs. Woodward & Ober, Beverly, has taken the building of Charles H. Trowt at Pride's Crossing and will conduct a carpentering business. Mr. Ober was at one time connected with Messrs. I. and E. H. Ober, who for years did a large business along the shore, and many of the older shore residences are creations of their workmanship.

Alexander Campbell and Thomas M. Keigue are in Needham, engaged in building operations on the estate of John T. Morse, jr.

The Beverly Improvement Society, in carrying on their work to gather the gypsy and brown tail moth nests, were greatly aided this week by the generosity of Judge Wm. H. Moore, who sent them a check of generous size.

At the stock-holders meeting of the Danvers Country club held at Old Berry Tavern, Danvers, John H. Linehan of this place was reelected on the Board of Directors.

Postmaster Elmer Standley has hung in the postoffice waiting room an excellent framed picture of President Roosevelt.

At the postoffice notice issued from the postal officials at Washington has been posted, that after July 1st the rental of call boxes will be 25 cts, and lock boxes 50 cts. per quarter, an increase over what is now being paid.

Considerable Activity at Beverly Farms' Estates.

The coming of Spring and good weather has started building operations and improvements on many Beverly Farms' estates. Augustus P. Loring has this week started a large addition to his house at Pride's Crossing, consisting of a large music room with Italian fire place and several living rooms above. Messrs. Connolly Bros. are the contractors.

The above named firm has also started in with a large force of men on the Judge Wm. H. Moore Estate and will complete the extensive improvements which were begun last fall.

Washington B. Thomas is also having an addition built to his summer home and among other improvements will be changes in the terrace wall. Messrs. E. N. Clark & Co. of Boston are doing the work.

At the Henry C. Frick Estate Messrs. J. T. Wilson & Son and D. Linehan & Son, the principal contractors, have both added a considerable larger force during the past week and with the B. Smith & Brother who are at work on an artesian well there, things are being carried on with a rush.

On Haskell street Arthur Little's new alterations are well in hand and when completed will add greatly to the general improvement in that locality

Beverly Farms Resident Urges Better Sidewalks.

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

If you will allow me space in your paper, I would like to call the attention of our City Fathers to the condition of the sidewalks in this section of the city, and the great need of improvements upon them. While considerable has been said, and we expect will be done upon our streets so as to giving the public good roads, we yet have failed to hear of any proposed work to be done upon the sidewalks, and as the walking population of Beverly Farms are mostly people of moderate means, the question of wear and tear upon the shoe leather is, at least, of some importance.

It is a rare occurrence that top dressing of any kind is ever applied to the sidewalks here, and in the case of any ever being applied, the material generally has been of such a character as to be a nuisance, while in some parts no kind of a walk exists. It does seem that it is time that this matter should be given proper attention, and if the city would do a little each year in the shape of edgestones and a good top dressing of gravel or crusher dirt, the stones and roots, which we are now nearly breaking our necks over, and wearing out unnecessary shoe leather, would at least be a decided improvement, and tend to add much to the desirability of living here.

"BETTER SIDEWALKS."

A daughter arrived on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Hannable on High street.

Next week will be vacation week for the pupils of the Farms school.

Miss Jennie Twitchell is very ill with pneumonia at her home on Haskell street.

Rural Free Delivery.

Our Essex neighbors are looking for rural free delivery in the near future. An inspector of this branch of the post-office department visited Essex last week and in company with Postmaster Perkins and W. W. Lufkin, Cong. Gardner's secretary, looked over the proposed route. It is thought the service may commence July 1.

To Open up House Lots.

While it has not as yet been given out as absolutely certain it is quite evident that the large field belonging to the heirs of the late Mrs. Abigail Trowt on Hale street, between the West street fire department house and the estate of Asa O. Marshall, and running through to Vine court containing about 3 1-5 acres — will soon be opened up to the market. A force of engineers have been busy there the past few days making surveys and it is expected that a street will be put through connecting Hale street with Vine court from which cross streets will run. The property itself will be put into house lots of good size, and will be sold at reasonable figures.

If the above plans are carried out it will certainly be a move in the right direction and in a progressive line and just what Beverly Farms needs.

For a number of years Beverly Farms' permanent residential growth has been stunted for the reason that no desirable property which came within the means of the ordinary man's pocket book could be had, and the consequence has been that the party who desired to build himself a home here has been unable to secure any building site, the result of which has caused the prospective citizen and tax payer to seek a home elsewhere.

Valuable Property Transferred.

In the purchase by M. E. Gorman of Manchester last Saturday of the property at the junction of Central and Bridge streets, known as Swett's stable, a valuable piece of property comes into the market, as Mr. Gorman says he buys for investment. Mr. Gorman bought the property from John A. Steward of Boston.

A representative of a publishing concern who are preparing material for an automobile road book from Boston to Portsmouth was on the North Shore the past week.

MR. DODGE OBJECTED.

Life, Limb and Property Endangered by Setting Two Telephone Poles on Desmond Avenue, He Claims.

A hearing was held at the office of Manchester selectmen Wednesday evening on petition of the New England Tel. & Tel. Co., to place on "Desmond Avenue from the end of the present line near the factory of A. S. & G. W. Jewett Co. to the residence of J. A. Lodge, two poles." As there are already poles on the street as far as Dodge's mill it was expected there would be no objection to two poles more being set.

There was objection, however, for Charles C. Dodge busied himself Wednesday afternoon by drawing up a petition protesting against any such action and getting several signatures to the petition. He brought it before the selectmen. It was claimed in the petition that the two poles and wires "will be likely to cause or be the cause of damage to the shade trees, besides injuring the looks of the street and hurting the view from homes and land and the excess to and from our property."

The petition claimed further that there was "also the danger of overhead wires becoming charged from crossed electric wires and endangering life and limb if they happen to fall to the ground, also danger of decayed poles falling."

The petition was signed by Chas. C. Dodge, W. K. Fleming, E. F. Height, John Desmond, T. A. Robins and C. M. Dodge.

Baptist church, Rev. E. H. Brewster, pastor. Morning service at 10.45 and the People's evening service at 7 o'clock.

Sacred Heart church. Rev. Fr. John J. Downey, pastor. Mass on Sunday at 8.30 o'clock. Sunday school at 3 and vespers at 3.45 o'clock.

The Ever Ready Circle of King's Daughters will meet next Monday evening with Miss Lillian Lucas.

A delegation of young people from the Baptist church went to Gloucester Thursday evening to attend one of the lectures in the Christian Culture Course at the First Baptist church.

Rev. Dr. Wallis of Somerville will preach at the Congregational church again tomorrow.

"The aim of the Soul," will be Rev. E. H. Brewster's subject at the Baptist church tomorrow morning. In the evening he will preach the first of a series of sermons on "What would Jesus Do?" His topic tomorrow evening will be "If He was a workman." A special invitation is extended to all workmen and tradesmen to attend. A musical service will precede the sermon.

Monday evening the B.B.B. will drill in the town hall again. Last Monday a large gathering assembled to see the boys drill and the lads were enthusiastically applauded.

The subject of the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting tomorrow evening will be "What does Christ's life show us about the Father?" Sayre Merrill, leader.

The Junior Christian Endeavor will meet tomorrow at 5 o'clock, instead of 3. Topic, "The story of Nadab and Abihu," a temperance meeting. Mr. Norie, leader.

Tickets for the "seven" social of the Ever Ready Circle of King's Daughters to be held in Lee's hall on April 27 will be on sale next week. Seven cents buys one. Patronize it, for the young women are putting the funds to good use for charitable purposes both in and out of Manchester.

Rev. Edward Hersey Brewster will give the first of a series of five evening sermons on "What would Jesus do?" at the Baptist church in Manchester tomorrow evening. The topics, in the order in which they will be taken up, are: "If He were a workman," "If He were head of the house," "If He were in society," "If He were a public servant" and "If He were a church member."

Sale at the Parsonage.

The sale of the Church Aid society of the Baptist church at the parsonage in Manchester, Monday, was a very successful affair, some $20 being turned into the treasury of the society as a result. Mrs. Helen Willmonton and Miss Sarah Giles were in charge of the fancy table, and Mrs. Hattie Baker and Mrs. Brewster were in charge of the cake and candy table.

The Brigham Lecture.

Nat M. Brigham of Chicago, the famous lecturer, delivered one of his illustrated lectures in the Manchester town hall, Wednesday evening. His subject was "The Grand Canyon of Arizona." The lecture was given under the auspices of the Men's class of the First Baptist church and was largely attended. Mr. Brigham's name and fame has traveled far and wide and he certainly proved a most interesting speaker on this occasion of his first visit to Manchester. His voice is peculiarly adapted for the lecture stage and the views cast on the screen were of such excellent quality as to bring the subject most vividly before the audience.

The lecturer has traveled much in Colorado so that he is thoroughly familiar with his subject. His words were well selected and his descriptions of the wild canyon scenes were given in very terse and comprehensive terms.

Next Wednesday evening the second lecture will be given. The subject is to be "Apache Warpath." During the evening the speaker will sing several solos in connection with the introduction of martial songs of the Indians.

CHOICE PROGRAM

Carried Out at Meeting of the Wednesday Evening Club in Manchester.

A choice program was carried out at the April meeting of the Wednesday Evening club in Manchester this week. The musical numbers were most select in their character, and the readings and the remarks by the speaker of the evening were of a very interesting nature.

Rev. E. H. Byington of the Dane Street church, Beverly, gave a talk on "The Odds and Ends of Life," which were characteristic of his interesting informal talks.

The musical numbers were mostly by out-of-town talent. Mrs. May Quimby sang with very pretty effect "Who'll Buy my Roses," by German, and Scott's "With You Dear," as the opening number, Miss Jessie Hoare acting as accompanist. She was followed by Bryce B. Hayden of Haverhill, who played on the violin

"Le Printemps," by Carrodus, and as an encore "Berceuse," a selection from Godard's "Jocelyn." Mr. Hayden's tones were clear and distinct. Moses Ewing of Haverhill was accompanist.

Supt. of Schools Charles E. Fish read "The Death of Poor Joe," from Dickens' "Bleak House," and "The Minister Housekeeper," one of Sam Lawson's stories, in a delightfully interesting manner.

Rev. E. H. Byington followed with his talk on "The Odds and Ends of Life," which, he said, was gained from his rambles about from place to place and from country to country. He had no set theme, but gave verbal pictures of things which he had seen and experienced. He stated he was born in Adrianople, in Bulgaria, and when a boy came to America with his parents, returned to the mission field again and then back to America.

"When I was a boy," he said, "I was a good boy. I was always where

WENHAM LAKE, IN THE HEART OF NORTH SHORE WOODLAND DRIVES.

The North Shore is famous for its charming inland drives; in fact this happy combination of seashore and country scenes is what attracts so many people the country over. The country, back of the immediate seashore, is lined and cross-lined with pretty, shaded drives. Old wood roads have been opened up and many more are to be opened to travel. At the end of one of these attractive drives is Wenham Lake, which presents a most beautiful sight as the driver comes out of the dense woods and for the first time catches a glimpse of its sparkling surface.

my mother could put her hand on me and not have to hunt all over town trying to find me. The reason for my virtue was the fact that a ten-foot stone wall, two feet thick surrounded the house I lived in, — and I couldn't get out.

"In Turkey they have various customs and strange to say the most noticable thing is that they are all the reverse of ours herein America. You could always tell you were near a school by the noise within. Instead of teaching children to study in the quietest manner possible they teach them there to learn their lessons by repeating them out loud. Another thing they reverse is the police department. There you can always tell the whereabouts of a policeman by the loud whacking of a cudgel on the hard pavements, which at night time sends a loud revivberating noise throughout the streets. If a man is breaking into a home he is thus given warning of the approach of the officer of law. They are fair and square there. None of your American police service where men are continually stealing around the corners, trying to see what's wrong. They give thieves and robbers a square deal, you see."

He spoke also of the saving of the cross, a peculiar religious custom, where men dash wildly into the icy cold waters of the Bosphorus to bring to shore a cross thrown in by the priest. He told of college pranks cut up while attending college at Amherst and of his wedding experiences while preaching in Brooklyn.

"I have roamed around the world," he said, "but after all there is nothing so good as friends and friendship. I always like to think of the young man I married in Brooklyn who was somewhat confused. I shook hands with him after the ceremony, saying, 'I wish to congratulate you.' 'Same to you, sir; same to you,' he replied."

In the intermission which followed the matter of a banquet on the occasion of the May meeting was brought up but the sentiment was that no banquet should be held. On motion of O. T. Roberts the matter was left to a committee appointed to arrange the May meeting.

The first number after the intermission was a piano solo by Moses Ewing of Haverhill who played "Pas des Amphores," by Chaminade. As an encore he rendered very sweetly Thomé's "Simple Aven."

George A. Blanchard of Gloucester then sang "The Rosary," by Nevin, with Miss Hoare as accompanist.

Allen S. Peabody read in his usual interesting style, "John Smith, U.S.A.," and when called for an encore, "Our Minister's Sermon."

Mrs. Quimby sang "Angus Macdonald," by Roeckel and as an encore Gaynor's lullaby, "The Slumberboat." The closing number was another vocal solo by Mr. Blanchard, who sang De Koven's "Oh, Promise Me."

During the evening an orchestra of five pieces with T. W. Long as leader and Mrs. Long at the piano played several concert selections. Before the meeting was called to order they played "The Dante of the Firefly;" during intermission Chester Cook played a cornet solo, "Violets," and at the close, the orchestra played "Indolence," intermezzo.

The program was, on the whole, one of the best yet presented at any of the meetings of the club. Wednesday evening's meeting was well attended. The committee in charge was composed of A. S. Jewett (chairman), Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Knight, A. C. Needham, Miss Eva Allen and Mrs. T. W. Long.

The committee appointed for the May meeting is composed of R. L. Cheever, W. W. Hoare, Mrs. F. C. Rand, Miss Grace Macgregor, Miss Eva Allen and Miss Florence Kauffman.

MANCHESTER.

Deacon Joseph A. Torrey is today attending the Bridgewater Alumnidinner at the Hotel Brunswick, Boston. Mr. Torrey graduated from the Bridgewater Normal school forty-six years ago.

Miss Marion G. Scott entertained a party of her young friends at her Norwood avenue home Tuesday evening. Whist was enjoyed and musical selections added much to the evening's pleasure.

Geo. L. Tinker of the Boston automobile concern, Tinker Bros., was in town Wednesday making preparations for starting work next week on the construction of the automobile garage on Beach street.

Lee Marshall, Dartmouth '08, came home Wednesday for a two weeks' vacation.

"Hardy Flowers," will be the subject discussed at the meeting of the N.S.H. society next Friday evening. The discussion will be opened by W. B. Jackson, gardener at the Charles Head estate, and he will be followed by Joseph Clarke and others.

H. W. French who has had charge of the Magnolia route of Smith's Express company concludes his work tonight and will go at once to New York where he has quite a promising position as salesman with the Carter Ink company.

Mrs. Lehi of Lakeport, N.H. is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas Widger, at the Cove.

Miss Dorothy Hooper of Everett is a guest of her grandmother, Mrs. E. P. Hooper, at the Cove.

Hollis A. Bell has accepted a position with the United Shoe Machinery company in Beverly, where he is in charge of the private telephone switch board.

That the brown-tail moth has arrived for the season is evident from the fact that Mrs. Thomas Widger has been confined to her bed at her Cove home several days the past week with brown-tail moth itch. Though this malady is not particularly dangerous, it is painful and irritating and something to be dreaded. It is caused by the hairs of the brown-tail coming in contact with the skin, irritation following.

Miss Agnes Nelson and Miss Lottie Fredericson of Newburyport were in town over Sunday guests of Miss Nannie Sjolund.

Mrs. Frank A. Morgan had as guests over Sunday her sister, Miss Carrie Peach, and a friend, Miss Carrie Davis, of Gloucester.

At the annual meeting of the Beverly board of fire underwriters in that city, Monday, William J. Johnson of this town was elected a member of the rating committee.

Selectman W. E. Kitfield was confined to his Cove home the first of the week with a severe attack of asthma.

Henry B. McCollom returned to Manchester Monday after two months' stay in Florida, where he was engaged as clerk in a large hotel at Sea Breeze. Mr. McCollom says everything had the bearing of summer when he left Florida, the flowers and the fruit trees being in full bloom, and the temperature being such as to necessitate wearing summer apparel. He made several side trips and stops on the way home, the trip taking eight days, most of the journey being on water.

Roy B. Stanley was home from Lowell over Sunday.

Mrs. Roderick MacDonald returned to her home in West Somerville the first of the week after a pleasant visit of ten days with her mother on Summer street. Mr. MacDonald was in town over Sunday.

Mrs. Leon W. Carter goes to Marlboro next Tuesday for a week's visit with relatives.

Miss May Summons of Omaha, Neb., has been a guest of Miss Ruth Blaisdell the past two weeks.

Mrs. Dora E. Story of Schenectady, N. Y., who formerly lived in Manchester, is making a very pleasant visit of a few weeks with her friend, Mrs. John H. Cheever, School street, and is renewing acquaintances in town.

Samuel Knight and Miss Alice Blaisdell have been spending their vacation with friends in Haverhill this week.

Many Repairs in Progress.

It is at this time on the North Shore that business for carpenters, plumbers, etc., is at its best, as a majority of the cottagers always have more or less repairing done at their estates, and improvements of various kinds are being made.

At Manchester Cove just now considerable activity is evident along this line. Roberts & Hoare, the well-known building concern, is building a large fence at the Whitehouse estate, from the front, or main entrance to the beautiful mansion, to the stable. Repairs are also being made on the stable.

E. A. Lane, the Manchester painter, is putting a coat of paint on the John Sturgis cottage, and a Beverly concern is painting the Nichols stable, and the interior of the cottage, also.

At the Prescott Bigelow estate a Beverly concern is erecting a large poultry house. Repairs are being made on the Harvey Childs house on University lane, and the large veranda is being refloored. All the chimneys in the Dr. Tenney house are being rebuilt and some beautiful new fireplaces are to be put in.

W. H. Menken has given up his position with his father at the Whitehouse estate and started work this week with Southworth Bros., North Beverly.

Better Water Facilities

Wanted at the Farms.

As the water department of the city of Beverly, in connection with the improvements on the main thoroughfare from Chapman's Corner to the Manchester line, are putting in new sections of heavy iron water pipe where most needed, we beg to call the attention of this department to conditions existing on several of the side streets, especially Everett street, and suggest that after the necessary work has been performed on the main highway that attention be given the side streets.

Commencing with the street above mentioned, as we are inclined to think the worst condition exists there, owing to the small size of the pipe, which in many cases we understand is only an inch to an inch and a half in diameter, a lower pressure is to be found. This necessarily must make the water of a poorer quality. And in cases of many short streets, where the pipes have a dead end a "blow off" is certainly needed. In cases of breaks in the main the dirt and other material which is sure to get in the supply generally finds its way to these dead ends, thereby making the water of a character which is certainly undesirable. If the proper officials will install larger supply pipes with the needed "blow off," there can then be put on these side streets a very much needed article in the shape of fire hydrants which are not now to be found, and probably cannot be until the supply of water is increased.

"WHAT WOULD JESUS DO?"

If He Was a Working Man, Says Rev. F. H. Brewster, He Would Do Honest Labor and He Would Not Be a Graft. He Would Get Out Among Men and Save Souls.

"What would Jesus do if He was a workingman?" was the subject of a very interesting talk by Rev. E. H. Brewster at the Baptist church in Manchester last Sunday evening, the first in a series of sermons on "What would Jesus do?" He selected for his text a passage from the sixth chapter of St. Mark: "Is not this the carpenter's son?"

"He would be frugal and economical; He wouldn't be out nights with the 'fellows'; He would do honest work; He wouldn't be a grafter; He would save souls; He would be a member of a union and above all He would observe the Sabbath." These were some of the thoughts brought out in the course of Mr. Brewster's talk.

"I believe we must go back to the time of Jesus to answer some of these questions that come up before us today," he said. "We know He has done much for religion, for poetry, for music, and He has done a great deal for the working man.

"First, He gave the working man an ideal. He presented to us the unique ideal of a prophet and a laborer. The hands that have for centuries been lifting up the world, these same hands worked at the carpenter's bench.

"He gave us the working day. But today we have no such thing as a working day. Go into the great cities and we see men working at all hours, night and day, Sundays as well as week days. One crowd of men start in where others leave off, and they toil night and day, in one continuous round.

"He gave the working man the Sabbath. We do not realize the meaning of the Sabbath day.

"Now what would Jesus do if He was a working man? I believe if He were in the world today He would be a working man. I believe He would detest this attitude of today toward work. It is a glorious thing to labor. I believe He would work, but He would put the proper dignity on it. I believe He would work for a purpose, because He wanted to earn His livelihood. I admire a working man who earns his livelihood by the sweat of his brow. He is better than the man who takes the efforts of his fathers and lives on them.

"He wouldn't be a machine. Labor today makes machines of men. And we would have certain principles and adhere to them. He would be frugal, economical; He would be at home nights and not out with the 'fellows'; He would do honest work and do it honestly; I don't believe He would be a grafter.—He would not enter into any scheme; and I think He would observe the Sabbath. Above all things, He would keep it because it was a principle.

Our ideals have changed concerning the keeping of the Sabbath. If you hush the tones of the church bells, and take away the shadow of the church spires, the day will go from us.

"Would He be a member of a union? In its ideals the labor union represents two grand principles; it represents fraternity, and it is for mutual protection. Capital organizes to combat labor; I think labor has a like privilege.

"But more than being a carpenter, He would do good work and He would take pride in it. If you have pride in your work, you have a source of contentment nobody can take from you.

"The American working man secludes himself too much. Get out among men and interest yourself in the problems of living! Man was not made for the Sabbath, but the Sabbath was made for man. Christ worked at the carpenter's bench, but He saved men, also. We should all have some vocation. Realize that all your labor is but a means to an end. Jesus worked at the carpenter's bench to pay his expenses,—that's all. His main object of life was to lead men in the right way of living."

BEVERLY FARMS.

Mr. and Mrs. John Garvey of Haskell street are rejoicing over the arrival of a son, which came to their home last Sunday.

The scholars of the Eighth grade, under their teacher, Miss O'Brien, went to Boston last Saturday, and after visiting the Navy Yard, Bunker Hill monument and other places of interest, finished up the day by seeing "Strongheart" at the Park theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Pride of Somerville have been visiting relatives at the Farms.

Capt. J. Frank Blaney has this week been very busy, with his crew, repairing damages and replacing his fish weir located off Chubb's island. The severe storms in January created such havoc to the apparatus that Capt. Blaney has been obliged to secure the services of a lighter from Gloucester, and probably will consume several weeks before everything will again be in proper condition.

Messrs. Wyatt & Trowt and Thomas D. Connolly of Messrs. Connolly Bros. have just returned from a horse-buying trip to Buffalo and Canada, and succeeded in securing a car load each of fine animals.

Daniel Horrigan was called to Quincy this week by the death of his mother.

Several car loads of heavy cast iron water pipes, to be used for water mains, arrived this week at the Beverly Farms freight yard and have been distributed along the streets.

Alexander Carr, foreman gardener for Dow's Sunny Side greenhouses, is this week in Stonington, Conn., superintending the planting out of a large private estate there.

There will be an illustrated lecture on Japan in the Baptist church tomorrow evening under the direction of the pastor. The apparatus will be under the care of J. Frank Rolfe of Beverly.

Buys Out Electric Company.

The Bruce-Hibbard Electric Co. of Fitchburg has bought out the Woodbury Electric Co. of Hale street, Beverly, and took possession this week. The Bruce-Hibbard Electric Co. is one of the largest electrical concerns in the vicinity of Fitchburg, and it will be pleasing news to the patrons of the old firm to know that the business is to be continued. E. A. Bruce, one of the members of the firm, will be at the Beverly office most of the time. J. M. Greenlaw is manager of the new concern.

A Sensational Success.

Owing to the sensational success of Robert Edson in "Strongheart" at the Park theatre, the time for another company has been cancelled at that playhouse in order to give this popular star and play a longer engagement in Boston than the usual two weeks. The new play has two elements which cannot fail to appeal in the very keenest way to every theatregoer in America; namely, college life and football and that of the most vital question in the public mind today—the problem of the educated Indian. Whatever the charm may be in the new play, it has certainly taken Boston by storm and its success is looked upon as one of the biggest of several seasons. The Park theatre has been entirely sold out every night, with the orchestra relegated to the stage to give room for extra chairs. This is certainly a great triumph for Mr. Edson and his play, and the fact that Mr. Edson will not appear in any New England cities outside of Boston, either this season or next, will no doubt tempt many a one away from their homes to see this splendid play.

Matinees are given at the Park theatre on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Mr. Coffin, a consulting engineer of Boston, was in town Thursday making preliminary plans toward a survey for higher water pressure, money for which was appropriated at the March meeting. He was driven over town with Water Commissioners Meldram, Merrill and Stanley, and Superintendent Andrews.

Manchester Woodland Lots Sold.

John Rogers Allen of Manchester has this week conveyed to Morley, Flatley & Co., the Manchester contractors, two of the old parsonage wood lots located at North Yarmouth, so-called. It is said the purchase was made with a view to utilizing the stone and gravel in construction work carried on by the firm.

Harold Stone.

Harold, the eight-year-old son of Mrs. Grace Stone of Hamilton, formerly of Manchester, died at his late home Thursday afternoon after a 36-hours' illness, a victim of cerebro spinal meningitis, or spotted fever. The young lad was taken ill Tuesday afternoon and grew rapidly worse. A physician was called but the disease had made such progress that it was impossible to check it, and the boy died Thursday afternoon.

The news of his death was a great shock to the many friends of the family in Manchester, but more especially to the boy's grandfather, Charles H. Stone, who was very fond of the lad. Charles L. Stone, his son and father of the boy, died some seven years ago, as the result of falling from the roof of a building on which he was working in Beverly Farms. The boy was bright, lovable, and strikingly pretty. He attended school where his mother taught.

Mr. Lincoln Called to Manchester Pastorate.

C. Arthur Lincoln, a senior in the Hartford Theological Seminary, has been given a call to the pastorate of the Congregational church in Manchester. At a meeting of the church Tuesday for the purpose of voting on his name a unanimous vote for his call was cast, not one dissenting ballot being recorded, an almost phenomenal record in this or any other church.

Mr. Lincoln, if he accepts the call, and it is probable that he will, after the parish confers with the church in its action at the meeting next Monday night, will probably come to Manchester and take up his work at once. He will undoubtedly preach here next Sunday.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

Readers of the BREEZE who are about to change their address, either to move to the North Shore, or otherwise, will confer a great favor upon the editor if they will send their new address to this office, Manchester, Mass. This will not only insure discontinuance at the old, but a prompt delivery at the new address.

Where is that Committee?

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

DEAR SIR: Will you kindly allow me to inquire through the columns of your paper if anybody is "posted" on the whereabouts of that committee from the city government whose duty it is to "do something" concerning the securing of a location for a playground, and if there is such a person will he please inform the residents of Beverly Farms. Perhaps next fall just before election this committee might take on a new lease of life long enough to make some sort of a report, which now appears to be the only chance left to secure a move in this direction from this committee.

"WARD 6 VOTER."

A Communication.

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

DEAR SIR: Among recent rumors which have come to my ear is one perhaps, too ridiculous to repeat. A well known business man in this town is quoted as having said, that if the new Catholic church to be built in Manchester was built on a certain lot in town, he would institute a piggery at the rear of the church. Such a statement based upon nothing but rank bigotry is sufficiently hideous to cause the speaker thereof to blush with shame. The above named church cannot be slandered, nor publicly criticized, because nothing can truthfully be said against it. Such insults can only be spoken in an underhanded way, suggestive of a lack of manliness. We are consoled with the fact that the Roman Catholic church is based upon too solid a foundation to be affected by the attacks of the narrow-minded.

Yours for Fair Play,

ANDREW J. DAGLE.

Whisperings.

Not many years ago before these new-fangled ideas got to working, I am told, a hen raiser would consider it great luck if he could count a dozen or fifteen chicks from a setting, but now-a-days, unless a man succeeds in getting a hundred or more, he thinks bad luck is with him. My good friend, Henry Menkin, gardener and caretaker for Francis M. Whitehouse, at Manchester Cove, succeeded in getting 148 chicks from one setting this week. That is surely raising them by the gross, instead of by the dozen, as in days of yore.

Joseph W. Lee, who was manager of the Woodbury Electric Co., is to start in business for himself and has opened an office in Beverly.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Descriptions of a Trip from Boston to San Francisco and Return.

[The following is taken from notes made by Thomas D. Connolly of Beverly Farms, on a recent trip to San Francisco.—Ed.]

No. 2.—At New Orleans.

We have just been over New Orleans and it is to my mind a little Paris from the description given that city. New Orleans originally was a Spanish colony and afterwards it became a French colony. It was sold by Napoleon I. to the United States in 1803 and was known as the Louisiana Purchase. From this mixture of the Spanish and the French have sprung what is termed Creoles, and today in New Orleans some of the finest old families are Creoles. Here you find both ancient and modern architecture.

The St. Louis cathedral is of old Spanish design; delapidated on the outside and sadly in need of repairs. On the inside are the finest frescoes and coloring I have ever seen. On the top of the altar is a fine painting given to the church by Louis XVI., King of France, and there are other paintings on the walls. The floor is tiled with marble, each tile being 15 inches square. Bishops and priests—all Spaniards—are buried in the side walls and under the floor in front of the altars. The pews are large, high, and square boxed.

This cathedral is built of brick, slap dashed with lime and mortar, for it being a tropical country, Jack Frost can do no harm. Alongside of the cathedral is the old government building called the Cabildo and also the court house. Across on one side of the street is another large building still owned by the Spanish living in the old world who collect their rents regularly. An old fashioned hotel of fine architecture is very near, but it is condemned.

Another place that we visited is the old St. Louis cemetery and it is frightfully gruesome. There are Spanish, French and Creoles buried here in large monuments or houses raised above the ground as water is found everywhere one foot below the surface. On one of these houses of the dead I copied this inscription; "Jean Bore, Born 1741—Married 1771—Died 1820." Another one of these houses of the dead contained the remains of two Americans, elected by the people of Louisiana after the purchase. Their names were Joseph H. Walker and John L. Lewis. In the back part of the cemetery I saw a coffin in pieces on top of the ground, bones and boards worm eaten.

Here in the court of the St. Charles Hotel is a palm garden 100 feet long and 50 feet wide, covered with a glass roof. There are palms, ferns and flowers in great profusion.

New Orleans imports opera companies from France and patronizes them well. Sunday afternoon and evening there are operas, the theatres running in full sway. The French and, Spanish quarters are the same as in the old world. The band is now playing and has been during the day. The weather is most balmy.

On our trip today we went to the residential part of the city. The palm trees are 35 feet in height, grass is green and trimmed and roses and calla-lilies are in full bloom (February). I read in the papers Boston is buried in snow and bitter cold.

Canal street is the principal street in New Orleans and is over 100 feet in width. Its levees are along the side of the Mississippi. There are cotton steamers, also cotton and sugar storehouses. It is, indeed, an up-to-date city.

I was much impressed with the great respect shown the name of General Jackson. The Sisters of Charity on the 8th of January each year have a holiday and place a wreath on the large bronze equestrian monument erected to his memory. In the old St. Louis cathedral, which is directly opposite where he defeated the British, both he and his soldiers offered up thanks to God for their victory. A monument is also erected here to John McDonough who established the first schools in New Orleans. There is a fine monument to Robert E. Lee, whom the South so loved, 76 ft. in height, also monuments to Henry Clay, Benjamin Franklin and Lafayette.

New Orleans is eleven feet below the Mississippi river and all the drainage runs into the gutters along by the sidewalks. The gutters are flushed twice each day with water and they are now putting in a system of drainage which is to be pumped into the river, and this will work wonders for the city.

It is a quaint city; there being nothing like it in the United States, and no traveler should miss visiting it. We will start tomorrow for San Antonio and El Paso, Texas.

Prizes Awarded.

The Manchester boys and girls who have been collecting brown-tail moth nests this winter and spring have been awarded for their efforts the past week, and the winners of the various prizes offered by the North Shore Horticultural society have received their rewards.

More than 73,000 nests have been collected by the children, and as the Horticultural society offered to pay 15 cents per hundred for all nests collected, more than $100 will have been paid out, besides prize money. Money will be paid to 66 children.

The numbers collected by grades follow:

Grade VIII	8,100
Grade VII	18,500
Grade VI	11,300
Grade V	11,500
Grade IV	7,700
Grade III	8,300
Grade II	500
Grade I	200
High School	7,096

The ten children heading the list to whom the prizes were awarded are:

Harold Purdy,	9,200,	$5.00 prize
George Killam,	8,900,	4.50
John Spinney,	8,200,	4.00
Everett Robbins,	5,900,	3.50
Clarence Menkin,	5,085,	3.00
Elmer Smith,	4,300,	2.50
Lester Haskell,	3,100,	2.00
Lizzie Coughlin,	2,800,	1.50
Roland Kitfield,	2,700,	1.00
Arthur Jackson,	2,400,	.50

It is to be regretted that public interest in this matter has been such that only $84.92 have been subscribed to the society toward carrying on the work. The amount of money paid out by the society to school children and for the lecture on brown-tails this winter amounts to $165.00. The deficiency is $81.08, and the society is open to contributions from any who may feel like promoting the good cause.

Society Notes.

Major George F. Barstow has again leased the "Roberts Cottage," known as the "Old Corner," at West Manchester for the season, this being his seventh summer at West Manchester.

Mrs. Andrew G. Weeks will occupy the "Larcom Cottage" at Beverly Farms this season for the seventh consecutive year. "Old Homestead" is one of the most picturesquely located houses on the shore, it is near George Lee's beautiful Venetian villa.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ames have moved out to their country place at North Easton, where they went last fall after closing their Pride's Crossing house, but they will be at their North Shore estate long before the first of June. Mrs. Ames has just returned from a visit to Washington.

Among the Boston folk noticed at West Manchester the early part of the week were Mrs. E. A. Whipple, who was down Monday, Arthur M. Merriam, T. Dennis Boardman and his daughter, Mrs. Wallace Goodrich. Mr. Boardman and Mrs. Goodrich came down Sunday and enjoyed a drive along the shore. They will open their house at West Manchester probably week after next.

Miss Marion Fenno and Miss Eleanora Sears of Beverly Farms and Boston, both of whom are among the most popular of the North Shore younger set, have gained new laurels for their athletic feats in the tennis contests at New York this week. Both won exciting contests, defeating all comers. In the finals for mixed doubles the honors were carried off by Miss Sears and her partner, Robert D. Wrenn.

At Cambridge Harry Tweed of Beverly Farms has been doing some excellent work at baseball. He is considered one of the most probable candidates for substitute back stop on the 'Varsity nine, which practically assures him an "H" before the season is over, and a possible chance for catcher on the nine next year. Mr. Tweed is an all round good athlete. His father has had the Dr. Hooper cottage at Malt Hill, Beverly Farms, thoroughly remodelled and refitted this winter for his son's exclusive use the coming months.

Charles Cobb Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Walker, who have a delightfully pretty place at West Manchester, has just bought at 7 Arlington street, Boston, through Mr. Boardman, the well-known real estate man, a town house where he will henceforth make his home when not at Manchester.

My Dear Sir: As Chairman of the Green Committee of the Dayton Golf Club, I have, during the past four years been called upon by my Green Keeper for two or three sets of leather boots per season; these have cost us from $9.00 to $11.00 per set. Hence it gives me great pleasure to state that the single set of Lawn Shoes purchased from you last spring, has been entirely satisfactory and is as good now as when we bought them. In addition to their value from the standpoint of economy, they are very easily attached to the hoof, do not become loose, and do not make sore spots on our horses' legs as our leather boot did. They are a great success and I heartily recommend them.

Dear Mr. Barker:

I am very grateful to you for putting before my notice such a valuable tooth powder and dental wash as I received from you last week. I have used many from all over the world and I must admit that I have never used anything so pleasantly cleansing and so thoroughly good as your Dental Wash and Antiseptic Tooth Powder.

With grateful thanks,

EDNA MAY.

The endorsements that Barker's Dental Wash and Antiseptic Tooth Powder is receiving from the theatrical profession show how these preparations are regarded by people who take special care that their teeth shall be white, bright and healthy; they use only the best.

BEVERLY FARMS.

Patrolman Charles Mitchell, after an enforced absence from his beat at Pride's Crossing, has recovered, and his many friends are pleased to see him again "on duty."

Miss Ethelda Culbert left recently for Milwaukee, Wis., where her sister, Miss Mamie Culbert, several weeks ago was operated upon for appendicitis.

Tomorrow morning the wreath in glass made by the late Mrs. Whitman and presented to the Baptist church by Mrs. Charles Tilden of Marlboro street, Boston, will be in place for the first time.

An excellent musical program is planned for Easter Sunday at the Baptist church. In the morning the choir will sing Newcomb's "Glory to His Name," and "He is Risen," by Simper; in the evening "The Resurrection," by Leslie, will be sung. The organist will play as voluntary in the morning the "Processional" March, from Callertes, and as postlude "Polite Hostras." "Marche aux Flambeaux," by Clarke, will be played as postlude in the evening. The Bible school, of which Willis A. Pride is superintendent, will give an Easter concert in the evening. Rev. Clarence Strong Pond will preach an Easter sermon on "The Immortality of the Soul."

Miss Eleene Slavin of Deseronto, Canada, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Connolly.

Mrs. Calvin L. Williams, Mrs. Duncan T. Smith and Mrs. Decost are all on the sick list this week.

We are very glad to report the great improvement in Miss Jennie Twitchell, who has been very sick with pneumonia, and whose improved condition has allowed the visits the past few days of many of her friends and school companions.

Thomas Rourke, foreman for Connolly Bros, left this week for Mineola, Long Island, N.Y., where he is in charge of some extensive improvements on the estate of Robert Bacon, who occupied the Whitman estate here last year. Among the improvements will be the construction of a large tennis court.

Miss Edith Todd, who recently resigned as teacher of the third and fourth grades in the Farms school, completed her services Friday night.

D. Linehan & Sons have 240 men employed on the big Frick job at Pride's Crossing.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Baptist church are planning on holding a musicale at the church on Tuesday evening, April 25.

Little Miss Agnes Ordway was given a pretty party last Saturday, on the occasion of her seventh birthday, seven of her playmates and friends being invited in for the afternoon. She was presented with many pretty presents. Her young guests were Alice Marshall, Grace Mullen, Annie Connolly, Eleanor Connolly, Margaret Gilmartin, Gertrude Sullivan and Rosamond Connolly.

ASSETS.

80 Acres of mining claims with nearly $1,200,000.00 worth of ore in sight, giving a mine valuation of $5,000,000.00

2,000 H.P. water right earning 12 per cent. on the entire capitalization. Chloride and canvas plants, stamp mill with concentration plant, machinery and tools, buildings, etc. $100,000.00

Value of work done to open ore bodies $300,000.00

Two great auriferous veins outcropping on the surface for two and one-half miles.

Shaft sunk 700 feet with levels running north and south at depths of 150, 250, 460, 530, 600, and 660 feet.
20 stamps running night and day and the entire 40 stamps in a few weeks.

ARE YOU TIRED OF PROSPECTS?

This is an opportunity to invest in a shipping mine. Your money is safe. A Preferred Stock guaranteed dividend of 12 per cent., beginning July 1st, 1905, with possibilities of from 100 to 200 per cent. in a few years — many of the mines in this camp have paid $50,000, $100,000, $500,000 and $1,000,000 in a single month, when ore has been struck in rich pockets, which is characteristic of the mines on this Mother Lode of California.

THE ESSEX CONSOLIDATED MINES, located in Angels Camp, California, four and one-half miles from the town and only 1,000 feet from station on the Sierra R.R., is just such a proposition.

Write for free booklet "Gold Mining on the Mother Lode" and photographs of property.

The price of stock is now $1.00 per share for the Preferred and fifty cents per share for the Common Stock. For a short time only purchasers of Preferred Stock will be given as a bonus one-half share of Common Stock with each share of Preferred purchased. Investors should take advantage of this extremely liberal offer, as the present price is altogether too low and will soon be advanced.

Officer William Lomasney, who was appointed third patrolman last week, went on duty last Saturday. On Sunday, Night Officer J. W. Lee went on duty with Chief Peabody, while Sergeant Andrews, Officers Jones and Lomasney will make up the night force for the present.

Miss Ethel Stanley has been spending the week with relatives in Chelsea.

Fred Dunbar, so popular with Manchester baseball fans, having caught on the local team in so many winning games, is to catch for the strong Beverly team this year. He was tried out in one of the minor leaguis teams last season, but a broken finger prevented success.

Fifteen new members were voted in at last Friday evening's meeting of the N. S. H. society. A very interesting meeting was held, the subject of discussion being "Chickens." The leading talk of the evening was by Frederick Brasch, gardener at the McMillan estate.

James H. Rivers, for many years caddie master at the Essex County club, resumed his duties at the club this week, but for the time being will be engaged in the general routine of spring work. Golf will not be in order probably till the latter part of May.

The Ladies Sewing Circle met Thursday evening with Mrs. John W. Campbell, on Washington street.

Nance O'Neil's Final Week.

The third and final week of the Nance O'Neil season at the Tremont theatre will begin on Monday evening next. The repertoire for the week will be an attractive and varied one. On Monday and Tuesday evenings "Judith of Bethulia," will be the bill. This is a tragedy of rare beauty of language and moving dramatic power. At the Wednesday matinee, "Camille" will be given and on Wednesday night, "Hedda Gabler" will be presented. The demand for "The Fires of St. John" has been so widespread, that two performances of the sensational Luderman's play will be given, namely on Thursday night and Saturday matinee. On Friday night "Magda" will be given. The bill for Saturday night will embrace a scene from five different plays thus affording Miss O'Neil the opportunity to say good-bye in five of her greatest characters. The attractions at the Tremont following Miss O'Neil will be Henry W. Savage's "Woodland," the "Bird play" which created such a furore last season.

"Have you a palm to wave for Christ?" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Congregational church tomorrow, when Rev. Mr. Wallace of Somerville will occupy the pulpit again. In the evening he will give a talk on "Abundance," somewhat in line with his remarks of the past two Sunday evenings.

Last Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Wallace preached at the Congregational church on "The coming of the Holy Ghost," and in the evening he spoke on "The use Jesus made of numbers."

Miss Beth Jewett will conduct the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting tomorrow evening. The subject is "Glorifying God in our recreations."

The subject of the Junior Endeavor meeting tomorrow afternoon will be "Home missions." Miss Abbie Floyd will lead the meeting. Topic: "Strangers in our land."

A very pleasant social was held at the chapel under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. last Friday evening.

Rev. Mr. Libby of Magnolia led the meeting at the Cove Thursday evening.

Rev. E. H. Brewster will preach at the Baptist church tomorrow morning on "The Rustling of the Palms," and in the evening, at the people's evening service, the subject of the sermon will be "What Would Jesus do if He was Head of the House," the second in a series. Housekeepers and family people are especially invited to attend. There will be instrumental music.

The Farther Lights will hold their annual meeting in the Baptist vestry Thursday evening.

Monday evening in town hall the B. B. B. will give their dress drill preparatory to the field day at Saugus next Wednesday,—Patriots Day.

Society Notes.

T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr., and family moved down from Boston Thursday and are located at their beautiful new mansion at Manchester Cove for the season. Mr. Coolidge's father and Miss Hetty Sargent, who have been spending a month or so in California, have just returned, and will be among the next to join the steadily increasing colony.

Next Tuesday has been set as the day the Charles Heads are to move down from Boston. Their house has been opened during the week and everything is in readiness for their arrival.

The latter part of next week Mr. and Mrs. S. Parker Bremer will move down from town permanently. Their beautiful yacht, the "Velthra," will be put in commission on the 19th—next Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Daniels, Robert S. Bradley, the Misses Bradley, Mrs. George A. Goddard, J. Hurd Hutchins, George Lee, Gerard Bement and H. D. Chapin were among the Boston people who were noticed at Beverly-Farms during the week.

Mrs. Sylvester Tower was in Manchester, Thursday, and was at her house on Cobb avenue.

W. L. Putnam and family are expected the first of the coming week. Their house on Smith's point, Manchester, was opened the past week and made ready for occupancy.

Miss Margaret Winthrop returned a few days ago from her trip to the Mediterranean and Southern Europe, and she is planning on a visit to Manchester today. Within a week or two Miss Winthrop will bring her class of boys in St. Paul's to the shore for a day's outing, as is her custom, and of the things to make the trip an enjoyable one for the boys will be a baseball game with the Manchester boys. Miss Winthrop had a delightful trip abroad. The family probably will not move down from Boston till June this year.

Eben D. Jordan and his son, Robert Jordan, who is a Junior at Harvard, went over to New York the first of the week, and sailed from there Wednesday on the Oceanic. They plan to meet Mrs. Jordan, Miss Dorothy and Miss Helen in Paris, where they will spend some time before going to the castle in Scotland for the late spring hunt and summer.

Miss Maude Sturgis was down to her place at Manchester Cove Thursday making preparations for opening the house a little later.

RANNEY REFRIGERATORS.

The hard wood Refrigerator that is tenanted together so tightly that damp basements and hot kitchens have no influence on the joints whatever. That is lined with refined galvanized steel, free from corrosion and tougher than zinc. With an all metal interior—not a piece of wood as big as a toothpick on the inside.

Metal shelves that don't break, and that slide and adjust.

Spring hinges on the doors that keep them forever closed.

Packed, a solid inch thick, with mineral wood that makes them feel inside like a veritable iceberg.

Any size, from a small chest two feet long to the mammoth Grocers' Refrigerators.

All shown on one floor—brought here by the car-load and priced at car-load prices, which fact does not apply to any other line of Refrigerators you'll see hereabouts. We are the only car-load receivers in this whole country.

This makes a difference of about 10 per cent. in the retail prices.

Prove this by comparison. You'll do as your neighbors before you have done. Buy a Ranney. 1500 now in use in our vicinity.

From $3.75 to $45.

BABIES' VEHICLES.

So broad is the range that we can no longer confine the name to Go-Carts or Carriages, for now we have the English Coaches, the Pullman Sleepers, the fold-up-in-your-pocket affairs, making the variety so broad we must give the line more distinction; hence—Vehicles.

This season's babies are to be most beautifully cared for. Never was the scope of ideas so broad and never the value so strongly shown forth.

The stately English Coach, with its gracefully sweeping sides, its neatly shaped hood and its snappy brass trimmings, can be had this season, with the genuine strap-gear, for only $26.00.

A Hood Top Carriage, with closely woven rat-tan sides, upholstered in corduroy, with heavy rubber tires, for only $23.50.

A Pullman Sleeper, that is a combination of a Carriage and Go-Cart, with handsome lace parasol, for $17.00.

An adjustable Go-Cart of the full grown size, with close woven sides, a full round roll, upholstered in bedford cord, a good full cushion, lace covered, green lined parasol, for only $10.00.

The little fold-ups, from $2.75.

Be sure and have a look at our CARPET and DRAPERY Departments this Spring. Spick and span new things very reasonably priced.

Essex County Convention.

The programme of Essex County Christian Endeavor convention in Lynn next Wednesday, Patriot's Day, gives promise of some interesting sessions. The morning session opens at 10 o'clock with a praise service. The address of the morning will be by Rev. F. L. Wilkins of Gloucester, on "Inspired Individualism."

Miss Amy C. Lewcock of Beverly, district junior superintendent, will have charge of a Junior rally at 2 o'clock, which will last until the afternoon session opens at 3 o'clock, when two addresses of an interesting nature are scheduled, one on "Grading Up," by Rev. Wm. G. Poor of Topsfield, and the other by Rev. Mary E. Miars of Lynn. The business meeting will be held at the close of this session.

Rev. A. E. Harriman of Lynn, formerly of Manchester, will lead the devotional service in the evening.

Delegations from the Manchester and Beverly societies are planning on attending the convention which is to be held in the Vine Street church.

Buys Fish Business.

Arthur S. Dow, the well known Manchester fish dealer, has this week purchased the Welsh Fish Market in Manchester, from M. J. Welsh of Boston. The whole business, — stock and trade, — is included in the sale.

This is but another step in the development of the large business which Mr. Dow has built up in Manchester in his 24 years' career, and will no doubt be a means of increasing the already large North Shore patronage which he has gained. Mr. Dow has added a new horse to his stable this week in preparation for his summer's business.

WON THE BATTLE.

Manchester Boys' Brigade Captured the Flag and Carried off the Palm at Field Day in Dedham.

The Manchester boys did themselves proud at the ninth annual field day of the First Mass. Brigade, United Boys' Brigade of America, held at Stone Park, Dedham, on Patriot's day. Not only did they capture first honors in the sham battle,—the event of the day,—when Captain Swett and his three dozen soldier boys held at bay six other companies, and captured the flag, but the honor of having the best drum corps on the grounds was awarded the Manchester boys. In fact, one of the Boston papers gave the boys the credit of making the best show of the day,—carrying off the palm.

The boys were up bright and early Wednesday morning and, dressed in their natty suits of blue coats and caps and white duck pants and Khaki leggings, assembled on the common long before seven o'clock. The first part of their day's program was to march up Bridge street to Ashland avenue and greet the venerable Deacon A. E. Low after whom the camp has been named. Impressive indeed was the meeting as the beloved old man, lacking less than four years of being 100, appeared in the doorway of his home and spoke a few encouraging words to the boys.

Of Manchester, winner of the Sham Battle at the Field Meet in Dedham.

TO A CANARY Singing at a Funeral.

BY JOSEPH A. TORREY.

Sweet bird, loud carolling with melodious breath,
What canst thou know of death!

Gay-hearted songster in this mournful throng,
Tell us, what means thy song?

Above the sounds of weeping and of prayer,
Thou floodst the Spring-tide air

With the light laughter of thy tuneful note,
That seems so far remote

From the sad spirit of the time and place.
Cease for a little space!

Hast thou no sympathy with grief and woe,
That thou dost carol so?

And yet I marvel not that thou dost sing;
Birds know not anything.

Their lightsome hearts are never wrung by grief;
They know not life is brief.

They know not life is full of pain and sorrow;
They care not for the morrow.

They have no souls to save, no heaven to gain,
Yet sing their merry strain.

Gaily they sing thro' their life's little day,
Only to pass away

From the warm presence of the joyous sun
To dull oblivion.

But we who weep above the loved one's bier
The unavailing tear,

We do not weep for that we have no hope,
Nor do we blindly grope

As one who wanders thro' a sunless cave
To find himself a grave.

And yet, and yet, our human hearts will grieve
For the dear ones who leave

Behind them the sweet memory of their love,
To soar and dwell above,

Where we and all the ransomed ones shall come
At last unto our home!

If any heart should sing why should not ours,
That soon in Eden's bowers

Shall sing His praise? The tree of life whose leaf
Shall medicine all our grief

Grows in that land. And Jesus shall be near,
Who wept at Lazarus' bier.

Sing on, sweet Bird! Not for our grief or pain
Do thou thy song restrain.

Sing! till shall echo in our stricken hearts
The joy thy song imparts.

Sing! till to every sorrowing soul shall reach
The lesson thou dost teach!

In His Own Home a Man Is At His Best, Says Mr. Brewster.

Rev. E. H. Brewster preached another of his sermons on "What would Jesus do?" at the Baptist church in Manchester last Sunday evening, his theme being: "If He was head of the house." His talk was very interesting.

"Woman, behold thy son; son, behold Thy mother," taken from John XIX: 26, 27, was his text.

"A man is seen at his best or at his worst by his own fireside," he said. "On the battlefield his whole anatomy conforms to the enthusiasm of the occasion; he is at his best,—in a patriotic sense. But it is in the home, by his own fireside, that we can see the man.

"A woman becomes more womanly when she is in her own home by her own fireside. Gladstone, who could move parliament by his words, was at his best in his home. Christ, wherever He went, realized the sweetness of home life. What would He do today?

"He would appreciate the claims of the home. It is sad to think that there are today people who are continually scattering ashes instead of sprinkling love upon their hearthstone. In the moments of prosperity as well as in poverty there should be reflected the vision of the home.

"Do you suppose the squandering of money, and vice, is in any way administering to the welfare of your home? No!

"I believe Christ, were He here today, would first of all make provision for his home. He would provide shelter for His family. It is a good thing to own one's own house.

Christ would also provide for the comfort of His family. He would see there was harmony in the home,—the essential to home life.

"When you get a religion into your home you have something that promotes harmony."

Fire in Summer Cottage At Manchester, Sunday.

Sparks from an open fire place were responsible for a roof fire at the Dane house on Smith's Point, last Sunday morning, occupied by Mrs. F. H. Morgan, her son and daughter, of Worcester, and a party of young people who were at the house over Sunday.

Shortly after 9 o'clock a passerby noticed smoke curling up from the roof of the house and ran quickly to Box 62 at the head of Beach street. Driver Page was out with the horses at the time the alarm sounded, and was filling the water cart at the foot of North street, but before the sound of the first blast had died out he was galloping down School street and was hitched into the chemical. The hose wagon was also taken out and in a few minutes both were at the fire, which was soon put out.

So much were the occupants of the house pleased with the quick and efficient work of the department, that a box of good Havanas were presented to the firemen. A hole about four feet wide was burned in the roof, and the damage will be about $30. The house is one of the first summer cottages built on Smith's Point.

Ratified Mr. Lincoln's Call.

At the adjourned meeting of the First Congregational parish, Manchester, Monday evening, the recent action of the church in voting to call Mr. C. Arthur Lincoln of the Hartford Theological Seminary to the pastorate of the church was ratified, and a committee was chosen to co-operate with the church in making arrangements for Mr. Lincoln's installation.

Very little else was done at the meeting. Deacon Joseph A. Torrey was prevailed upon, after much solicitation, to accept a re-election as treasurer and collector. George S. Sninicks was appointed on the music committee with Albert Cunningham and Dr. R. T. Glendenning. Vacancies on several other committees were filled.

Keeper William H. Haskell of the almshouse has been confined to his home several days the past week with an attack of heart trouble.

Miss Annie Clark returned last Saturday from a very pleasant week spent in Ashfield, where Mrs. Ralph Tredick has also been spending a week with relatives. Mrs. Tredick returned Wednesday.

Mrs. George Northrup and little daughter returned to their Bennett street home last Sunday after a ten days trip to Mrs. Northrup's former home in St. John, N. B., where she was called by the serious illness of her mother.

Charles Baldwin returned from Thunderbolt, Ga., where he has been since leaving here last fall, and has started work on the F. M. Whitehouse estate at the Cove.

William Bewsher, who has been gardener at the Henry L. Higginson estate in West Manchester the past year, has severed his connections there and a Mr. Voorvenveld, who has recently been employed on a Lenox estate, succeeded him this week.

Miss Olive R. Cook has accepted a position with Edward S. Bradley the Central street plumber, as bookkeeper, and started work this week.

A large delegation of members from the local lodge of Rebekahs went to Salem on the 6.42 train Thursday evening, when the anniversary of the Salem lodge was celebrated. A banquet was a feature of the evening's program.

Last Saturday night a brush fire near the piggery of Albert Lucas endangered considerable property, but the fire was under control after it had burned over an acre and a half of ground. It is thought sparks from the 5.15 train to Gloucester were responsible for the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. John Heath were down from Boston over Sunday, with Mr. Heath's mother at the Cove. Mr. Heath will leave his Boston store week after next returning to Manchester for the summer. His Cove fish market will be opened today, and will be in charge of Warren Heath.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Frick were down to their Prides Crossing estate Sunday and drove about with their architects for several hours. Mr. Frick is making final plans on his estate now undergoing considerable change at the expense of several hundred thousand dollars before sailing for the other side where he plans to spend most of the summer. Mr. Frick, by the way, is mentioned in connection with certain changes to be made on President Roosevelt's cabinet, but he withstood the host of newspaper men who followed him all over the North Shore Sunday, in an effort to confirm the reports to that effect.

Gordon Dexter and Miss Amory of Boston were among the summer folk noticed down from Boston Sunday. They were down to Prides Crossing for the day.

The Whitman house, near West Beach, recently bought by Frank B. Bemis of Boston, will be opened for the summer the second week in May and made ready for the return of the Bemises from the other side the latter part of the month. The house will remain just about as Mr. Bemis found it this year, but ere another season a new house will adorn the most beautifully located estate, and extensive improvements will have been made to the grounds.

At Beverly Farms this week have been noticed the following Bostonians, who were down either to look over their summer estates or for a day's outing: George A. Goddard, Gerard Bement, Charles Storrow, Miss Storrow, Col. Franklin Haven, Mrs. Otis H. Luke, Mrs. Isaac R. Thomas, Samuel B. Dana, Frank L. Higginson, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Daniels.

The Caswell house at Prides was opened the early part of the week and Mr. and Mrs. Caswell arrived yesterday for the summer. Mr. Caswell brought his cars along with him, and work is being rushed on his auto shed started last week.

Building Operations and Land Improvements at the Farms.

Building operations and land improvements are in full blast at present in Beverly Farms. Among the work started this week has been a large addition to the stable of Robert S. Bradley, who is also having quite extensive improvements made on the grounds of his estate. Messrs. D. Linehan & Son are the contractors on the former, and Messrs. Connolly Bros. on the latter.

At the estate of Mrs. Elizabeth P. Lee at West Beach a large wall, together with other improvements, is being made by a Boston concern.

Thomas McKee is having built along Haskell street in front of his beautiful estate a rustic bean pole and red cedar fence, which, when completed, will add greatly to the appearance of landscape in this locality.

Upon the estate of Oliver Ames at Prides Crossing ground has been broken for a large automobile house, while the grounds about his charmingly beautiful villa are being still further beautified by the planting of a large supply of shrubbery.

Frank Higginson is also having a large assortment of shrubbery and hardy plants set along the sides of his avenue, and at the field off Greenwood avenue, recently purchased by Wm. S. Spaulding for a vegetable and flower garden, an extensive system of drainage and other improvements are being made.

Charles K. Cummings is having built at his villa in Prides, opposite his house, and toward the ocean, a dirt tennis court, which, when completed, will be equal to any of the already splendid surfaces to be found on many of the tennis courts along the North Shore.

At Pride's Crossing Publicover Brothers are building a 20x28 auto house at the John Caswell estate, and at "Alhambra," the John L. Gardner estate, occupied by the Taylors last year, an auto shed is also in the hands of this well-known concern. Repairs are being made on the "Wheelright" cottage.

Three Harvard Men

Fight Forest Fire.

The action of three well-known young Boston society men, students at Harvard, undoubtedly averted what might otherwise have proven a destructive forest fire in the vicinity of Wyman's hill, Manchester, last Sunday, when much valuable property would have fallen prey to the ravages of the flames, carried on by the high wind that was blowing.

M. Phillips Mason, a son of Mortimer B. Mason, one of Manchester's wealthiest summer residents, and two friends, a Mr. Beals, and a Mr. Pierce, were down from Boston spending Sunday at Col. William D. Sohier's camp at Chebacco lake. They went out in the afternoon for a tramp, and on the road which leads through the woods toward Manchester they discovered a fire quickly eating its way. It had already burned about 100 feet along the road.

With clubs and heavy pine branches they set to work in an endeavor to put out the fire, but it had gained too much headway, and when they realized they could not cope with the flames they headed toward Manchester, walking the entire way. They went to engine house and from there to the home of Fire Warden Meldrum, who set out for the fire at once. He took with him Chief Peabody, Fire Warden McKinnon and half a dozen boys, besides the three young men who had discovered the fire.

When they arrived at the fire fully ten acres had been burned over; but after working more than an hour, the three young Boston men being no less ardent workers than the others, the headway of the flames was stopped.

It was dangerously near the Highland avenue and Jersey lane property before it was put out. Great credit is due the young men who discovered the fire and gave the alarm.

I have a full assortment of sewing machine needles. G. F. Dyer. *

Investors should take advantage of this extremely liberal offer, as the present price is altogether too low and will soon be advanced.

BOYS' BRIGADE OUTING.

The company boarded the 7.32 train for Boston, there being 32 privates, under Capt. Herman C. Swett, 1st Lieut. Clarence Preston, 2d Lieut. Rodney Dow, 1st Sergt. Ernest Howe, 2d Sergt. Willie Allen, and 3d Sergt. Cheever Hersey. They returned home on the 6 o'clock train. A few friends accompanied the boys, among whom was Rev. E. H. Brewster, the organizer of the company, and to whom is due a large part of the success attained.

No small part of the day's success was due to the efficient work of the drum corps, composed of Fred Leach, Revere Pulsifer, Harry Slade and Ernest Howe, kettle drummers; Willie Allen, bass drum, and John Lee, cymbals. They led the battalion, in which there were several other companies, and at the drill in the afternoon they were called upon to march up and down the field before the companies several times.

We are pleased to present the following account of the outing by one who accompanied the brigade:

At 6.45 o'clock 35 boys were gathered in blue and white clusters on town common, and pretty soon the drummers sounded the assembly, and when in columns of fours they swung into line and marched with admirable grace up Bridge street to the house of Deacon Low, the memories of that day 130 years ago, as recorded in history, flocked to the minds of all. "They would do the same give the cause as good."

Quite a number assembled to see the boys off, and one gentleman thrust a dollar bill into the hands of the manager of the party, with an injunction to "stand treat." After reaching Boston the boys took the elevated to Dudley street, where for half an hour they remained in line until a special car was procured. On its arrival the Beverly, Charlestown and Manchester companies were packed in, and before the first stop was made a thorough acquaintance had been established.

Reaching Dedham at 11 o'clock the captain marched the company to the bridge, from which a beautiful view can be had of ye old town of Dedham. Capt. Swett reported the presence of Company A, 3d Regiment, to Adjt. DeNoyer of the 2d battalion, and a place in the line was given the boys from home.

There were all kinds of youth there — some medium, some little, some big. But frequently the remark was made as the Manchester company broke into columns of fours behind its admirable drum corps, "Those fellows take the cake."

We were along side of the boys when the command to charge in the sham battle came, and though knowing nothing of the strength of the enemy, company A with a cheer broke into double time and disappeared in the thickest. We followed as soon as practicable but ere we reached the storm center the roll of musketry came to us, and the sharp firm words of the commanding officers.

Shouts and cheers blended with the road of continued firing and when panting desperately the correspondent reached the seat of hostilities it was easily seen that Company A was holding in check three companies and part of a regiment. Hats off to the boys from the North Shore!

Lunch was eaten at 12.30. The brigade drill at 2 o'clock was superb. Over a thousand boys formed into companies, battalions and regiments passed the reviewing officers. Each time the boys from home went by the stand the onlookers, banked thick on every side, broke into repeated acclamations.

The drum corps was selected to traverse the drill grounds before the entire brigade and as the military figures of the Manchester boys, their arms moving together with great precision as they handled the sticks, swung across the parade grounds the other hearts from Manchester swelled with pride.

Tired and dusty, their white ducks begrimed, the boys arrived home on the 6.16 train and were dismissed at the town hall at 6.30 after giving three cheers and a tiger for nothing in particular but for everything in general.

The Home Mission circle of the Baptist church met in the vestry yesterday afternoon.

CHURCH NOTES.

Manchester.

Rev. E. H. Brewster will preach an Easter sermon at the Baptist church tomorrow morning on "The Empty Tomb." In the evening at 7 o'clock the Sunday school will give its annual Easter concert.

On Tuesday evening the pastor will begin a series of "Object Addresses," to be given each Tuesday evening at the Baptist vestry for a month. Topic next week: "The Margins of an Old Book."

C. Arthur Lincoln, pastor-elect of the Congregational church, will occupy the pulpit tomorrow morning. The annual Easter Sunday school concert will be given in the evening.

The Ever Ready Circle of King's Daughters will meet next Monday evening with Mrs. L. B. Harvie. The president requests the members to bring all work now being done to the meeting.

The 7 Social, plans for which have long been in hand, will be held in Lee's hall next Thursday evening, April 27, at 7 o'clock. Aprons, fancy articles, ice-cream, cake, etc., will be for sale. The entertainment begins sharp at 8.07. Admission 7 cents. All come and bring 7 friends and as many dollars in your pocketbook. The social is under the auspices of the Ever Ready Circle of King's daughters.

At the annual meeting of the Farther Lights held last week the following officers were elected:—Mrs. Ellen Brewster, president; Miss Alice R. Rainville, vice president; Miss Olive R. Cook, secretary; Miss Bessie Lethbridge, treasurer.

"The power of His resurrection" will be the topic of the Easter meeting at the Y. P. S. C. E. tomorrow evening. Leader, Dr. Glendenning.

The dolls of the Junior Endeavorers will hold a May party in the chapel Friday afternoon and evening, May 5, from 3 to 9 o'clock. Admission 10 cents. The proceeds will go toward defraying the remaining expenses of lighting the church.

Mrs. Charles Mason entertained the Church Aid society at her School street home Thursday afternoon.

"Have you a palm to wave for Christ?" was the subject of a strong and very interesting sermon by Rev. Dr. Wallace of West Somerville at the Congregational church last Sunday morning.

Mrs. J. W. Lee sang the "Palms" at the evening service in the Baptist church last Sunday and Miss Marion G. Scott played a very pretty violin solo.

Alumni Meeting.

At the annual meeting of the Manchester high school alumni, held at the home of J. A. Lodge on Desmond avenue, Thursday evening, it was decided to hold the annual reunion the early part of June, and a committee will go to work at once making preparations for the event, which is always the leading one of the season in Manchester. The report of the secretary showed that 23 new members had been added during the year, and by the report of the treasurer the financial condition of the association is strong.

The result of the election follows: J. A. Lodge, re-elected president; Miss Carolyn E. Allen, vice-president; Mrs. Alfred C. Needham, secretary; and Mrs. George W. Blaisdell, re-elected treasurer. The next meeting of the association will be on Tuesday evening, May 2, at the office of the president in Pulsifer's block.

Red Men's Trading Post.

The committee in charge of the fair to be held in Manchester in July under the direction of Conomo tribe 113, Red Men, are at work formulating plans for the event, and from general indications a royal good time is in store for those who attend. Season tickets to the fair will soon be on sale, at 50 cents for the week. Guessing books are also being put out, the first on a mileage book having been gotten out the past week. The guess is on the exact time a watch to be deposited in the town treasurer's safe will stop. Other books will be out soon.

Return of "Woodland."

Just one year from the time of its original production, Henry W. Savage's production of "Woodland" will again be offered at the Tremont theatre. After a run of seventeen weeks in Boston the piece was played in New York, Chicago, and other big cities with no less success. "Woodland" is a fantastic creation of continual surprises and unbroken charm. It has the great advantage of being a novelty, and it appears to be beyond the range of imitators. The characters are all birds and before the play has been unfolding five minutes one is aroused to keen interest in the doings of the fantastic principals. Mr. Savage will bring a company including such well-known principals in comic opera as Harry Bulger, Frank Doane, Stanley H. Forde, Douglas Ruthven, Charles Meyers and others.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Descriptions of a Trip from Boston to San Francisco and Return.

[The following is taken from notes made by Thomas D. Connolly of Beverly Farms, on a recent trip to San Francisco.—ED.]

No. 3. — New Orleans to the Rio Grande.

We left New Orleans this morning at 11 o'clock and after one hour's run were held up for about thirty minutes.

The Southern Pacific railroad starts here, and we notice that the engines burn oil instead of coal. We are right in front of a lot of negro shanties and a negro has just come along with a dead coon which he has caught in a steel trap. He hung the coon up on his piazza.

The negro shanties are built on posts four feet above ground, as the lowlands are overflowed. In front of each house a dug out with one paddle is tied to a post so that when the water comes they can go from place to place.

We just arrived at Hangbury on the Mississippi and the train has been hauled in two sections onto a large steamer called "Le Grande." The other side of the river is called Avondale; it takes forty-five minutes to cross. We passed through large areas of low flat country very fertile, and on which grow the best sugar cane that the South produces. Also there are large timber tracts of swamp cypress which wood of late years is used considerably in the North. Frenchmen do the cutting.

The negroes along here are very prosperous looking. They plough the land with four mules for each plough. The Spanish moss hangs on the trees in long strips to the top and palm trees as plenty as ferns in New England.

We notice at one station as we pass, "San Francisco 2448 miles." Each station gives the distance from New Orleans, also that of San Francisco and the elevation.

We have just crossed a Bayou which runs up from the Gulf of Mexico and the place is called Morgan City. On both sides of this Bayou are large oyster canning factories.

When we arrived at St. Charles, near the border line of Texas, the familiar sound of the frogs was heard. It is a joyful sound to us who dwell in the North, that at last Spring has come.

We passed Beaumont, the oil district of Texas, and arrived at Houston at 1 a.m. It was raining hard and very warm, making us think of our April weather at home.

We arrived at San Antonio at 8 o'clock Sunday morning and the train made a stop of two hours. We left the train and found two large engines and fifteen cars on the same.

We hired a carriage and drove all over the city, visiting the Spanish Cathedral of San Fernando, where we found the Mexican, Spaniard and the American attending the same church. We viewed the historic Alamo, where Davy Crockett, Houston and others held their own in a battle with the Mexicans until all were slaughtered. When the Mexicans gained entrance, all of the Americans were dead.

San Antonio is a very beautiful city, and here you see the old missions that appeal so much to everybody, and which were made famous by the writings of Miss Helen Hunt Jackson in her "History of the Missions" and in her "Ramona."

We are now off for El Paso. We look out and see the mesquite tree, cactus and the live oak. We can see the cattle feeding and the picturesque cowboy attending to them. His lasso is tied to the pommel of the saddle, ready to stop a stubborn steer who may start the whole herd on a stampede.

We reached El Paso at 7 o'clock in the morning, and had four hours there to visit the different points of interest. We crossed the border into Juarez, Mex., where there are three historic bells hung by rawhide in a tower, all that is left of an old mission. At Juarez every Sunday there is a bull fight, and we saw the remnants of the previous day in the shape of four bulls and a horse which were killed in the fray.

It is remarkable just in the short distance of a mile or so, to see the difference between the United States and Mexico. There are plenty of Mexican and American custom house officers on the line, and every person is asked the question: "Have you anything on which you should pay duty?" The saloons are small shops, and are open in El Paso even if it is Sunday. All the American stores are closed, and you see the Mexican lounging in front with his cigarette and wide sombrero hat.

Around each station through Texas and Arizona one can see a number of black pigs picking up whatever they can find around the diner. They are very tame and go under the cars and cross the tracks unconcerned of danger.

We get back to our train, and we are off, climbing up gradually. The elevation at El Paso is 4000 feet. On both sides of the car cactus is all that can be seen. There is mesquite wood, sage brush and sand, and even a goat would starve on it.

We have a very pleasant party with us on the train. Some are going to Alaska, some to Mexico and others to Japan and China. We stopped at a place called Spofford where a Mexican vender is selling tortillas at five centavos each. We next came to Del Rio. The Southern Pacific here runs along the Mexican and United States border. There are United States custom and regular army officers at all stations. The men and women have all the colors of the rainbow in their garments and head dress. The chimneys of the houses here are of clay mixed with hay. The adobe buildings are built of clay and after it is put on the sides of the houses are marked off very carefully with lines, and look much like broken ashler.

Gentlemen: Please send the Breeze to the address given below for..... months.

Name and Address:

Mead—Woodbury.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilman Cheever, Central street, Manchester, last Monday evening, Miss Etta Frances Woodbury, their sister, and daughter of Mrs. John Woodbury, was married to Ernest Mead of Wellesley Farms, son of the late Mary Mead, who formerly lived in Manchester. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter Herod Ashley, a former pastor of the Congregational church.

The bride was very popularly known in Manchester where she has been for several years a teacher in Grade I of the G. A. Priest school. The groom is superintendent of the Ivers & Pond piano store, Boylston street, Boston.

At the marriage, which was solemnized at 7 o'clock, only a few of the relatives were present. Much to the regret of the many friends of the couple the invitations which had been sent out for the reception to follow had to be recalled by Mr. and Mrs. Cheever at the last minute (in last week's BREEZE) because of the illness of little Miss Elizabeth Cheever.

A number of close friends called, however, Monday evening and extended congratulations to the couple, among those present being the teachers in the school, Superintendent and Mrs. Fish, and the immediate families of the couple. The young men of the bride's Sunday School class,—Bert Sinnicks, Harold Stanley, C. A. Lodge, jr., Hollis Bell, Bert Floyd and Harold Robbins,—acted as ushers.

The bride was dressed in a handsome gown of white crepe de chine made over silk, with a girdle of cloth of silver, and trimmed with French lace. She also wore a beautiful golden necklace, a gift of the groom.

Miss Helen Cheever, a niece of the bride, made a very cute little flower girl.

After a wedding trip of three weeks through the South, including the water trip to Savannah and Charleston, Mr. and Mrs. Mead will reside in Wellesley Farms.

They left Manchester Monday night in time to connect with the 9.30 train at Beverly Farms where they were greeted with a profusion of confetti and rice from the young people who had boarded the train at Manchester and rode through to Beverly.

Killam—Robbins.

Miss Cora Adelaide Robbins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Robbins, and Lewis Albert Killam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Killam, both of Manchester, were married in Salem Wednesday evening by Rev. Frank Lamb, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage in the presence of the immediate family. The couple was unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Killam are receiving the congratulations of a host of friends, both in Manchester and in Beverly, where both the young people are well known. They will reside in Manchester for the present.

Accepts Call.

C. Arthur Lincoln, a senior in the theological seminary at Hartford, Conn., who was unanimously chosen to the pastorate of the First Congregational church in Manchester last week, has accepted the call and will begin his work tomorrow when he will preach both morning and evening.

Mr. Lincoln comes to Manchester very highly recommended. He graduated from Amherst college in the class of 1902 and went immediately to the theological school, to prepare himself for the ministry. His father is a Congregational minister, also Mr. Lincoln has preached considerable during his course at Hartford and was for one year assistant pastor of a large church.

Though Mr. Lincoln is not married it is understood the parsonage will not long be without a housekeeper. Mr. Lincoln will continue his studies for the present, however, and will graduate with his class in June.

Rev. Mr. Fate Resigns.

Concerning the resignation of Rev. Francis A. Fate from the pastorate of the Trinitarian church in Taunton, where he went after leaving the Congregational church in Manchester, an exchange has the following to say:

"By his resignation the Trinitarian church, Taunton, Mass., is left without a pastor. Each of the recent pastors, Dr. S. M. Newman of Washington, Dr. H. P. DeForest of Detroit and Rev. S. V. Cole of Wheaton seminary, served seven years, the length of Mr. Fate's pastorate. Before them, Rev. Erastus Maltby served 45 years.

"Mr. Fate has proved the peer of a notable pastoral succession, and has won the love of the church and the confidence of the community in an unusual degree. But the very fidelity of his service makes it imperative that he take a Sabatical year for rest before resuming pastoral duties. He expects to spend the summer on a farm in western Massachusetts."

Many Manchester baseball enthusiasts went to Beverly Wednesday and saw the strong Manchester (N.H.) nine down the Beverly team, and all were much pleased with the work of Fred Dunbar for the local nine.

MANCHESTER.

The friends of selectman Wm. E. Kitfield will regret to learn of his continued poor health. He has been kept away from his duties all the past week.

Tree warden Wm. Young has been setting out a number of young trees along the highways the past week.

The B.B.B. are planning on a concert and entertainment in the town hall in the near future.

William A. Kidder of Somerville, a prescription pharmacist, is supplying at Cheever's Drug store in Mr. Morris' absence.

Arthur Crocker has entered the employ of Semons and Campbell, as bookkeeper for the summer.

Servin Olson has been appointed superintendent of the Manchester Yacht Club this year and started work there Thursday.

The float was removed from its winter's resting place in the rear of town hall, Wednesday, and was floated off the town landing in the inner harbor.

Arthur Crocker and Walter Edgecomb formed the battery of the Salem Commercial school nine in the game against Gloucester High school on Patriots day, when the former team lost. The Boston Globe credited Crocker with having played the best game for the Commercial school.

Arthur S. Dow opens his Beach street fish market the first of next week for the summer. William Gowdey of Boston, who was with Mr. Dow last year, will return.

Miss Nancy Quinn of Boston has been a guest of the T. A. Robbinses the past week.

Harold Stanley and Bert Floyd spent the holiday in Boston where they saw the Boston-Brooklyn game in the afternoon and Robert Edeson in "Strongheart" in the evening.

The Brigham Lecture.

Those who attended the Nat. M. Brigham lecture in the Manchester town hall, Wednesday evening, were given a treat, for the manner in which the well-known lecturer presented the subject of the Mormons and Utah was decidedly interesting. The slides shown displayed in no meagre manner pictures of true life and scenes of more than ordinary interest. He not only traced the settlement of the Mormons in Utah, but spoke of the position they hold in the settlement of that section of the country. Next week he will give the fourth and last in the series. His subject will be "The Great Pioneers."

Several friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Patch went to Centreville, Monday evening, and helped the venerable couple celebrate the 50th anniversary of their wedding.

It is with regret we report the serious illness, with pneumonia, of "Dannie" Kelliher, son of Dennis Kelliher of Haskell street. He was taken to the Beverly hospital in the ambulance, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hewitt of Boston have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Carr.

The 19th of April was observed at Beverly Farms very quietly. The Stars and Stripes were at mast head on the engine house, but the public property committee of the city has as yet failed to put a topmast on the other liberty pole.

Many people took in the baseball game between Beverly and the Manchester (N.H.) nines at Montserrat, while the more enthusiastic fans saw the big games in Boston.

Preston W. R. C. No. 93 are planning on a fair, to be held on the 12th, 13th and 14th of July.

"Glorifying God for Jesus and His Life and Death," was the topic of the Y.P.S.C.E. last evening. Mrs. Ella Pride led the meeting.

Joseph Pink & Co. have opened their Beverly Farms shop, opposite the railroad station, for the summer, where their manager, M. T. Murphy, is ready to furnish anything in the line of harnesses, and to attend to all kinds of harness repairing.

"Ward 6 Voter" Again.

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

If you have space will you kindly allow me just enough for these few lines:

Now that the large field in the rear of the West street engine house is to be cut up into house lots and disposed of to whoever will pay the price would it not be a good idea for the city of Beverly to secure a piece of the land abutting the city's property for the purpose of some time in the near future carrying out needed improvements of enlarging the building and the grounds around the same. That the above suggested ideas are in line with necessities I think will be quite evident to all when it is considered that the present structure was built quite a few years ago when it was not intended that any horses should occupy this building.

Progression has proved that horses are necessary, however, and six are now occupying space in the middle of the ground floor that should be utilized in other ways. In winter, too, when the building is steam heated through necessity, it is a matter of much disfavor to have horses in the building when they really need a much cooler room. And at all times a stable smell permeates the whole building,—a most undesirable condition of affairs, to say the least. It can readily be seen that this could be corrected had the building a back part in which the horses could be stabled and still be equally as convenient for quick hitches in case of fire. At present a rear entrance for horses is also needed.

This property should not be considered for fire purposes only, but the street department also makes it their headquarters. This necessarily means that there are more or less tip-carts and other apparatus that must have a storing place after the day's work has been performed. And it means, of course, that some yard room is needed in the rear, or on the side. If the property now in the rear is bought by some other than the city it is to be expected that the purchaser will improve same, probably by the erection of a dwelling house, thereby preventing any enlargements or improvements. I merely desire to call attention to these facts for I sincerely believe that it is much better to provide now for the future, than to wait until the actual necessity is upon us and then find that in order to meet the requirements of the times other very expensive arrangements would have to be made.

"WARD 6 VOTER."

Road Improvements.

In connection with the improvements which the city of Beverly are carrying out on Hart street, to the Wenham line, in the shape of rebuilding and macadamizing the street, the town of Wenham is very soon to start at the division line and carry on improvements through the wooded portion to Thompson's corner, so-called. When completed this drive will be among the most delightful in this section, and is used almost entirely by the North Shore summer residents to the Myopia Hunt club.

A Good Thing to Know.

To the stranger within our gates we bid welcome: may you find the citizens of Beverly as you expected, a class of people who have a desire for your best welfare. Among the many store keepers there are a few old timers whose word is like a United States bond,—always reliable. Men who have stood the test of time in the past and will, likewise, in the future. Among them is Frank N. Hoag, tailor, who has been in this city 20 years and who has established a reputation second to none for first-class work. He is a member of the leading fraternal and social societies of this city and Salem, and contributes to all things that appertain to your future welfare.

He always employs labor who are white and square, the kind that demands and gets wages for the best class of work, which they honestly and conscientiously render.

Mr. Hoag is a native of New York, where he learned the trade of tailor of the old school style, and graduated from the Jno. J. Mitchell Cutting and Fashion Reporting college of New York city, whose works have a world-renowned reputation.

Mr. Hoag carries a line of seasonable woollens in stock, and also has a line of samples from the well-known house of Lovett, Hart & Phipps Co. of Boston, whose goods are always the best for the money, be they of the best or lower grades.

Mr. Hoag also does repairing, dyeing and steam cleaning, at one price to all. Goods left in his charge are insured against fire, which is an important item to consider.

You will find Mr. Hoag located at 184 Cabot street, opposite the bank, city hall, and postoffice, up one flight, over Whitcomb-Carter Co. hardware store, where he will be pleased to bid you a hearty welcome. *

Society Notes.

The holiday brought scores of Bostonians down to the North Shore, many of whom made the trip the occasion of their first visit to the shore since leaving last fall, while many others were down for a day's outing, making plans for the opening of their houses shortly.

Among those noticed at Manchester were Mrs. W. Scott Fitz, Mrs. A. P. Hemenway, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner M. Lane, Philip Dexter, Bryce J. Allan, George M. Morgan, Mrs. John Reece, Arthur Stevens, A. I. Croll, T. Den- nie Boardman, Chas. M. Ward, the Misses Bartlett, Dr. Richardson, Wal- ter Burgess, Miss Clara Winthrop.

Conover Fitch drove down over the road Wednesday in his father's hand- some new Winton, spending the day at the River House, now being put in readiness for the arrival of the family at an early date. The car is a beauty,— one of the best to be seen on the North Shore this summer, we venture to say. It is of 30 h.p., with all the latest attachments and conveniences for handling the heavy car with ease. It has a limoene top, and the interior is equipped with the very finest up- holstery.

Mrs. E. C. Fitch returned Thursday from a two months' stay abroad, much of which time was spent in Southern Europe with her daughter, and is at her Commonwealth avenue home.

Mrs. Gordon Prince came down to her West Manchester house Wednes- day for a short visit. The McKean's of Washington and Elizabeth, N.J. who occupied the house last season will arrive this year about the middle of June, it is said. Mr. Prince will come down week after next for a month or six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Monks, who opened their Cove house last week, have been spending the week there.

The Gardner M. Lanes are planning on opening their house next Friday for the summer. The extensive im- provements and alterations being made on the house by Chester L. Crafts, the Manchester carpenter and builder, are practically completed.

The George P. Fields' house on Smith's point has been opened this week and the family are planning on moving down from Boston the latter part of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Robinson were among the many Boston people who paid a visit to the shore this week. They were down to their Manchester place, Sunday.

The Francis W. Fabyans have opened their house at West Man- chester for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Boardman took a run down from Boston by auto, Wednesday.

John S. Curtis, Russell Codman and Mrs. Dr. Hall Curtis are among those noticed at Beverly Farms the past week.

The James Shaws arrived at their West Manchester place Thursday.

The C. H. Clarks of Philadelphia, who occupied the R. D. Howe estate on Smith's point last season, have rented the house on Boardman's hill, occupied by the T. K. Lothrop's last year.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Manchester.

The pupils of the George A. Priest school are very much interested in an orchestra which has been formed at the school the past week. The piano has been moved from its customary position in Miss Clark's room to the lower hall, and this, with the aid of drums, clappers and a triangle, fur- nishes music by which the children march out of school at the close of both sessions. The personnel of the orchestra is: Alice Hoare and Chee- ver Hersey, piano; Harry Slade, drum; Joseph Katen, triangle; Frank Sousa and Horace Temple, clappers. The innovation is proving quite pop- ular.

The schools were closed Wednes- day—Patriot's Day.

Miss Jane Kendall, a former teacher in the Story High school, was visiting friends in the Priest school, Thursday.

In accordance with a vote passed at town meeting lightning rods have been placed on the school houses dur- ing the past week.

Miss Margaret Lomasney of Beverly visited the sixth grade one day this week.

In a town outside of Boston last week a child dropped dead after jump- ing a rope 122 times. Principal Mead has proffered warning to the pupils of the Priest school as to the injurious effects of excessive rope jumping.

After resting reposedly on the ground since last fall the topmasts to the flag poles at both schools have been placed in position this week and Old Glory has been sent aloft for the first time after several months, much to the gratification of the pupils.

Wm. H. Barry, a comedian, gave a Punch and Judy show in the town hall, Tuesday afternoon after school, which attracted more than 200 chil- dren.

Society Notes.

The charming new Venetian villa of the Lester Lelands at West Manchester has been opened during the past week, and Mr. and Mrs. Leland expect to come down from Boston today for the season. Last year the Lelands occupied the Hanks cottage, and they entertained very little, owing to a death in Mrs. Leland's family, but this year their beautiful new house will undoubtedly be the scene of many a gay party.

Mrs. William Tenney came down from Boston Saturday last with some friends to spend the week at the Dr. Tenney cottage, at Manchester Cove. Dr. Tenney was down over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow and Prescott Bigelow, Jr., have been spending most of the week at their cottage in Manchester Cove.

The Henry D. Burnhams, who have been abroad for some weeks now, do not intend to occupy their Prides Crossing place this season, but will travel the entire summer, returning to Boston in the early fall. They will then probably spend a month or so on the North Shore.

Mrs. Clement Houghton was down from Boston Tuesday afternoon looking over her house at Coolidge's Point, preparatory to opening it the last of this month.

Augustus Rantoul and Robert Rantoul have recently returned from a trip to Jamaica, and are at their Boston homes. They will be at their Beverly Farms place the latter part of May.

The Oliver W. Minks will not occupy their Smith's Point house this year, but will spend the summer in travel abroad. They plan to sail about May 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ames were down to their Prides Crossing place Monday, and work was started at once on the erection of an auto shed, 25x25 feet. Mr. Ames is quite an enthusiastic autoist and is an owner of several high speed cars.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Whitehouse who went abroad the latter part of January, and are following the hunt in England this spring, are expected back about the first of June this year, and will be at their beautiful estate in Manchester this summer. Last year Mr. and Mrs. Whitehouse were kept abroad till the early part of September, owing to the ill health of their young son, Merideth.

The Mrs. Louis Shaws will occupy the house on Storrow Hill, owned by Charles Storrow, this summer.

The Isaac R. Thomases have opened their Beverly Farms house and will move down permanently during the coming week.

EDNA MAY RICHARD CARLE

The following letter from Miss Edna May who created such a sensation in the "Belle of New York" and who has more recently been playing to crowded and enthusiastic houses in London, New York, and Boston, in the delightful musical success "The School Girl" shows the esteem and appreciation in which

Richard Carle now starring in the Tenderfoot writes the following letter which is self explanatory:

Boston, Jan. 10, 1905.

Mr. F. A. Barker, Gloucester, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I find Barker's Dental Wash and Antiseptic Tooth Powder excellent and shall be pleased to recommend them to my friends.

Yours truly, RICHARD CARLE.

Barker's Dental Wash and Tooth Powder

is held by people of taste and refinement:

Dear Mr. Barker:

I am very grateful to you for putting before my notice such a valuable tooth powder and dental wash as I received from you last week. I have used many from all over the world and I must admit that I have never used anything so pleasantly cleansing and so thoroughly good as your Dental Wash and Antiseptic Tooth Powder.

With grateful thanks,

EDNA MAY.

The endorsements that Barker's Dental Wash and Antiseptic Tooth Powder is receiving from the theatrical profession show how these preparations are regarded by people who take special care that their teeth shall be white, bright and healthy; they use only the best.

The special committee from the city government who were appointed to investigate and report upon the securing of a suitable location for a playground, recently visited Ward 6 and made a tour of inspection of the various places suggested at the hearing held in Marshall's hall some weeks ago.

A still alarm was sent in Tuesday calling out the fire department for a blaze in Pickett's court, caused by some fat, which was being used by the lady of the house in preparing a meal, catching afire. The damage was slight.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lee of Lynn spent Sunday as guests of Postmaster and Mrs. Elmer Standley.

Jeremiah Murphy, foreman for Messrs. Connolly Bros., has been at Monument beach the past week in charge of some improvements upon the estate of Mrs. Peter C. Brooks.

Timothy Linehan met with a painful accident one day recently, while at work in his blacksmith shop at Pride's, the fingers of his left hand catching in the cogs of a piece of machinery upon which he was at work. A physician was called and ether was administered before the wounds could be dressed and the necessary surgical operation performed.

The fire department was called to the residence of Thomas D. Connolly last Sunday afternoon, on a still alarm for a chimney fire.

Charles H. Trowt is having built upon his estate at Pride's Crossing, fronting Hale street, a building which when completed will be occupied by the American express company.

Beverly Farms Concern GetsContract for State Highway.

At the office of the State Highway Commission in Boston, Thursday, bids were opened for the building of the second section of the State highway commencing on West street, Beverly Farms, opposite the estate of Franklin Haven and ending on Hale street, Pride's Crossing, near the estate of Henry C. Frick—in all about 8,000 running feet. From the following estimates it will be seen that the work will go to Connolly Bros., of Beverly Farms:

Messrs. Connolly Bros.,	$2,770.30
Hub Construction Co.,	2,783.50
John S. Lane,	2,867.05
Daniel Linehan & Son,	2,889.70
John A. Gaffey,	2,923.00
Frank Williams,	3,260.74
J. Doherty,	3,397.33
Bruno & Mulano,	3,546.50

The bid includes all labor and material furnished, except the furnishing of crushed stone, which contract was awarded Messrs. Connolly Bros. some time ago. Work will probably start at once and rushed through in good season. In two weeks the third and last section extending from the estate of H. C. Frick to Chapman's corner will be let out.

Petition for New Hook and Ladder Truck at Farms.

The residents of Beverly Farms are very much interested in the outcome of the petition headed by Messrs. Connolly Bros. to the city government praying that a new hook and ladder truck be installed in the West Beach engine house. The need of a new one is very apparent and favorable action is hoped for. The one now in use, say those who are authority on such matters, is very much out of date, that the lives of the firemen are endangered by riding upon it, and that the equipment necessary to fight a fire to best advantage cannot be carried upon it, and that this state of affairs must necessarily mar the efficiency of the otherwise very efficient fire department at Ward 6.

Where are the Baseball Fans?

There seems not to be much enthusiasm over a baseball team in Manchester this year, not the least thing having been done so far toward putting a team in the field. This is rather odd in view of the fact that Manchester has sent out such a worthy nine for the past few years. True, many of the old players are either away from Manchester, or are not able to play, but there are other men who can play and there is no reason why a good nine cannot be organized. Captain Walen is working in Salem, and so probably will not be able to play at all this year. And Dunbar will catch on the Beverly team. But Ralph Stanley, first on last year's team, William Dougherty and his brother Fred Dougherty, Percy Wheaton, Arthur Crocker, Chester Standley, Leslie Mason, Charlie Fitz, Walter Edgecomb and many others of the old team are still in town and ought to be available. If former Manager George Sinnicks would only get together, perhaps he could get up some enthusiasm as he did when the team was first organized. What about it, George?

Among the younger boys enthusiasm is not so apparently lacking. The Manchester Crickets, as they call themselves, have organized a nine with Raymond Crocker, captain, Willard Rust, treasurer, and Willie Walen, manager, and are practicing on the playgrounds every day. They have been around with a subscription paper the last week raising money to buy gloves, bats, balls, etc.

The spring opening of the Keyou millinery parlors in Gloucester was last Wednesday. *

PASSION FOR LIFE.

This is Man's Primary Passion, says 'C. Arthur Lincoln. But Life is Eternal, he Declares.

There is no end.

"And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die." John 11:26.

This was the text of a very interesting Easter sermon at the Congregational church in Manchester, last Sunday morning, when C. Arthur Lincoln preached his first sermon as pastor-elect of the church. Mr. Lincoln is a forcible speaker. He has a deep, resounding voice, and his sermons show thorough study and preparation of his subjects.

"Life" was the theme of his sermon, and he endeavored to argue that there is no life unless it be fellowship with God, and that death is simply a separation of that fellowship. He said in part:

"Man's primary passion is the passion for life. Though the wisest man may not know what it is, it is as apparent in the new born babe as in man. We see this will to live in all forms of life; and this which is in animal a will becomes in man

C. ARTHUR LINCOLN,
Manchester's new Pastor.

a passion. No man can escape the humility—the self surrender of his life, for when a man finds himself in the presence of death he feels most humble.

"This same feeling came into the life of Mary and Martha when Lazarus had died. Martha knew of the miraculous power of this friend to heal even after death, but He had not been present. 'If Thou hadst been here, my brother should not have died,' she said.

"To Him life meant the actual fact of fellowship with God; death meant the breaking of that fellowship. For you and me it means a span of a few years, packed full of plans and purposes and a few worthy deeds,—after that, death,—the end. But the Lord Jesus Christ never could see the end of His career.

"A real life has no end. But death! Is there such a thing? He who is separated from God is a dead man—a walking corpse. Are you conscious of any inability to commune with God? Then the stone is already rolled up against the door of your sepulchre and you are within.

"Dead to God. It is not separation from friends, but separation

HISTORIC FOSTER'S MILL AT MANCHESTER.

For many years this was one of the old landmarks of the town. It was here the old settlers and, in fact, many of the present old residents, carried their grain to be ground. Last year, after being in a dilapidated condition for several years, it was torn down and an imposing sea wall of granite graces the site. The cut is used through courtesy of L. W. Floyd of Manchester.

from God,—this is the essence of real death. It is possible for any man to be really dead, yet alive. But the time is coming when man shall know whether he is dead or alive.

"This is life eternal: that they know Thee. Real life is: to know God. Are you alive?"

"The Lord Jesus Christ is the fountain of all youthful vigor. Nothing can withstand the force of God, and this is the message of Easter day, not the Resurrection; not the fact of life in another world, but the fact of gaining life here, that is the message of glad Easter day.

"United with Christ no tomb of stone can hold my body long. I can stand before the pure white throne of God, I can stand and walk evermore in the light of God's throne. This once dark cloud is changed into a shining white portal. 'Life,' he cries, and all humanity vibrates in response to the blow which has been struck. Life is Christ."

Look Pleasant and Answer Questions.

If you hear a gentle rap on the front door Monday morning don't grab the stove poker or call Fido, for it won't be a tramp; it will be the assessors or the census enumerator, so don a smile, look pleasant and prepare to answer questions. Bright and early Monday morning they start on their work.

The enumerator will ask you what your name is, where you work, how long you work, when you were born, who your parents and grandparents were, married or single, insured or not, and whether you can read or write.

The assessors will not be so inquisitive. They come to get all male residents over 20 years in order to make up the lists from which the voting lists are created, as well as to get information which will end with the making of the tax bill.

The enumerator is making his decennial call for the state. His work will probably take as many weeks as it takes the assessors days, for the assessors will complete their street-work in a comparative short time. The work of assessing property will come later.

Tremont Theatre.

"Woodland" returned to the Tremont theatre last Monday evening, and was welcomed by a crowded and loyal house. This beautiful forest fantasy was the annual summer offering of Henry W. Savage at this theatre last spring, and it immediately leaped into high favor, running there for 17 weeks. The costuming of "Woodland" is particularly beautiful and elaborate. The old principals include those exceedingly clever comedians, Harry Bulger as the Blue Jay, Frank Doane as the Rooster, and the fine baritone singer Stanley H. Forde, as Judge Owl. The chorus, composed as it is of troupes of canaries, blackbirds, doves and robins, stands almost alone among modern comic opera stage pictures for daintiness, beauty and refinement. "Woodland" only has two more weeks this time at the Tremont, and this delicate and enchanting forest fantasy may count on a prosperous return.

EASTER SERVICES.

Manchester Churches observed the Day with Appropriate Services.

Easter was observed at the Manchester churches with appropriate services, Rev. E. H. Brewster preaching at the Baptist church in the morning on "The Empty Tomb," and Mr. C. Arthur Lincoln at the Congregational church on "Life." There was no special music at either church in the morning, but in the evening the usual Easter concerts by the children were given.

The churches were very tastily decorated with a profusion of flowers and evergreens, and at the Congregational church potted plants, including Easter lilies, geraniums, heliotrope, were set upon and in front of the pulpit, with a large cross draped in beautiful white Easter lilies in the middle.

At the Baptist church in the afternoon four candidates were received into the church by baptism, Rev. Clarence Strong Pond of the Beverly Farms church officiating.

The concerts in the evening were of the usually interesting order. At the close, flowers and potted plants were distributed to the members of the Sunday school, and others were sent out to the sick and to those who could not be present.

At the Baptist Church.

At the Baptist church, after singing by the congregation, prayer by Rev. Mr. Brewster, responsive scripture reading and words of welcome by Superintendent Robert Baker, the following programme was carried out:

Remarks by Mr. Lincoln

NO LONGER A THEORY.

"Immortality," says Rev. E. H. Brewster, "is no longer a Debatable Theory. The only Burial Ground is in the Heart of God."

"The Empty Tomb" was the subject selected by Rev. Edward Hersey Brewster for his Easter sermon at the Baptist church last Sunday. He said in part:

"Yes, He was dead. There was no doubt of that in the minds of those who had faithfully shared his fortunes and were heartbroken because they could not drink of his cup of woe. They had seen those glazed eyes turned heavenward in one last mute appeal, and that bleeding head sank upon his breast.

"The reign of sin fell with that sinking head. To them, the closing day died with the light upon his face. Their ears did not catch the hoarse murmur of the terror stricken throng, for over their hearts with tremendous reiteration, though a thousand tides had merged in a billow of sound, came the fateful words, 'It is finished.'

"Saturday came and went and the Christ was silent in his grave. Silence reigned within and without the tomb. The evening of Saturday darkened and the long hour of night marched stealthily over the tomb of the dead. The city lay wrapt in slumber. The morning came at length. It was no brighter than other days. The city stirred itself and awoke. But no eye was cast anxiously toward the Saviour's tomb. Will none remember Jesus?

"The world cares no more for the pure and humble teacher, who kissed the tears of the poor away. There is one who cares. There is one that loves. The form of a woman breaks through the rising mists and soon Mary Magdalene announces to the world that the tomb of Christ is empty.

"A dead Christ might have been forgotten; a living Christ never can be.

"The slumber of a sleeping Jesus might have been assailed with the piteous cries of the anguished, but the night of death could have shed no star of hope into the black vault of human transgression.

"Christ does not hold His cross against us, but for us; He shares with us the power of His resurrection, and in ascending to His Father, whispers, 'I will come again.'

"Immortality is no longer a debatable theory. The song of triumph, 'He is risen,' sounded out so clearly at the entrance of the shattered tomb, has found expression in the credo of every pure religion; and better yet, its sweet echoes are ringing in the heart of the outcast who hopes for no mansion here, and in 'The conscience of Dives, who must leave all and follow Him.'

"Angels still linger among the tombs, and teach us that the only burial ground is the heart of God, that 'to live is Christ, and to die is Gain.'

"There is room for all the world within the empty sepulchre, and its meaning clasps the universe around.

"Heaven touched the earth with her winged foot that morning, and the imprint has never been quite obliterated. Christ upon His cross in isolated agony seemed under the blight of the Eternal's curse, but the retinue of angels knocking at his tomb on Easter morning, lighting Him from his burial with their Heaven-kissed faces, showed him to be favorite of the skies."

Brush and forest fires have continued to keep the fire wardens busy the past week. Monday, sparks from the 3 o'clock train set a fire on the south side of the railroad track, near the Magnolia station, which took some twenty men more than an hour to put out. The next night fire on the other side of the station necessitated a special train load of railroad men being brought from Salem.

Burley Smith, a native of Manchester, son of the late Capt. Augustus Smith, died at his late home in Attica, N.Y., last Saturday. He was well known in Manchester, where he spent his early days. He was about 65 years old.

Arthur Burnham had a narrow escape from a serious accident Monday afternoon while at the gravel pit near Rosedale cemetery. While backing the team toward the edge of the embankment the bank gave way and heavy cart, driver, horses and all went rolling down to the bottom of the pit. Mr. Burnham received a serious gash on the head which necessitated four stitches being taken. The horses were not injured. It was a narrow escape, indeed, for the driver.

Successful LaunchingAt Fenton's Boatyard.

The "Limit," the large pleasure yacht built at the Fenton Boat Co. yards for Guy Norman of Boston and Beverly, and by far the largest production of any Manchester boat yard in recent years, at least, took her initial dip into the ocean last Saturday afternoon about 1.30 o'clock.

The launching went off very successfully, there not being the least hitch. Just eleven seconds after the last pin was removed the boat struck the water with a loud splash. Scores of people were present for the event, many of the summer contingent being among the number.

Though no particular programme was laid out, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Norman were present and as the craft moved from its resting place and glided down the ways, Mrs. Norman smashed a bottle of champagne over the bow, christening her the "Limit." A loud cheer arose from the crowd, who unfortunately could not see the christening, as the ship was within the building when it started.

There were with Mr. and Mrs. Norman, Alexander H. Higginson, a member of the company, the architect, Arthur Binney and a party composed of Fred Lyman, Mr. Foss and Mr. Otis, who came down from Boston by auto. There were also in the building Mrs. W. G. Eldridge, Mrs. David Fenton, Miss Grace Allen and Miss Bessie Allen.

Among the other spectators were Max Agassiz, S. V. R. Crosby, Philip Sears, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf L. Agassiz and several others of the summer colony.

The "Limit" will make her trial trip in about two weeks, and will go into commission June 1. Though not strictly a house boat, the vessel is near enough to it to be thus described. She is a combination sailing and power boat, and is the extreme in heavy construction of a cruising launch. She is 60 feet long (72 feet over all), with 15 feet beam, and was designed primarily for a floating habitation. Her distinguishing feature is her large cabin accommodation, with numerous transoms and spaces for lockers and stowage. Her sail plan calls for 815 feet of canvas. She will carry two 25 horse power Standard engines.

After the launching Saturday the guests all went over to Marblehead in the company's launch and dined at the Corinthian Yacht club.

Manchester's New Minister.

The following sketch of C. Arthur Lincoln, the pastor-elect of the Congregational church in Manchester, we take from the Hartford Daily Courant of last Monday:

Mr. Lincoln was born in Chelsea, Mich., but received the greater part of his education in New England. He was graduated from the high school in West Winsted, after which he taught for a year as principal of the Academy in Goshen. He then went south with his father's family and for five years lived in Florida. While there Mr. Lincoln became principal of the high school at Lakeland. He was also elected president of the Florida Christian Endeavor Union.

In 1899 he came north and entered Amherst College with the class of 1903, but completed the four years' course in less than three years and took the degree of B. A. with the class of 1902. While in college Mr. Lincoln was elected to the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, became a soloist of the Amherst College Glee club, was a member of the college brass band and also of the college orchestra, and sang in the college choir and the oratorio chorus.

Mr. Lincoln's studies in theology began in 1902 in the Hartford Theological Seminary and during the past three years he has supplied churches in this vicinity almost continuously. He preached several times at the church at Manchester-by-the-Sea before receiving the call, preached there yesterday and will probably supply the pulpit there until his graduation and ordination. He is a son of Rev. George E. Lincoln, pastor of the Congregational church at East Granby.

Manchester.

Rev. E. H. Brewster will preach at the Baptist church tomorrow morning on "Sowing Beside the Waters," and at the people's evening service, at 7 o'clock, he will give the third in a series on "What would Jesus do if He were in Society." Those interested in social success specially invited. Special music.

The Ladies' Missionary society will meet with Mrs. Geo. F. Allen next Thursday afternoon.

Next Saturday afternoon and evening the Church Aid society will conduct a sale at the parsonage.

"A Batch of Telegrams" will be the subject of the second object address by Rev. E. H. Brewster next Tuesday evening at the Baptist church.

The Bingham lectures were socially, educationally and financially a success, and the men's class desire to thank those who by their kindly patronage contributed to make the venture so satisfactory. The fourth, and last lecture in the course, was given Wednesday evening on "The Men who Won the West." The net proceeds of the course to go into the treasury of the class is more than $60.

The Farther Lights will meet next Wednesday evening at the parsonage.

Miss Mary Morgan will lead the Y.P.S.C.E. meeting tomorrow evening. Topic; "Prayer for Missions, At Home and Abroad."

"What God Thinks About Grumbling," will be the subject of the Junior Endeavor meeting tomorrow evening. Leader: Frank Floyd.

A Sunday School convention of the Gloucester, Manchester and Rockport churches was held in the Prospect Street church, Gloucester, Thursday afternoon and evening and was attended by several from here. Reports were presented showing the conditions of the various schools and a Sunday school superintendents' committee discussed the question of improving the present efficiency of the school.

The Dolls' May party to be given under the auspices of the Junior Christian Endeavor will be held in the chapel next Friday afternoon and evening, from 3 to 9 o'clock. Admission ten cents. Children five years or under five cents. Come yourself and bring the children.

The dolls will give a May party,
My 'twill be a grand affair;
Dolls of almost every nation,
Dressed up, will be there.

When the guests are all assembled
'Twill be a pretty sight,
Everything that can be thought of
Will be arranged for their delight.

MANCHESTER.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Allen have leased their farm at Townsend and will not spend the summer there this year. Mrs. Allen is visiting friends in Portland, Me.

Mrs. Frank Dennison and Mrs. Joseph Ealer of Gloucester were guests of Mrs. William Walen the middle of the week.

It costs no more for mixed drinks of various flavors. Only 5 cents. "Frank G. Cheever." *

Charles E. Bell was detained from his duties at Lee's several days the past week by a severe attack of neuralgia.

Superintendent Kimball has had four double teams with workmen at work this week cleaning up the streets about town. The stone-crushing plant will be started up next week to crush additional stone for the various road improvements. Two steam rollers were brought into use on the Masconomo street improvements yesterday.

Edward Haley, who bought the Cooney blacksmith business, off Beach street last season, moved down from Boston Monday and is occupying a tenement in the Kimball house on Union street.

Mrs. William Stone (Marion Hubbard) of Medfield has been a guest the past week of Miss Sadie Noyes.

The B.B.B. will give a special drill in the town hall, Monday evening, in honor of the victory at Dedham. As a testimonial to their success the mothers of the boys will serve the company a supper in the Baptist vestry at 6 o'clock on that evening.

BAKER'S HORSE SANDAL is the best, cheap est and most durable shoe in use. It is quickly adjusted, does not gall or injure the horse in any way, in fact it is just what is wanted in every way. It is in use on many of the best golf links and private estates from Maine to Oregon. It is made in four sizes:

No. 1. To fit shoes from 5 to 5 3-4 inches long. No. 2. To fit shoes from 5 1-2 to 6 1-4 inches long. No. 3. To fit shoes from 6 to 7 inches long. No. 4. To fit shoes from 6 3-4 to 7 1-2 inches long.

In ordering please send size of horseshoe from heel to toe, or a tracing of the shoe, to insure a good fit.

Price, $8 per set with leather taps, $6 per set without leather taps.

JOHN BAKER, Superintendent Essex County Club.
MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA, MASS.

Mr. JOHN BAKER,
Manchester, Mass.

Dayton, O., Nov. 24, 1903.

My Dear Sir: As Chairman of the Green Committee of the Dayton Golf Club, I have, during the past four years been called upon by my Green Keeper for two or three sets of leather boots per season; these have cost us from $9.00 to $11.00 per set. Hence it gives me great pleasure to state that the single set of Lawn Shoes purchased from you last spring, has been entirely satisfactory and is as good now as when we bought them. In addition to their value from the standpoint of economy, they are very easily attached to the hoof, do not become loose, and do not make sore spots on our horses' legs as our leather boot did. They are a great success and I heartily recommend them.

Yours truly,

R. T. HOUK.

Manchester Public Library.

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

Will you kindly give space in your columns for the following list of books, most of them recently added to the library:

Opening of Tibet, Landon.
American Negro, Hannibal B. Thomas.
Poverty, Robert Hunter.

"The book as a whole has one aim, namely, to show the greivous need of certain social measures calculated to prevent the ruin and degradation of those working people who are on the verge of poverty."

Shining Ferry, The Orchid, The Opal, Amanda of the Mill, Ward.
Marriage of William Ashe, Ward.
Dr. Grenfell's Parish, Duncan.

The purpose of this book is to spread the knowlege of the work of Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell of the Royal National Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen of Newfoundland and Labrador and to describe the character and condition of the people he seeks to help.

The Dryad, Princess Passes, Two Captains, Fugitive Blacksmith, Lion's Skin, Misfit Crown, Constance Trescot, The Clansman, The Truants.

Old Shipmasters of Salem.

This chronicle tells of the good old days when Salem was the leading port in New England and her trading vessels were known on every sea. The Salem merchants were brave, enterprising, patriotic and proud of their native city. On their long voyages for silks and spices they encountered strange adventures, and this narrative of their lives is full of interest and charm.

A Communication.

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

Kindly allow me to inquire, through your columns, as to whether the Committee on Public Property of the City of Beverly knows that the 19th of April, which has just passed, was a legal holiday, and also if they know that the 30th of May, which is coming, is also a legal holiday. I make the above query because I notice that no effort as yet has been made to put in position the top mast on the only public liberty pole in Beverly Farms. Until this has been done we must go without "Old Glory" being flung to the breeze on this particular flag pole. Thus through the negligence of some of the men who are supposed to represent us at City hall the impression is naturally created that we are "still in the woods." Will the above named committee kindly have it put in place at least in time for Decoration Day?

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Descriptions of a Trip from Boston to San Francisco and Return.

[The following is taken from notes made by Thomas D. Connolly of Beverly Farms, on a recent trip to San Francisco. — ED.]

No. 4. — From the Rio Grande to Los Angeles.

When we left Del Rio we came alongside of the Rio Grande river and further along came to another river, which runs into the Rio Grande, called Devil's river. We started through the Rockies and then came to a bridge over the Pecos river 2180 feet long. The bed of the river is 140 feet wide and from top of rail to river it is 320 feet.

You find about here, every eight or ten miles, section houses with a foreman, a white man having a nice home and in the rear of his house three or four long shanties where his Mexican assistants with their families live.

The scenery in these mountains is wonderful, great canyons, picturesque rocks and cattle feeding. The land is so poor that they allow one steer to each 40 acres of land and the cow punchers keep a sharp look out. In these mountoins a few years ago, the Apachees would make raids and murder the settlers, driving off their cattle. They would go from Mexico into the United States and vice versa. Geronimo, their chief, was finally captured and is now a prisoner. He went before President Roosevelt a few weeks ago begging for his freedom, but the President answered, "You have a bad heart;" and it is very true. Geronimo was the worst type of an Indian. No one knows how many men, women and children were murdered by this scoundrel and I have always thought it a shame that he should be paraded and exhibited at the Pan American Exposition.

We have arrived in New Mexico, a land of trackless waste, adobe huts and smelters. The conductor of our train here was formerly a conductor on the old Boston & Lowell R.R. in 1883.

In Arizona you can see large herds of goats, and we have just passed one herd of over 200. I should judge from where we are now that we must be 5,000 feet above sea level, and we easily feel it, the air being so light and dry.

It has taken us 36 hours to cross the State of Texas. We stopped at San Simon, on the line between New Mexico and Arizona. Here we saw two large locomotives which had been destroyed as a result of the oil taking fire. We passed Bowie and Wilcox, where there are large stockyards. We were up early this morning as we crossed the line between Arizona and California, and at Salton saw large salt mines. The salt looks like snow on the ground. Salton is 263 feet below sea level and quite a warm place in summer.

About four feet below the surface here you can find salt 10 inches thick. The valley of Lower California at one time was part of the Gulf of California, and through some volcanic upheaval was shut in, the water evaporated, and hence this layer of salt. Small, egg-shaped boulders are here, which also show that they were made so by the action of the sea at one time.

After leaving Salton we commenced to climb again until we reached an elevation of about 4,000 feet. At Colton and Redlands on each side of the track are orange and lemon trees loaded with ripe fruit. This is quite a sight to look at after leaving ice, snow and cold weather five days ago. This part of California is beautiful and a noted fruit district. We arrived at Los Angeles, which place I shall describe in my next letter.

We arrived at Los Angeles at 1 P. M., and I want to say that this is a beautiful country. Los Angeles in 1880 had 10,000 people; in 1890, 50,000, and now over 100,000. Almost all of these people came from

BEVERLY FARMS.

John West Colony, Pilgrim Fathers, gave a very successful social and dance in Marshall's hall last evening. Refreshments were served and Hull's orchestra furnished the music.

Alexander Carr, foreman gardener for J. B. Dow, after a few days at his home here returned Thursday to Stonington, Conn., where he is in charge of an extensive planting of hardy shrubbery on the Miss Dreer estate.

Many Beverly Farms people attended the Charity ball in city hall, Friday evening.

A car load of exceedingly fine birch pea brush which is used extensively among the gardeners of the North Shore arrived for Messrs. Connolly Bros. the first of the week, from their farm in Topsfield.

Judge William D. Moore is soon to have constructed off his estate at Pride's Crossing an addition to his ocean pier.

Mrs. James Merry of Gloucester has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Pierce on West street.

Mr. Peter Ward of New York city is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Morgan.

At the Second Baptist church last Sunday evening an Easter concert was given and during the services several of the young people who have been identified with the parish were baptised by Rev. Clarence Strong Pond.

Lindsay Amory, the popular clerk at Wyatt's market for many years past, will not be at the Farms this year much to the regret of his many friends here. He will continue at the place in the Back Bay, Boston, where he has been employed.

Mr. Andrew Loftus of Boston has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Connolly at their home on Oak street.

Operations commenced Wednesday morning in the Trowt field in taking off soil and making a road connecting Hale street and Vine court. House lots on each side of this road will be staked out as soon as a driveway is completed.

The pile driver is at work driving oak piles into the sand for the new ocean pier which Herbert M. Sears is having built opposite his estate at Pride's Crossing.

Mrs. W. B. Publicover and two children spent Tuesday in Gloucester, guests of Mrs. Publicover's sister, Mrs. Henry Calder.

Joseph Griffin has received the appointment of census enumerator for taking the census in Ward 6, and will commence his duties on Monday, May 1st.

F. W. Varney moved his family down from Lynn yesterday and they are occupying a house on High street.

Mrs. F. T. Mitchell of Pawtucket, R.I., and formerly of Manchester is a guest of Postmaster and Mrs. Elmer Standley.

Peele—Orr.

The somewhat romantic marriage of Josesh Peele and Miss Alice Orr, which took place at Brookline on Wednesday evening, was of much interest to many Beverly Farms people, and the announcement came as a surprise to many. Mr. Peele was well known here, living for many summers in Beverly Farms, and was for a long time superintendent of Robt. S. Bradley's stables.

Hallesey—Kelley.

Daniel Hallesey and Miss Catherine Kelley, both of Beverly Farms, were married in Boston on Tuesday. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Hallesey will take up their residence in Beverly Farms. The groom is employed at the W. S. Spaulding estate at Pride's crossing.

New England. Almost within the limits of the city are large oil wells. We went out today in an observation car, and between 9.30 A. M. and 5 P. M. rode 72 miles. We passed one or two old missions, and one of these has been restored and put in splendid condition.

We saw the house in which General Peros, the Mexican, surrendered to General Fremont. The streets on both sides are lined with date palms. Outside of Los Angeles is a place called Hollywood, and the grounds and residences are very fine and well laid out. It is remarkable to see the hedges of roses in full bloom, also hedges of calla lilies. You will also see large orchards of oranges and lemon trees loaded down with their fruit. There are also almond, walnut, olive, apricot and fig trees and vegetables growing in abundance.

From Hollywood we went to Morocco, and then to Santa Monica and Rodendo, the last two being the seaside resorts for Los Angeles. At Santa Monica I saw 100 men fishing off a pier; they were catching herring with fish hooks, and I wondered how they did it, as we have all been told that herring do not bite a hook. They use a pole with a long line, on the end of which is a large lead sinker. On the side of the line just above the sinker are attached several fish hooks, like our own trawl lines. They throw the lines out and when they pull up, the herring are so thick that they simply hook them.

The labor here is Japanese and they make good workmen, doing grading and railroad building. I saw two of them turning a hand car with their ears covered with a handkerchief, the sand blows so thick.

It seems queer in early February to find the thermometer above 70 and the beaches filled with people, as our own beach at Beverly Farms in July and August. No stone or ledge is found here, and the foundations for all buildings and bridges are made of Portland cement concrete.

Maria B. Lendall.

After a lingering illness of more than five years, much of which time she had been confined to her bed, Mrs. Maria B. (Connell) Lendall, wife of Edward E. Lendall, of Manchester, passed away at the Beverly hospital last Monday. She died with Bright's disease, and a complication of diseases, at the age of 62 years.

Mrs. Lendall was a native of Ireland, but when young came to New York and from there to Salem, where she lived till '69, when she married Mr. Lendall. Since then she has made her home in Manchester. They had one child, a son, who died when he was five years old. Singularly enough the deceased was buried on the anniversary of the birth of the child.

Mrs. Lendall was a woman who was greatly loved and respected. Before her illness she was closely connected with the life of Allen Relief Corps and Liberty lodge of Rebekahs. Since her illness she has been unable to move around much and in the last few months her condition became quite serious. Two weeks ago today she was taken to the Beverly hospital, where she passed away Monday.

Burial services were held at the Sacred Heart church, Wednesday. Rev. Fr. J. J. Downey officiated and delivered a very touching eulogy. The local W.R.C. and lodge of Rebekahs attended in a body and conducted their services at Rosedale cemetery.

There was a most profuse display of beautiful flowers, including many handsome set pieces sent by friends and relatives in Boston, Salem, Beverly, Essex, and by the many friends of the deceased in Manchester. One sister in Salem, and a husband survive.

The Mystery Social.

The Mystery "7" social in Lee's hall, Manchester, Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Ever Ready Circle of King's Daughters, was a pronounced success, both as to the social feature of the evening's program and in view of the receipts to be added to the treasury of the circle.

The various tables were in charge of the following: Ice-cream, Mrs. C. L. Crafts and Miss Sadie Noyes; fancy table, Misses Kate Baker and Lila Morse; useful table, Mrs. L. B. Harvie and Miss Bessie Lethbridge; mystery tree, Mrs. Wm. Follett; refreshment table, Mrs. G. A. Knoerr, Mrs. Ellery Rogers, Miss Helen Mason. Miss Rita Crombie was in general charge of the affair.

The program carried out was of a most select nature.

New Truck for the Farms.

Residents of Beverly Farms and especially the firemen connected with the West street fire station are very much pleased over the successful outcome of the petition sent into the City council some time ago praying that a new and up-to-date hook and ladder truck be provided in place of the present one which has a long time ago passed its days of usefulness as far as being in keeping with the other equipment. The committee on fire department at their meeting in city hall, Monday evening, voted to purchase a Seagrave hook and ladder and chemical combination truck, not to exceed in cost over $2,000. Upon its arrival a public exhibition will be given.

Killed by Freight Train.

Last Sunday afternoon freight train No. 238, which goes up the Gloucester branch, Boston bound, shortly after noon, killed Henry Cannell of Prides Crossing, near Thissel's crossing. Cannell, it is thought, wanted to go to Beverly, and as the train was moving rather slowly, he probably tried to jump on, for the engineer says he saw a man standing on the outward track when he passed. The manner in which Cannell fell between the cars was such as to cause his head to be severed from the body without the least scratch being inflicted on the head or body. The former was found between the rails and the latter at right angles to the track.

The unfortunate man was well known at Prides Crossing and Beverly Farms, he being one of the gardeners at the W. S. Spaulding estate, and he was formerly employed by C. K. Cummings. A wife and one child survive him in Nova Scotia. Cannell was about 33, and was an Englishman.

The Ezra C. Fitches arrived at the "River House" in Manchester, Thursday.

A prominent Pittsburg family will occupy the Cochrane house at Pride's Crossing this season.

M. W. Borland has opened his cottage at West Manchester, arriving here Wednesday.

Repairs are also being made on the E. B. Everett house at West Manchester in anticipation of the arrival of the family next month. Last season Mrs. Everett spent the summer abroad and the house was closed the season through.

Mrs. Gordon Prince arrived at her West Manchester house Wednesday.

The N. S. Bartletts have opened their Smith point house for the season.

Thomas Livermore and family of Boston will occupy the "Merrell Homestead" on Smith's point.

Dr. Benjamin Tenney took a run down from Boston in his touring car Sunday and spent the day at his Manchester Cove place, Mrs. Tenney, who had been spending the week on the shore, returning to Boston with him Monday.

It will be a matter of much gratification to the many friends of the Francis M. Whitehouses to know that they plan to sail from England the seventh of June and will be at their Manchester Cove estate by the middle of the month — much earlier than they have ever been on the shore in previous years. They are lavish entertainers, and now that their beautiful new house on Towne hill is finished they will entertain even more than usual.

Miss Mabel Sturgis was down to her Cove place Tuesday looking over the estate preparatory to opening the cottage within a few weeks.

The State Highway.

The Massachusetts State Highway engineers have been at work this week setting grades, etc., on the third and last section of the State highway at Beverly Farms. The estimates for doing this section will be opened at the Highway Commissioners' office in Boston next Thursday at noon, — and is in all about 3,400 running feet of roadway, commencing at Chapman's corner and ending at top of Mingo Beach hill. The section from Mingo Beach hilltop to the estate of Henry C. Frick will not be done until the fall, for the reason that it will be impossible to complete this portion before the heavy summer travel begins.

The "Kimball" cottage on Smith's point will be occupied this season by the Mrs. Frances Parkers of New York.

EDNA MAY RICHARD CARLE

Richard Carle now starring in the Tenderfoot writes the following letter which is self explanatory:

Boston, Jan. 10, 1905.

Mr. F. A. Barker, Gloucester, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I find Barker's Dental Wash and Antiseptic Tooth Powder excellent and shall be pleased to recommend them to my friends.

Yours truly, RICHARD CARLE.

Barker's Dental Wash and Tooth Powder

is held by people of taste and refinement:

Dear Mr. Barker:

I am very grateful to you for putting before my notice such a valuable tooth powder and dental wash as I received from you last week. I have used many from all over the world and I must admit that I have never used anything so pleasantly cleansing and so thoroughly good as your Dental Wash and Antiseptic Tooth Powder.

With grateful thanks,

EDNA MAY.

The endorsements that Barker's Dental Wash and Antiseptic Tooth Powder is receiving from the theatrical profession show how these preparations are regarded by people who take special care that their teeth shall be white, bright and healthy; they use only the best.

Rushing on State Highway.

Last Monday morning Messrs Connolly Bros. who have the contract for Section 2 of the State highway started in with a rush and are pushing things in good shape. Work was started on West street, opposite the estate of Col. Franklin Haven. Already quite a stretch of macadam has been laid—while on the other end of the section, near the estate of Henry C. Frick, this same firm have also commenced operations, having another steam roller and a gang of men at work. They also are widening the street near the property of Jacob Brewer by taking off quite a quantity of ledge. This will be a great benefit to the driving public, as there is at this point a sharp turn in the road which has always been a dangerous spot, a number of accidents happening there within a few years.

Society Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Fenno, who occupied a house at Beverly Farms last season, are sailing about May 10 for Europe, where they plan to spend the summer. They will be at Dinard, on the French coast, most of the time.

T. Jefferson Coolidge has been nominated by Governor Douglas on the committee to consider the providing of a public memorial to the late Geo. F. Hoar.

Among the arrivals at Pride's crossing this week was Miss Katherine Loring who has opened her cottage for the season.

The Sturgis house on Smith's Point was also opened Thursday, Miss Sturgis and her brother, Russell, arriving on that day, but Mrs. Sturgis has not yet returned from a trip to the South.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Heaton of Boston moved to Beverly Farms, Thursday and are occupying their cottage on Hale st.

Among those noticed at Beverly Farms the past week making preparations for opening their cottages have been: Oliver Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Otis H. Luke, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brooks Fenno, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Goddard, Washington B. Thomas, George Lee and George T. Dexter.

The L. M. Brewers arrived the latter part of last week and are located at the Cochrane house, near Singing beach, Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner M. Lane have closed their 341 Beacon street house and moved down to their beautiful estate in Manchester yesterday. An auto shed, an addition to the stable and several minor changes in the house are among the improvements just completed at their place. The Lanes have recently bought on Marlboro and Fairfield streets in Boston a new town house which they will occupy, after considerable remodelling, next winter.

The Edward B. Hills of Boston will join the North Shore colony this year having taken a lease of the Monks cottage at Manchester Cove.

The "Brick" house on the West Beach Shore is undergoing considerable change at present in preparation for the arrival of the Ayers of Lowell, who are to occupy it this season. Several of the rooms are being enlarged, a library is being built in and other minor changes are being made. Publicover Bros. of Beverly Farms are doing the work. The Fred Ayers will occupy the R. D. Evans house at Beverly Cove again this season.

Society Notes.

With the beginning of May, the coming week will see quite an influx among the summer colony, many of whom have already had their houses opened and made ready for their arrival. All along the shore, from Magnolia to Beverly, there are signs of activity, and the indications for an exceedingly good year are apparent. Real estate men say the demand for houses is far above the average, and that there will not be many empty cottages along the shore this year.

Among the arrivals of the week were the Richard Stones, who opened their Smith's Point place the first of the week.

The Gordon Abbots are expected at their West Manchester estate today for the summer, as are also the F. R. Tibbetts, who have a cottage on Harbor street, in West Manchester.

The Edward T. Blairs, who were at Manchester last season, will be numbered among the summer colony again this year, having taken the George Lyman house on the Beverly Farms road, which they will occupy ere many weeks for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Lyman will spend the summer abroad.

"Princemere," the beautiful summer home of the Frederick H. Princes on the Chebacco road, will not be the scene of so many gay house parties this summer as in seasons past, if reports are true, for Mr. and Mrs. Prince will not join the summer colony here till September.

The E. A. Boardmans opened their Smith's Point house yesterday, and are located now for the summer. The Munns of Washington, who have taken one of the Dodge cottages at Old Neck, in Manchester, arrived Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, 2d, arrived Thursday and are stopping with the W. J. Mitchells prior to opening their house at Manchester Cove.

Among the late May arrivals this year will be the C. Howard Clark, Jr., of Philadelphia, who have taken the George M. Morgan house on Smith's Point, and not the Lothrop house at West Manchester, as was stated last week. This will be a matter of much gratification to the many friends of the family, for the Morgan estate is next to R. D. Howe's, which the Clarks occupied last season.

At Prides Crossing - the early part of the week arrived John Caswell, whose house was opened last week, when Mrs. Caswell and children arrived. Mr. Caswell came in his big auto and did not arrive at the same time his family did. His car has been much in evidence the past few days. It is one of the real "devils," though not particularly red. It is rather blue, which, indeed, steals a little of the ferocious appearance and is inclined to make the car look more tame than it really is.

The many North Shore friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frye of 21 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, who have formerly spent their summers at Bar Harbor, will be pleased to learn they have secured a house on the North Shore this year. They will occupy the "Wales" house in Beverly Cove, and will be among the early May arrivals.

The Gerard Bements have also arrived for the summer and are located at the "Meadow house," which is quite near the John Caswells.

Among the early arrivals next week will be the T. Dennie Boardmans, who usually close their Boston house in April.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodrich will make their home with Mrs. Goodrich's family at "The Chubbs," West Manchester, again this year.

The wedding of Miss Persis Emery Furbish of Portland and Herbert Warren Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer B. Mason of Boston and Manchester, which took place at St. Luke's cathedral in Portland, on Wednesday, took a great many of the Boston society folk to Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason are to spend the summer in Manchester, much to the gratification of Mr. Mason's many North Shore friends, many of whom have not yet had an opportunity of meeting the bride. They are to occupy the Mrs. Abram Dame house on Smith's point, quite near the beautiful summer home of the Masons.

Mrs. F. Gordon Dexter will also spend the summer abroad. She has not spent a whole season on the North Shore for several years.

Robert S. Bradley has fallen a victim to the auto and has this week bought a $4000 Columbia electric, similar to Gerard Bement's and Frank Seabury's.

The children's Easter Concert took place at 4 o'clock Sunday. The concert consisted of singing and recitations by the children and a short children's story by Rev. F. J. Libby. At the closing of the exercises a potted plant was given each child.

A party of about fourteen attended the party given by the orchestra in Manchester Monday evening.

Miss E. G. Wilbur of Brookline spent a few hours at the Houghton cottage Tuesday.

The dancing school party which took place Wednesday evening in Library Hall, was as has been anticipated, the prettiest and most enjoyable party of the season. The dresses were pretty and dainty and the music all that could be desired. Guest were present from both Manchester and Gloucester.

Mr. Fred Lycett and Thomas Abbott came home to attend the dancing school party, Wednesday evening.

The Ladies Aid Society met with Mrs. J. R. Crispin, Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Charles F. Emerson of Titusville, Pa. has taken the Furguson cottage for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Manfried Thomberg will occupy the Dickinson cottage this summer.

The Misses Pierce were in Magnolia during the week.

Miss Preble who is to have charge of the Aborn hotel is at the Rock cottage superintending the work of getting the hotel ready for the summer.

MASTERS OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.

William Shakespeare (Continued)

By D. F. Lamson.

The intelligent and thoughtful reader of Shakespeare has probably often found himself asking, "Where did the great poet obtain the material for his plays—full as they are of allusions to ancient and mediaeval history, fiction, customs and life?" This is an interesting question, and one that has engaged the attention of literary experts. The sum of their findings is this:

It is admitted that there is in the Shakespeare dramas an amount of learning, the result of reading and observation; to which most of the wits and great men of his time were strangers. Not only did nothing in nature escape him, but he knew men and was familiar with history; his eyes missed nothing. In books, he was equally observant; every dull chronicle and fanciful legend fixed itself upon his memory. The scene, the life, the men, are photographed upon his mind, and he colors them with his own regal imagination. Never was there so delicate an instrument as Shakespeare's intellect, to receive, to combine, to reproduce, to adorn.

He drew his materials from every source, and by a motion of his magician's wand they shaped themselves into forms of imperishable grandeur and loveliness. It has been said that of all his plays there are only two, the germs of which cannot be found before his time. The story of Hamlet is as old as the twelfth century; the tragical history of Romeo and Juliet was translated from the Italian and printed at Paris in 1570; in Coriolanus, whole speeches are taken from North's translation of Plutarch. A writer in the London Times has lately made a comparison between Shakespeare and Ovid, and finds allusions to some 75 stories or names in the Metamorphoses. The scattered folk-lore, chronicles and legends of many nations and centuries lay at the poet's feet, and some of them were very dry; Shakespeare prophesied over them, and a spirit came into them, a heart began to throb under the ribs of death, the dry bones became living men. His early dramas are often other men's tragedies made over, but so wonderfully that their original authors had more reason for admiration than complaint. There are two ways of appropriating material; one is the mechanical, the other the organic way; Shakespeare made other men's thoughts his own; they had with him a regeneration, and came forth as if new born from his transcendent brain.

To all men who have instructed and moved mankind, it can be said, "Other men labored, and ye have entered into their labors." The greatest literary productions of the ages are inextricably intertwined with each other. "Milton could never have written, if Dante had not gone before; Dante presupposes Virgil; Virgil would have been impossible without Homer; Homer himself was probably the interpreter and unifier of a whole cycle of rhapsodists who glimmered like stars in the early morning of poetry before his own great epic sun had risen." So in our own literature. The Italian poets and the early chroniclers made Chaucer possible; the same sources and many more are reproduced and made resplendent in Shakespeare, and so on down to Tennyson, Lowell and Longfellow. Each age and

Were Christ in Society Today, That is One of the Things He Would Not Indulge in, Said Rev. E. H. Brewster.

"What would Jesus do were He in Society?" the third in a series on "What Would Jesus Do," was the subject of Rev. E. H. Brewster's discourse at the Baptist church, in Manchester, last Sunday evening. For his text he selected John 2:1—"On the third day there was a marriage in Canaan of Galilee."

Mr. Brewster prefaced his sermon by asking, "Would society permit Jesus to enter into its midst on any stated or usual occasion were he here today?"

"I think Jesus Christ would find hard work getting into society as it is at present constituted," he said, continuing. "I am afraid he would have a pretty hard time getting into the '400' in Boston, New York or Chicago, because His notions are so much different."

"I am afraid a person entering society seldom thinks whether he is worthy to enter. We must ask ourselves if we are prepared to enter society. If it were birth, Jesus Christ would be the ringleader. If society were constituted in this way you would find it altogether differently made up today.

"Jesus made society by His presence; society did not make Him. I believe He would still preserve His individuality were He now on earth. He would not give way to crazy fads. Society seems to aim to get some of the most startling fads.

"He would not engage in Sunday golf, because Sunday is a day sacred to Him. I don't believe He would give himself over to the race horse, either.

"Society folk are constantly vieing with each other for all the beautiful things of life, but they don't think of the beautiful life within. Christ would make society a channel for Christian influence. You do not think of the society man or woman as particularly pious—it ought to mean that.

"We seldom think of society people as mission workers, though we do see some of them founding libraries. These splendid yachts we see skimming over the waters off our shores Jesus would send out as mission ships to distant lands.

"Jesus would investigate the needs of society; He would see that more of the old kind of religion was sprinkled around. We need in society today a change of heart."

MASTERS OF ENGLISH LITERATURE

each writer is the product of the ages and writers antecedent. In one sense there is no true originality; the past relives in the present; the present will re-incarnate itself in the future. And yet each age is not the mere repetition or copy of the age or ages preceding, but has a character of its own. And every great writer, however he may enrich his pages with the spoils of the past, so marshals and transforms and adorns them that they come forth the mintage of his own brain, bearing his own image and superscription. So much for Shakespeare's originality; not many men, two or three at most, have ever had the genius to appropriate the fruit of other men's labors as magnificently and to such purposes as he. With all his indebtedness to his predecessors, there is no poet to whom we can more truly attribute creative power. Of men like him, we may say,

"Throned on their thoughts and high imaginings,
They are the lords, not servitors, of Fame."

Among the literary sources of Shakespeare's inspiration must be reckoned the English Bible. References to Scripture characters and incidents, modes of expression and moral or dogmatic teaching, are drawn from all parts of the Bible, and are such as to show at least a general knowledge of it. It has been estimated that there are in his works more than five hundred Biblical quotations, references, allusions and sentiments. He quotes from nearly all the books of the Bible, and not one of his plays is without a Scripture reference. About forty years ago Bishop Wordsworth, nephew of the poet, published a book in which he aimed to show that Shakespeare was "in a more than an ordinary degree a diligent and devout reader of the Word of God." In support of his contention he quotes hundreds of passages including hosts of facts, characters, figures of speech, and notable phrases, used by the dramatist, which are drawn from the Bible. The bishop may be thought by some to exaggerate Shakespeare's Biblical learning, but it cannot be denied that many of the poet's most striking and beautiful images and sentiments are traceable to the Bible as their source and inspiration. And what is true of Shakespeare is true of Milton, Tennyson, Longfellow, Browning and other great masters of song. The most living poets, those whose thoughts and words "men will not willingly let die," have drawn their inspiration not only from the Aonian mount, but from "Siloa's brook that flowed fast by the oracle of God." Quotations might be multiplied almost indefinitely, showing how much would be lost from the writings of the masters of our literature, were the lofty sentiment and melodious phrase which are drawn from the English Bible—that monument of the scholarship and devotion of at least three hundred years—eliminated from their pages.

New Civil Service Rule Affects Many on North Shore.

Scores of North Shore people, members of fire departments, janitors of school and other public buildings, engineers, foremen, electricians, etc., will come under the civil service rule as embodied in a recent circular sent out to the various municipal officials, and the holders of these positions will have to take the examination under the new law which becomes operative after July 1.

The new law as approved by Gov. Douglas provides that those holding the following positions must take the civil service examination:

"All persons doing police duty in the parks or public grounds; draw tenders and assistant draw tenders employed on any bridges; foremen of laborers, inspectors of work and all persons, under whatever designation doing similar work; all subforemen of laborers; janitors, engineers and other persons having charge of school or other public buildings or of the heating apparatus thereof; all members of the regular or permanent or any call member of the fire department; electricians and all assistants above the grade of linemen."

Mr. Dodge Applies for Telephone.

Charles C. Dodge, who kicked up such a fuss a few weeks ago about a couple of telephone poles being placed on the "residential part," so called, of Desmond avenue, Manchester, and went so far as to draw up a lengthy petition, in which he pictured the great calamity which would befall the town and its people, but more especially the property owners on that street, and himself principally, has petitioned the New England Telephone company for a telephone to be placed in his shop on Desmond avenue.

Until now Mr. Dodge has used a neighbor's telephone, but the free trial offer of the telephone company has carried sufficiently inducing qualities to lead Mr. Dodge to call for a instrument for his own use.

Meanwhile the board of selectmen, at a meeting last Saturday, threw down Mr. Dodge's petition and has granted the telephone company the right to place two more poles on Desmond avenue. The poles at the present time extend to Dodge's Mill, but to reach the residence of J. A. Lodge, 250 feet beyond, Mr. Dodge claims the wires should be placed under ground, instead of erecting one or two more poles.

Mr. Dodge's stand and the vigorous protest he has made against placing an additional pole on Desmond avenue has been a matter of much discussion, and it is of interest to note that the petitioner against poles on Desmond avenue is one of the first to jump at an offer of free telephones, which necessitates additional wires being strung overhead, thus further "endangering life, limb and property," as Mr. Dodge claims.

Auto Balks andGoes Over Embankment.

A horse has often been credited with possessing considerable sense but never before have we been able to credit autos with any of that "gray matter" which their drivers sometimes have a great lacking of. Last Sunday a big touring car refused absolutely to go through the wood drive leading from Pleasant street, Manchester, to Chebacco and Wenham lakes. The road is plainly labeled "Not an Automobile Road," but the driver of the ferocious looking car did not "see" this. The auto did, however, for it had gone only a few rods when it stopped in the middle of a steep hill, near the Tenny farm, became unmanageable and backed over an embankment throwing out all of its eight occupants.

The accident happened about 2 o'clock but it was almost dark before the auto was taken from its precarious position. It was removed by aid of blocks and tackles supplied by Benjamin Crombie.

The Merchants' Bazaar in Salem the past week has attracted no end of shoppers from Manchester and Beverly Farms. Scores of people have gone to Salem daily. The various stores have been decorated and special bargains have been offered. Titus' on Washington street has been strikingly decorated as well as Bixby's on Essex street, at both of which places the many bargains offered have been taken advantage of. At Cobb, Bates & Yerxa's, too, scores of people have found bargains which have more than repaid them the expense of the trip.

"DOWN IN MAINE."

Four Act Drama Successfully Presented in Manchester by Hyde Park Young People.

The domestic drama, "Down in Maine," presented by a company of amateur actors from the Young People's Christian Union of the Universalist church of Hyde Park, in the Manchester Town hall, attracted an audience of 350 people, Wednesday evening. The play was given under the direction of Samuel B. Crombie of Manchester and Hyde Park as a benefit for Mrs. Ida Douglas, the invalid.

The play was very successfully staged and was full of fun throughout. There were four acts and twelve characters were introduced.

Following is the cast of characters:

Zeph Cummings of Hardscrabble Farm, way down in Maine, believes in the golden rule and practices the same.
J. Alden Bradford
Ralph Cummings, his brother, a N.Y. millionaire..... John Lauppe
Neil Wentworth, a young inventor..... Arthur F. Evans
Bingle, the old fisherman..... Herbert I. Jackson
Toms, the hired man,.... George Dickinson
Holden, a city lawyer,..... Walter Evans
Jimpsey, a "fresh air" kid,..... Miss Amy Blodgett
Mose Gossin, a rural lover,.... George Carlton
Susie Cummings, Ralph's daughter,.... Miss Marie Lauppe
Mrs. Cummings, Zeph's wife..... Mrs. J. C. Hanscom
Keziah, forty-three and desperate..... Mrs. E. E. Abbott Betsy Toms, a village maid. Mrs. J. Lauppe

During the evening an orchestra of six pieces, accompanying the company, played several pleasing selections. Miss Alice R. Rainville rendered a piano solo; Frank B. Cannell of Brookline, bass, sang "King of the Forest," by Parker, and later sang "Sing Me to Sleep," with violin obligato by Miss Maria G. Scott. Miss Scott played a violin solo, "Serenade Badine," by Gabriel Marie, in her usual pleasing manner.

Mrs. Ida Douglas, for whose benefit the drama was given in Manchester town hall, Wednesday evening, wishes to return thanks to the people of Manchester, through the columns of the BREEZE, and especially to Mr. Crombie and to those who were associated with him in making the affair a success. A neat sum was realized. The young people came from Hyde Park for expenses only.

SCHOOL ITEMS.

Manchester.

At the teachers' meeting at the G. A. Priest school, Monday, Superintendent Fish read from the report of the board of education an article on "Some Reasons for the Scarcity of Qualified Teachers," and discussed the same.

The date for the exhibition of school work to be held this summer has been set for June 20.

Mrs. J. K. Tappan, Mrs. Ernest Lucas and Rev. W. H. Ashley visited the Priest school this week.

A new bulletin board has been placed in the lower hall of the Grammar school.

It is interesting to note the amount of water per pupil used at the G. A. Priest school and at the High school. In the former, where there are over 300 pupils, 48 cubic feet of water is used daily, or .16 cubic feet per pupil, while at the High school 84 cubic feet is used, an average of about 2 cubic feet per pupil—or 12½ times as much. This is due largely, of course, to the amount of laboratory work at the High school.

Parts have been assigned for the Memorial Day exercises at the Priest school. The first and second grades will march to the Summer Street cemetery and distribute flowers on the Revolutionary soldiers' graves. The rooms will consolidate as usual.

Plans to be PresentedFor Park Improvements.

The Manchester Park Commissioners have a plan which they will present at the adjourned town meeting Monday night, for the proposed changes and improvements at Beach street park.

It is proposed to dredge a channel from the main channel to the new pier at which point it is proposed to dredge out a basin. Two plans are to be presented for this. One is for a channel 20 feet wide and the other for a channel 40 feet wide. It will be necessary to remove 3200 cu. ft. of mud if the former is accepted and 4500 if the latter. These channels will be four feet deep at mean low tide.

It is also proposed to build a granite embankment from the pier to Beach street, at a point some 110 feet from the centre of the stone arch.

Figures will be presented as to the cost of the proposed improvements.

Jap-a-lac your weather-beaten front doors with the Oak, Walnut or Mahogany. Same effect as polish on a pair of old shoes. Makes a wonderful improvement. D. T. Beaton. *

The board of directors of the West Beach corporation held a meeting Wednesday evening, and among the business transacted was the appointing of William Neville as superintendent and caretaker at the beach for the season. Terms have also been made with the Misery Island club regarding the use of the pier and floats for the summer months.

F. Leslie Woodbury returned on Tuesday from Washington, D.C., where he has been during the past winter, and has entered the employ of John Daniels.

At a recent meeting of the directors of the Beverly Savings Bank Thomas D. Connolly was elected a director.

Operations were started Monday by Messrs. Connolly Bros. in widening the main thoroughfare at Pride's Crossing, known as "Brower's Corner." This change will necessitate the taking of about 20 feet of land from Mr. Brower. The need of such a move has long been felt.

Mrs. Edwrad L. Pride and son of Somerville are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pride, Oak street.

Messrs. Walker Bros. & Co. have opened their provision store for the season. H. Rogers is again in charge.

Miss Myrtle Doe of Bangor, Me., and formerly of this place, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Prudent Gaudreau.

Mrs. Thomas D. Connolly and Miss Ann Dyer have been visiting relatives at Worcester this week.

Mrs. Mary Spinney has gone to Nova Scotia for her health. Her many friends in Beverly Farms are to give on next Friday evening—May 12—in Marshall's hall, a benefit social and dance in aid of Mrs. Spinney. This is a worthy object and should be patronized by all.

Mrs. James Kinsella of Haskell street is visiting relatives at Willimansett, Mass.

Wretched Sidewalks

at Beverly Farms.

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

Some time ago I read in an issue of your paper an article pertaining to the needed repairs on the sidewalks in Beverly Farms; also that it was a rare occurrence that any edge stones were put down. I had hopes at the time that the comments would be noticed by the proper officials who have charge of the sidewalks and some action be taken ere this, but it seems that nothing has been done nor is there any prospects of anything being done.

I suppose as long as the people refrain from spurring up the officials relative to this needed improvement the walking population will have to continue turning ankles and stumbling over poor side walks. I desire especially to speak of that portion along in front of our Library and G.A.R. hall, which has been so long in a wretched condition that there seems to be no excuse whatever that it should be neglected, it being in the center of our business section over which hundreds travel daily.

The old concrete a long time ago became worn out, cracked and then commenced to break up. And still nothing was done. At the present time the place is so rough that it is a disgrace to the town that its citizens are obliged to travel through large stones, rough gravel and sharp junks of concrete, all because of the negligence of some one at City hall.

Let us hope that the near future will not only give us a decent walk at this point but that attention will also be paid to the many other improvements of which our sidewalks sadly need, and by so doing will give the walking population cause to at least feel that they, too, as well as those who drive, can find some pleasure in living in this section, by having fairly good sidewalks.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Descriptions of a Trip from Boston to San Francisco and Return.

[The following is taken from notes made by Thomas D. Connolly of Beverly Farms, on a recent trip to San Francisco.—E.D.]

No. 5.—From Los Angeles to San Francisco.

Nature has smiled on these places. The soil is heavy, black and easily tilled. Fortunes have been made here by buying unimproved land, cutting it up into sections and laying out streets through it. The electric cars travel very fast; they depart from the roads, cut across fields, and own their land like the steam railroads. The trip to Mount Lowe is a wonderful line of railway, up dizzy heights, across ravines and curved bridges, making a person think how small a space there is between him and eternity; but accidents on his line do not happen.

Los Angeles was laid out to grow a certain way, but as it almost always happens, it turns the other way. I mention this because the city had a tunnel built through a large hill and this tunnel turned the building of the city that way. Near the entrance to this tunnel they have a small railway called the Angels' flight, and it is very steep, one car holding the other up while it goes down.

About 20 miles from Santa Monica is Catalina Island, owned by the Banagans. The original Banagan made his money in early times in the express business; in fact, hauling heavy loads long distances, as was the custom in California before the advent of railroads. This island is remarkable for its submarine floral gardens, and they have large boats with glass set in the bottoms, where one may look down in the water at the most beautiful objects; even seeing large fish swimming about.

On this island there is quite a large town by the name of Avalon. Catalina is famous as a camping place, and one may hire a tent with cooking apparatus, etc., for as long a time as he wishes.

We are still located in Los Angeles. Today we made a trip to Pasadena, fourteen miles from here, where several people from Beverly are located. It is a beautiful place, and really a part of Los Angeles. The electric car system here is a very good one, and everything is done to detain the traveler from the east. Great preparations are now being made in Los Angeles for the National convention of the Knights of Columbus, which is to take place this coming June. About 15,000 are expected. Every state in the Union is to be represented, and Joseph Scott, the head of this order in California, has been most untiring in his efforts to have it a great success. Joseph Scott was formerly a New York boy and went to Los Angeles some twelve years ago. He is a prominent attorney-at-law.

The Los Angeles river is generally almost a dry, sluggish stream, but when storms occur in the mountains, it overflows its banks and makes great havoc among the people. This happened while we were here, and for three days it rained very hard; consequently the ranch men were happy, as it assures plenty of water, which is stored in reservoirs. They let the water out from time to time, for irrigating purposes and this system of irrigation has worked wonders all over California during the dry season.

We left Los Angeles this morning at 8 o'clock for San Francisco via coast line. This train should arrive in San Francisco at 10.30 P. M. on the same day, but owing to the severe rains for the last three days we are held up at Tropico. There are many washouts, but we do not mind this much, as everything around is pleasing to look at. We were just watching the largest pigeon farms that I have ever seen, thousands and thousands being cooped up ready to be sold. We just looked at the thermometer at Tropico depot and find it registers 72 degrees. One train is ahead and one behind us. We are now six miles north of Los Angeles and 478 miles from San Francisco. There are mountains on each side, and it looks as though we would be delayed for some time.

After waiting two and one-half hours, we have started again and have passed through three tunnels. Shatswell tunnel is the longest one, and takes seven minutes to go through. These tunnels have just been built and save miles of travel. We have passed a place called Carpentier, where the oil wells first come to view. At Summerside the oil wells are out in the ocean quite a distance from shore, and very numerous. On top of each well are windmills, which pump the oil up through driven pipes. The oil then runs along in pipes to large tanks on the shore.

We stopped at Santa Barbara, where the old Mission is located, and it is still in a thriving condition. There are some beautiful residences located there, many New Yorkers and Chicago people making this their winter home.

This coast line road runs from Burbank to Surf on the edge of the ocean. Burbank was named after the famous Burbank, who has produced wonderful fruits and vegetables and has made the thornless cactus. He is doing more for the good and prosperity of farmers and fruit growers than any other man. He is a genius and was born in this state in the little town of Lancaster.

We have at last passed all the washouts, but our train is three and one-half hours late. We got off the train for a few minutes at Surf, and found the thermometer read 80 degrees. We passed two places called San Luis Obispo and Pasa Robles, both famous for their natural hot mud baths, where people suffering with rheumatism and skin diseases find relief. We reached San Jose (51 miles from San Francisco), and finally reached San Francisco at 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

CHURCH NOTES.

Manchester.

Rev. Edward Hersey Brewster will preach at the Baptist church tomorrow morning on "Opening the gates of Eden." At the People's evening service at 7 o'clock the sermon will be on "What would Jesus do if he were a public servant?"

"Dead letters" will be the subject discussed by Mr. Brewster at the Tuesday evening prayer meeting.

Mrs. Geo. A. Kitfield entertained the Sewing circle at her Ashland avenue home, Wednesday evening.

Rev. Geo. A. Freeman of Watertown will preach at the Congregational church tomorrow. Mr. Freeman was ordained to the ministry in this church in 1858 and preached here about five years.

The Church Aid society met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Edward Crowell.

The Ministering Circle of King's Daughters will meet on Monday evening, May 8, with Mrs. Julius Rabardy. A full attendance is desired. The topic for discussion will be "The family at Bethany."

Mrs. Eva C. Rand will conduct the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting tomorrow evening. Topic: "The making of a Christian; his exercises."

"Giants and grasshoppers" will be the topic of the Junior Endeavor meeting tomorrow. Leader, Allen McKinnon.

The spring meeting of the Essex South Conference of Congregational churches will be held next Wednesday with the First Church in Danvers. The morning session opens at 10 o'clock and the afternoon at 1.50. Delegates will probably be sent from the local church.

Rev. Arthur Peabody Pratt, who was talked of as a possible candidate for the Congregational church, after preaching here several times, resigned the pastorate of his church in Chelsea last Sunday. His action was taken because of the union of two churches to be made shortly. He is now talked of as pastor of the new church.

A delegation from the Baptist Sunday school will go to Rockport, Wednesday, to attend the annual meeting of the Salem Baptist Sunday School Association.

At the Baptist parsonage this afternoon and evening a sale of fancy articles, cake, candy, ice-cream, aprons, etc., will be held under the auspices of the Church Aid Society.

Real Estate News.

At the office of the Manchester board of selectmen yesterday morning papers were signed and the transfer made of the land on the north-easterly corner of Norwood avenue and Brook street, Manchester, to the town as a site for the proposed new Primary School building. This was done in accordance with a vote taken at the recent town meeting, whereby Morley, Flatley & Co. was to receive $4800, John Winne $800, and Lucy Carroll $2700, respectively, for the three parcels of land. The town now owns the property.

Mr. Haskell Makes a Purchase.

George D. Haskell of Manchester has this week bought, through Nathan P. Meldrum, a house lot on Lincoln street, near the junction with Vine street. Some of the most desirable house lots on the market in Manchester today are to be had at that point, at the very lowest terms. Mr. Haskell buys for investment.

Another Real Estate Transfer.

Morley, Flatley & Co. have bought on the westerly side of Norwood avenue extension, in Manchester, the whole of the Samuel Knight property, which they will utilize in connection with their business.

Strawberries, bananas, asparagus, tomatoes, string beans and all the seasonable fruits and vegetables may be found at the Boston Fruit Market, Central sq., Manchester.

See the "Cricket" for this week's local advertisements. Geo. F. Dyer. *

Another North Shore Train.

Steps are being taken to have another train added to the Gloucester branch with the starting of the summer schedule next month and to that end the following resolution was adopted at a meeting of the business men's association in Gloucester this week:

Resolved, that the management of the Boston & Maine railroad be and are hereby requested to arrange their summer schedule so that the 7.15 A. M. train, now leaving Boston to its terminus at Beverly, be continued to Rockport, and leaving Rockport for Boston on or about 9.15 A. M., and running express after leaving the Gloucester branch.

An Auto Station at Magnolia.

Work is being rushed on the Magnolia automobile station being erected off Raymond street by F. P. Wonson of Gloucester. Alfred Anderson, who has conducted Mr. Wonson's bicycle store in Manchester so many seasons, will be in charge. Repairing, storage and sale of auto supplies will be offered the public at this place.

A. B. Dunn, charge of the town clock, vice Benjamin F. Merrill, resigned.

Alhanan Babcock, undertaker.

L. O. Latons, harbor master.

Three junk licenses were also granted as follows: Joseph L. Simons, Garrett Fitzgerald and Michael Finberg.

Albert C. Douglas.

Word has been received of the death of Albert C. Douglas, a former Manchester boy, upon his ranch at Penoyer, Placer County, Cal., on April 24.

Mr. Douglas will be remembered by many of the older residents of Manchester. His father was the late Capt. John Douglas of Brooksville, Me., who settled in Manchester after following the sea for many years. He carried on a grocery store in town and lived in the Lord house, corner of Desmond avenue and School street.

The deceased was a member of the Salem Zouaves, under Captain A. F. Devereux, and enlisted as sergeant in Co. H, 19th Mass. Regiment, became sergeant major, re-enlisted and was mustered out in 1865. He went to California very soon after the war and became a successful ranchman. He married Miss Nellie Larrabee of Salem, who survives him with one or two children. Mr. Douglas was 64 years of age.

H. Shephard Johnson.

H. Shephard Johnson, one of Nahant's best known citizens, died a week ago today of heart trouble. He was well-known in Manchester, having married Miss Harriett E. Allen of this town, who, with five children, survive him.

He was born in Copenhagen, N. Y., in 1843. In early life he came to Nahant. In 1861 he was among the first of the Nahant volunteers to enlist. When a young man he engaged in the hay and grain business in Nahant, and later in the manufacture of duck and leather coats at Lynn, he being the first to place these coats upon the market, and continuing in this work up to the time of his death.

HEALER DENNIS

At 81 Washington St., Heal the Sick Without Medicine. The Strangest Power Ever Given to Man.

Healer Dennis, who for three years has publicly healed the sick in the churches in Salem, free of charge, by the laying on of hands, is still performing his marvellous cures every day at his offices in Salem and Boston. By passing his hands over the afflicted parts, cripples and deformities of every description were straightened and made whole. Healer Dennis has been in Salem for 15 years and can produce more people that he has cured than all the advertising doctors in the state. Healer Dennis cures all female complaints without exposure or the use of instruments, in one-half the time required by any doctor. He is the only man living that cures cancers and tumors without pain or cutting. All nervous troubles of both men and women, even to insanity, are cured by Healer Dennis' treatment. After doctors give you up and hospitals turn you out go to 81 Washington St.

Society Notes.

Guy Norman, whose newly built pleasure boat, the "Limit," will be ready to go into commission within a few weeks, has filed application with the Harbor and Land Commissioners for an ocean pier to be constructed off his estate at Beverly Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ward of New York will be among the new families to come to the North Shore this year. They have taken the new Lewis Larson house on Haskell street, Beverly Farms.

The S. Reed Anthonys are expected at their Beverly Farms estate about the 25th of this month. Mr. Anthony has just purchased a new yacht, which is being fitted up at Bristol, R.I.

Gen. Charles Pearson and family have closed their Boston house and moved down to their Prides' Crossing estate Wednesday.

The Francis L. Higginsons are expected at their Pride's Crossing estate next Tuesday.

Among the arrivals in this section of the shore this week are the P. S. Seares, the Dr. Hall Curtises, and the "Bobbie" Shaws.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Rantoul sailed the latter part of last week for Europe. They plan to return about July 1, and will join the summer contingent at Beverly Farms, where they occupy one of the George Lee cottages.

The Misses Brown have closed their School street house and are now located at "Brownland" for the summer.

The C. P. Hemenways will open their Smith's Point house at Manchester about the 18th. They intended to close their Boston house the past week, but owing to sickness in the family they changed their plans.

The Richard Stones are expected at their Manchester place today for the season. The house has been open for several weeks, and part of the family has been living in it. The report that the Warders of Washington were to occupy it this summer is not true.

Mrs. E. A. Whipple and her son, George Whipple, have opened their cottage at West Manchester for the summer, arriving the early part of the week.

The W. A. Tuckers are expected at their Norton's Point house today. The Amory Elliots opened their "Old Neck" house yesterday, and Dr. Geo. A. Webber arrived at his Smith's Point house Thursday for the summer.

MANCHESTER.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mead, who have just returned from their wedding trip, will be at home to their friends Monday evening, May 8, from 7.30 to 9.30 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilman Cheever, Bridge street.

Miss Bertha Stone has resumed her former position as operator in the local telephone exchange.

Rev. and Mrs. John Quint of Falmouth have been spending the week with Mrs. Quint's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Lane.

T. L. White shipped two yachts to Tri-Mountain, Mich., the middle of the week.

A testimonial supper was given in the vestry of the Baptist church, Monday night, by the mothers to the boys of the B.B.B., in honor of their recent victory at the field meet in Dedham. Plates were set for fifty.

Miss Christine Parker and O. W. White of Boston were in town over Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lodge.

A. Lee & Sons have just added to their attractive line of goods a handsome line of souvenir postal cards.

The Ever Ready Circle of King's Daughters will meet Monday evening with Mrs. Edward Height.

Rev. E. H. Brewster will deliver the Memorial Day address at Nahant in the morning, and at Milton in the afternoon.

It seems good to see the clock in the Manchester Public Library illuminated once more. It has been out of repair for some time, but Lomis, the jeweler, has spent a little time with it recently and plumbers have overhauled the gas fixtures so that the people of Manchester can once more enjoy the privileges derived from the lighted face of the clock.

Messrs. Connolly Bros. have been awarded the contract for rebuilding Grave-vine road in Wenham, commencing at the Beverly line and running through the woods to Thompson's corner. The work is to consist of ledge and earth excavations, graveling and regrading, and is to be finished early in June. A large gang of men were started at work on Tuesday.

Miss Mary Pearley, who has for several years spent much of her time in Beverly Farms, left this week for Columbus, O., where she will pay her brother an extended visit.

DOLLS MAY PARTY.

Attended by 127 Dolls and their fair young "Matrons."

Dolls! Dolls of all climes, yellow, white, red, black; some young, some old; dolls with pretty silk dresses, with red and yellow petticoats and curly flaxon hair; and sober pious Matildas with plain and homely dresses; rag dolls, china dolls, wax dolls and dolls without name, dolls! They were all out last night to the party in the chapel at Manchester. There were 127 in all, and a prettier dolls' party was never held. All the children in Manchester were out to see them.

The chapel was a bower of beauty. In one corner of the room was a table called "Guests from all Nations." In the collection was a doll 46 years old, owned by Miss Fannie Knight. On the rostrum was arranged a May pole, with the legendary May queen, and ten dolls surrounding.

In the centre of the room was a table, Pinehurst Park, with a pretty little pond in the centre. Some of the fair dolls were strolling on the beach, others swinging in the hammock, others lounging around on settees. The hospital was a very pretty feature. Here were seven cots, with pale, sick looking grown up dolls and babies in bed being attended by red cross nurses. A wedding scene was represented in the parlor.

There was also the dolls' lawn party, with a table filled with food and sweet looking delicacies; the kitchen presided over by colored Dina; the dining room; the parlor, with a pretty little miss reading by the light from a lamp; the bed-room, with the colored attendant rocking the baby to sleep; the night before Christmas with Santa Claus, tree, stockings and gifts; and everything pertaining to a doll was represented.

The affair was well conducted and proved a great money-maker, as well as a pleasant means of entertainment for the children. It was given under the direction of the Junior Endeavor society. The committee consisted of Miss Isabelle Warner, Annie Lane, Mary Morgan, Amy Haskell and Ruth Blaisdell. More than $30 was realized.

Now is the winter of our discontent made glorious by the thoughts of the summer sun which is coming in the sweet bye and bye.

PERFECTION OF CHARACTER.

This is Man's Only Salvation, says Manchester Minister. Eloquent Sermons and Lengthy Prayers Alone will not Gain Entrance into Heaven.

"Who then can be saved?" was the text of a very interesting discourse by C. Arthur Lincoln, pastor-elect of the Congregational church, Manchester, last Sunday morning. And he answered the question by saying that preaching eloquent sermons, making lengthy prayers in prayer meetings, or giving his last penny to feed a starving beggar made no difference as to a man's entrance into heaven, but that salvation can only come about through the perfection of man's character.

"With definite fore-knowledge of the fate awaiting Him at Jerusalem," he said, "Jesus went about His work as calmly as ever. The disciples were thrown into spasms of astonishment at his statements. 'What shall I do to be saved and gain eternal life?' asked a young man he met by the way. The young man's riches were the binding sinews of his life, but to gain eternal life he must break away from these things, and Jesus told him so.

"His character was such as any young man could desire. He was what might be termed a model young man. The disciples were astonished at Jesus' answer, 'It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of heaven.'

"Undoubtedly the young man would have been willing to found a seminary, endow a college, build a synagogue or back a political party in favor of Jesus, but to change his character—that was a hard thing to do.

"'What am I?' and 'what am I to become?' These are some of the questions that come before us.

"The avocation that a man follows in life will make no difference as to his entrance into heaven. He may preach with eloquence, pray in prayer meeting, give his last penny to feed a starving beggar, and yet be benefitted in no way by these deeds. Salvation for man can only come about through the perfection of man's character.

"Jesus did not condemn the young man because of his wealth. But the young man came to him asking what he could do that he might inherit eternal life. 'Go, sell what thou hast and give to the poor, and come, follow me.' He saw he must be perfect in selfish love. How hard it is for any man to trust in deeds of his life. We are all the time finding excuses for flaws in our character.

"Oh, the miserable lies with which we cover over the soul! A man lies about his taxable property; a starving beggar steals a loaf of bread that he may exist. 'Do right, even if you die for it,' is the command of God. Man is fearfully prone to think that his life depends on the preservation of his wealth.

"One of the meanest things a man can say in answer to these things is that it is the dispensation of Providence, and that we are creatures of circumstances. Character is never created by environment.

"Intuitively a man, when spots and imperfections appear, paints and powders with excuses. We must be without spot and blameless before the throne of God. Who then can be saved if man must be perfect to be saved? Hear the answer of Jesus: 'With men it is impossible, but not with God, for with God all things are possible.' Religion is not a matter of knowledge or a matter of deed, it is a matter of life and character."

Unclaimed Letters.

Letters remaining unclaimed at Manchester, Mass., Postoffice, for week ending April 29: Mabel Crombie, A. J. Carter, Timothy Dreslane, Alphonse Dupino, Miss A. A. Folsom, Mrs. J. Gavin, G. W. SAMUEL L. WHEATON, P.M.

DO YOU WANT

TO USE WHAT IS BEST FOR

YOUR TEETH?

As the eye is the index of the soul, so perfect teeth, white and bright, are an index of good care and health.

In recent years much study and attention has been given to the antiseptic treatment of the mouth, and the care of the teeth by scientific men.

It has been found that the germs of Diphtheria, Typhoid Fever, La Grippe, and many other diseases find entrance to the human system through the mouth.

As a result of this investigation and study, Barker's Antiseptic Dental Wash and Antiseptic Tooth Powder have been devised and are now being largely used by physicians, dentists, actors, actresses, and people generally who realize the importance of white sound teeth, not only as an element of beauty, but as an aid to digestion, and an essential of health.

"Fine teeth are very jewels in the mouth of beauty." Would you hesitate for one moment to purchase and use a particular dentifrice if you were sure that by so doing you would have whiter, brighter and healthier teeth.

BARKER'S ANTISEPTIC TOOTH POWDER AND ANTISEPTIC DENTAL WASH

costs no more than the ordinary tooth powders and dental washes, but the results obtained by their use are vastly better.

Sold by dealers. S. S. Pierce Co., Boston Agents.

Tooth Powder, 25 cts.

Dental Wash, 25, 50 and $1.00.

Society Notes.

The Henry L. Higginsons are expected to open their West Manchester house next Tuesday for the season.

"Sharksmouth" the beautifully located summer home of the Greeley Curtises is open and part of the family have moved down from Boston.

The Edward W. Grews arrived at their Apple Blossom Lane cottage Tuesday, and the Dr. George A. Webbers opened their Smith's Point house Thursday.

The Mrs. W. W. Taffs of Brookline have rented the Chase cottage at "Old Neck" for the season and will occupy it about June 1.

T. Dennie Boardman, Reginald Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Goodrich arrived at "The Chubbs" Wednesday for the season. Miss Boardman opened her cottage on Boardman's hill Wednesday also.

Among the arrivals the early part of the week were the J. Warren Merrills who spent a greater part of the winter in the south.

The Edward S. Grews, who have been travelling abroad since the early winter, plan to set sail for home next Tuesday and will come at once to their West Manchester estate, "Glass Head" will be open next week and made ready for the arrival of the family.

George Willett of Norwood and Boston was at his Coolidge's Point estate Monday looking over his new house, which he expects to be ready for occupancy by the middle of June.

Among the new families to come to the shore this season will be the Edward Kings of Boston, who have taken the S. Parkman Blake house on Jersey Lane, West Manchester. Mrs. Blake's brother, James Higginson, and family intended to occupy the house, but illness in the family prevents them from so doing. Mrs. Blake and Miss Marion Blake are still traveling abroad.

There will be few larger stables on the North Shore this summer than that of Otto Kahn of New York, who is to occupy the Charles Head estate in June after the Heads go to their Lake Champlain country place. Mr. Kahn has a fine string of horses and he will make his debut as an exhibitor in this section at the Country club horse show the 23d, 24th and 25th of this month. He will also probably be a large exhibitor in the Myopia Hunt club show in September.

More Road Improvements.

It may be of interest to our North Shore readers, and more especially to those that live at Magnolia and Manchester, to know that the State Highway Commissioners have decided to continue the state highway from the point on the Gloucester road, near Freshwater Cove, to the bridge at the Annisquam river. At this point there is to be a wide, modern and up-to-date iron and steel bridge with a 40-foot opening for a draw, constructed. This will make a beautiful entrance into the city of Gloucester. At this point, also, the river is to be dredged, to have a depth of six feet of water at mean low tide up to the railroad bridge.

There is now being built from Bass Rocks across the marsh and lowlands, a new road, which will lead to a proposed new station about half way between Gloucester and Rockport. This drive will lead over some of the best property for summer homes on Cape Ann, and offers delightful views of the ocean.

BAKER'S HORSE SANDAL is the best, cheapest and most durable shoe in use. It is quickly adjusted, does not gall or injure the horse in any way, in fact it is just what is wanted in every way. It is in use on many of the best golf links and private estates from Maine to Oregon. It is made in four sizes:

No. 1. To fit shoes from 5 to 5 3/4 inches long. No. 2. To fit shoes from 5 1/2 to 6 1/4 inches long. No. 3. To fit shoes from 6 to 7 inches long. No. 4. To fit shoes from 6 3/4 to 7 1/2 inches long.

In ordering please send size of horseshoe from heel to toe, or a tracing of the shoe, to insure a good fit.

Price, $8 per set with leather taps, $6 per set without leather taps.

JOHN BAKER, Superintendent Essex County Club.
MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA, MASS.

Mr. JOHN BAKER,
Manchester, Mass.

Dayton, O., Nov. 24, 1903.

My Dear Sir: As Chairman of the Green Committee of the Dayton Golf Club, I have, during the past four years been called upon by my Green Keeper for two or three sets of leather boots per season; these have cost us from $9.00 to $11.00 per set. Hence it gives me great pleasure to state that the single set of Lawn Shoes purchased from you last spring, has been entirely satisfactory and is as good now as when we bought them. In addition to their value from the standpoint of economy, they are very easily attached to the hoof, do not become loose, and do not make sore spots on our horses' legs as our leather boot did. They are a great success and I heartily recommend them.

Yours truly,

R. T. HOUK.

In Memoriam.

We are in receipt this week of a copy of the Attica (N. Y.) News, which contains a good account of the death of the late Burley Smith, a former Manchester boy. After a sketch of Mr. Smith's life, telling of his career as a business man, the article says:

"Mr. Smith was a most domestic man in his tastes and his family circle was his greatest enjoyment. He was seldom away from them. And was a very kind and indulgent husband and father, always planning for their care and comfort. Although not engaged in active business, he was one of the most prominent citizens in this part of the county, where he had many warm friends. His friendships were very dear to him and his kind heartedness and general lovable ways brought him very many. In disposition, charitable and generous. His love for the truth and high mindedness was shown to those who knew him in the way he lived.

"Mr. Smith leaves four children, Elizabeth and James of Attica, Mrs. J. Holland Rudd and Burley Smith, Jr., of Ilion, N. Y., two sisters, Mrs. Mary Stevens of Attica, and Mrs. D. B. Kimball of Salem, Mass., and one brother, Augustus A. Smith, of Attica."

Adjourned Town Meeting.

At the adjourned town meeting to be held in the Manchester town hall Monday evening, at 7.30 o'clock, the report of the School Committee on plans and specifications for a new school building, will be the matter of most importance. The Committee has been at work the past weeks looking around at other buildings used for primary schools and are now prepared to present several plans, one of which the voters will be called upon to accept.

The committee appointed on salaries for town officers will also report at this meeting.

Society Notes.

No recent engagement has merited so much prominence as that last week of Miss Hetty Appleton Sargent and Francis Lee Higginson, Jr., both of whom are prominent in Boston and North Shore society circles. Miss Sargent is the only daughter of Mrs. Lucius M. Sargent of Boston, and she has a delightful summer home on Coolidge's Point, Manchester, alongside of her grandfather, the Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge. Mr. Higginson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Higginson, who have a decidedly pretty estate at Prides Crossing. He is a Harvard 1900 man. His sisters are Mrs. Philip Sears, Misses Juliet and Barbara Higginson, all of whom are prominent in the social life of the North Shore colony.

The engagement is also announced of another well-known North Shore belle, and a Sargent, too,—that of Miss Emily Whitney Sargent, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sargent, to Baron Ludwig Knoop. The Sargents have a very pretty summer place at Magnolia, but they have spent their winters for several years past traveling abroad. They are still at Helonan, near Cairo, Egypt. Baron Knoop is the son of Baron Waiya Knoop of "Muhlenthal," St. Magnus, Germany, and "South Park," Wadhurst, Sussex, England.

The Mortimer B. Masons will open their Smith's Point house for the season week after next. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Warren Mason, who were married in Portland last week, have arrived and are occupying the Abram Dame cottage on Proctor street, Manchester.

The many North Shore friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Boardman and their two charming daughters, so prominent in the social doings of the summer colony, will regret to learn they are to spend the summer abroad. "Wyndcliffe," their beautiful summer home, off School street, Manchester, will be occupied after June 1 by the John Marckles of New York.

The Bryce J. Allans moved down to their Beverly Cove villa Saturday last for the season.

S. V. R. Crosby sailed this week for the other side, where he is to join Mrs. Crosby and her sister, Mrs. Boylston Beal, who went over in March. They are to spend some time on the continent, but will return in time to open their West Manchester house in June.

ASSETS.

80 Acres of mining claims with nearly $1,200,000.00 worth of ore in sight, giving a mine valuation of $5,000,000.00

2,000 H.P. water right earning 12 per cent. on the entire capitalization. Chloride and canvas plants, stamp mill with concentration plant, machinery and tools, buildings, etc. $100,000.00

Value of work done to open ore bodies $300,000.00

Two great auriferous veins outcropping on the surface for two and one-half miles.

Shaft sunk 700 feet with levels running north and south at depths of 150, 250, 460, 530, 600, and 660 feet.

20 stamps running night and day and the entire 40 stamps in a few weeks.

ARE YOU TIRED OF PROSPECTS?

This is an opportunity to invest in a shipping mine. Your money is safe. A Preferred Stock guaranteed dividend of 12 per cent., beginning July 1st, 1905, with possibilities of from 100 to 200 per cent. in a few years — many of the mines in this camp have paid $50,000, $100,000, $500,000 and $1,000,000 in a single month, when ore has been struck in rich pockets, which is characteristic of the mines on this Mother Lode of California.

THE ESSEX CONSOLIDATED MINES, located in Angels Camp, California, four and one-half miles from the town and only 1,000 feet from station on the Sierra R.R., is just such a proposition.

Write for free booklet "Gold Mining on the Mother Lode" and photographs of property.

The price of stock is now $1.00 per share for the Preferred and fifty cents per share for the Common Stock. For a short time only purchasers of Preferred Stock will be given as a bonus one-half share of Common Stock with each share of Preferred purchased. Investors should take advantage of this extremely liberal offer, as the present price is altogether too low and will soon be advanced.

A Photographic Contest.

The Boston & Northern and Old Colony Street Railways have a plan for making the people of Massachusetts acquainted with the beauty spots along their lines by inaugurating a photographic contest, open to amateurs only. The lines of these two roads run through scenes of natural beauty which cannot be surpassed in Massachusetts, and it is to find out what spots appeal most to lovers of beauty that this contest has been started. The companies offer liberal prizes in cash and goods to those who take pictures that have real artistic merit and which show the most beautiful spots along their lines.

We are advised by R. H. Derrah, the Passenger Agent, who has the contest in charge, that the following conditions will be observed. Photographs must not be less than 4 by 5 inches, nor larger than 8 by 10 inches in size. They must be printed on matte surface paper and mounted, and on the back of each must be plainly marked the location of the photograph and the name and address of the sender.

Thomas Harrison Cummings, editor of the "Photo-Era," George R. King and F. E. Bowman, all three well-known gentlemen in the photographic world, will act as judges.

The contest will close September 1, 1905, and all photographs are to be addressed to the Boston office of the Passenger Agent, 309 Washington street.

Such Open Hearted Expressions of Approval

Such spontaneousness as was shown yesterday in passing favorable comment on our store and decorations quite overwhelmed us.

We hardly realized that you looked upon us in quite the light you do. Expressions like these most deeply impressed us: "Well, we knew you'd have something different." "'Tis the prettiest thing we ever saw," "Titus is it," and "Entitled to wear the purple—it represents the Royalty, which certainly means you," and hundreds of other like compliments, give us an added reason as to why we receive so liberal a share of this county's patronage. We believe you come here now expecting a little more than you get elsewhere, and wasn't our little means employed in proving the worth of our wares a little beyond your expectations?

Well, we'll always keep a step ahead of you in pleasure giving and value giving; exact what you will, we'll meet it, and a little more.

Demonstrations the rest of the week—in the construction of goods and unusually low prices.

After the meetings Granville Crombie and Chas. W. Fritz entertained with a variety of graphophone selections, and later in the evening the Hook and Ladder company, with the board of engineers and other invited guests, adjourned to the "banquet hall," where a delicious oyster supper awaited them—one of the kind that only firemen can make and thoroughly enjoy.

THE PROPOSED PRIMARY SCHOOL FOR MANCHESTER.

School Committee did not Unite on Architects and Matter was not decided at Town Meeting. Referred to Another Committee.

At the adjourned town meeting in Manchester Monday night, the proposed new Primary School building was the business of greatest importance brought before the voters, but action on this was deferred because of the failure of the School Committee to unite on an architect and to agree as to the number of rooms for the proposed building.

A majority and minority report was presented by Messrs. Floyd and Ashley, and Chairman Lane, respectively, and after a liberal discussion of the question the whole matter was referred to the Finance Committee to report back to the town at a meeting to be held a week from next Monday evening.

When the other business of the meeting had been disposed of, Secretary Ashley of the committee read the report submitted by himself and L. W. Floyd in which was set forth the steps leading up to the selection by them of Messrs. Bailey & Cooper as the architects of the proposed building; also the claim for a six room in preference to a four room structure, and closed by recommending that $31,000 be appropriated for the building.

Chairman of the Committee Lane then read a minority report, in which he presented plans for a four room building by architects Andrews, Jaques & Rantoul. Mr. Lane made an assurance in his report that the building he proposed would cost, all complete, with grounds in proper condition, and three of the four rooms furnished, $33,784.

It was brought out that the committee was a unit as regards the best of material being put into the building, the foundations, the sanitary and heating arrangement, but they did not unite on architects, or on the number of rooms required.

Mr. Lane claimed in his report that the prospective increase in the number of children did not demand more than a four-room building. But Messrs. Ashley and Floyd claimed that while four rooms were required for primary school purposes, two more rooms should also be added for manual training and domestic science classes. They said that manual training was taught at the present time in the attic of the Priest school under poor conditions, and that it was desirable to introduce domestic science, but that this was practically impossible under the present conditions.

While Mr. Lane did not deny the desirability of these two courses, he was of the opinion the new building should be used for Primary School purposes entirely—for children between the ages of five and eight years.

Mr. Ashley read a number of letters from well-known men and business houses, endorsing Bailey & Cooper as architects, and instances of some of their work were related. Mr. Lane said he felt Andrews, Jaques & Rantoul, the architects he recommended, needed no introduction at Manchester,

The Possibilities of Shorthand.

The demonstration of the possibilities of shorthand, given at Ames Memorial hall, Y.M.C.A. building, in Salem, Thursday evening, by Raymond P. Kelley of Chicago, one of the most expert shorthand writers of the day, was attended by many people from this section. The exhibition was given under the joint auspices of the Salem Commercial school and the Salem High school.

We note that the firm of Clark & Mills Elec. Co. are very busy caring for the electrical wants of their North Shore customers. This must be gratifying to Mr. Harding, their new manager, indicating that while he is new to the territory, the patrons of this well known firm are satisfied with the firm's work, and have confidence in the ability of their new manager. Among the new contracts being completed are Samuel Carr's, R. H. Dana's and others.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

MANCHESTER.

The many friends of Alpheus H. Dennis, who has been confined to his Friend's Court house the past four and a half months, are glad to see him about again. He was out Sunday for the first time this spring, much improved in health.

"Manchester in War" will be the subject discussed at the Haphazard club meeting Monday evening. Dr. and Mrs. Glendenning will entertain.

Albert Richardson of Salem, a former Manchester boy, sailed from Boston, Tuesday, on the Ivernia, for a six months' trip in Europe in the interests of Parker Bros., the well-known novelty concern.

Clement Harris of New York was in town over Sunday, a guest of the Ezekiel Lethbridges.

Miss Annie McDiarmid, formerly of Manchester, who has been teaching in Pascoag, R.I., has accepted a position in East Providence, R.I., as assistant to the principal in a large grammar school.

There was a lively runaway at the Cove last Sunday morning, when a horse owned by Prescott Bigelow, attached to a light runabout, started from the Bigelow stable and made a wild dash up the road. The carriage was considerably damaged.

NOTICE

The annual meeting of the Manchester Firemen Relief Association will be held on Monday, May 15, 1905, at 8 P.M.

Twenty-Four Pages.

Last week for the first time since the Breeze was first published we were forced to enlarge the paper to twenty-four pages. Owing to the press of advertising matter at this time of the year we have printed two extra pages for the two weeks preceding, and last week,—the beginning of May—the great amount of new advertising necessitated two more pages being added. This speaks well for the Breeze. Covering, as it does, the whole North Shore, it is a medium which commands the attention of the advertisers as a means of reaching North Shore people—from Magnolia to Beverly.

Miss Eleen Slavin of Deseronto, Can. after a delightful visit with Mr. and Mrs. Thos. D. Connolly and family, returned to Waltham, Tuesday.

The City government has appropriated the sum of $1,100, to be used for surface drainage on West and Beach streets, Beverly Farms, which is a much needed improvement.

Mrs. Mary Bartlett, after an extended confinement to the house by illness, is able to be out again, much to the gratification of her many friends.

The familiar face of Wm. F. Beckford of Beverly is again seen by the patrons of the North Shore Fish Market. Mr. Beckford resumed his former position this week.

Travel across the Causeway at West Beach near Lee's Crossing has been stopped owing to the tearing up of the old culvert, which is being replaced by a new one of concrete, with a much larger opening.

Somebody, probably boys, one night this week meddled with the City of Beverly steam road roller which is at work on Hart street, doing considerable damage, opening the throttle, twisting some of the rods and in other ways disabling the machine. Luckily the dampers were not disturbed. The police are investigating.

Thomas F. Wheelan and A. F. Whittredge, clerks at Messrs. Walker Bros. & Co., came down this week from Boston and are with the above named firm as usual for the season.

Telephone Exchange

Opened at Farms.

The telephone exchange in Marshall's Hall, Beverly Farms, was opened last Sunday, and is in charge of Miss Dora Brown, who had charge of it last summer. She will be assisted this season by Miss Gertrude Harris. At night the pleasant voice of John Murney will again be heard.

It is with a great deal of satisfaction to the subscribers and users of the telephone in having the Central again in operation at Beverly Farms, which means much better service — and also means that at night when all business places are closed, there will be a place in town where the public can go in case of sickness or any other cause and use a telephone without the disagreeable duty of routing up some friend or neighbor at all hours with the request that their 'phone might be used.

To Leave the Farms.

It is with sincere regret that the people of Beverly Farms and Pride's Crossing learn of the retirement of Mr. William Ford, who has been superintendent and care-taker of the Martin Brimmer estate (now Herbert M. Sears) for twenty-seven years. Mr. and Mrs. Ford, who are well along in years, have well earned the blessings of a life well spent and are loved by all who know them. The best wishes of the whole community for many years yet to enjoy life go with them to their new home in Salem, where they will remove shortly. Charles Ford, who has practically spent all his life upon this estate, will succeed his father.

ARE YOU TIRED OF PROSPECTS?

This is an opportunity to invest in a shipping mine. Your money is safe. A Preferred Stock guaranteed dividend of 12 per cent., beginning July 1st, 1905, with possibilities of from 100 to 200 per cent. in a few years, — many of the mines in this camp have paid $50,000, $100,000, $500,000 and $1,000,000 in a single month. when ore has been struck in rich pockets, which is characteristic of the mines on this Mother Lode of California.

THE ESSEX CONSOLIDATED MINES, located in Angels Camp, California, four and one-half miles from the town and only 1,000 feet from station on the Sierra R.R., is just such a proposition.

Write for free booklet "Gold Mining on the Mother Lode" and photographs of property.

The price of stock is now $1.00 per share for the Preferred and fifty cents per share for the Common Stock. For a short time only purchasers of Preferred Stock will be given as a bonus one-half share of Common Stock with each share of Preferred purchased. Investors should take advantage of this extremely liberal offer, as the present price is altogether too low and will soon be advanced.

ENCIRCLED THE GLOBE.

dropped into Manchester to have some repairs made, and has now decided to give a lecture in the Manchester town hall next Tuesday night.

Capt. Slocum's voyage around the world, single-handed, in his staunch little craft has been heralded far and wide. Several books have been published on his experiences, and at the time he completed his trip, seven years ago, magazines and newspapers were full of his accounts. For some time since, the captain has been about the Atlantic coast, showing his boat and lecturing here and there.

The "Spray" is 36 feet 9 inches over all, 14 feet 2 inches deep, her tonnage being 9 tons net and 12½ gross. She is decked all over, with raised hatches to give head room fore and aft, and, as will be seen by the above dimensions, was very shallow and very beamy. She is very strongly carvel-built of best material and stoutly fastened, though now she shows her age and her experiences.

"A liner would go quicker, but the 'Spray' is so much safer," said Capt. Slocum, when the BREEZE man suggested he would prefer sailing on an ocean liner.

Capt. Slocum sailed on April 24, 1895, and completed his voyage in June of 1898, after three years and two months on the deep. He made his first stop at Gibraltar, and thence to Cape Horn, past the Canary islands, stopping at various points on the African coast, finally entering the dreaded Straits of Magellan. Over the Pacific he sailed, and finally reached Australia. Thence he sailed for the Indian Ocean and down to Cape Town, where he made a long stay. On March 28, 1898, the "Spray" put forth from South Africa for the homeward run, and on June 27, after 46,000 miles around the world, he dropped anchor in Newport.

"There she is," said Capt. Slocum, after he had told the story of his trip, "as safe and sound as when I sailed from Boston on the long voyage. She is as sound as a nut and as tight as the best ship afloat. I feel just as young now as the day I felled the first tree used in building the 'Spray.'"

"It was real 'Spray' luck that brought me to Manchester, and Tuesday night I shall tell of my trip, in the town hall."

GOOD PASTURE

P.O. Address, BOX 409, MANCHESTER, MASS.

BAKER'S HORSE SANDAL is the best, cheapest, and most durable shoe in use. It is quickly adjusted, does not gall or injure the horse in any way, in fact it is just what is wanted in every way. It is in use on many of the best golf links and private estates from Maine to Oregon. It is made in four sizes:

No. 1. To fit shoes from 5 to 5 3/4 inches long. No. 2. To fit shoes from 5 1/2 to 6 1/4 inches long. No. 3. To fit shoes from 6 to 7 inches long. No. 4. To fit shoes from 6 3/4 to 7 1/2 inches long.

In ordering please send size of horseshoe from heel to toe, or a tracing of the shoe, to insure a good fit.

Price, $5 per set with leather taps, $6 per set without leather taps.

Dayton, O., Nov. 24, 1903.

My Dear Sir: As Chairman of the Green Committee of the Dayton Golf Club, I have, during the past four years been called upon by my Green Keeper for two or three sets of leather boots per season; these have cost us from $9.00 to $11.00 per set. Hence it gives me great pleasure to state that the single set of Lawn Shoes purchased from you last spring, has been entirely satisfactory and is as good now as when we bought them. In addition to their value from the standpoint of economy, they are very easily attached to the hoof, do not become loose, and do not make sore spots on our horses' legs as our leather boot did. They are a great success and I heartily recommend them.

Yours truly,

WORTH

SEEING

The new Shadow Tapestry — 50 inches wide, double faced — requires no lining for Drapery use — without exception it is the finest bit of color we've ever seen.

When used for coverings and draperies the effect is charming.

The Orchid — on a white ground — is an exquisite piece of color printing — well worth coming miles to see.

Perhaps — if one pattern were to be singled out as the greatest novelty of the year, it would be the "PEACOCK" — an unusual and beautiful specimen of high French Art.

WEDNESDAY EVENING CLUB.

Young People from Lynn Offer Excellent Amusement.

The meeting of the Wednesday Evening club, in the Manchester town hall this week, when a delightfully entertaining program was presented, was a most fitting climax to the season's meetings. Almost 240 members were present.

Aaron B. Palmer of Lynn, former principal of the Story High school, and a number of his pupils from the Tracy Grammar school furnished most of the entertainment. The young people were very talented. The Tracy school orchestra, composed of two piano players, one drummer, three violins, one triangle and one pair of clappers, played several selections. Little Miss Laura Jacobs, Master Waldo Webber and Miss Velmar Webber displayed considerable talent in their readings.

The address of the evening was given by Frank J. Peasley, superintendent of schools of Lynn, who talked in an informal, chatty manner on "Experiences Abroad." He narrated his experiences, or as he puts it, his adventures on a trip across the ocean in a cattle boat to the Christian Endeavor convention at London five years ago. His talk was profusely sprinkled with humor.

During the intermission which followed ice-cream and cake were served by a corps of young people.

Miss Marion G. Scott played two selections on the violin and Mrs. Annette Frizelle Willard of Cambridge sang very sweetly a group of songs. Miss Edith Wheaton was accompanist.

This was the last meeting of the club this spring. Next October another meeting will be held, at which time the officers for the year will be elected and the year's plans laid out.

Following is the program:

CHURCH NOTES.

Manchester.

Rev. Edward Hersey Brewster will preach at the Baptist church tomorrow morning on "Contented Captivity." At the People's evening service at 7.30 he will preach the last of his sermons on "What would Jesus Do," his theme for the evening being "If He were a church member."

A Delegation of about twenty attended the Baptist Sunday school association gathering at Rockport, Wednesday.

Five members received the right hand of fellowship at the Baptist church last Sunday—four by baptism and one by experience.

One hundred copies of "Pentacostal Hymns, No. 3" have just been substituted for the older series used in the vestry of the Baptist church.

The Junior Endeavor meeting tomorrow will be lead by Lydia Dennis. Topic: "A Cord of Blue; the Value of Reminders."

"Spirit-Filled Christians" will be the topic of the Y.P.S.C.E. meeting tomorrow evening, Miss Eliza G. Goldsmith, leader.

C. Arthur Lincoln, the pastor-elect, will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church tomorrow.

MANCHESTER.

The many friends of George Kennard, the popular conductor, have missed him on his usual trains the past week. Mr. Kennard has been on a trip to Salt Lake City.

George L. Allen has this week bought from George A. Morse, the house on the corner of Central street and Morse court, Manchester, for his own use. Mr. Allen plans to make some minor changes in the property prior to occupying it the early part of next month.

Mrs. George A. Morse and children plan on sailing from Boston on the "Ivernia," June 6, to spend the summer at Antrim, in the north of Ireland. On their return the latter part of the summer they will occupy their house on Morse court, in the rear of the property sold this week to Mr. Allen.

Daniel Sullivan was home from Boston over Sunday.

George Woodbury has opened his bicycle store in the Morse block for the season.

Few private gardens in town present a neater and more attractive appearance than that of George S. Sinnicks on Ashland corner. Encircling the green lawn at his house are many species of beautifully colored flowers most artistically arranged. The garden, on the whole, is rather inclined toward the English type, due undoubtedly to Mr. Sinnick's recent visit on the other side.

The B.B.B. will hold a drill in the town hall next Wednesday evening, when General Gerry of the United Boys' Brigade of Mass. will be present. A reception will be given in his honor from 7 to 7.15. Admission will be by pass. A silver collection will be taken to recuperate the funds of the brigade.

Harriet Knapp Morse.

Harriet Knapp Morse, one of Manchester's respected old ladies, passed away rather suddenly Thursday evening, at her home in West Manchester. Only last week — May 1 — she celebrated her 86th birthday, and was able to receive a number of friends, who called to congratulate her. Thursday she felt no different than usual, but about 9 o'clock, when she was preparing to retire, she passed away without any warning to those around her.

Mrs. Morse was a remarkably interesting old lady. She was greatly respected by all who knew her. Born in Groveland, Mass., in 1819, she moved to Manchester when a girl and has made her home here since. Her husband, James Morse, died 20 years ago.

She was a mother of 14 children, 11 of whom survive her. They are: George A. and Benj. P. of Manchester, James H. of Beverly, Albert of Brookline, Harriet Crafts of Beverly, Mary Augusta Larcom and Elizabeth Dow of Beverly Farms, Salome Lee of Essex, Miss Lucretia Morse of Boston, Miss Emma Morse of Manchester and Ursula Goodrich.

Few women can claim the distinction of being able to be the mother of four generations. Mrs. Morse, however, has for some time been a great-great-grandmother.

Besides 11 children which survive her, Mrs. Morse also leaves 27 grandchildren, 31 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at her late home, Sunday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock. Interment will be at Beverly Farms, in the lot where her husband is also buried.

Kate Lull Needham.

Mrs. Kate Lull Needham, a native of Manchester, passed away at her home in Cambridge, Tuesday last, and was brought to Manchester Thursday for interment in the family lot at Rosedale cemetery. Mrs. Needham was a daughter of the late Capt. Wm. Lull, one of Manchester's old sea captains. Her age was 67 years. A husband and two daughters survive her.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING.

MANCHESTER.

A Public Hearing will be given before the Appropriation Committee, Monday evening, May 15th, at 8 o'clock, in the Selectmen's Office, to consider the plans presented for the new School Building.

All persons specifically interested in this matter are requested to be present.

A. C. NEEDHAM,
Secretary.

MAGNOLIA

[From our Correspondent.]

Quite a number of the young people from here attended the High school dance in Manchester, Friday evening.

The teachers' class met with Rev. F. J. Libby at the parsonage, Saturday evening.

Plans are going forward for the ordination of Rev. F. J. Libby. Rev. Mr. Williamson has been secured for the ordination sermon.

Mrs. Joseph Crispin and Mrs. Willard Boyd were in Danvers Wednesday.

Alfred Knowlton, who has been employed at a hotel in Bermuda during the winter, arrived home Sunday.

Miss M. A. Bradford spent Sunday at the Bradford studio.

Miss Elizabeth G. Wilbor was at the Houghton cottage, Tuesday.

Amateur Theatricals.

The theatricals given in Library Hall, Magnolia, Wednesday evening, for the benefit of the parsonage, are receiving the praises of all who witnessed them. Practically every seat was taken, people being present from both Manchester and Gloucester. The short sketch entitled, "No Men Wanted," was full of funny incidents and caused much laughter and applause, and went off with much snap. The comedy, "Brass Buttons," was one of the best things of its kind ever presented here and kept the audience interested from start to finish.

The local hits on the young men were the cause of much laughter and each act was finished with a good round of applause. The work of all the young ladies was especially fine for an amateur performance and several showed exceptional talent. Between the acts, selections were furnished by Long's orchestra who very kindly gave their services.

The young ladies have worked hard for the theatricals and should feel well repaid for their pains.

Informal Reception.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilman Cheever on Bridge street, Manchester, Monday evening, an informal reception was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mead (Miss Woodbury) who returned from their wedding trip last week. A large number of friends called to extend congratulations. A handsome collection of presents was displayed in one of the rooms. The affair was thoroughly informal. Punch and cake was served by Mrs. A. C. Needham, Misses Kate Ashley and Alice Sanborn. Harold Stanley, Bert Floyd, Bert Sinricks, Hollis Bell and Charles Lodge, member's of the bride's Sunday school class, acted as ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Mead will be "at home" at their home on Pine street, Wellesley Farms, on Tuesday, June 6th and 13th.

"Ward 6 Voter" on

"Hokey Pokey" Carts.

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

It is to be expected that in a short time we shall have some of our streets, especially the main thoroughfare, in first class condition, that is, as far as the construction of same is concerned; but I think the popular sentiment of the people at Beverly Farms is that all will not be done that should be to make our village attractive until the proper steps are taken to keep same in a neat and clean condition, especially for the summer months. In the past no effort of any consequence has been made in this direction, the result of which our streets are much too often cluttered, which certainly is objectionable to all who believes "Cleanliness is next to Godliness."

I should like to suggest that the Superintendent or the Committee on Streets have in Beverly Farms this summer (if nothing better can be had) a so-called "Hokey Pokey" cart, or in other words a good man with a push cart, broom and shovel whose duty it shall be to go about, especially in the business portion, cleaning up rubbish and everything objectionable that goes to retard the attractiveness of our streets. This method has been tried and found necessary both in Beverly and Manchester with such good results that I venture to say that in either place mentioned the dispensing of this method is not to be entertained. If a good thing is necessary in other places, why not in Beverly Farms?

"WARD 6 VOTER."

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bennett formerly of this town and now of Boston, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Culbert. Mr. Bennett is a clerk in the U.S. railroad postal service.

Bernard J. Woods, the popular athletic instructor of Boston has returned to the Farms for the summer.

Upon the large window of the post-office this week has been placed letters in gilt of a neat design, which add materially to the attractiveness of the new office.

Society Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Clement S. Houghton have rented their cottage on Coolidge's Point, Manchester, to Mr. George Fabyan of Boston, and will pass the summer at their new home on Suffolk road, Chestnut hill.

The marriage, Tuesday, of Mrs. Margaret Manning Russell to Dr. Michael George Foster of London, Eng., was of interest to many North Shore people. Mrs. Russell is the widow of ex-Gov. William E. Russell, who used to spend his summers at Manchester Cove. Dr. and Mrs. Foster will make their home in England, while Mrs. Russell's two sons will remain in Cambridge to complete their education.

Guy Norman has been granted permission by the Harbor and Land Commissioners to construct an ocean pier off his estate at Beverly Cove. Mr. Norman's new boat, launched at Fenton's boat yard a few weeks ago, is fast being put in readiness to go into commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Bradbury and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. White are located at "Lilliothea," their Smith's Point cottage, for the summer, having moved down Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Field and Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Pearson moved down to the "Fields' cottage," on Smith's Point, the first of the week, the house having been opened last week in anticipation of their arrival.

The Dr. George Washburns have opened their house on Masconomo street, Manchester, this week, the family arriving Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow and Prescott Bigelow, jr., were down at the Bigelows' Cove cottage over Sunday. The family intend to move down permanently within a week or two.

Walter Channing was down to his house on University lane, at Manchester Cove, the first of the week. The house is being put in condition for the arrival of the Frazier Harrises of Philadelphia the early part of June.

At Hamilton, this week, the Thomas H. Proctors and the A. O. Beaches have opened their beautiful summer homes for the season. The colony is steadily increasing in numbers and considerable activity is evident about the Myopia Hunt Club grounds. The tennis courts have been kept busy all the week. Extensive improvements are being made around the polo field, there being indications of a good season in polo.

Governor Approves Bill

For Automobile Regulation.

Governor Douglas has affixed his signature to the second of the bills for the regulation of motor vehicles proposed by the Highway Commission. The measure which met with the approval of his excellency was the so-called speed bill—the other, the registration bill, having been approved previously.

The speed bill will go into effect on Saturday, June 3. It is a distinct victory for the automobilists, for it does away with all the local town and city regulations, except those made by park commissioners, now in effect, thus putting a stop to four-mile-an-hour laws, and other low-speed regulations designed to keep the automobiles out of certain places.

The bill, however, permits the towns and cities greater liberty than before in drafting new sets of speed regulations, in that it gives them the right to make such regulations as they see fit. Thus they may permit a road race or exclude the automobiles altogether, or they may permit high speed on some country roads and enforce a low speed on busy streets. There is a provision for appeal to the Highway Commission from any special regulations made by cities and towns.

The amendments to the registration law will go into effect on May 20. Probably the most interesting sections of this law, so far as automobilists are concerned, relate to the punishments for infraction of the law. Under the present law the maximum fines are $25, while under the new law the fines are of three grades, $25 for a first, $50 for a second and $100 for a third offence.

Under the existing law the imposition of a fine on an automobilist found guilty of violating the law is mandatory, but by the new law the word "shall" has been replaced by "may." The new law also strengthens the provisions by which the Commission can "kill" a car as well as an operator's license.

Automobiles from outside the state are permitted to be operated for fifteen days in Massachusetts without a Massachusetts registration, but they must carry the registration credentials and the number issued by the state within which the owner lives and no other.

As a whole, the automobilists are very well satisfied with the new law and feel that they have gained more than they have lost. They believe that with punishment optional there will be many less fines than under the existing law, and that the new speed law will tend toward more liberal speed regulations.

MINSTREL SHOW.

Manchester Hall packed at Entertainment in Aid of Sacred Heart Church.

The grand minstrel entertainment given in the town hall at Manchester, Thursday evening, by the young people of the Sacred Heart church was a great drawing card. The hall was packed,—more than 350 people filling the building to overflowing. The affair was in aid of the Sacred Heart church.

There were 28 in the circle, with M. A. McInnis as interlocutor. The ends were Misses Josephine White, Kate Walsh and Helen O'Brien, and Lagory Wade, Andrew Dagle and Fred Dougherty. They were all bubbling over with a gist of jokes and local hits, which kept the audience in a constant roar of laughter. In the first part were arranged twelve solos, with chorus, and this was followed by part two, when some highly pleasing numbers were given.

At the close of the first part Fr. John J. Downey stepped upon the stage and thanked the audience for their liberal patronage on the occasion of his first entertainment in Manchester, congratulating the young people on their work. He also thanked Fr. McGuire for his part in making the affair a success. He hoped that in the near future, when he would erect a pretty church in Manchester, the same liberal patronage would be manifested.

A large delegation came down from Beverly Farms to attend the entertainment.

In the circle were Messrs Andrew Dagle, John Dillon, Fred Dougherty, Charles Fritz, Archie Gillis, William Gillis, Cornelius Kelleher, James Kelleher, Michael McInnis, Daniel Reardon, James Sheehan, William Sheehan, Lagory Wade, Edward Walsh and Misses Katherine Cooney, Ann Coughlin, Helen Coughlin, Elizabeth Dillon, Priscilla Fritz, Mary Gillis, Margaret McGrath, Mary McNary, Nellie O'Brien, Margaret

Sweeney, Catherine Walsh, Theresa Walsh, Katherine Watson and Josephine White. Miss Mary Barry was accompanist.

The program carried out follows:

Society Notes.

Miss Anna Amory has closed her town house in Boston and moved down to Pride's Crossing, Wednesday, for the summer.

The "Brownland" cottages at Manchester will be opened this year about June 1, as usual. The prospects of a good season at this popular place is evident, as already practically every room in the cottages has been let.

The Henry C. Leaches will move down from Salem next week and will be located at their School street house in Manchester for the balance of the season.

Mrs. Mary Sampson was down to her Manchester Cove place, Wednesday, making preparations for opening the house shortly.

The William Hoopers have returned from Boston and are again located at their house on the Beverly Farms road.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Shaw, whose house at Beverly Farms was opened last week, arrived a day or two ago for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seabury started Tuesday on a two weeks' trip to Canada, most of which time they will spend in Montreal.

The John L. Thorndikes opened their house at West Manchester yesterday, most of the family arriving at that time. Mr. Thorndike started two weeks ago on a business trip to Europe.

Mrs. Otis H. Luke and daughter are sojourning at the "Owl cottage," off Hale street, Beverly Farms.

The Charles H. Daltons, the Gordon Dexters and the Dr. Hall Curtises are among the families who have opened their Beverly Farms houses this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Higginson have closed their Boston house and Tuesday moved down to Pride's Crossing for the summer.

Her 91st Birthday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Young, one of Manchester's oldest daughters, celebrated her 91st birthday, Thursday, at her home on Washinton street. Mrs. Young would be quite active but for her lameness caused by a fall a few years ago. A number of friends called Thursday to extend congratulations.

DO YOU WANT

TO USE WHAT IS BEST FOR

YOUR TEETH?

As the eye is the index of the soul, so perfect teeth, white and bright, are an index of good care and health.

In recent years much study and attention has been given to the anti-septic treatment of the mouth, and the care of the teeth by scientific men.

It has been found that the germs of Diphtheria, Typhoid Fever, La Grippe, and many other diseases find entrance to the human system through the mouth.

As a result of this investigation and study, Barker's Antiseptic Dental Wash and Antiseptic Tooth Powder have been devised and are now being largely used by physicians, dentists, actors, actresses, and people generally who realize the importance of white sound teeth, not only as an element of beauty, but as an aid to digestion, and an essential of health.

"Fine teeth are very jewels in the mouth of beauty." Would you hesitate for one moment to purchase and use a particular dentifrice if you were sure that by so doing you would have whiter, brighter and healthier teeth.

Large Real Estate Deal

One of the largest real estate deals transacted in Manchester for some time was that put through last week by Orrin A. Martin, the real estate dealer, who bought from John A. Brown of Ipswich, all the woodland owned by him in Manchester. This consisted of five lots, aggregating 22 acres. The land is located in the northwest part of the town on the Essex old road, near Moses hill, so-called. Through the deal some of the best woodland in Manchester is brought upon the market.

Mr. Martin has already conveyed to Julius F. Rabardy, who buys for investment, one five-acre lot, the Perkins lot, so-called. Hamilton R. Squire has also bought a lot, the Frank Hardy lot, so-called, of five and one-half acres. Mr. Squire may build on his in the future. The Wm. H. Russell lot and the two Andrew D. Trowt lots, so-called, are still retained by Mr. Martin.

The Warren D. Clinton Low lot on the Essex old road, consisting of seven acres, has also been conveyed to Mr. Martin by Israel A. Martin. This property adjoins the Henry L. Higginson land. The purchase is made for investment.

Return of the "Yankee Consul."

Playgoers in Greater Boston no doubt will be gratified by the announcement that Raymond Hitchcock is to return to the Tremont Theatre next Monday for a limited engagement, during which he will again be seen in the title part in "The Yankee Consul." Blossom and Robyn's comic opera had its original production at the Tremont, where it sprang into immediate favor, and the opinion was universal that Mr. Hitchcock had done nothing so clever, so artistic, and so genuinely humorous as his creation of the character of Abijah Boose. Boston was not alone in recognizing the merits of star and opera, for long runs in New York (19 weeks), Chicago, and other cities have proved that the success was not merely local. Mr. Henry W. Savage has given the piece the most elaborate dressing of any of his musical offerings, and has surrounded Mr. Hitchcock with one of the most brilliant companies ever organized.

PROPOSED PRIMARY SCHOOL.

having planned and built many houses in this vicinity.

On Mr. Lane's motion the whole subject matter was left in the hands of the finance committee.

Previous to the school matter several other items of business were disposed of, among them being the report of the Park Commissioners, in which they called for $3,000 for dredging a channel and basin at Beach Street park. This was laid over till next year, however. Money was appropriated for building a new plank sidewalk on Magnolia avenue, for improving the Wenham wood road, for new concrete walks on the Common, and for buying additional land at the stone crusher.

School Committee's Report.

A report with recommendations To the Citizens of the Town of Manchester:

Pursuant to a vote of the town, your School Committee would respectfully submit the following report:

On March 27 the committee instructed its secretary to seek suggestions from the state officials concerning primary school buildings of late construction which they would commend that the committee might visit and examine some of the buildings. This the secretary did and reported to the committee.

During the following week the committee visited the office of Cooper & Bailey, Andrews, Jacques & Rantoul and Gay & Proctor, looking over some of their plans and getting ideas. With Cooper & Bailey they then visited school buildings in Arlington, Lexington, Billerica, and on another day visited alone the building in Beverly Farms.

On April 7 the committee instructed its secretary to ask Cooper & Bailey to visit the building site and suggest plans and furnish sketches for a suitable building.

On April 11 the committee met Cooper & Bailey on the proposed site and then went to the selectmen's room, and with the superintendent tried to formulate the needs so that the architects could embody them in their sketches.

On April 28 the committee met with Mr. Cooper and looked over his plans. As the committee could not agree as to the size of the building to recommend or whether it should be of brick or wood, slated or shingled, the architect was asked to prepare plans for an eight-room building, a six-room building and a four-room building ready for the estimates.

These plans have been prepared and are submitted for your consideration.

That your school committee has acted wisely in the selection of an architect is abundantly attested by these plans; also by documentary testimonials at hand from the office of the chief of district police at the State House and also from committees representing cities and towns in the Commonwealth where public school and other buildings have been constructed on plans and specifications furnished by this firm.

Of the plans presented here by Cooper & Bailey, we recommend that Plan No. 2, the same for a six-room building, with two other rooms for manual training and domestic science, at an estimated cost of $31,000, be accepted, and that the school committee be instructed by vote of the town to proceed with the construction of the same.

And we advise that, in view of the financial condition of the town and the inexpediency of raising the tax levy over and above such an amount as has been usual in the past, the town issue bonds in the sum of $40,000, such bonds to be issued for a term not to exceed ten years, and one of which bonds shall mature and be paid each year, and that the sum of money derived from the sale of these bonds be applied to the payment for the land and the construction of the school building thereon.

(Signed) Walter H. Ashley,
Lyman W. Floyd,

School Committee of Manchester.
Manchester, May 5, 1905.

Minority Report.

To the Citizens of Manchester.

Gentlemen:

I beg leave to submit for your consideration a minority report upon the erection of a new school building, and with my report I present to you these plans that have been prepared by Andrews, Jacques & Rantoul, well-known architects of Boston, who have built many fine residences in this vicinity, and many public buildings in Boston and other places.

Many of our citizens seem to feel that we should build with a view to a large increase in our schools within the next ten years and that an eight-room building should be erected. The growth of our schools has not been so large the past five years as the seven years preceding, and if the present increase should continue, it would be 20 years before the town would be called upon for additional school accommodations if they should build a four-room building at the present time. But it is the opinion of those who have the management of schools in their charge that children from five to eight years of age should occupy a separate building from the other pupils. The primary school pupils need more recreation,—they have recess twice a day,—their hours are shorter in the school room. It seems to me that everyone can see the advantages, and especially the mothers.

The need of the town at the present time is a four-room Primary school building. They should all be on the first floor and adapted to the use of children from five to eight years of age. The plans of this building presented for your consideration have been designed with that end in view.

There are four class rooms, each 24 x 30 feet, large enough to seat 49 pupils, or an aggregate of 196. The sanitariums are closely connected with the class rooms and yet far enough away so that they will not be a detriment to the comfort of those who occupy the building. There is a main entrance on Brook street with two side entrances, one on Norwood avenue and the other toward the playground with walks leading to the same. A corridor runs the entire length of the building. There is a teachers' dressing room and a room marked on the plan as a supply room, which would probably be used as a reception room for persons who wish to interview the teacher or scholars during school hours. There is also a children's wardrobe for each room. In the basement are two large rooms, which will be used for play rooms in stormy weather, also a janitor's room, boiler room and storage room for coal and wood.

The basement will be well lighted, having about 40 windows of good height. It is proposed to heat and ventilate the building with steam, this being the most economical and satisfactory. The heating and ventilating will be of the best and every part of the building will be connected with the ventilating system.

The building is of Colonial type, will be built of wood with a foundation of stone, and stone steps and stone buttresses to each entrance. The roof will be shingled and a cornice running around the entire building similar to that of our High school. The walls will be clapboarded. The inside finish will be brown ash with maple floors, metal ceilings and suitable blackboard space.

The building will face on Brook street and the location on the lot will be about 65 feet from that street and about 45 feet from Norwood avenue. This will bring the building within the limits of the lots recently acquired by the town and will not encroach upon the playground. The extreme length is about 108 feet and the extreme depth about 66 feet with about 6000 square feet of floor space. There will be a well-lighted space in the attic which could be used for several purposes. In procuring estimates for the cost of this building I have tried to have them liberal enough so that everything pertaining to the erection and completion would be covered.

The entire cost of the building, including everything connected with its construction, heating and ventilating, grading the grounds and laying concrete walks and furnishing three rooms will be $33,784. This estimate may be reduced about $4000 if the citizens wish to cheapen the building. Brick underpinning could be substituted for stone, which would lessen the expense about $2300. Spruce timbers for the first floor can be substituted for hard pine, which would make a reduction of $500. The building could be heated by furnaces, which would cost less than steam at first, but would be more expensive in the amount of fuel used.

In presenting this report with the accompanying figures of cost, I have endeavored to cover everything so that the town would not be called upon to spend more money to complete the job, and I believe that the building can be built and the grounds put in order and everything the very best at a sum that would be within the amount named.

Should the town see fit to erect this building it would be not only ideal for primary school purposes, but would have an educational value and a homelike appearance that would certainly be attractive to the children having their first experience in the public schools of our town. It would be an ornament and one that we could all feel proud of.

To those who feel that the town should erect an eight-room building, I will say that this one is to be so constructed that the roof can be raised at any time and four rooms more put on the second floor with the same general arrangements as prevail on the first floor. The stairways are provided for and the ventilators and heating also.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) Edward A. Lane,
Chairman of School Committee.
Manchester, May 8, 1905.

What Was Said and Done At Town Meeting.

The adjourned town meeting, in Manchester, was called to order at 7.50 Monday night by Moderator F. K. Hooper.

Art. 30.—O. T. Roberts stated he had the report of the Committee on Salaries. The following amounts were recommended: Town Clerk, $500; Chairman Board of Selectmen, $1000; two remaining members, $300 each; Auditor, $250; Chairman School Committee, $125; Registrars, $25 each; Secretary Appropriation Committee, $50; various other committees, 30 cents per hour; all other officers, same as last year. On motion of C. O. Howe, the report was accepted and the recommendations adopted.

The Park Commissioners submitted plans for dredging a channel and basin at Beach street park, and asked for an appropriation of $3000 for the same. Accompanying the report, which was read by the moderator, was a letter from the Bay State Dredging Co., in which they stated they would dredge a channel 25 feet wide on the bottom and basin, with four feet of water at mean low tide, for $2700; they would dredge a channel 40 feet wide, and basin, for net sum of $3000.

Commissioner G. S. Sinnicks presented plans of operation showing the proposed dredging, stating the basin would be 100x150 feet. He stated also that an architect had been down preparatory to making plans for the beautifying of the park.

C. C. Dodge: "Have the commissioners made any provision for disposing of this stuff (the mud)? How many years will this stream remain open before filling up?"

G. S. Sinnicks: "In regard to the material we have considered the proposition of dumping it on our own land. But we cannot do so without the approval of the Harbor and Land Commissioners, and they will not grant a permit unless a retaining wall is built. The dredging company suggested taking it outside and dumping. We could only use a comparatively small part of it anyway. As regards the stream remaining open, the company claims it will remain open a number of years,—say 10 or 12 years."

E. P. Stanley: "The old channel cost $1000 and it was 20 feet wide and three feet deep at mean low tide. That has filled in pretty well."

Mr. Sinnicks: "We propose a channel 40 feet wide and four feet deep. This will not fill in so quickly."

Samuel Knight said he thought there should be some means of utilizing the material taken out of the channel inasmuch as it was necessary at some time to fill in the land. "Would it not be well to look into the matter of utilizing it? It will be useful in a few years. We can't put on material much less than 80 cents a cubic foot. Would it not be well to use this now at less cost?"

W. C. Rust: "I was in hopes that the material could be utilized even if we have to hire a gang of men to wheel it up after it is dumped. Better than paying 75 cents or a dollar for filling."

Mr. Sinnicks: "I don't see how any citizen can get the impression we are paying 75 cents or a dollar; we are paying nothing."

F. K. Hooper: "In view of the school question to come up and other appropriations we have already made, I don't think it advisable for the town to vote one cent for this purpose this year. It would be well to refer the matter to the next meeting."

E. P. Stanley: "I have always been interested in this matter. We want water privileges. The best way is to have plans for the park completed. I have thought out a plan of driving spilings and have them banked up with planks from the pier to Beach street, and from the pier to the old dam and have half tide in there all the time. Then we could utilize the filling. It will require a great deal of material to put the park in the proper condition. We can make a saving of at least 25 per cent. when we have plans for the whole rather than appropriating a little at a time for a number of years. Then bond it; we have only three or four years to run on the present park bonds. This is the cheapest and easiest way to pay for it. I object to doing anything this year. I know the material can be put in at less cost than we can carry it there. There are better ways than wheelbarrows or dredging machines."

On motion of Mr. Stanley the report of the park commissioners regarding the improvement of the Beach street park was laid on the table and the commissioners were authorized to present plans at the next meeting for the full improvement of the park.

On motion of G. S. Sinnicks an additional appropriation of $200 was made for maintenance of parks.

Selectman Swett read the report of the committee appointed to obtain an option on purchasing land adjoining the stone crusher. The committee recommended that of the several lots there the town buy the M. E. Gorman and J. J. Welsh lots, and that $1600 be appropriated therefor, stating that these lots were the most favorably situated, and that this was a key to all the surrounding lots.

W. C. Rust: "I have been looking over the land and am satisfied the offer is the best we can get. The other lots are not so good."

The report of the committee was accepted and the recommendations adopted on motion of Mr. Rust.

F. K. Swett moved that $750 be appropriated for building a new plank walk the entire length of Magnolia avenue.

John Baker: "Why not build a concrete sidewalk? The planks last only two or three years."

Supt. Kimball stated that the whole matter had been gone over seven years ago and the committee in whose hands the matter was left at that time considered a gravel walk, concrete and plank walks, and they reported that the interest on the money required to build a gravel walk would build a new plank walk every five years. The street is very narrow and would hardly permit of anything but a narrow plank walk.

C. L. Crafts said he had looked the walk over and considered it unsafe for the public to travel over. The motion was carried.

Supt. Kimball moved $100 be appropriated for the care and improvement of the Wenham old road, so-called. Carried.

Fred J. Merrill called attention to the Elm street improvement, stating the wall had been built according to instructions of the town the same length as the layout called for, but, as was thought best, it was not built on a line but curved. Sufficient material was left to complete the wall and he moved that $300 be appropriated to finish the job. Carried.

F. K. Swett moved $200 additional be appropriated on account of Common, Wharf and Dump, the same to be used in constructing new walks on the Common.

Art. 15, "To see if the town will purchase a lot of land for school purposes and erect thereon a school building, and appropriate money for the same," was taken up. The matter of land having been decided at a previous meeting, it remained for the school committee to present plans for a building and for the town to accept same and appropriate money for the building.

A majority and a minority report was read by W. H. Ashley and E. A. Lane, respectively, both of which will be found in another column.

When Mr. Lane had read his report, Mr. Ashley again took the floor. He stated that the school committee had agreed that the best material should be put in the building, and that it should be built on a granite foundation. He said, also, that the school committee wanted a kindergarten and would have it later if they had room; the manual training was conducted in the unfinished attic of the Priest school; that the committee had considered introducing domestic science. If a four-room building is put up only three grades will be provided for, manual training will remain where it is and domestic science is killed for the present, he declared. He read several letters complimentary to Bailey & Cooper, the architects the majority of the committee favored.

F. P. Knight asked if it was not the idea to have a building for infants, and if the domestic and manual training departments were in the new building would it not do away with the object in view? He asked if the committee had not received any recommendations from the superintendent.

Mr. Lane stated that Mr. Fish had recommended in his report that the town build in the near future a four-room primary school building and take the younger children out of the Priest school.

Mr. Lane moved the whole subject matter be referred to the appropriation committee for them to report at an adjourned meeting.

Samuel Knight: "I am sorry to learn there is any feeling between the members of the school committee. We can't afford to decide this matter hastily. It seems to me it is first necessary to decide on the architects. The majority of the committee have erred in one point, namely, how we shall pay for this building. I am a firm believer in that finance committee. This matter might well be referred to them. I second the motion."

Mr. Ashley: "As to the difference of the committee, it is a very late issue. We could agree on heating, lighting and sanitary arrangement, but not wholly. This is the first time in six years this committee was not a unit."

E. P. Stanley: "I haven't said anything, but I think I shall now. If you don't want me, tell me to shut up. I don't believe in putting up a four-room school building. We have had experience in this. We had a building put up not many years ago and the committee guaranteed it was large enough for a good many years, and we have been adding on to it ever since. I can't see any hopes of a decrease in the near future. We need at least a six-room building. The best thing is to build a brick building of six rooms, it will be cheaper in the end. I have gotten sick of seeing the town putting up wooden buildings."

Mr. Lane's motion to refer was put and carried.

The meeting adjourned at 9.50 till Monday evening, May 22.

TO THE PUBLIC

Sickness and death having decreased the money in our wampum belt, it has been decided to run a fair during the week commencing July 16, 1905, to replenish the same.

Any person wishing to contribute articles of any description to said fair will please leave the same with Bro. W. R. Bell, or notify him, and the articles will be called for. Any assistance along this line will be greatly appreciated.

Respectfully yours,

Refrigerator Time.

The first hot days are near at hand. Remember how disagreeable it is to have the milk a little turned or the butter soft. A refrigerator you must have, of course! Not any refrigerator, but one that will save the ice, that will not taint other provisions, in fact, a little cold storage box, that's what you want.

The Ranney

Will just be that for you. It is different from other kinds. It's made of hard wood that will not absorb moisture; the lining is all galvanized iron; no zinc insire to corrode and make odors; the whole inside removes piece by piece for cleaning—no chance for particles of food to lodge and decay as is the case in other refrigerators; the shelves are all adjustable and slide back and forth like the drawers to a bureau. You can reduce the temperature lower in this box and run it with less ice than any other box made. The immense quantity our 3 stores handle—3 carloads was our first order—enables us to sell them to you for less than you can get any other sort from any other dealer.

A PROOF

Is 40x26x16, has ice capacity of 35 lbs. and food chamber 18x16x11 with 2 sliding shelves, removable ice chamber, removable waste pipe and patent syphon.

PRIMARY SCHOOL.

Sentiment at Hearing in Manchester Appeared to Be More in Favor of a Four Than a Six-Room Building to Be Used Exclusively for Primary School Purposes.

A hearing was held in the selectmen's room, Manchester Town hall, Monday evening, before the Finance Committee, in whose hands the minority and majority reports of the School Committee relative to the proposed primary school building has been left, to consider the plans presented for the new building. The matter was discussed for over two hours.

Some expressed themselves as opposed to a small building, while others were equally opposed to a large building. The general sentiment of the hearing, however, was that a large building was undesirable and a structure such as was suggested by Superintendent of Schools Fish in his annual report, for a four-room building to be used for primary school purposes, was more in line with the needs of the town.

It is proposed to remove the three lower grades, children ranging in ages from five to eight years, from the G. A. Priest school to a new building, and it was the opinion of many that to do anything else but follow out this proposition would not be in keeping with the best interests of the school system.

Nobody expressed themselves in favor of utilizing two rooms in the proposed new building for manual training and domestic science, but some thought that past experience should teach the town that plans should be made for more than the immediate necessities.

The Finance Committee held another meeting last night and at the adjourned town meeting, Monday, night, they will undoubtedly present

OLD MILLS OF MANCHESTER

By John Baker.

(The following article by Mr. John Baker was read before the Haphazard Club in Manchester, Feb. 27, 1905. Ed.)

In the early days, there was one or more mill on every brook in town. In naming them, I will start at the eastern part of our town. On Clay brook, near Mr. Knowlton's summer hotel, was a mill for grinding corn, built and owned by the Gilbert family; it was finally sold to Allen Knowlton. At the mouth of this brook, at the southern end of Crescent beach, a man by the name of Woodbury built a saw mill, but the sand washed in after every storm. This had to be shoveled out and was so much work that the mill was a failure.

On Wolf Trap brook, just the other side of the Cove schoolhouse, was a saw mill and blacksmith shop, built by Joseph Knight about 1740. He also owned a large part of the Cove, about three hundred acres. This mill was running up ness meeting at the engine house Monday evening when the reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and the officers for the year were elected as follows: James Hoare, president; Clarence W. Morgan, vice president; Raymond C. Allen, treasurer; Samuel L. Wheaton, secretary; Charles W. Sawyer, Granville Crombie and George H. Hobbs, directors.

It is of interest to note, in connection with the secretary's report, that the first deaths in the association since its organization, almost six years ago, have occurred the past winter — John H. Coughlin and Cyrus B. Crombie — and that this is the first time the funds in the treasury have been drawn upon for death benefit.

To be Ordained.

The date upon which C. Arthur Lincoln, the pastor-elect of the Manchester Congregational church, is to be ordained and installed has been set for Friday, June 9, afternoon and evening. The personnel of the council has not yet been made up.

Plants for School Children.

Next Saturday afternoon, at four o'clock, geraniums will be distributed, one plant to each child who applies for it, at Lee's hall, Manchester. These plants are to be exhibited at the summer show of the N. S. Horticultural society, August 24—Thursday. Five cents will be collected for each plant, to be returned when the plant is offered for exhibition.

Accepts Challenge.

The challenge extended to the bosses of the various Manchester stores and businesses by the clerks, for a baseball game on July 4, has been accepted, and a team has already been picked. Robert Allen, manager at Legg's market, is at the head of the bosses' team, and a good line-up is assured. Night Manager Harry Gay of the Manchester Electric company will probably do the twirling.

"Ward 6 Voter" on Sidewalks Again.To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

Your paper at different times has had articles pertaining to the extremely poor sidewalks in Beverly Farms and has pointed out different places which are much in need of attention by our city officials who have charge of these affairs. But as yet I have failed to find a single instance where they have done anything to better conditions for the walking public. In fact, the walks are growing worse and in many places are getting to be dangerous. A place that appears to come under this head is the sidewalk commencing at or near the house occupied by Mr. John Bolam on Hale street and running up over the hill, past the Catholic church, ending at Haskell street. This particular stretch is extremely wretched, and has been for so long a time that I cannot remember when it was fit to walk on. That part which is of concrete is badly cracked, and in several places is badly broken up, so that it will be an easy matter in the darkness of the night for a person to meet with a severe accident; while the rest is so badly gullied and worn out that I imagine the "Rocky road to Dublin" must be a paradise to it. It is certainly time that attention be paid our sidewalks at once.

Tremont Theatre.

Raymond Hitchcock and his brilliant supporting cast in "The Yankee Consul" will begin the second and last week of their return engagement at the Tremont Theatre, on Monday, May 22. This engagement is entirely too brief, and there will be many regrets that it could not be extended indefinitely. It can truthfully be said that no comic opera of recent years has gained such a firm hold upon public favor as this merry musical satire. The music is delightfully catchy, and the scenic effects are veritable triumphs of stage realism.

Mr. Hitchcock's supporting cast is one of the strongest and most capable ever seen in a comic opera. It is sufficient to say that "The Yankee Consul" is a typical Henry W. Savage production in every detail, and thoroughly deserves the wonderful patronage it is receiving.

LOST BOY RETURNS.

Manchester has a "Rip Van Winkle," who Returns After Being Lost from Sight for Thirty Years.

A veritable Rip Van Winkle arrived in Manchester this week in the personage of John J. Attridge, who left 30 years ago, when a mere boy, and has neither seen nor heard anything from his friends and relatives here since that time.

Thirty years ago Mr. Attridge worked in Manchester, doing chores for Henry D. Chase at his place at "Old Neck." He came here from Boston, where his parents died when he was young, and lived with his aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Young, who last week celebrated her 91st birthday. When still a boy he left Manchester to seek his living in the world. He made several trips across the Atlantic on cattle boats, was employed in an undertaking establishment in Salem and had various other occupations, but finally drifted to the West. Twenty-one years ago he settled on a piece of prairie land in Marion, LaMoure county, North Dakota.

Since then he has been engaged at raising wheat, oats, barley, flax, rye, and other products of that country, which he marketed and from which he has made a prosperous living. He cultivated more than 350 acres of land.

Some months ago he sold his farm, and the trip East, which he is now taking, is the result of a desire long cultivated. In all these years he had neither seen nor heard of his relatives in the East, and when he started from his North Dakota home he had little thought he would ever find any of them.

He arrived in Boston last Sunday and came to Salem the next day. He first tried to find the undertaking establishment where he formerly worked, and after considerable hunting he found somebody who knew the people in Manchester he knew, so he came here at once.

The past few days Mr. Attridge has been renewing acquaintances of his boyhood friends. He can recall but a few, and but a very few can remember him. The greatest surprise afforded him, he says, was to find his aged aunt, Mrs. Young, still alive. She was an old lady when he left thirty years ago, and he little thought she would be here to greet him now.

"I haven't seen an apple tree for twenty years," said Mr. Attridge in a talk with the BREEZE man Thursday. "We have no trees at all where we live. Everything is prairie. Nothing but plains, for miles and miles, as far as the eye can see. The part of the country where we live is new. It has been settled in the last twenty-five years. Our nearest neighbor is three-quarters of a mile away from us.

"Has Manchester changed? Well, I should hardly know it. I have read in the papers and magazines of this Manchester-by-the-Sea, but I did not think it was the same Manchester I knew. I had an idea it was some new place that had sprung up. All the old landmarks are the same, and many of the old houses about town have not changed, but there is so much change that one would scarcely think it the same place.

"One thing I can say, — Manchester is the prettiest place on God's earth and if there was any one place I would like to go and finish my days it would be here. I would like to bring my family here, for my children have never seen trees, nor the ocean.

"I am slowly getting acquainted again and am meeting some of my old friends. Few of them can place me and nobody, of course, can tell me by my countenance. I shall remain here a little while longer and shall then return to No. Dakota."

Mr. Attridge is stopping with his cousin, Tree Warden William Young on Washington street, and is spending much of his time with Mr. Henry D. Chase and family at the "Old Neck."

Whisperings.

Town Treasurer E. P. Stanley of Manchester is very fond of the brush, and when the spell is on he usually brings forth something well worth the effort he puts into his work. I happened to catch him at work a few days ago on a sketch of the old Sea Street depot in Manchester. But few of the older residents will recall this, as the depot was removed in '58 from Sea street to a point quite near Beach street. In the background of this sketch is Wetherbee's hill, standing out in bold prominence, showing the picturesque rocking boulder, while beside the single track is shown the small, insignificant looking depot. Beside it is the old eating saloon, which used to be conducted by Geo. W. Allen. It was later bought by David Coughlin, I am told, who put another story on to it and made it into a dwelling house, now occupied by James Cooney and family. In the foreground runs a modest, old stone wall, which did service up to five or ten years ago, when the railroad made improvements along its road. Mr. Stanley usually devotes his time with the brush on some such historic subject as this.

Society Notes.

Despite the decidedly unseasonable weather of the past week—the cold sea winds and the fog interspersed with showers—the arrivals among the summer cottagers has continued, and the colony has been added to considerably. Many, however, have put off opening their houses till next week in anticipation of good weather.

Harrison K. Caner and family have opened their house at Manchester, arriving a day or two ago for the summer.

To-day the Myron C. Wicks of Youngstown, O., are expected at their Manchester estate, also.

Edward Arnold and family of Boston, who have taken the Tappan house on Sea street, Manchester, for the season, arrived Wednesday.

Mrs. Robert Sampson, whose house at the Cove was opened last week, arrived Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Merrill, who arrived at their Smith Point house two weeks ago, plan on sailing next Thursday for an eight weeks' trip abroad. Their house will be kept open, however.

Mrs. W. H. Lewis of Tuxedo Park has again taken the "Brown Cottage" at Old Neck for the season.

The A. W. Craiges of New York are expected to arrive at Manchester for the summer week after next.

The Edward Robinsons have opened their house off School street, Manchester, and the family plan on arriving today for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Norman entertained a number of guests at their Beverly Cove cottage, Wednesday evening at dinner.

The Philip Dexters arrived at their Beverly Farms estate, Wednesday for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. K. Cummings and family have been away from their Pride's Crossing place the past week, guests of Mrs. Cummings' family, the Robert Treat Paines, at their beautiful country home in Waltham.

Mrs. John Sillsbee and family have opened their summer home on Ober's Point, Beverly Cove, moving down for the season, Wednesday.

Among other arrivals on the Beverly shore this week were the Herbert M. Seares, the Dr. Franklin Dexters, and Mrs. J. F. Curtis and family.

John Torrey Morse, 3d, arrived at his Pride's Crossing place the latter part of last week.

Miss Hetty Sargent was a guest over Sunday and Monday of the Philip S. Seares at Pride's Crossing.

GOOD PASTURE

BAKER'S HORSE SANDAL is the best, cheapest, and most durable shoe in use. It is quickly adjusted, does not gall or injure the horse in any way, in fact it is just what is wanted in every way. It is in use on many of the best golf links and private estates from Maine to Oregon. It is made in four sizes:

No. 1. To fit shoes from 5 to 5 3/4 inches long. No. 2. To fit shoes from 5 1/2 to 6 1/4 inches long. No. 3. To fit shoes from 6 to 7 inches long. No. 4. To fit shoes from 6 3/4 to 7 1/2 inches long.

In ordering please send size of horseshoe from heel to toe, or a tracing of the shoe, to insure a good fit.

Price, $8 per set with leather taps, $6 per set without leather taps.

JOHN BAKER, Superintendent Essex County Club.

Mr. JOHN BAKER,
Manchester, Mass.

Dayton, O., Nov. 24, 1903.

My Dear Sir: As Chairman of the Green Committee of the Dayton Golf Club, I have, during the past four years been called upon by my Green Keeper for two or three sets of leather boots per season; these have cost us from $9.00 to $11.00 per set. Hence it gives me great pleasure to state that the single set of Lawn Shoes purchased from you last spring, has been entirely satisfactory and is as good now as when we bought them. In addition to their value from the standpoint of economy, they are very easily attached to the hoof, do not become loose, and do not make sore spots on our horses' legs as our leather boot did. They are a great success and I heartily recommend them.

Yours truly,

R. T. HOUK.

BEVERLY FARMS.

Mrs. James Merry of Gloucester has been enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mr. Wilbur J. Pierce, at their West Street home, the past week.

The unusual sight early Monday morning of a deer feeding leisurely in the gardens of James B. Dow and Robert S. Bradley off Hale street, afforded much consternation to those who saw it. When it was alarmed it pranced swiftly across the railroad tracks to the Haven estate at which place it was last seen. It is supposed to be one of the tame deer seen several times of late in the woods back of Manchester and Beverly Farms.

The special drainage contract, which also includes excavations of ledge and concreting on section 3 of the State Highway, near the estate of H. C. Frick at Pride's, has been given to D. Linehan & Son, they being the lowest bidders.

The hose laying contest to be given in City hall next Friday evening under the auspices of the Century club of Beverly, has promise of attracting much attention. Beverly Farms will have two teams contest, made up, probably, of George H. Burchstead and E. Fred Day, Ladder 2; and D. T. Smith and Thomas Gauld, Hose 3.

While at work on the Frick job at Pride's, Monday, James Manning, one of the sub-contractors, was severely injured by a falling derrick. He was taken to the Beverly hospital where it was found he had a broken shoulder and several other minor bruises.

Business at this section of the North Shore has not been so rushing for many years, despite the fact that general business along the shore is not so good as in former years. This is due undoubtedly to the fact that several hundred men are employed on the various sections of the State Highway, which is being worked upon from the Manchester line to Chapman's corner. Connolly Bros. have almost 400 men at work on their various jobs and D. Linehan & Son have almost as many on their work, most of whom are employed at the Frick estate.

F. G. Haynes will have the Boston and New York Sunday papers for sale at his new drug store in Pride's Crossing commencing tomorrow morning, which innovation will be welcomed by the large patronage which Mr. Haynes is gaining in this section. Copies of the BREEZE may also be found here.

New York parties from the Metropolitan stables, with a string of 26 horses, arrived the first of the week and have leased for the season from Messrs. Wyatt & Trowt, the large stable on High street, where they will conduct a riding school.

The contract for building the third and last section of the State Highway, from a point near the estate of Henry C. Frick to Chapman's corner, has been awarded to John A. Gaffey of Medford, who is rushing the work along.

Rev. Dennis Sullivan, formerly of Wellesley Hills academy, is the newly appointed assistant to Rev. John J. Downey, pastor of St. Margaret and Sacred Heart churches. Fr. Sullivan is a Peabody young man.

Rev. C. S. Pond will deliver the Memorial address at the Baptist church next Sunday morning. He will also deliver the oration at the exercises in Marshall's hall on Memorial Day evening.

Despite the coolness of the weather the past week the delicious college ices and ice cream sodas have been liberally patronized at the Marshall Drug store.

The dance in Marshall's hall, Thursday evening, in charge of Thomas Gauld was very successfully conducted.

Mrs. William H. Moore and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Moore, were down on the shore a few hours, Tuesday, looking over the extensive improvements being made to the Judge Moore estate. The family expect to arrive from New York week after next.

Organized Labor.

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

There recently appeared in the Boston Post an advertisement falsely entitled "A Proclamation of Freedom," authorized by a Mr. Post and backed by money power. The gentleman claims that union labor is universally despised by the general public. No doubt we should all admit that organized labor has its many faults, especially such cases as the late strike in Chicago. Those cases are the exceptions. But to whom can those strikes, or the cause thereof, be attributed? Why, to employers, who imported illiterates and heathens from far off lands during strikes of days gone by, when educated American laborers sought their rights in a living wage.

Whilst the gentleman dwells on the tyranny of labor, he says nothing of the tyranny of capital or organized capital. Does it look like freedom when one or a few men can control the entire iron and steel industry of this country, regulate prices to suit themselves, hire detectives to shoot down innocent working men, then give colleges and libraries to gain admiration and notoriety? Is it freedom when the entire meat products can be controlled by a few monopolists, who willingly furnished rotten beef and other meats to feed the boys who left the workshops and offices to fight for the Stars and Stripes in the last war? Does it look like freedom when one man can control the entire oil industry, take advantage of coal strikes, etc., then give millions to foreign missions (he, too, seeking notoriety)? There are thousands of cases bearing a similarity to those just mentioned. But those cases are unthought of by the labor antagonist.

Let us dwell for a moment on the fundamental principles of organized labor. Prominent among those principles stand the protecting of the working man and the betterment of conditions in the American home. If we stop and think deeply, what could be more inspiring than those principles above mentioned? The abusive language of an unreasonable foreman or boss has no longer to be stood for by the laborer, let him be a mechanic or not. Union labor says "hold! You shall treat a fellow man as you would he should treat you."

The whip lash as used by employers in the form of long hours, for the production of physical wrecks, can no longer fall across the back of the laborer. Organized labor says the laborer shall receive fair treatment for a fair day's labor, and he shall be fairly paid for the same. What does the eight-hour day mean? It means eight hours' sleep, eight hours' enjoyment of the home and family circle for those who are thus favored, and eight hours' labor, which should be rendered profitable to the employer as far as possible.

With reference to employers, I would say they are not all alike. Many are among employers men of noble principles, against whom not a word of reproach could be spoken; but sad to say, those employers are exceptions.

The cause of strikes: We cannot safely quote statistics, because they are not always right. A strike is oftentimes caused by the stubbornness of employers who have arisen from humble workingmen, and who consider themselves above recognizing their laboring employees. This fact reminds one of an ancient poem, written by one of the famous poets of centuries gone by, a poem entitled "Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?"

How many of those terrible strikes could have been averted by a simple recognition of a union—a conference and an explanation. It would seem as though the cultivation of good-will between employer and employee would be the greatest remedy for the prevention of labor troubles, and it would be well if Mr. Post spent a few millions in that direction instead of advertising the evils of labor unions.

Labor unions in the South have taken children out of southern factories, paid to its mother a sum equivalent to the child's earnings and sent them to school. Is organized capital doing as much?

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Descriptions of a Trip from Boston to San Francisco and Return.

[The following is taken from notes made by Thomas D. Connolly of Beverly Farms, on a recent trip to San Francisco.—Ed.]

No. 6. — San Francisco.

San Francisco is a beautiful city and well laid out. The principal thoroughfare is Market street, and nearly all the other streets strike it diagonally. The trolley and cable car systems are perfect, and one can ride in a continuous direction with transfer upon transfer for the sum of five cents. To a person from the East it seems queer that the five cent nickel is the smallest sum used. In fact, newspapers are five cents.

The 18th street car line, which runs over the mountain to the other side, has what they call a switch back. They run up the hill as far as possible to one level, then the motorman goes to the other end of the car, makes a fresh start and runs to the top. San Francisco has different districts, called the Mission, Potrero, Western Addition and Richmond district. The hills over which some of these car lines travel would make one very nervous during his first ride. These are run by cable.

We went to the United States Mint today and saw them coin silver for the Philippine Islands. They can coin either gold or silver money to the value of five hundred thousand dollars each day, and it is very interesting to go through the different rooms through which the money passes before it is ready for use. If one is fortunate to possess silver or gold bullion, he can take it to the mint and they will give a receipt for the same. In a day or two call around and get the silver or gold in solid money, made from the bullion.

Chinatown, which takes up twelve blocks of the city's streets, is a place worth visiting. While we were there the Chinese were celebrating their New Year, and the place was decorated with flags and bunting. They were all out in their best dress, and the shops displayed their best wares so as to catch the visitor. The fish business of San Francisco is in the hands of the Italians, and they are up to date with their gasoline dories and latteen sails.

The harbor of San Francisco is landlocked. The entrance is at the Golden Gate, and is one mile in width. The harbor is 90 miles long and five miles wide. Across from San Francisco is Oakland, a distance of about four miles, where the tourist has to take cars for the East. Berkeley is close by, where the University of California is situated. Beyond is Port Costa and Vallejo. Opposite Vallejo is Mare Island Navy Yard, where the Russian man-of-war "Lena" is laid up waiting for the Japs and Russians to make peace before she will be allowed to take her departure. I saw the "Cincinnati," "Kentucky" and "New Orleans," also the torpedo boat destroyer "Petrel."

In San Francisco harbor are several large islands—Alcatraz island, being used as a prison by the government; Yerba Bueno, or Goat island, as a torpedo station, as is also Angel island.

The Presidio is also near the entrance to the Golden Gate, and occupies 1,500 acres of land, where there are soldiers, cavalymen, barracks, forts and guns, and where the regulars live and form quite a colony of Uncle Sam's defenders. Sausalito and San Rafael are towns on the harbor. San Quentin is a large prison, and is one of the State institutions.

One of the favorite places for the tourist to visit is Sutro's baths, the largest in the world, and close to Seal Rocks, where there are large seals, which weigh 1,200 pounds each. They are very tame. These baths are covered with glass, and from a distance look like large greenhouses. The salt water is let in from the ocean, and the pools and swimming tanks occupy over an acre of ground.

The cemeteries here are beautiful. Calvary and two other larger cemeteries have been closed, and a large mountain, called Lone Mountain, lays between them. On its top is an immense cross, and it makes an impression on one to look at it, the sign of "man's redemption." O'Brien and Flood, the bonanza kings, are buried here. O'Brien's tomb, of cut stone, has a chapel in it, and, it is said, cost eighty-five thousand dollars. All the new cemeteries are located about 10 miles from San Francisco, in San Mateo. In Holy Cross cemetery are beautiful monuments to Sharon, Ralston, Mackay and Fair, all Irishmen, who came here in '49 and became wealthy from the famous Comstock lode.

I saw a beautiful monument here with a bronze bust of John G. Downey, seventh Governor of California. The inscription reads:

"Born in Castle Samson, County Roscommon, Ireland,
June 27, 1827.
Died at Los Angeles,
March 1, 1894."

He was an uncle of Father Downey, pastor of the Beverly Farms and Manchester Catholic churches. The Celt certainly has made himself felt in every country under the sun.

San Francisco has some fine, large buildings—the City hall, Flood, Spreckels and Call buildings. Outside the city limits they are all built of redwood, and I remarked to an architect whom I met, that they must be great fire fighters. He answered that they were. Redwood catches fire very easily, but is put out quickly.

San Francisco has provided beautiful park systems. Golden Gate Park consists of 1,700 acres of land, and has beautiful gardens, waterfalls, lakes, museum, a head of deer, also buffalo. Everything is done to interest the young people and keep them off the street.

I saw in this park one remarkable exhibit—a piece of redwood, an original cross section cut from a tree 96 feet from the ground, which measured 16 feet in diameter. This tree at the ground was 96 feet in circumference, 308 in height, the bark of the tree being two feet thick. The tree was 3,700 years old. It was cut in 1853, and five men were 25 days in taking the tree down, by boring with a pump auger. All the immense water system for the park is pumped by old-fashioned Dutch windmills.

Letter From Far-Away

Manchester Boy.

The many friends of Sydney C. P. Jordan, who left Manchester a few months ago for a ranch in California, which he is sharing with an old uncle, will be pleased to hear from him. Mr. Jordan was formerly connected with the Manchester Electric Co. The letter which we print was written to John Baker, who very kindly gives it out for publication.

Turner's Ranch.

Hardy, Mendocino Co., Cal.

Dear Mr. Baker: When I left Manchester I told you I would write, but I cannot express myself in words of the beauty of this place. It is something grand. We are on the coast, only seven hundred feet above it, and we can look out and see the steamers going up and down the coast. We have 660 acres of red wood timber and as much more cleared land for pasture and crops. At present we have about 150 pigs, 100 head of steer and cows. We are milking 21 cows and have 21 calves to look after, and seven horses. We had to brand and mark the calves last week. If you could see me you would have the laugh on me. I am green at this work, but I can learn if I have time enough. I like fine; I don't believe I will ever come back east to live again unless my health gives out.

We have some red wood trees from 16 to 20 feet through and there are thousands of cords of red wood laying down, rotting in the woods.

Everything is in bloom out here and the place looks like summer all the time. Our nearest neighbor is one and a quarter miles away, so you see we are back in the woods a way.

The roads are too crooked to describe. You have to go ten miles to get four, and they are so narrow you cannot pass another team except in places they have cut in the mountain for that purpose. I planted a garden since I came and everything is up and doing well. My peas and corn are six or eight inches high. We will have some radishes to eat next week.

I miss my Manchester friends quite a lot, but then we cannot always be in one place.

Sydney C. P. Jordan.

Mrs. Harris Elected President.

At the annual meeting of the Thought and Work club of Salem, Mrs. Nellie K. Rich, having served as president three years, the limit prescribed by the constitution, was succeeded by Mrs. Hattie Lee Harris, who previously filled the position of auditor.

Mrs. Harris is a native of Manchester and from close identification with its interests is justly claimed as a member of that community, and in this election her townspeople feel they will be represented with dignity and honor.

The Thought and Work club enters upon its fifteenth year, having been instrumental in the organization of several other women's clubs, and by the personal work of its members it has been associated in many of the philanthropies of the North Shore colony. As a club it holds a prominent position in the state federation, and under the wise leadership of Mrs. Harris it looks forward to continued prosperity and enlarged activity.

OLD MILLS OF MANCHESTER.

into the early 1800's, as Deacon Low remembers it well. It was last owned by Ingersol & Kitfield.

At the mouth of Chubb's Creek, in West Manchester, near the residence of R. C. Hooper, was a grist mill, built by John Eastcot, and known as Eastcot's mill. The town records speaks of him in 1743. This mill continued in use up to the time the Eastern railroad was built in 1847. It was reached by what is now Boardman avenue. It was a tide mill and ground the grain in the west section of the town.

Another tide mill was the Forster grist mill. This was built by Wm. Bennett and afterwards owned by Major Israel Forster and built over by him in 1804. My father fixed this mill twice for Mr. Forster in his day. One great trouble in these tide mills was the eels; they would eat through the piling and make the dam leak. After the fire in 1871 Wm. Johnson bought the turbine wheel of Rust & Marshall and put in the old mill which was fixed over again and used by Mr. Johnson in his furniture business until he retired some twenty years ago.

Near Bennett's ice pond there was a saw mill that, I think, might have been built by this same Wm. Bennett. I cannot find much about it, only "an old dam by a mill site, but no mill by a dam site."

The mill at Town Landing, near the police station, was built as a grist mill, the town history says, in 1644—the early records, 1669—by John Knowlton. This mill was used for grinding corn until 1825, when it was sold by Obed Carter to John P. Allen for $500. He changed it to a saw mill and also put in steam. It was the cause of the great fire of 1836, as it started in the boiler room. The mill was rebuilt and used by him in his furniture business until his failure in 1850. It was then purchased by Samuel Knight, Burnham & Gentlee; they sold it to J. F. & Rufus Stanley. It was next sold in 1860 to Daniel W. Friend and used by him in his manufacture of mackerel kits. He sold it to Rust & Marshall in 1865 or 6. It burned again, April 26, 1871. They were in the furniture business and at once built the mill now owned by Roberts & Hoare, where they continued the business as long as it paid.

There was a saw mill on School street, just above the arch bridge, built by Samuel Friend. The logs were piled all along what used to be the Cheever field. I find this mill mentioned in the town records in 1668, 1693 and again in 1700; in the latter place it refers to it as "where the old saw mill stood."

The Baker saw mill was built by John Knowlton, Sr., I think from 1690 to 1700, though the town history has it 1705. This was always kept in the family,—Woodbury and John Osborn, two of the early owners, being connected by marriage. It was purchased of Osborn by Robert Baker in 1815, and was an old mill then. It has been built over twice by my father. This has been the principal mill in town, having the best water power. Before 1850 it did most of the mill work for the cabinet shops besides. Cyrus Dodge and the Stone mill starting about 1847 took this part away. I can well remember seeing that old machinery rusting out and spent many a day playing with it; there was a shingle mill, jig saw, wood lathe, iron lathe, planer, slit saw and veneer saw—yes, and I remember, too, getting spanked by America Burnham and sent home, as he said, "to save my life." There has not been any sawing done for twenty-five years, and we shall soon say like the rest, "where the old mill stood."

Another old mill built by J. P. Allen to saw veneers stood about where Lincoln street crosses Saw Mill brook. This mill had to be abandoned, as the dam could not be made air tight on account of quicksand; so it was sold to F. P. Gentlee and changed into a rough dwelling for his men. Later Manuel Silva bought it and moved it to his place on Forest street, converting it into a barn, which was torn down when Philip Dexter put up his greenhouses a few years ago.

After finding that Cyrus Dodge had procured the right to build a mill on the river at the south end of our Marine Park, J. P. Allen bought the right of him and built another mill to saw veneers. This run only a short time and burned sometime between 1850 and 1856. The Stone mill, also owned by Mr. Allen, some time in the sixties, was destroyed by the boiler bursting. It was then purchased by John Knight and changed to a dwelling, was left to the town at his death.

The early records of 1771 speak of a wind mill to grind corn, which the history says was built on the Plains near where the Essex Country club now is.

Daniel W. Friend had a small steam mill near Lewis Morgan's shop. It was burned on the night it was sold.

In 1850, Kelham & Fitz started on the landing a horse-tread-mill, but soon changed to steam in the building now used by J. W. Carter for a stable.

Leach & Annable's mill was built about 1870. Another interesting mill was built by Capt. Thomas Leach. There was always something doing when the captain was around. He had just cut and hauled twelve or fifteen cords of wood for his own use, and conceived the idea that a wind mill could saw it much easier than he could with a buck saw; so he got his mill all fixed. When it was all ready, half the town came to see it start; but, alas! the captain had forgotten to rig a break, so when the mill started and the saw bound when half-way through, that stick went up and down, up and down, until everything was torn to pieces, the mill a wreck. The captain went out of the wind mill business.

Among the early June weddings of interest to North Shore people will be that on the seventh, of Miss Hetty Appleton Sargent, daughter of Mrs. Lucius Manlius Sargent of Dartmouth street, Boston, and Coolidge's Point, Manchester, to Francis Lee Higginson, Jr., at Trinity church, Boston. There will be a reception at the home of the bride's mother in Boston.

The Misses Margaret and Harriott Curtis of Boston and Manchester will be among the Massachusetts players for the British women's championship in golf, which begins today, May 20, on the famous sea coast links at Cromer, Eng.

The second wedding in the M. B. Mason family will take place next September, it is said, when Charles E. Mason, the fourth son, is to be married to Miss Elizabeth Andrews of Boston, one of last winter's debutantes. The engagement was out some months ago. Mr. Mason will spend the summer at Manchester with his family.

The Major Henry L. Higginsons arrived at their West Manchester estate last week.

C. H. Mowry, last season's popular manager of the New Magnolia at Magnolia, has just returned from Port Antonio, Jamaica, where he has filled an important position in the office of Hotel Titchfield, and will take up his duties as manager of the North Shore hotel again.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tyson closed their Chicago house last week and are making a short stay in Vermont before coming on to Manchester, where they plan to arrive about June 1.

Without Medicine. The Strangest
Power Ever Given to Man.

Healer Dennis, who for three years has publicly healed the sick in the churches in Salem, free of charge, by the laying on of hands, is still performing his marvellous cures every day at his offices in Salem and Boston. By passing his hands over the afflicted parts, cripples and deformities of every description were straightened and made whole. Healer Dennis has been in Salem for 15 years and can produce more people that he has cured than all the advertising doctors in the state. Healer Dennis cures all female complaints without exposure or the use of instruments, in one-half the time required by any doctor. He is the only man living that cures cancers and tumors without pain or cutting. All nervous troubles of both men and women, even to insanity, are cured by Healer Dennis' treatment. MANCHESTER.

Loud snores from among the grave-stones in the Summer street cemetery, about 2 o'clock last Friday morning, startled Officer Jones as he was on his beat, but they were sufficiently real as to impress the officer that they were snores of the living rather than the dead, and, with Sergt. Andrews, an investigation was made. Nestled reposedly between two mounds was found Victor Johnson, who was invited to the station to spend the balance of the night. There was no doubt in Victor's mind when he appeared before Judge Safford, Friday, as to whether he was dead or alive, especially when the judge handed him a free pass for a month's trip behind the granite walls of Salem jail. Victor has been known to have imbibed on several occasions before.

The class of '06, Story High school, held a very pretty dancing party in the Manchester town hall last Friday evening, more than 50 couples being on the floor, which was in charge of Bert Sinnicks, assisted by Bert Floyd. The aids were: John Dillon, Frank Fleming, Sydney Marshall, and Edward Kitfield. Mrs. Chas. E. Fish, Mrs. Albert W. Mead and Mrs. A. L. Saben were the matrons.

Chester L. Crafts has been awarded the contract for building the plank sidewalk on Magnolia avenue, in accordance with a recent vote passed at town meeting.

Work was started Thursday on Tinker Bros.' automobile garage on Beach street, on the lot between Bell's Combination store and Dow's block. The building is to be of sheet metal, with steel structural work. A Boston concern is doing the work.

E. A. Boardman's "Red cottage" has been rented for the season to the J. Fred Browns of Boston, who are expected today.

John B. Schoeffel has issued twenty invitations for the launching of his yacht at Quincy next Tuesday. Mr. Schoeffel probably will not spend much of his time at Manchester this year.

The Clarence Clarks of Philadelphia have rented the R. S. Bradley cottage on Smith's Point for the summer.

E. B. Hill and family arrived last Friday and are very pleasantly located at the Richard J. Monks cottage at Manchester Cove for the season.

Among the new comers to the Shore this year are the J. W. Mellons of Pittsburg, who have taken the Cochrane house at Pride's Crossing for the summer. They arrived Wednesday.

Col. and Mrs. Harry E. Russell started a few days ago for the Maine woods where they are to spend a week or two fishing.

The Mrs. W. Scott Fitz house on Smith's Point was opened the first of the week and made ready for the arrival of Mrs. Fitz, and her daughter, Mrs. Holmes, within a few days.

Richard Stone has just bought a valuable estate on Bradlee road in Milton, upon which he will build a fine modern house for his own occupancy. Heretofore the winter home of the Stones' has been at Chestnut Hill, but the coming fall, when they close their Manchester place, the family will move to Milton.

Herbert M. Sears, who has just opened his Pride's Crossing house, will enjoy many improvements and additions to his estate this year. Among the improvements are a new auto house and an ocean pier. The grounds about his house has been greatly improved also, a fine wall being built along the street fronting his estate and the avenue being rebuilt.

At the estate of Wm. H. Moore, Pride's Crossing, all the extensive alterations and improvements begun both on house and grounds last October is about completed and is certainly a credit to all parties concerned. Operations were begun this week in extending further out in the ocean Mr. Moore's pier. This also means some changes in the part already built. Mr. Moore owns one of the largest pleasure yachts on the Shore.

The Prescott Bigelows arrived at their Manchester Cove place yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Spaulding and children plan on sailing next week unless they are kept behind because of Mr. Spaulding's slight ill health which has kept him housed most of the week. Their house at West Manchester will be occupied about June 1, by the Harry S. Grews. Mr. Grew, by the way, has just purchased a new auto.

This week the Harbor and Land Commissioners granted permit to Guy Norman to erect a pier off his estate at Prince street, Beverly Cove, work on which will be started Monday.

PRIMARY SCHOOL.

some recommendations which the town will be called upon to accept or reject.

The hearing was called to order at 8 o'clock Monday night by Chairman E. S. Knight of the committee. Secretary Needham read the majority and minority reports of the School Committee, as presented by Messrs. Ashley and Floyd, and by Chairman E. A. Lane, respectively.

What Was Said and Done at Primary School Hearing.

Samuel Knight—"We find ourselves confronted by the question as to the actual need of the times. I hold in my hand the report of the school committee, in which is the superintendent's report, which I assume is endorsed by the committee." Mr. Knight then read the part of the superintendent's report bearing on the question at hand. "It seems to me," he said, continuing, "one of the first points to establish is whether we want a four, six or eight-room building. We have here in the report of the committee a recommendation for a four-room building. The chairman of the committee also recommends in his minority report a four-room building."

H. T. Bingham—"When we met here last Friday night (the finance and school committees) a majority of the school committee gave their reasons why the committee wanted a six-room building. Perhaps the secretary can read us that report."

Secretary Needham—"I did not take the report in full. But I understood the gentleman to say at the close of his remarks he had plans for a four or an eight-room building if desired."

Rev. Mr. Ashley—"If the matter of an architect was settled I believe the school committee could come to an agreement. Because the committee could not agree on an architect we could not decide on the style of building, hence we brought in plans for four, six and eight-room buildings, and recommended a six-room building. We did it with a view to the future, not the present needs. The increase in the number of births, with the increased number of pupils that come into the town have made the attendance large. The lowest estimate for the coming year is over 60 and nearer 70.

"The superintendent recommended that the ninth grade be brought from the high school building to the Priest school, that the three lower grades be removed from the Priest school to a primary school building of four rooms. This means five rooms instead of four, for if we have 60 or 70 in the first grade, it will take two rooms for them instead of one, and if the kindergarten recommendation is carried out that will take another room—five in all. If we need five rooms, there is no use beginning with four. Because of the increase of population, and dividing the primary grade, (for there should not be over 35 in a room), a five-room building would be nearer the needs. It is folly for the town at this time to erect a building which they would have to add on to.

"Up to the time of choosing architects, the committee had no trouble in discussing all the points beautifully and pleasantly, and I believe if we could have agreed on this we could have come here and agreed on some definite plan of building."

E. A. Lane—"After some preliminary remarks relative to the selection of architects, Mr. Lane said: "There has been practically no increase in the number of pupils in the last three years; 451, 456 and 446 are the figures for the past three years,—a falling off of four, for the addition of the Cove pupils makes the number total 452,—practically the same as four years ago.

"With regard to a four-room building, the primary school children should be by themselves. Two hundred primary school children is too many to occupy one building—150 is enough."

F. K. Hooper—"Is the greatest increase in the children in the primary or in the upper grades?"

Mr. Lane—"The greatest increase is in the primary department and in the high school."

Mr. Ashley—"I should like to refer the committee to the school committee's report. I don't like misunderstanding in the matter."

W. C. Rust—"I have no children and don't suppose I will ever have any, but I look on this matter in a business way. When we erected the Priest building we were told it would be good for 20 years, but within the 10 years it has been built, two additions have been made. The same is true of the high school. The enlargements cost as much as the buildings. It seems to me we should anticipate the time when we shall need greater capacity in the schools. $40,000 seems to me to be too much for a primary school matter; put up eight rooms at little more cost and leave the rooms unfinished. It has been said the increase is small. There may be a lull now, but there is no doubt but business will increase in the near future. So it seems to me an eight-room building is the best."

G. F. Allen stated he had something to do with the erection of the Priest school, that there was a strong opposition at the time to putting up such a big building. The town had at that time 235 children in school and the committee thought the building it recommended would be sufficient for ten years. It has been enlarged twice, however. He thought it was a mistake to have a four-room building.

W. J. Johnson—"Judging by the past, a four-room building is not large enough. The years past have been phenomenal as to large increase, but conditions are such that increase must be more than is estimated by the chairman of the school committee. I advocate a six-room building."

F. K. Hooper—"It seems to me we are already providing for 200 pupils in the proposed four-room building, which we are to remove from the other building, and with an increase of ten a year it would take twenty years to make up. I should like to hear from the superintendent and get from him his ideas on the general matter of schools."

Superintendent Fish stated this was by no means a new subject, for it had been brought up at various times before. He read the report of Supt. Armstrong of 1903. Mr. Fish said he didn't want those present to think that by "four," the number of rooms he recommended, there was anything sacred. He was of the opinion the primary grades should be separated. He stated that the general average showed the number of pupils in any normal community was one-sixth the population of that community, and vice versa.

"Considering the question as a matter of seating capacity," he continued, "if you build an eight-room building with a seating capacity the same as the other rooms—49—you would have room in your sixteen rooms for almost 800 pupils, which would, carrying out the ratio, equal a population of about 4800 people. If you have a four-room building you could, by this same ratio, have room for almost 600 pupils and a population of 3400.

"My suggestions were not for the seating capacity but for benefiting the educational system. The reasons for separating our primary school children from the others are apparent. If you build an eight-room building you are not getting a primary school building but another just like what you now have.

"The advantages of a separate primary school building are altogether the advantages of administration. If you build a primary school building, it is built for that purpose,—the steps are lower, the sanitary arrangement is different, and many other things are different. There is very little to be said in favor of bringing all the children under one roof. It greatly increases the chances of accident and greatly enhances the chances of best conduct."

"I simply had in mind taking three primary grades and putting them in a building by themselves. If you have other grades that would spoil the whole scheme. If you have a kindergarten you would want a trained teacher. It seems to me desirable not to include more than 150 children in the primary school building, considering the practical side of school management."

Samuel Knight said he favored putting up a four-room building that would be of the best and would be an adornment to the town.

W. J. Johnson—"From all arguments I have heard it seems to me that four rooms would be all right for the present needs. I have had lots of experience taking school census, and it seems to be better to prepare for the future. It seems wise to look into the future, for it is in the lower grades that the increase is greatest."

E. S. Knight—"What is the increase for the past 15 years?"

Mr. Lane—"There was an increase of 196. We had 250 pupils in 1890 and 446 in 1905."

F. P. Knight—"If the kindergarten suggestion is adopted, could this building (four rooms) be adopted?"

Mr. Fish—"Put the kindergarten in one of the rooms and the three grades in the other three rooms."

F. P. Knight—"What about the manual training?"

Mr. Fish—"I had in mind the re-arrangement of the Priest school."

Prof. C. L. Norton—"My business is teaching bigger boys than we are considering now, but I want to put myself on record as agreeing with Mr. Fish as to: First, getting the primary grades by themselves, and, second, keeping the grades in each room rather small in number. The efficiency in the system depends in a large part on the efficiency of the lower grades."

E. S. Bradley said the advantages of the primary school were apparent. The younger children should have a building by themselves, where they could enjoy the outdoor exercises by themselves.

G. S. Sinnicks was called upon. He said he had come to the hearing to sit and listen, and after listening to the remarks there seemed to him to be a strong sentiment in favor of a four-room building. He favored building it for a four-room building and not with making an addition later on of four more rooms. If we need more room at some future time build somewhere else, he said.

Prof. Norton thought the cost of the proposed buildings too great for the number of pupils in consideration.

Mr. Lane said the cost of excavating and putting the grounds in condition was considerable. The estimated cost of this was $8400.

Prof. Norton, turning to the plan of the proposed six-room building, said: "I shouldn't like to see that—not Queen Ann, but Mary Ann—style of architecture inflicted on the town of Manchester."

Mr. Lane stated that all the estimates were very liberal. He had no doubt they could be brought down $2000 when put out to contract. He had suggested three firms of architects and not one had been accepted by the committee. Inasmuch as he had had 35 years' experience dealing with architects and builders, he thought his judgment should count for something.

H. T. Bingham—"If 35 pupils in a room is the best arrangement, let us have that, and not 55 in a room. Let us have the best."

A. C. Needham—"Can the school committee and the superintendent agree on a six-room building as ideal for the needs of the town to be used exclusively for primary school purposes?"

The committee answered they could.

Prof. Norton—"If the committee agree on a six-room building to be used exclusively for primary school purposes, we can have 35 in a room first, then as the needs demand it increase the number in a room. If we begin right, we shall get at this mysterious something which shall give us good schools."

MANCHESTER'S PRIMARY SCHOOL BUILDING.

From Plans Submitted by Andrews, Jacques & Rantoul, Architects, and Accepted at Town Meeting.

FOUR-ROOM BUILDING.

Manchester's Primary School Building to be built in line with plans of Andrews, Jacques & Rantoul, as proposed by Chairman Lane.

The matter of a new school building for Manchester came to a head at the adjourned town meeting, Monday evening, when the Committee of Appropriation, in whose hands the thing was left, reported in favor of a four-room Primary School building according to the general plans of Andrews, Jacques & Rantoul, as submitted by Chairman E. A. Lane in his minority report.

The building is to be built at a cost of $30,000 on the land recently bought for the purpose, corner of Norwood avenue and Brook street.

This was the principal matter to come before the adjourned meeting and considerable interest centered in the report of the committee as to

THE MEMORIA LADIES' QUARTETTE.

A ladies' quartette, composed of four of the most prominent soloists in this section, has just been formed in Beverly, and is known as The Memoria Ladies' Quartette. Aside from the interest attached to a quartette with a personnel of such well-known singers, is the unique purpose for which it was organized, namely, to sing at funerals and at memorial services.

The personnel of the quartette is Miss Gertrude Walker, soprano, of Salem, Mrs. Florence G. Bradstreet, contralto, of Danvers, Mrs. Louise Meek Corbett, contralto, of Lynn, and Miss Mabel E. Phillips, contralto, of Beverly, all of whom are well known in musical circles of Beverly, Lynn, Boston, Salem and vicinity.

All the singers are earnest students of music, as well as singers of experience, and have fresh, full voices. It is seldom such a combination of voices can be secured as in this case, three of the quartette being contraltos, while the soprano has a voice of full medium quality.

Gaudreau—Gagnon.

At St. Joseph's (French) church in Salem, Monday morning, at 7 o'clock, Frank Gaudreau of Beverly Farms and Miss Anna Gagnon of Salem were united in marriage by the Rev. George Rainville. Many friends of the couple witnessed the ceremony. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Gaudreau held a reception in St. Juan the Baptist hall, Salem, which was largely attended by the many Beverly Farms friends of the bridegroom, a pleasing testimonial of his popularity. The happy couple, after a short honeymoon, will occupy the house of John H. Woodbury on West street, Beverly Farms.

Union memorial services will be held at the Baptist church at 10.45 o'clock tomorrow morning. Sermon by the pastor — "The Nation's Ebenezer." Quartet selections. Seats reserved for G.A.R., W.R.C. and S. of V. The usual program will be followed. At the People's evening service, sermon by the pastor — "Removing the Curse."

There will be no prayer services on Tuesday evening because of the exercises on Memorial Day.

Owing to the absence of Mr. Lincoln there will be a joint meeting of the church and the Christian Endeavor society in the Congregational church tomorrow evening at 7.30 o'clock. George J. Norie will have charge of the meeting. The topic will be "Glorifying God in our Daily Work;" references: Matt. 5:13-16; Romans, 12:11.

Mr. Lincoln, the pastor-elect, preached very interesting sermons at the Congregational church last Sunday. His morning text was from John 9:25 — "One thing I know; whereas I was blind now I can see."

John J. Attridge, whose return to Manchester last week after 30 years' absence was exclusively announced in last week's BREEZE, has spent most of the week in Boston and vicinity looking up his old friends. Mr. Attridge has not sold his farm in North Dakota, as we said last week, but has leased it.

Whisperings.

"The old saying is true," said a man to me the other night after town meeting in Manchester had dissolved for the year. "'Give a man an inch and he will want a yard.' It was the custom not many years ago to pay the moderator at town meeting a sum of money for his services as presiding officer, but when Mr. Hooper was honored with the position he refused any remuneration, and for a year or two he was extended a vote of thanks. But I noticed this year he did not receive this much, even."

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Frick made a trip down the shore last Sunday, to their estate at Pride's Crossing now in process of construction, and were much pleased with the progress being made. They were guests during the day of the A. W. Mellons of Pittsburg, who are occupying the Alex. Cochrane estate.

One of the finest show horses to be seen on the North Shore this season is a handsome black mare owned by J. Fred Brown of Boston, who has just moved down to Beverly Farms for the summer. The horse has a record of 2:19, and has won many blue ribbons in the high stepping classes at various shows. She is considered one of the finest show horses of the day. Mr. Brown recently purchased her from R. W. Robbs of Allston.

The Manchester Yacht club will open its house for the season next Tuesday, May 30.

Chas. S. Hanks has rented his cottage at West Manchester for the season to the Thomas G. Plants of Boston, who plan on occupying it June 10. Mr. Plant is of the well known shoe concern of Jamaica Plain.

The Harcourt Amory cottage at Pride's Crossing was opened yesterday for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryce J. Allan entertained a house full of guests at their Cove villa over Saturday and Sunday, the entire party going to town by coach for the Horse Show Monday afternoon. Mrs. Allen was one of the most prominent society women at the show during the week.

Judge Moore's house at Pride's Crossing was opened yesterday and is being put in readiness for the arrival of the family from New York the early part of June.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Goddard have been spending the week in New York state, a few days in the Adirondack being included in their trip.

The Dr. C. A. Porters arrived the latter part of last week and are located at the "Sohier Cottage" Beverly Farms, for the summer. The William Endicott Dexters were among the early arrivals this week.

The Gerald Wymans opened their West Manchester house Thursday.

The colony at Manchester was increased Thursday by the arrival of the Rev. W. H. DeWarts, the Henry S. Grews, the Mrs. W. Scott Fitzes and the Mrs. John Sturgises. The George N. Blacks arrived Wednesday.

The R. C. Lincolns opened their cottage at Manchester Cove, Thursday.

GENTLEMAN'S DRIVING HORSE.

Owned by Benj. C. Marble, of Manchester.

A handsome young colt, driven by Benjamin C. Marble of Manchester, has been drawing much admiration from lovers of fine horseflesh the past week. Excellently formed, dark chestnut in color, five years old, the animal makes a first class gentleman's driving horse, for which purpose Mr. Marble bought it.

She is sired by Benton M. and was raised by Samuel L. Allen, formerly of Manchester, at Prospect Farm, Shrewsbury, where Mr. Allen has several other such high class horses at the present time.

This colt was broken and up to the present time has been handled by Miss Angie Allen, who is holding the reins in the accompanying picture. Miss Allen was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Hobbs at Manchester the first of the week.

The trial trip of Guy Norman's new boat the "Limit" is scheduled for next week. A number of invitations have been sent out for the event.

Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., was down to her Manchester place Wednesday. The family will move down permanently next week.

The Frederick W. Parkers of New York arrived Monday and are occupying the Kimball cottage on Smith's Point.

Miss Mary Haven has arrived at her Beverly Farms estate for the summer.

MANCHESTER.

Alfred C. Needham is having a 32-foot cabin launch built by out-of-town parties for his use this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Moody of Salem, formerly of Bath, Me., were guests in town over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Robertson.

Supreme Deputy Frank White of Roxbury paid an official visit to Wm. Jeffrey colony, Pilgrim Fathers, Monday evening. The colony will send a delegation to the Roxbury colony next Wednesday evening.

George E. Andrews, who recently moved to Roslindale, with Mrs. Andrews, to live with their daughter, has been spending the week in town, coming last Friday to remain over Decoration Day. Mr. Andrews says he and Mrs. Andrews are very much pleased with their new home.

Misses Helen Boyle and Ethel Hooper are expected home from Wellesley college today for a few days.

Miss Maud Phinney arrived from Phoenix, Ari., the first of the week and is to spend the summer here with her sister, Mrs. George E. Scott.

Mrs. Howard M. Stanley has been spending the week visiting her mother in Dorchester.

The Haphazard club held a delightfully entertaining meeting last evening at the home of Miss Lila Goldsmith, it being the last social gathering of the club for the season. A very pleasing programme was carried out under the auspices of a committee of which Miss Goldsmith was the chairman.

Mrs. Frances Toppon of Norwood has been a guest of her parents, the Theo. C. Rowes, the past week.

One member was initiated into the Phi Alpha Pi at their annual meeting last Friday evening. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served after the meeting.

Mrs. T. O. Parker (Miss Dillon) of Boston has been a guest the past week of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dillon, on Brook street.

Mr. Griffin, for many years steward at the Essex County club, was in town Wednesday making plans for opening the club next week. Mr. Griffin and his corps of helpers will arrive Monday and on Memorial Day the house will be opened to members for the season. Mr. Ramsdell, clerk at the club, resumed his duties several weeks ago.

New Mail Service.

Manchester is to have additional mail service after June 1, for the summer months. Commencing next Thursday, mail will arrive from Boston on train 15, which arrives here at 9.11 A. M., and a mail will leave for Boston on train 96, closing at 6.10 P. M.

On Sundays, on and after June 4, mail will be received on train 303, which arrives at 9.07 A. M., and mail will leave on train 312, closing at 9.51 A. M.

Relief for the Business Man.

The facilities afforded by the all water service of the Joy Line are proving particularly attractive to business men who find it necessary to visit the Metropolis at this season. A sniff of old ocean, a daylight view of Massachusetts Bay, Long Island and the whole coast, with only one day's absence from business—the delights of the trip more than compensate for this.

Mrs. Joseph Haskell, who left here several days ago, sails from New York today on a trip of several months abroad. Most of the time will be spent in Scotland and Ireland where Mrs. Haskell has relatives. The trip is made for Mrs. Haskell's health. She takes her little child with her.

Henry J. Collins has been appointed special police officer for the plant of Messrs. Connolly Bros., and William Neville has been appointed for the West Beach Corporation.

Miss Bessie Williams has been spending the week with friends in New Hampshire.

The fire department answered a still alarm, Tuesday, for a fire in Hanson and Marshall's blacksmith shop, but the blaze was extinguished before the water was turned on. Damage slight.

A large loon became entangled in the fish wier of Capt. J. Frank Blaney off Chubb's island, Monday, which the Captain captured after putting a shot through its body. The bird has since been sent to a taxidermist, and when set up will make a fine specimen.

Garbed in new coats of paint the watering carts were put on duty on our streets the past week much to the gratification of everybody.

The many friends of Mrs. John L. Eaton are pleased over her return to her residence on Oak street, much improved in health, after several months' illness at St. Vincent hospital, Boston.

Smiths' express company of Manchester will soon open an office in Beverly Farms, having taken part of the building owned by Chas H. Day, opposite the Farms station. They will occupy it together with Messrs. Jos. Pink & Co. Miss Bessie Williams will be the book-keeper.

Capt. Joshua Slocum, the author of "Sailing around the World Alone," gave an illustrated lecture at the Baptist church, Tuesday evening. Mr. Slocum's boat, the "Spray," is still at Manchester.

Mayor Wallis, County Commissioners Bates and Sawyer, and the Committee on streets paid a visit to Beverly Farms recently to view the property in the vicinity of the proposed widening of Hart street, at the sharp corner abutting the Bennett estate. This improvement is a necessity, several accidents having happened here within the past few years, and especially in these days of fast automobiling more accidents are imminent.

Whisperings.

While the discussion on Manchester's new primary school building was at its height Monday evening, during town meeting, an interested visitor came through the door of the ante-room, and, sitting quietly on the floor near the platform, took in everything that was being said, much to the amusement of those who sat in the front seats. The visitor was a wee little mouse (fortunately all those present were of the sterner sex). The innocent little thing appeared quite amused at the proceedings until some one quite near the front began hurling excited words around, about calling a special town meeting to vote on spending a couple hundred dollars to complete the Elm street wall, — then the poor little mouse, shaking its little head as if to kill a smile, picked up its long tail and skedaddled back into the ante-room.

Many parents in Beverly Farms have been wondering of late why their children have been coming home, this dry season, more or less wet. If they should make a tour of inspection, as I did a day or two ago, to the brook that runs through the rear of Messrs. Connolly Bros.' land on Oak street, which is also in the rear of Valley street near the carpenter shop of James D. Hooper, they would see at a glance the cause of it all. The "Kids," — pardon the word, — have taken a large grape vine which grew near and have fastened it to the limb of a tree, making a novel and durable swing which, when in operation, takes the occupant too and fro across the stream, giving them quite a ride. Judging from the noise coming from that direction after school hours I should think this is a popular diversion among the children. As the swing cannot accommodate at one time all that desire to ride, nevertheless all crowd on and as a result there is an occasional splash as one of them drops into the brook.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Descriptions of a Trip from Boston to San Francisco and Return.

[The following is taken from notes made by Thomas D. Connolly of Beverly Farms, on a recent trip to San Francisco. — ED.]

No. 7. — San Francisco.

The climate of San Francisco is of an even temperature the year around, the difference being only 10 to 15 degrees. People here do not have to worry about putting in their winter supply of fuel. Coal costs about $12 per ton, and a great deal of it comes from Australia. The steamers from the Sandwich islands are now constantly bringing in hordes of Japanese labor. It seems the Jap makes a stop over on his way from the Orient, at Honolulu, to take off the rough and have the polish put on, for his entrance into the United States. I was at the ferry-house landing and saw a large number of Japs land, consisting of young women and men, a great many of them dressed in their national costumes. I saw one woman wearing straw shoes and with a baby tied to her back in a basket. They were all going towards the Southern Pacific depot for points all along Lower California. They seek employment on ranches, growing vegetables and fruit.

In the country one can still see the natives, travelling from place to place looking for work, his blanket tied on his back, for the country is so dry that one can easily sleep out in the open air.

When we first reached San Francisco we were very much annoyed with what we thought was the hives, but after one night we found out that they were the tormenting sand fleas; and, by the way, no matter at what hotel or private house one stops, he will have the flea always with him.

I visited the Diamond Palace store, and the array of diamonds is truly wonderful. It is the largest store of its kind in the world. The oil paintings on the wall (all portraits) wear crowns of diamonds on their heads and rings on their fingers. The electric lighting makes a wonderful effect. Some stores in San Francisco are kept open night and day the year round.

The people are fond of attending horse races, and are much given to out-door sports. The women are the most beautiful in the world and they are clad in wonderful costumes.

I saw the United States transport Logan come in through the Golden Gate, so hastened to the wharf where she was to dock. I saw a large number of soldiers in their yellow duck suits, all tanned, though with ghastly looking faces. It is too bad that Uncle Sam had to take the Philippines, as no one ever thought of such a thing when the Spanish war broke out. School teachers, men and women, were heard to say, when they came off the wharf, "At last we are in God's country."

One can see Chinamen here selling vegetables out of two large baskets. They attach a pole between the baskets and carry it on their shoulders.

February 19 we attended the old Mission church at Mission Dolores, built in 1776, and where the old Spanish Padres celebrated mass with their congregation consisting of Indians. The original frescoes and statues are still to be seen. The old church is 25 feet in width and 100 feet in length. The altar and sanctuary is in fine gilt and water colors, also two altars on the side. In the back is a gallery. There are three bells in the tower, tied with raw hide, and they are rung once a year.

Washington's birthday we crossed the ferry to Saucelito, and with several others went on a basket picnic. We took the train for Mill River, passing San Rafael and Tiburon, and at Mill River we took the cars for Mount Tamalpais, which is 2,500 feet above the level of the sea. Mount Tamalpais railroad is known as "the crookedest railroad in the world." Its length is 81.5 miles, and it has 281 curves. Supposing that these curves were continuous, one would make 42 complete circles. Its average grade is five feet in 100, and the heaviest grade is seven feet. Its longest piece of straight track is but 413 feet, and, strange to say, it is the most crooked part of the road, called the "Double Bow-knot," which knot it makes in reaching the top. I was so nervous when we began to ascend this railroad that the beads of perspiration started out over me, and I would have given the world to be on safe ground again. The engine is behind and pushes the three open cars ahead on a common standard gauge track, not a cog road. Its curves are frightful, but of course the cars run slowly.

The river is very beautiful, but one loses it all, he is so excited. One does not begin to admire what is before him until he reaches the top. On a clear day one can see the Sierra Nevada mountains, bordering on the State of Nevada, 155 miles distant.

We sat out on the green grass and ate our luncheon.

This trip is one that no tourist can overlook, and it is called the Little Switzerland of America. A fine forest of redwood can be seen on the way up.

On looking down from the piazza of Mt. Tamalpais Tavern the railroad can be plainly seen, with all its windings, also the "Double Bow-knot." It takes two hours to go up and forty minutes to go down. Up at a place called West Point, about one-half way, the train stops to let off passengers to connect with stage for Willow Camp, Dipsea and Bolinas beach. This also is a breakneck ride. My next will be a description of a trip through the Santa Clara Valley to Santa Cruz.

LOYALTY.

By Kate Restieaux.

It no sooner meets the eye or falls on the ear, than our deepest feelings are at once aroused. We look for something great to follow from the tongue or pen of him who dares to make use of so pregnant a word.

It has been said that a very large percentage of men and women "live for the gallery," that they perform no act from impulse or spontaneity, but always with the idea of how it will appear to the on-lookers, or if it shall directly benefit themselves.

I do not believe, however, that humanity is deteriorating, that we as a people are growing weak and servile; but, I believe, rather, that the spirit of independence and moral uprightness, whatever betide, is growing so rampant that its opposite is more noticeable and is being held up to ridicule. Much depends upon the point of view in this as in other matters.

Annie Payson Call, a truly great teacher, says that in olden times if a man received an injury that made him want to kill his enemy, he stalked forth and killed him, if he could, or received his own quietus. It was so in all dissension, "an eye for an eye," etc. Nowadays, we receive the injury and resent it just as much, but we cannot go forth and slay, so we have taken on habits of self repression, partly because our reason teaches us that patience is a virtue, and, too, because we believe in "Vengeance is mine. I will repay, saith the Lord." But, as Miss Call says, it is a question how far this spirit should be carried. To repress a feeling of honest indignation, and the desire to see justice done, is to hold back what clearly needs expression, and such action must result in a depletion of moral energy, and find egress in some underhand method of winning our point or "getting square." Miss Call remarks that no physician of the body would countenance such suppression during physical disorders and, in moral or mental difficulties much the same law prevails. By this, I do not mean that we should sally forth and slay our oppressors, but I would that we might be loyal to the best that is in us.

Can we forget that one of the most heartrending things in the life of Christ was the way in which those who should have supported him fell away, in His hour of need? The forces of evil are combined. The men who conduct their lives for the winning of fortunes and honors off their fellow creatures are unanimous in support of certain methods. But those who stand for spiritual things, for purity, sweetness and singleness of heart, are almost afraid to touch hands as they pass by. They need not so fear. There is a blessed "freemasonry" of voice and eye, to which the true and loyal can always resort, but there is, no less, the necessity of standing by each other, which none can deny, and beside which the wheedling pusillanimous spirit which always says, "You go first," is much to be despised.

We all deplore the necessity of war, yet how dreadful is the triumph of iniquity. A great woman, almost a townswoman of our own, Gail Hamilton, said: "War is the strenuous struggle of great sins; apathy is their complete rule. War is the horror of the storm; apathy is the horror of death."

What, then, is this loyalty? Would we have had the men and women of America do other than rise in just indignation at the Spanish atrocities in Cuba? It cost us much—it has not ceased to cost; but to have played the coward when our battleship was wrecked, had meant national dishonor. We would not build those battleships, nor man them, were not the sins of the world still so far uppermost as to make it necessary. When we struck the blow that freed Cuba, we stood in loyal vindication of our country's name.

Loyalty is a something inherent in man. It is so far inherent that he will often be loyal to what is wrong unless he be led to the right.

I have noticed how, more than in any other way, this matter of loyalty may be distorted in the religious life, and I count it a great trial when the question of loyalty to a man or to an organization arises.

There are often times when some fiery soul will infect and lead a people to break all bonds, and to uproot what has long seemed both just and good. But, again, how fared it "under Syrian skies" and "By Judean Hills?" There, in the long ago, dwelt a man who called His followers to leave all for Him, and as they responded to His call, Christendom lived. All organized effort was, clearly, against Him. He said: "I am the way, the truth and the light," and the very magnetism of His presence was all-sufficient.

It has occurred to me, pondering long and deeply on this subject, that it behooves us to be watchful and to ask ourselves the question: "Am I loyal, and if so, to what?" Is it to the best element, the element incapable of intrigue and cruelty, or am I loyal to my own interests alone?"

We often hear the best and most earnest workers for church and state saying: "I approve of the man, but I must stand by my church or my party." Each time we so act, we crucify, afresh, the Christ in man. God is represented, in this world, not by conspiracies, nor cast iron rules, that crowd out all individuality, but by His Spirit in human hearts and because of the love and loyalty diffused thereby. The church, what is it? Can we be loyal to a building or to a string of pews? No, never! If we are loyal to an institution and disloyal to a man, it means, or it may mean, that we are loyal to the devices of several sharp-eyed, long-headed men and women, who have combined to maintain their personal power and crush out all individual feeling. If we are loyal to our party and disloyal to a man in whom we see embodied the traits we most admire, then we are wasting our fealty on an autocracy, composed of men who are com-

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKee are away from "Selwood," their beautiful Beverly Farms estate, for a few days, Mr. McKee starting Monday for Princeton, Me., on a salmon fishing trip, and Mrs. McKee going over to New York Sunday on a short visit. Mr. McKee is fast becoming a devotee of the auto and in line with this he is soon to have built at his estate an automobile house of attractive design, from the plans of Guy Lowell of Boston, who was also the architect on Mr. McKee's new house and stable built last year. The auto house will be 40 x 35 feet, of wood, and will be similar in general lines to the other buildings. There will be room for four cars, and there will also be a turn table, which is somewhat of an innovation in private houses.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hooper, who have been at their Readville place for some time, plan on opening their West Manchester house the middle of next week.

The R. C. Winthrops also plan on opening their house at West Manchester June 1, though Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop will not come to the shore at once. Mr. Winthrop plans on spending very little of his time here this year, in fact. His health is quite poorly.

Mrs. Frank Seabury gave one of the first dinner parties of the season at her Beverly Farms house Monday evening, covers being set for ten. The party was given in honor of Mrs. Seabury's guest, Mrs. Jackson of New York, who has been spending the week with her.

Maj. Geo. W. Barstow and family, who have again taken the "Corner house" at West Manchester, plan on arriving Monday.

"Crowhaven," the beautifully located summer home of Rev. and Mrs. William H. DeWart at Manchester Cove, has been opened this week and made ready for the arrival of the family from Hyde Park next Tuesday.

John Caswell has returned to "Round Plain Farm," his Prides estate, after an auto trip to New York and other places.

Miss E. G. Houghton arrived last Saturday on the White Star liner "Arabic" from Liverpool, after a most delightful visit of some months abroad. She is soon to move down to her Magnolia place.

The Misses Mary and Fannie Bartlett arrived at their cottage at "Old Neck," Manchester, Monday.

Return of "The Prince."

Probably no joint work of Frank Pixley and Gustav Luders has met with greater popular favor than "The Prince of Pilsen," a musical comedy which, after attaining phenomenal success in this country, was taken by Mr. Henry W. Savage to London, there to enjoy no less good fortune through a long run at the Shaftesbury theatre. The story of the opera is ingenious and well worked out. It will be gratifying, therefore, to hosts of players in Greater Boston to learn that "The Prince of Pilsen" is to return on Monday, May 29, to the Tremont theatre, on whose stage it had its original production, and where it has been performed no less than 24 weeks.

bined for their own purposes, and we overlook the leader, the man or woman in whose heart the Spirit of God is moving so powerfully, that he will stand, if need be, alone.

An excellent reason presents itself to me, showing why the combining process is so much resorted to by the "policy element" among us. It is because, more versed in worldly than in spiritual law, and having a surer business knowledge of what for a time works best in the world, they know they must look to numbers and to combination for strength. But the upright man, the pure-souled man of God, is upheld from within; the Spirit of God sustains him. He will cry with the knight of old: "My strength is as the strength of ten, because my heart is pure."

The time will come when the power of resistance will combine even as their opponents, only on a loftier plane. Men will discern the right and will not hesitate to give "their banded hearts in loyalty" to the good, pure man and the cause of justice. If we are, indeed, fighting the spiritual battle, let us not fear to use the weapons of the spirit among which are love, loyalty, purity of heart and freedom. Allegiance to these qualities cannot help but further the cause for which the good and great in all ages have lived and died, and the old adage, "Truth forever on the scaffold, wrong forever on the throne," will in time become a travesty among men.

Society Notes.

The J. Fred Browns of Boston moved down Tuesday and are located at the "Red Cottage," E. A. Boardman's cottage on the West Beach road.

The Beverly Cove colony will be increased the middle of next week by the arrival of the F. H. Peabodys, who plan on arriving Wednesday; the Tracy Eustises, who are to occupy the "Porter cottage," and the Samuel Mandells, who are to have the "Lefavour house" again. These latter two plan on arriving Thursday. The Francis I. Amorys, who have just returned from abroad, will also be among the early June arrivals at the Cove.

Among the interested spectators at the Horse Show in Brookline, Thursday, was Mrs. E. C. Fitch who went over to the show in her handsome new automobile. She had as her guest the Dr. Meads of Watertown.

The Robert Saltonstalls and Miss Katherine Silsbee opened their Beverly Cove houses the latter part of last week.

GOOD PASTURE

P.O. Address, BOX 409, MANCHESTER, MASS.

BAKER'S HORSE SANDAL is the best, cheapest, and most durable shoe in use. It is quickly adjusted, does not gall or injure the horse in any way, in fact it is just what is wanted in every way. It is in use on many of the best golf links and private estates from Maine to Oregon. It is made in four sizes:

No. 1. To fit shoes from 5 to 5 3/4 inches long. No. 2. To fit shoes from 5 1/2 to 6 1/4 inches long. No. 3. To fit shoes from 6 to 7 inches long. No. 4. To fit shoes from 6 3/4 to 7 1/2 inches long.

In ordering please send size of horseshoe from heel to toe, or a tracing of the shoe, to insure a good fit.

Price, $8 per set with leather taps, $6 per set without leather taps.

JOHN BAKER, Superintendent Essex County Club.

Mr. JOHN BAKER,
Manchester, Mass.

My Dear Sir: As Chairman of the Green Committee of the Dayton Golf Club, I have, during the past four years been called upon by my Green Keeper for two or three sets of leather boots per season; these have cost us from $9.00 to $11.00 per set. Hence it gives me great pleasure to state that the single set of Lawn Shoes purchased from you last spring, has been entirely satisfactory and is as good now as when we bought them. In addition to their value from the standpoint of economy, they are very easily attached to the hoof, do not become loose, and do not make sore spots on our horses' legs as our leather boot did. They are a great success and I heartily recommend them.

Yours truly,

R. T. HOUK.

By invitation of Rev. Clarence Strong Pond, Preston Post 188, G.A.R., and Preston W.R.C. 93, under the escort of the Fire Department, in uniform, will attend divine service at the Baptist church tomorrow. Rev. Alexander Blackburn of Salem, Post Department Chaplain of the G.A.R. of Massachusetts, will conduct the service and deliver the sermon.

Mrs. Charles F. Preston on Tuesday entertained at her Boat house on West Beach at dinner and supper many of her friends and neighbors, the affair being upon the rounding out of another year added to her age. Many jokes were in order as to what was the proper figure but all are still guessing.

Miss Ann Dyer of San Francisco, Cal., who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Connolly, and Mrs. James J. Nugent and child, went to Worcester, this week for a three weeks' visit with relatives.

Miss Elizabeth Goodsell, well known to many Beverly Farms people where she spends her summer vacations, is this week at San Francisco, Cal. Miss Goodsell has a prominent part in the Red Feather Opera Company.

F. W. Varney, W. R. Brooks, Frank Rand, C. H. Trowt and John Wyatt were in the Templars' parade in Boston, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Hooper celebrated the 18th anniversary of their marriage at their home on Hale street, Friday of last week, many friends and neighbors calling, offering their congratulations and hopes for many more years of prosperity and happiness.

Andrew J. Loftus of Boston has been enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Connolly the past few days. Mr. Loftus will soon leave for the West and the Pacific coast to be absent until next December.

A large delegation from Preston Relief corps were entertained by the Beverly corps Wednesday evening.

Friday afternoon special exercises in honor of Decoration Day, and teaching of patriotism to the school children, were held at the Assembly hall of the Beverly Farms school. Patriotic lines were read and songs rendered by the children. A delegation from Preston Post 188 was present as was a large attendance of parents and friends.

Among the few who were favored with seats on the large grand stand, on Tremont street, during the parade Wednesday, was Mrs. Frank Rand, who was a guest of the Boston Commandery.

At 7 p.m. the post, under escort of the Fire Department, will proceed to the Baptist church and listen to a patriotic address by the Rev. Clarence Strong Pond.

All soldiers and sailors of the Civil and Spanish wars are invited to parade and take part in the exercises of the day. Contributions of flowers will be thankfully received, and may be left at G.A.R. hall before 10 o'clock, Tuesday.

New Church to be Built on Site of Present Church.

Rev. Fr. John J. Downey announced to his parishioners at the Sacred Heart church, in Manchester, last Sunday morning, that they might stop guessing as to the site of the proposed new church, for it had been decided to build on the spot the present church is now located.

This was not only his choice, he said, but also that of the Archbishop, who said he would like to see the new structure on the spot selected by Fr. Sheehan, who bought the land the present church is on. Fr. Downey said the new church would be completed by October 1.

More Old Mills.

An interested reader of the article in last week's BREEZE on "Old Mills in Manchester," by Mr. John Baker, says there were three more old mills in Manchester to which the writer did not refer in his article. The house now occupied by A. M. Marriam and family at West Manchester was at one time used as a mill, being located on the opposite side of the railroad track. Fagots were made up there in the early days, and were utilized by bakers for heating purposes instead of coal, or wood.

There was also a saw mill on the opposite side of the tracks from Magnolia depot. Thomas P. Gentlee was manager of it. Wood was sawed there night and day for the Eastern railroad for use in locomotives.

The building on Friend's Court, formerly used by the late Daniel Friend as a carpenter's shop, was at one time used as a factory for turning out mackerel barrels and kits. Michael Duggan, engineer at the Salem water works station, was engineer at this mill.

DO YOU WANT

TO USE WHAT IS BEST FOR

YOUR TEETH?

As the eye is the index of the soul, so perfect teeth, white and bright, are an index of good care and health.

In recent years much study and attention has been given to the antiseptic treatment of the mouth, and the care of the teeth by scientific men.

It has been found that the germs of Diphtheria, Typhoid Fever, La Grippe, and many other diseases find entrance to the human system through the mouth.

As a result of this investigation and study, Barker's Antiseptic Dental Wash and Antiseptic Tooth Powder have been devised and are now being largely used by physicians, dentists, actors, actresses, and people generally who realize the importance of white sound teeth, not only as an element of beauty, but as an aid to digestion, and an essential of health.

"Fine teeth are very jewels in the mouth of beauty." Would you hesitate for one moment to purchase and use a particular dentifrice if you were sure that by so doing you would have whiter, brighter and healthier teeth.

Shaw's Candidacy for Senator.

The substantially formal announcement on the part of James F. Shaw of Manchester that he is agreeable to standing as a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination in the 3d Essex district has already evoked expressions of satisfaction.

There are three other possible candidates—Tarr of Rockport and Hubbard and McIntire of Gloucester, so it was not to be expected that a unanimous chorus of approval would arise, but it has been strong enough to satisfy those who have been watching with a kindly eye to the chances of Mr. Shaw.

This district has set a standard of sending men of affairs, as it were. Cong. Gardner, for instance, was one whose presence in the senate was worth scores of votes, again and again, for matters in which the district was interested. Moody Kimball has also set a good standard, and it is felt that Mr. Shaw can reach the mark which has been set. Manchester, also, has been pressing for recognition, while Gloucester had the nomination and the senator a few years ago in the person of Harry Foster.—Practical Politics.

A delegation of some 40 members of Liberty Rebekah lodge went to Beverly, Tuesday evening, when the degree staff of the local order initiated four members into the Beverly lodge. The party went away on the 6.42 train and returned on the theatre train. Everyone had a royal good time, the degree staff, of which Mrs. Emma Stanley is noble grand, and Miss Jennie Sargent, vice grand, conducting its work in a splendid manner. A banquet was served after the meeting.

FOUR ROOM BUILDING.

whether they would recommend a four or a six-room building, the former being recommended by Mr. Lane in the minority report of the school committee, and the latter by Messrs. Ashley and Floyd in their report.

There was little discussion after the report was presented and the various recommendations read. Rev. W. H. Ashley raised the only objection, and that being not as to the general report, but relative to the recommendation for appointing a committee of four to act with the school committee as a building committee. Mr. Ashley was of the opinion a committee of five appointed by the town could do more effective work and he offered this as an amendment.

Mr. Ashley's amendment was downed, however, and the vote on the acceptance of the committee's report was passed with 61 "yes" and 5 "no."

The Appropriation Committee also recommended that $88,000 be raised by taxation during the coming year, and this also was accepted.

Appropriation Committee'sReport on School Building.

Manchester, Mass., May 22, 1905.
To the Citizens of the Town of Manchester:

In accordance with a vote of the town, in town meeting, May 8, "that the whole matter with reference to the proposed school building be referred to the appropriation committee, they to report at an adjourned meeting,"

The appropriation committee, having held a hearing before the school committee, and also a public hearing, and after carefully considering the matter in all its details, beg to report that

We recommend that the town build a four-room primary school building.

We recommend that the town accept the general plan of Andrews, Jaques and Rantoul, architects, as already submitted to the town, subject to such minor modifications as a building committee may designate.

We recommend that the sum of $30,000 be appropriated by the town for the erection of this building.

We recommend that the town authorize the treasurer to hire, with the approval of the selectmen, the sum of $30,000 for the payment of the proposed school building to be paid for in three annual payments of $10,000 each, giving notes of the town for the same.

We recommend that the town appoint a committee of four to act with the school committee as a building committee in the construction of the building.

After a careful consideration of the needs and financial condition of the town, we recommend that the town raise the sum of $88,000 by taxation.

Respectfully submitted,
Edward S. Knight, Chairman.
Frank P. Knight, Vice Chairman.
A. C. Needham, Secretary.

Money Appropriatedat Town Meeting.

Manchester has almost reached the $200,000 mark in the amount appropriated at town meeting this year, the total appropriations being $194,468.25. Of this amount $30,000 is for the new school building, to be raised on notes, which will not affect the treasury until next year, so that the real amount to be raised this year by taxation and otherwise will be $164,468.25, against $154,701.71 last year. The amount to be raised by direct taxation this year—$88,000—is practically the same as last year, so that it can almost be assured the rate of taxation will be the same as last year.

What Was Said and DoneAt Adjourned Town Meeting.

The adjourned town meeting, in Manchester, was called to order at 7:45 o'clock, Monday evening, by Moderator Franklin K. Hooper, who stated that the object of the meeting was to hear the report of the Committee on Appropriation, to whom was referred the subject matter of Article 14 of the warrant, relative to a primary school building.

In connection with Article 30, F. K. Swett moved that $3932 be appropriated for official salaries, for the year ensuing. Carried.

Chairman E. S. Knight of the Appropriation Committee then read the report of that committee; found in full in another column, recommending that the town build a four-room primary school building according to the general plan of Andrews, Jaques & Rantoul, at a cost of $30,000, and that a committee of four be appointed to act with the school committee in the construction of the building.

Fred J. Merrill moved that the report of the committee be accepted, and the recommendations therein be adopted.

Rev. W. H. Ashley—"I would like to offer an amendment in part, where it speaks of appointing a committee of four to act with the school committee." He then offered the following motion:

"I move that the whole matter of the erection of a primary school building be taken from the school committee and be intrusted to a special committee of five, one of whom shall be the superintendent of schools, and the other four to be nominated from the floor; and no member of this committee shall have any pecuniary interest in the erection of the building."

"I make this motion," he said, continuing, "because I do not think it wise to enlarge the school committee to seven, and that the matter be left into the hands of another committee appointed by the town, one of which shall be our superintendent of schools, who, in fact, represents the school committee."

George S. Sinnicks—"I certainly hope this amendment will not pass. After the town has left this matter with a committee and they have made a report, after meeting the school committee and giving a public hearing, I think their report should be accepted."

Frank P. Knight—"I want to second Mr. Sinnicks' remarks, not because I was a member of that committee, but because I think their recommendation is right. You and I know Mr. Lane has taken a deep interest in this matter; he has many times sacrificed his own business in order to carry on his work in connection with the school committee. There are few men in town who are willing to do this, and when you do find a man who is willing to sacrifice those duties, you ought to stand by him. I believe Mr. Lane knows more of the school work and of the schools superintendents than any other man in town; he has more consciously at the school work and of the school and I want to see Mr. Lane on this committee."

Mr. Ashley—"I would just as soon see Mr. Lane, as an individual, on the committee. I would not antagonize the report submitted to you. I believe we are all interested in the schools and want to see the best thing done. It was not my wish to bring up any personality in the matter. There was friction on the part of the committee over the architects. When any little implication arises I believe we have to acknowledge it. The trouble has not been on whether we should have a four or a six-room building, whether it should be of brick, of wood, or any of those things,—but on the architects. The majority of the committee thought they had selected the right architects. It is due the school committee and the best interests of the town to choose a committee of four townspeople with the superintendent of schools to carry out the plans of the town. You are getting a committee of seven to erect a small little building of four rooms. The appropriation committee acknowledged the school committee was not competent to carry out this work. I accept their report in every detail except in this one point, regards the committee."

Mr. Ashley's amendment did not prevail, the vote being 18 in the affirmative and 40 in the negative.

The moderator stated that the original motion of Mr. Merrill required a two-thirds vote to pass. The motion was put and the tellers counted 61 votes in the affirmative and 5 in the negative, many not voting either way.

James Hoare moved that a committee of four be appointed by the moderator to act in conjunction with the school committee as a building committee.

Moderator Hooper—"I realize this is quite an important matter. I have thought much of this matter since it first came up, and realize how hard it is to select a committee from among the voters who are competent and at the same time willing to take this matter in charge. I should much rather the committee be appointed from the floor. Mr. Hooper then appointed, with Messrs. Lane, Ashley and Floyd (the school committee), Supt. C. E. Fish, Henry T. Bingham, Raymond C. Allen and B. S. Bullock, as a building committee.

Edward S. Knight moved "that the town treasurer be authorized to borrow from time to time, when so directed by the selectmen, a sum or sums, not exceeding in the aggregate $30,000, appropriated at this meeting, to pay for the cost of construction of the primary school building, the grading and improving of the grounds, giving therefor the note or notes of the town bearing interest at a rate not exceeding four per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, signed by the treasurer, and countersigned by a majority at least of the selectmen. Such note or notes shall be made payable in such annual proportional payments as will extinguish the same in or within three years from the date of the delivery thereof." Carried unanimously.

Under Art. 58, F. K. Swett moved that $88,000 be raised by taxation the year ensuing. Voted unanimously.

C. C. Dodge—"I would like to ask for a little information. Under what article in the warrant was the appropriation of $300 made at the last meeting to build a wall up along the side of Central pond?"

The moderator asked Clerk Jewett for the records, and he stated it was done under Art. 6: "To see what action the town will take in regard to repairs and improvements of highways, bridges, etc."

Mr. Dodge—"It does not seem to me that was done legally—it was not a legal vote to pass. I understand in that Elm street layout it was voted to build a straight wall and not a curved one, as we now have. If anything different was to be done and further money appropriated, we should have a special town meeting and that matter inserted in a warrant. If anyone can come in here and make a motion to build a wall at right angles to what we already voted, and appropriate $300 for the same, it's pretty poor way to do things. I hope no more matters will pass through that way. It looks bad."

Fred J. Merrill, the originator of the motion referred to, stated this proposition of his did not effect the lay-out of Elm street. The original lay-out, he said, called for a straight wall from the arch on Central street to the land of F. J. Merrill, but as the wall was built it was suggested to carry it on a curve so the water, especially during the spring freshets, would not butt up against the wall. It was not intended to build the wall of greater length than was called for, but a petition was drawn up for extending it, as this could be done now, when the stone, derricks, tools, etc., are on the grounds, and everything provided except labor, which, it was estimated, would cost $300. Mr. Merrill stated, further, he had waived all claims to any new land made by the change.

Moderator F. K. Hooper—"A great deal of legitimate business enacted anywhere, if pressed as to its legal construction, would go by the board. I would like to know where the gentlemen are, while the business is being done, who, after it is done, come around and raise their objections. I always, over whatever body I may be presiding, try to conduct the affairs in a legitimate manner, but there are things arising continually which might be construed as not in keeping with strict rules. If there is ever the slightest doubt expressed from the floor, I am always willing to rule the matter out."

Mr. Dodge—"I would like to inquire if that little matter came before the appropriation committee?"

Moderator—"No."

Mr. Dodge—"Well, I don't object to the thing, but I think there should have been a special little town meeting and articles in a warrant providing for this. If you depart and vote to expend $200 or $300 in this manner, somebody else can come in here and have $2000 or $3000 appropriated. Have everything done square and right."

Moderator—"That's very true, Mr. Dodge, have things done square and right,—but that man isn't here tonight who can do that."

O. M. Stanley—"I was here when that matter came up and I didn't think it was the right thing for the town to do, but I didn't say anything."

It was voted at 8.45 to dissolve the meeting.

Sentenced to One Year.

James Welsh, charged with breaking and entering the Mrs. Wm. LeBrun house in Manchester on the night of March 19, was sentenced to one year in the house of correction, Tuesday. Welsh was held for the superior court two months ago, and when the case came up before Judge Lawson, Tuesday, pleaded guilty to larceny from the building.

It will be recalled that neighbors were attracted by a light in the LeBrun house on Sunday evening, March 19, and as Officers Lee and Andrews, joined later by Chief Peabody, surrounded the house, Welsh was discovered making his way out with several bundles containing silver and other articles. He claimed in court he was on his way from Boston to Gloucester, where he hoped to get a chance to ship on some fishing schooner. He claimed it was the first time he had been in court.

By Its Adoption, Many's the Home That's Been Made to Look Artistic

That otherwise, there might have been so much sameness about the furnishings of as to have made them look sort of ordinary, or commonplace, and with this, no extra expense added to the general cost.

'Tis the straight, dignified lines, the massiveness of the frames, the weather beaten color, and the richness that the Spanish leather used for the cushions lends to it that carries it, in the mind's eye, way into the world of extravagance, but a close study into the constructional side of it develops the fact that it's not costly to build.

MISSION FURNITURE.

It is suggested by every interior decorator for at least one room in one's house today and there are the most exquisite rugs, wall papers and draperies made to use with it, that go toward the completing of a most artistic room.

Quaint Slatted-Door Book Cases cost but $16.50 in it.

Library Tables, with contrivances, unique, such as revolving book-racks beneath the top or magazine shelves at either end can be had for $15.00.

Most Comfortable Chairs and Rockers run in price from $4.75.

Morris Chairs, "the haven of rest" for weary man, are but $10.00.

And many more's the piece of furniture that is artistic and not costly, that may be had here to complete a setting for the Dining Room, Hall or Den in this Mission style.

We have one room devoted entirely to its display which we would take pleasure in showing you.

HONORED DEAD.

Manchester Post decked graves of Departed Comrades with Beautiful Wreaths and Garlands.

Memorial Day with all its hallowed and sacred memories, when the ever decreasing number of battle scarred heroes of the days of '61, with their ever weakening step march forth to honor their departed comrades, the day of all days in the year when the fragment of that vast army who fought for the nation's honor and preservation are held up before the youth of the land as a lesson in patriotism and loyalty, has come and gone.

In Manchester the day was fittingly observed with memorial exercises in the town hall in the afternoon, followed by ceremonies and decorating of the graves at the various cemeteries, and in the evening by a patriotic entertainment in the town hall.

The day was ideal, it being cool enough to make marching comfortable, quite in contrast with last year when the veterans marched out in a pouring rain and decorated the graves.

Shortly before two o'clock the members of Post 67, headed by the Manchester Brass band, and under escort of Camp 149, Sons of Veterans, marched from headquarters to the town hall, Camp A. E. Lowe, U.B.B.A. following in the rear.

Here the usual form of program was carried out as follows:

Selection, "The Call to Arm," by Veazie,
.....High School Glee Club
Prayer,.....Rev. Darius F. Lamson
Reading of the Genral Order by the Post Adjutant, James H. Rivers, closing with a reading of Lincoln's "Speech Before Gettysburg," by Allen S. Peabody.

Selection, "Pro Patria," by Wilson,
.....Glee Club
Address by Rev. A.A. Berle, D.D. of Salem
Selection, "The Flag they loved so well,"
.....Glee Club
Band, "Onward, Christian Soldiers!"
Singing, "America."

The oration, by Rev. Dr. Berle of Salem, was one of the most eloquent ever delivered in the hall. Himself the son of a Missouri veteran, the speech was overflowing with patriotism and expressions of loyalty.

"It is likely as the country expands," said the speaker in the course of his address, "that we shall have added occasions like these but none which shall exceed in impressiveness the services of Memorial Day. There is a rising generation to which the Civil War is only a matter of history."

He then urged a more thorough study of the nation's history by the children, saying that on this depended a great deal of the nations strength. "The war," he declared, "was the widening of the wider door of the general liberty of mankind." Continuing he said in part:

"As time advances more and more it becomes clear that the great Civil war of America was one of the most unique and impressive events that has happened in the history of the world. Before the generation that actually engaged in that great and bloody struggle has passed away, we are face to face with the singular and almost unheard-of spectacle of the return of that battle flags by the late warriors, and the exchange of courtesies and hospitalities and the fostering of friendships among the men who once sought to annihilate one another with the destructive and bloody instruments of carnage and slaughter.

CHIEF S. S. PEABODY,

"I count it among the happiest of omens that this should have been accomplished before the men who were in the Civil war have actually passed from the scene and the Grand Army will have no greater glory than this: that before it passed out of existence it has seen the animosities and hatreds engendered by the Civil strife wiped away, and possibly the time will come when we shall take the old standards from their old cases and burn away even the last traces of the war itself. Could anything show the nobility—the moral splendor of the American nation better than this? Surely this is a triumph greater than Gettysburg or the Wilderness or even Appomattox!

LYMAN W. FLOYD,
In command of Camp 149, S. of V.

"But though the external memories of the war shall pass away, and ought to pass away, the memory of the bravery, the chivalry, the high-minded devotion to a great national ideal, and a mighty humanitarian motive will never pass away, and the roster of the men who fought for liberty and justice and truth will not cease to be among the greatest assets, not only of America, but of humanity as well.

"What the Civil war kindled in the hearts of mankind, and what the sorrows and sufferings of that epoch caused to be wrought into the experience of our nation, no one has yet adequately foreshadowed.

"Here and there a stray glimpse into the inner life of that struggle has found its way into literature, but a hundred years hence, perhaps, when utterly dispassionate eyes shall open these records and purely historical and disinterested novelists and historians shall pore over these lists and study out the relations of things, the spiritual dignity and the moral heroisms which lie buried in these soldiers' graves will be written, so that posterity can read them with the wonder and the singular interest which even we of the generation born since the war cannot.

"What we feel, when we go over the battlefields of Greece and Rome, the generations to come will feel when they pass among the graves of Arlington and through the monuments and memorials of the field at Gettysburg.

"Greater than the guns and sabres they bore, and more brilliant than all the brilliant trappings of war shall be the lustre of their undying fame and the beauty of their alliance with the great moral advance of humanity.

"It is interesting, also, to reflect at this time that the soldiers of the Civil war did something more than merely rescue the Union and free the slave. We cannot but believe that they bore vicariously the sorrows of many a struggle that would have come and bore in their own pains and hardships the birth-throes of a new epoch.

"We cannot foresee what the century upon which we have just entered will bring forth, but I think we can say that for Americans, whatever it does bring forth, will always have something of the touch of honor and humanity, because though at times we may lower our standards, as we have since the Civil war, nevertheless there will always be for us the standard gauge of war-making.

"The Emancipation Proclamation will always stare the future generations in the face and rebuke them if they seek to enslave or oppress subject races. The volunteer soldier of the Civil war will always stand there a silent reproach to any ruler or leader who seeks to unduly

MAGNOLIA.

[From our Correspondent.]

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest V. Howe of East Boston came down Sunday to stop over the holiday with their parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Abbott of Brookline were at home over the holiday.

One of the prettiest dancing parties of the season was given in Library hall on Monday evening. The hall was prettily decorated with foliage and apple blossoms. Many guests from Manchester and Gloucester responded to the invitations sent out.

Mr. Jesse Knowlton and family spent the holiday at their cottage
here.

Miss Elizabeth Crawley of Gloucester has been the guest of Miss Katharine Macaulay for a few days.

Mr. Thomas Abbott was home
May 30.

The cottage arrivals for June 1 are:
Mrs. Elizabeth M. Stevens of New York, in the Knowles cottage; Mrs.
George P. Wilshire of Greenwich,
Conn., in the Underwood cottage,
Mrs. R. M. Colfelt of Philadelphia in the Parker cottage, Mrs. James Ford of Kansas City in the Ford cottage.

The William Henry Coolidges of Newton Centre have taken rooms at the Oceanside for the summer.

A few of the young people from here attended the regimental field day hop at City hall, Gloucester, Friday evening.

Summer Time-Table.

The summer arrangement of trains on the Gloucester branch goes into effect next Monday morning, June 5, and a full list of trains, showing the arrivals and departures will be found on page 27 in this issue.

The number of trains is practically the same as last year. Only one new train is added, and that on Saturdays only, to take care of the extra traffic on this branch in the summer months.

This train leaves Boston at 1.15 and will arrive in Manchester shortly after two. It will return, leaving Manchester at 3.16. In order not to bring the running time too near the train which usually goes up to Boston about 3 o'clock will leave the respective stations nine minutes earlier than now.
With only slight variation the rest of the trains are the same as at present.

Wanted.

Mrs. George Houghton and family left Thursday for their new home in South Lancaster, where Mr. Houghton has accepted a position as head coachman for the E. V. R. Thayers. It is with many regrets the family part with their many friends in Manchester, having lived here for many years. Miss Gamble of Boston has been a guest of Mrs. Houghton the past two weeks.

Mrs. George Harvey of Springfield was a guest of Mrs. Jacob H. Kitfield at the Cove over Memorial Day.

Mrs. D. L. Bingham had her brother, Mr. Pert, of Salem, with her over the holiday.

The committee on the Fourth of July celebration have had several meetings of late making plans for the day, and in another column they advertise for material for a bonfire. It is understood they are looking for anything and everything in the line of combustibles for a big bonfire, on the "night before." It will be well for anyone having any such material to communicate the fact to some member of the committee, which is composed of L. W. Floyd, George S. Sinnicks, George Kimball, C. O. Lee, Ralph Stanley, Chas. O. Howe and William Hoare.

Misses Helen, Annie and Mattie Jewett of Annisquam were in town over Decoration Day, guests of Fitz W. Sargent and family.

Society Notes.

The past week has seen quite an influx of the summer colony, scores of houses along the shore from Beverly to Magnolia having been opened. Though there is little in the line of social happenings, the families are fast arriving and now very few of the houses remain unopened.

The Francis H. Peabodys joined the Beverly Cove colony the middle of the week, opening their house on Ober street, Wednesday.

Miss C. H. King opened her house near Mingo Beach, Monday.

The Alexander Steinerts are expected at their Ober Point place today.

Francis I. Amory's house at Pride's Crossing was opened Thursday and made ready for the arrival of the family shortly. The Amorys have spent the winter abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tyson, who closed their Chicago house some weeks ago, and have been sojourning in Vermont, arrived at Manchester, Wednesday.

Wednesday's arrivals at Manchester also included Mrs. J. L. Bremer and her daughter, Miss Bremer. The Col. Thomas Livermores of New York arrived at the "Merrill Homestead"

Thursday, as did also the Edward Kings of New York at the S. Parkman Blake house, West Manchester.

Miss Mary Colket of Philadelphia is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Harrison K. Caner at her Dana's beach house, Manchester.

Samuel Carr and daughters, who were abroad last season, their West Manchester estate being let to the Mrs. Benjamin Warders of Washington, are to spend the summer on the North Shore, having arrived Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lee, who have been making quite an extended stay on the other side, are due to arrive at their Magnolia cottage on the Shore road next week. Mrs. Lee's sister, Mrs. Joseph Sargent, who is also travelling abroad with Mr. Sargent, has been quite seriously ill, and there is some doubt as to whether they will come to Magnolia till late in the season.

The Mrs. John Cordners arrived at their Pride's Crossing place, Tuesday.

Miss McNamara of 665 Boylston street, Boston, has arrived at Manchester for the summer and is prepared to do Shampooing, Marcel Waving and Manicuring. She is stopping with Mrs. Arthur S. Dow, opposite the railroad station. Telephone 12-12. *

Judge William C. Loring has arrived at his Pride's Crossing villa for the summer.

Rev. Fr. John J. Downey paid a glowing tribute to the nation's dead in the course of his sermon at the Mass said at St. Margaret's church, Memorial Day morning. He gave expression to the sentiment that one should always stand by his country, — America, the noblest republic in the world. "As I stand before you," he said, "I pray for the soldiers and sailors of this great republic without any distinction of creed, color or race. They stood beside each other and manifested their courage and bravery for the safety of their country."

HONORED DEAD.

enlarge the army or introduce military rule oppressively among us. And they will stand there not only to oppress the oppressor, but they will stand there to inspire the humble and peace-loving youth of the land. They will say to the workers in the shop and factory and on the farm, 'Not in the serried ranks of professional warriors, but in the sound and incorrupt and loyal citizenship of the land lies the nation's strength.' They will encourage men to be efficient in the arts of peace, knowing that efficiency in these will be the best preparative for the moral demands of righteous war and the restraints against unrighteous aggression.

"They will say to the people of the land, your grand army, like the kingdom of heaven, is within you. Your country is not in your broad acres, your waving fields and your splendid buildings, and still less in your battleships and armies, but in your hearts to love and to endure the sufferings for righteousness sake.

"That is the lesson the volunteer soldier of the Civil war has brought to our people. That is his great legacy. His flags may turn to dust again, as they surely must. They are perishable stuff. But his honor and his fidelity, his response to a great heart of humanity, his steadiness in the long years of discouragement, and his growth under the privations of a war that he thought at first would be ended in a month, and that dragged out into years,—these can never perish from a grateful country's memory. Nor shall we, their children, and their children's children suffer them to be forgotten. They must soon, in the natural order of events, pass away from the earth.

"The last name will soon be gone, and the list will be a roster of the dead. But their memory shall never perish and their valor and lessons of their devotion and courage must remain as the dearest and most priceless possessions of the nation they gave their lives to maintain."

Decked the Graves.

After the exercises in town hall the parade formed and marched to the various cemeteries and decorated the graves. There were more than 100 in line, made up as follows:

Platoon of Police
Chief Peabody, Sergt. Andrews, Officers
Lee, Lomasney and Lucas.
Manchester Brass Band, 25 pieces, L.M.
Blythe, leader.

Camp 149, S. of V., L. W. Floyd, Com.
Post 67, G.A.R., E. P. Stanley, in Command.

Brigade Drum Corps.

Camp A. E. Low, U.B.B.A., Companies A and B,

Captain H. C. Swett.

Carriages with Disabled Soldiers.

There were in the line 28 members of the post. James H. Rivers, the post adjutant, was officer of the day.

After marching to the Summer Street, Union and Rosedale cemeteries, where 66 graves of departed soldiers and sailors were decorated, the Post held its services at the vacant lot, commemorated to 16 brave soldier boys who never returned from the war.

From the cemeteries the procession marched to the town wharf, where the members of Allen Relief Corps joined services in memory of the sailor dead, which were very impressive. Thence the procession went to the chapel, where a spread was in readiness, prepared by the W.R.C.

The appearance of the Boys' Brigade in the line was something new, but the boys were highly complimented on their appearance. They marched like experienced soldiers, with true military precision, and they regarded the matter in a serious, not a playful manner. The one incident of the day was the fainting of Archie Houghton at Rosedale cemetery, due to the fatigue of the march. He joined the ranks again and finished the parade.

DO YOU WANT

TO USE WHAT IS BEST FOR

YOUR TEETH?

As the eye is the index of the soul, so perfect teeth, white and bright, are an index of good care and health.

In recent years much study and attention has been given to the anti-septic treatment of the mouth, and the care of the teeth by scientific men.

It has been found that the germs of Diphtheria, Typhoid Fever, La Grippe, and many other diseases find entrance to the human system through the mouth.

As a result of this investigation and study, Barker's Antiseptic Dental Wash and Antiseptic Tooth Powder have been devised and are now being largely used by physicians, dentists, actors, actresses, and people generally who realize the importance of white sound teeth, not only as an element of beauty, but as an aid to digestion, and an essential of health.

"Fine teeth are very jewels in the mouth of beauty." Would you hesitate for one moment to purchase and use a particular dentifrice if you were sure that by so doing you would have whiter, brighter and healthier teeth.

BARKER'S ANTISEPTIC TOOTH POWDER AND ANTISEPTIC DENTAL WASH

costs no more than the ordinary tooth powders and dental washes, but the results obtained by their use are vastly better.

SATURDAY, JUNE 3, 1905.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

Descriptions of a Trip from Boston to San Francisco and Return.

[The following is taken from notes made by Thomas D. Connolly of Beverly Farms, on a recent trip to San Francisco.—Ed.]

No. 8. — San Francisco to Salt Lake City.

We started on an excursion, leaving San Francisco at 8 o'clock on the morning of February 26, for Menlo Park, San Jose and Santa Cruz. Menlo Park is the seat of Stanford university, all its buildings being laid out in mission style, and, as for the chapel, it is wonderful, both as to design and construction. The Santa Clara valley, as it is called from here to San Jose, is noted for its fruit ranches, and I never saw such a beautiful sight as on Sunday morning when all the almond and peach trees were in bloom, there being acres and acres, as far as the eye could reach, fragrant and beautiful.

San Jose is 51 miles from San Francisco, and was the former seat of the State capitol. It is termed "California's Paradise." It is the most ancient settlement of California, and no part of the State is as healthy and agreeable the year round as in this valley.

We left San Jose with 14 cars and two engines attached to one train, having taken on a train from Oakland. We rode through the Pajaro valley to Gilroy, a prosperous town named after a Scotchman who settled there in early times, then through Watsonville to Santa Cruz, where we rode along by the Pacific ocean for several miles, reaching Santa Cruz, about 75 miles from San Francisco, which is the seat of one of the oldest missions in California. Before it was torn down it was also the best preserved mission, and it is a pity to see its buildings destroyed and a modern church erected in its place.

At Monterey, just below Santa Cruz, a monument has been erected on the site of an old mission, and an inscription on it reads as follows: "This monument, erected by Jane L. Stanford in the year 1891, in memory of Father Junipero Serra, philanthropist seeking the welfare of the humblest, a hero daring and ready to sacrifice himself for the good of his fellow-beings, a faithful servant of the Master." This monument is life size and of stone. He is represented as stepping out of a boat, with his right hand raised as if to bless those near him. In his left hand is the missal.

A society has now been organized for the preservation of all these old missions, and this, together with the Native Sons' society, have done much to keep them preserved.

A few miles from Santa Cruz we saw a great number of very large red-wood trees, the largest I ever saw and as large as some of the trees in the Yosemite valley. Santa Cruz beach is like our own West beach, with its long pier, but it has what we do not yet possess—a large pavillion where one can sit down and enjoy watching the bathers. They were in bathing there even if it was February, and a fine band added to the enjoyment. Here, as on Catilini island, are canvas tents, which one can hire for a moderate sum per week and take meals, if he wishes, in the hotels.

Near Santa Cruz the ocean has washed caverns out under the shore, as the rocks being of a sand-stone formation are easily disintegrated, and I saw in the middle of a street, 300 feet back from the shore, where it caved in and they had to erect a fence around it. If anyone fell in it would be impossible to rescue him, as the current of the water would carry him out to sea. A narrow gauge railroad also runs from here to San Francisco, and passes through wooded valleys and a rich farming country. Los Gatos is a beautiful town near Santa Cruz.

The grape culture is carried on here much different than at home. One will see large, homely and snaggy looking roots standing out of the ground three or four feet high, and out from these trail the vines along the ground, there being no trellis or fence whatever to support them.

In my next I shall tell of the trip from Oakland, Salt Lake, Denver, Chicago and Niagara Falls to Boston.

We crossed the bay from San Francisco to Oakland, March 20, and boarded the overland train on the Southern Pacific R.R., at 6.30 p.m. Our Pullman car was booked for a stay at Salt Lake for eight hours, Denver for seven hours, Omaha for five hours and Chicago for one day. This method gives the traveller ample time to view the different localities. At 6 o'clock on the morning following we arrived at Truckee, 12 hours' ride from Oakland. We were in the midst of a blinding snow storm, 7,000 feet above sea level, and could hardly realize the snow after leaving such beautiful weather. We saw the snow sheds spoken of so much, and we looked across and above us to see the different levels through which our train passed. At Truckee all the fruit and vegetable trains ice their cars for their long journey East. The Truckee river runs along below the tracks on one side, and is the greatest trout stream in the world. We crossed the border of California and Nevada, and in a short time reached Reno. We continued, and the town of Sparks came into view. Here we set our watches one hour ahead. It is quite mountainous and hilly, with considerable grass land, until we reached Winnemucha. From this on the country on each side is a barren waste, and we rode all day through the Nevada desert. Mountains can be seen, but with no vegetation; in fact, nothing but burnt-up rocks, with their different colors and holes in them (volcanic origin). This looks like pumice stone. Nevada is simply a mining country, and as night came on there was still the barren waste to look at. At 5 o'clock next morning we arose and found that we were crossing a bridge built over Salt Lake. This bridge is 90 miles long, built on piles, and is what is called the short cut. Every five pails of water taken from Salt Lake produces over one pail of clear salt, or 22%, after the water evaporates. We reached Ogden at 7.15 a.m., the end of the Southern Pacific R.R., and then started on the Denver and Rio Grande R.R. In one hour we arrived at Salt Lake City, the home of the Mormon. In our party are people from Louisville, Ky., Ohio, Indiana, and in fact from almost every Western State.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

Town Hall Crowded At Evening Exercises.

No less fervent was the patriotism of the Manchester people in the evening than in the afternoon, for at the patriotic exercises in Town hall, 8 o'clock, not a seat could be obtained almost fifteen minutes before the time for the concert had arrived. The programme, which was of a very interesting nature, was prepared and the affair was in charge of a committee of the W. R. C., of which Mrs. Hannah Tappan was chairman.

Previous to the exercises the band gave a concert on the Common and they also rendered the opening number in the hall. Past Commander Enoch Crombie of the Post presided, and Commander E. P. Stanley gave a short address of welcome.

Mr. Stanley said he welcomed the gathering in behalf of Post 67, but more especially in behalf of Allen Relief Corps, as they had charge of the entertainment. He paid glowing tribute to the Stars and Stripes and said the grand old banner might be symbolized as the rainbow of hope. "We have in this country," he continued, "people from all quarters of the globe, many of whom have come here with the hope of liberty in their hearts, and I think that hope has been realized." He spoke also of the new possessions—Cuba and the Philippines—and said that though the Filipino did not now realize the good there is being done him, in a few years the influence of civilization will have been felt in that country, and these people will then thank the United States for the action they took in their behalf.

"The time is not far distant," he said, "when everyone on the face of the globe will be civilized, and we shall come pretty near seeing an amalgamation of the races."

The several selections by the Post quartette, composed of Charles G. Goldsmith, Henry T. Bingham, A. J. Orr and William J. Pert, were the star numbers of the evening. The quartette is said to be next to the oldest Post quartette in the state. The readings of Miss Harriet Brewster and P. H. Doyle, and the remarks by Rev. Mr. Ashley were very interesting. The bayonet drill and manual of arms by a squad of ten of the U. B. B. A., Capt. H. C. Swett in command, was equally interesting.

Rev. Mr. Ashley in his remarks said he thought it was a time for thanksgiving and congratulations.

"Ought we not to be thankful," he said, "for the 40 years that have passed since that conflict? Ought we not to be grateful that we can send out our thanksgivings that we as a nation have been exalted of God as such, saying unto all nations, 'Follow us into the world where all are one.'"

"We are fighting battles today that are even greater than those of our Civil war. We are still burning citadels, yet we are having no such glory as we gave our soldiers."

"The day is coming when these great corporations and trusts that have been rotting the fibre of the best men of the nation are to be transformed into things that make for righteousness and we shall have great philanthropists instead of giants that have been eating the life of the nation. It is coming because of the days of '61. Our railways are going to be run for the benefit of the people; these great trusts that are now handling the great forces of the nation's life are going to be handled by the people. And I admonish the young people to enter the ranks and fight for freedom in these things, and these things that are for the people shall be by the people and of the people."

MEMORIAL DAY

At Beverly Farms Observed with Impressive Exercises.

Exercises in commemoration of Decoration Day were held at Beverly Farms in a manner befitting the day, the members of Preston Post 88, the W.R.C., the Fire Department and the school children uniting in making the day a success.

The parade started at 2 o'clock, with Joshua Younger, marshal. A platoon of police headed the line, and the band followed, with the Fire Department following as escort to Post 88, C. H. Day in command. The veterans of the Spanish war were at the end of the line.

After the ceremony of decorating the graves had been carried out and the pretty and impressive ceremony of strewing flowers on the water, the line proceeded to G.A.R. hall, where the parade was disbanded. The band gave a concert in the square.

In the evening exercises were held at the Baptist church, the oration being given on that occasion by Rev. Clarence Strong Pond, the pastor. His subject was: "The Heroes of '61 Worthy Sons of the Heroes of '76." He said in part:

"We have come here today to pay living tribute to the memory of our hero citizens who laid down their lives in the war of the rebellion for the preservation of the Union, to cherish the memory of our patriot dead who have died since that conflict, and to lay a wreath of laurel and myrtle on the brow of each surviving member of the Grand Army. Long may they live to enjoy the peace, happiness and prosperity which their labors have assured to themselves and their posterity. We are to review the events of that trying period that the children of our homes may be taught the lessons of patriotism, so that when the great moving tide of time shall bear the last hero across the great gulf a united nation shall gather annually to thank the God of Nations for our National deliverance and to honor the brave soldiers who fought the good fight for freedom.

"It is for us to enfold the examples of freedom and bravery and heroism to the aliens in our midst who have come from other lands of oppression and political darkness to this land of liberty and political light, that they may know at what cost our national liberty has been attained, and that they may be inspired to American loyalty.

"Our nation was conceived in Liberty. The Pilgrims and the Puritans established themselves in the New England for freedom of worship in the old Bay state. From an acorn so small in 1776 there had grown a mighty oak amid the first of nations.

"And there were heroes in those days. Methinks I see them now—the heroes of a heaven born conflict laboring against the masterly arms of England before whom the nations of Europe stood in awe."

The speaker then passed on by a rapid transition from the hero spirit of the conflict of 1776 to the heroes of 1861-65 and closed by invoking God's blessing upon the people, the state and the nation.

Captain Slocum gave an interesting talk, accompanied by the stereopticon, in Marshall hall, Monday evening.

What has promise of being the most brilliant wedding of the season is to be celebrated next Wednesday afternoon, at Trinity church, Boston, when Miss Hetty Appleton Sargent, daughter of Mrs. Lucius M. Sargent, and granddaughter of Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge, and Francis Lee Higginson, jr., are to be married. The North Shore contingent will be well represented at the nuptials as both bride and groom have spent their summers here for years. Miss Sargent has selected an especially happy group of attendants, since it includes her cousin, Miss Eleanora Sears, the groom's two sisters, Miss Juliet and Barbara Higginson, and Miss Eleanor Gray, who is to be a bride at the same altar on the Saturday following. Mr. Higginson and his bride are to spend the summer abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Wood and family have closed their Brookline residence and moved down to their beautiful house at the foot of Cobb avenue, almost on the banks of Singing Beach, Manchester, Thursday.

One of the "Brownland" cottages at "Old Neck," Manchester, was occupied Monday by Mrs. Lewis, and family, of Tuxedo Park, N.Y. The L. L. Hopkins of Boston arrived Wednesday, moving down to their West Manchester house, which was opened last week.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Reed Anthony and family have closed their Beacon street, residence this week and moved down to Beverly Farms permanently. Their house has been open for some time. Mr. Anthony's new yacht has been brought up from Bristol, R.I., and is stationed at Marblehead for a few days before being brought over to West Beach.

"A NATION'S EBENEZER."

Rev. Edward H. Brewster Gives an Eloquent Discourse at Manchester on Memorial Day.

Union memorial services were held at the Baptist church in Manchester last Sunday morning, the members of Post 67, G.A.R., Camp 149, S. of V., and Allen Relief Corps, 119, attending in a body. Rev. E. H. Brewster, the pastor, delivered an eloquent address on "A Nation's Ebenezer," and Rev. Darius F. Lamson read the Scriptures and offered the prayer. A quartet, composed of John Davis Baker, Fred K. Swett, Mrs. J. K. Tappan and Mrs. E. F. Preston, sang several selections.

Mr. Brewster took his text from Samuel 7:12—"Then Samuel took a stone and set it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name of it Ebenezer, saying, hitherto hath the Lord helped us." He said in part:

"The American people have established Memorial Day as the Nation's Ebenezer. It is the institution of a grateful people summoning the citizens of our republic to a consideration of that struggle which, blazing across the pathway of the 19th century, marks a sublime turning point in the history of our affairs.

"To the veteran soldier this day is a day of memories. Again he peers through the dense clouds convulsed with the tempests of war. Again he hears the bugle note wafted far above the engagement on the hot breath of internecine conflict.

"Again the smiting sabre falls in flickering wrath, like a vengeful bolt from the hand of Jove. Again the banner of his country streaks with fair colors the grim brow of death and sets its radiant stars in the damp of the soldier's grave. The tombstones of our heroic dead are the Ebenezers of the nation. They rise from the silence of the voiceless city wrapped in the robe of a green content, the thrush's note quivers above them, and woodland moss clings to their granite lips. On every side, as the sun wheels his way to the west, their shadows are cast. Oh! 'Happy people,' whose hands shall press these mounds in performance of memorial offices. You will rear Ebenezers on each soldier's grave as you place fragrant buds to sweeten their long rest. Corruption thinks to reign there, but your memorial wreath routs the legions of dissolution and perpetuates in its bloom the fairness of their deeds.

"The stone which Samuel set revealed Israel's cause to be God's cause. The cause of the Union was born of God. War is rarely justifiable. Its exactions are hateful. Its pathway is strewn with blackened bodies and murdered souls. Its funeral plume beckons death to a grisly feast and nods complacently in the jaws of carnage.

"The cause of the Union was manifestly the cause of God, because it was an atoning price. In 1620 a slave ship glided across the sea, her low, dark hull, a sinister cloud on the glancing waves. From her port holes gleamed despairing faces and glaring eyes, revealing the depths of raging passions.

REV. EDWARD HERSEY BREWSTER,
Who delivered Memorial Sermon at Manchester last Sunday.

"The history of slavery is well known; injustice, foul and undressed, practiced upon an alien people; midnight skies blushing red with the flames that leaped from miserable hovels; the right of fatherhood filched from yearning hearts; the love of home polluted from the spring of prostitution; the embrace of motherhood unlocked by the coarse deity of gain, and fondest hopes winging their swift flight about curling heads or dimpling cheeks laid in the dust by the cry of the auctioneer.

"For all this there must be an atonement, and you gallant men of the fair Northern States poured forth your blood to establish a covenant of grace under whose ample bonds the negro has become an heir of the same national promise. You gave the black man a white skin and added a cubit to his stature.

"The stone of the text is significant of the Lord's help. God's hand raised up men when many of the chief counsellors of the nation deserted the service of 'Old Glory.' God's hand was visible in the smoke which poured from Sumter's guns; in the awful shadows of the Wilderness, and in the sweet light which flowed over blue and gray at Appomatox.

"The way of the Lord's help is our concluding thought. With what truth can you comrades of the Grand Army say, 'Hitherto hath the Lord helped us.' You laid your dear companion in arms to rest beneath the doleful branches of the sycamore, with the death damp upon his brow and the fountain of a nation's glory oozing from his breast. 'Farewell! a long farewell,' ye said. Perhaps ye kissed him there, and gently folded his arms upon his breast. You stumbled back to the fateful field. Many were left behind, in the bosky swamp, on the bare hillside, on the misty mountain top, where pines murmur their litany and the frost leaves medals above their sleep. But you are here this morning. God has spared your lives. You have lived to see what God hath wrought. You have lived to weep today for those lost comrades whose memory is still your inspiration.

"The Grand Army is marching away, the sun stoops low to kiss their banners in benediction, the mists from the banks of Jordan envelope their swaying ranks, but, ere lost to the vision of this generation, ere the night forever closes down, they rear an everlasting Ebenezer in this Memorial day, and lifting prophetic voices sing:

"Here we raise our Ebenezer,
Hither by Thy help we've come,
And we hope by Thy good pleasure
Safely to arrive at home."

Sickness and death having decreased the money in our wampum belt, it has been decided to run a fair during the week commencing July 16, 1905, to replenish the same.

Any person wishing to contribute articles of any description to said fair will please leave the same with Bro. W. R. Bell, or notify him, and the articles will be called for. Any assistance along this line will be greatly appreciated.

Respectfully yours,
W. R. BELL, M. A. MCINNIS,
T. A. BAKER, D. E. BUTLER,
E. F. PRESTON,

ESSEX CONSOLIDATED MINES CO.

Capital Stock, $500,000--Par Value, $1

250,000 SHARES IN THE TREASURY, FULLY PAID AND FOREVER NON-ASSESSABLE.

25,000 of the Treasury Stock are now offered for Sale at $1. a Share.

ASSETS.

80 Acres of mining claims with nearly $1,200,000.00 worth of ore in sight, giving a mine valuation of	$5,000,000.00
2,000 H.P. water right earning 12 per cent. on the entire capitalization. Chloride and canvas plants, stamp mill with concentration plant, machinery and tools, buildings, etc.	$100,000.00
Value of work done to open ore bodies	$300,000.00
Two great auriferous veins outcropping on the surface for two and one-half miles.
Shaft sunk 700 feet with levels running north and south at depths of 150, 250, 460, 530, 600, and 660 feet 20 stamps running night and day and the entire 40 stamps in a few weeks.

ARE YOU TIRED OF PROSPECTS?

This is an opportunity to invest in a shipping mine. Your money is safe. A Preferred Stock guaranteed dividend of 12 per cent., beginning July 1st, 1905, with possibilities of from 100 to 200 per cent. in a few years, — many of the mines in this camp have paid $50,000, $100,000, $500,000 and $1,000,000 in a single month. when ore has been struck in rich pockets, which is characteristic of the mines on this Mother Lode of California.

THE ESSEX CONSOLIDATED MINES, located in Angels Camp, California, four and one-half miles from the town and only 1,000 feet from station on the Sierra R.R., is just such a proposition.

Write for free booklet "Gold Mining on the Mother Lode" and photographs of property.

The price of stock is now $1.00 per share for the Preferred and fifty cents per share for the Common Stock. For a short time only purchasers of Preferred Stock will be given as a bonus one-half share of Common Stock with each share of Preferred purchased. Investors should take advantage of this extremely liberal offer, as the present price is altogether too low and will soon be advanced.

BEVERLY FARMS.

Mrs. John Wyatt is seriously ill at her home on Hale street, Pride's Crossing.

Capt. Thomas Neville has this week purchased the schooner "Pluribustah" from Gloucester parties, and will use the same in connection with his fishing business.

A flag pole has this week been erected upon the school house grounds. Under the direction of James B. Dow, quite a lot of shrubbery of the hardy variety has been planted at the grounds, which adds greatly to the attractiveness of the place. The shrubbery and materials for same were donated by citizens of Beverly Farms.

Travelers on the highway this week at Pride's have been obliged to go by way of "Common lane" and Montserrat, owing to the closing of the main thoroughfare during the street construction.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Gerrish are back to Pride's Crossing, after a month's sojourn at Kittery, Me.

Red fire, fireworks and music galore were the order of things at Beverly Farms on Wednesday evening, the occasion being the return of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gaudrea from their honeymoon. They have started housekeeping in the house of John H. Woodbury on West street. Although taken unawares, the happy couple invited all into the house, where refreshments were served, and many present offered different features in the line of entertainment. During the evening a handsome sideboard and other articles were presented.

The fish wrier off Chubb's island has been doing a good business this week, Capt. J. Frank Blaney taking out daily about 40 barrels of herring, which found a ready market at good prices.

A sure sign of summer—Supt. Neville of the West Beach corporation reports this week the rental of quite a number of bath houses.

There will probably be a pool and billiard parlor located in Beverly Farms soon, a license having been applied for, in the new block being now under construction.

M. Shear of Dorchester has located at the Farms, opening his tailoring establishment in Marshall's hall.

Reginald Slavin of Deseronto, Canada, is the new additional clerk at Connolly Bros.' office.

"The Prince of Pilsen."

On Monday last Henry W. Savage again offered his standard musical comedy success, "The Prince of Pilsen" at the Tremont Theatre, with the best cast that he has ever provided for this most delightful Pixley and Luders work, and the general verdict was that the production as a whole is bigger, better and brighter than ever. This is the fourth successful run of the "Prince of Pilsen" in Boston within the past three years, a truly remarkable record. Judging from the reception accorded "The Prince" Monday night at the Tremont Theatre, it is destined for several more seasons of prosperity. "The Prince of Pilsen" has not been permitted to deteriorate, but has been kept new and bright and thoroughly up-to-date. The result is that it continues to stand in the front ranks of the many successes of that generous and artistic producer, Mr. Henry W. Savage. That excellent comedian, Mr. Jess Dandy, who is seen as Hans Wagner, and has played the part for more than five hundred times, keeps the audience in a continual roar of laughter every moment that he is on the stage. The chorus is large and effective, and particularly good to look upon, and the performance as a whole is kept keyed up to Mr. Savage's well-known standard of excellence in every particular.

Hustlers, 12; Walkovers, 9.

A baseball game on the Brook street grounds in Manchester, on Memorial Day morning, resulted in a victory for the Hustlers over the Walkovers, 12 to 9. The teams were made up of the following:

Hustlers—Abbott Hoare, c.f.; W. Edgecombe, s.s.; Ralph Stanley, c.; L. Wade, 1b.; Otis Lee, 3b.; Hollis Bell, l.f.; Fred Crombie, r.f.; Cook, 2b., p.; William Dougherty, p. 2b.

Walkovers—Fred Dougherty, s.s.; John Dillon, p., 2b.; W. Sheehan, c.; Fritz, 1b.; Mason, 2b.; McCormack, l.f.; Raymond Crocker, r.f.; Ernest Howe, 3b.; Walsh, c.f.

A Series of Dramas.

The Sons of Veterans, Camp 149, of Manchester, plan on giving a series of dramatic plays in the town hall very soon under the management of Curtis B. Stanley and Thomas A. Baker, they are already rehearsing some of our local talent and will put the first play on about the last of this month.

They have engaged Mr. F. S. Loring of Boston as their instructor.

Neither Mr. Stanley or Mr. Baker need any introduction in the dramatic line to Manchester people as they have already shown excellent ability in rendering the following plays in the hall, "The Octoroon," "Only a Farmer's Daughter," "Katheleen Mavoureen," "A Noble Outcast," "East Lynne," "Down East Folks," "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "Ten Nights in a Bar-room," "A Country Grocer," and many others, and also playing an engagement with the Sawtelle Comedy Company.

The plays will be produced with all local talent.

Included among the Magnolia arrivals the first of the week were the Geo. P. Welshires, who are at the "Underwood cottage" for the summer; Mrs. E. M. Stevens and family, and Mrs. R. M. Colfelt and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wigglesworth and family arrived at their "Old Neck" house yesterday for the season.

The S. V. R. Crosby house at West Manchester was opened Thursday for the season.

Mrs. E. B. Everett opened her house at West Manchester, Wednesday. Last season the house was unoccupied Mrs. Everett spending the summer in Europe.

The Misses Brown opened "Brownland" at Manchester, Thursday.

Mrs. Gordon Prince is moving from her house at West Manchester today to the cottage at Beverly Farms which she has hired for the summer. It is understood the Mrs. Lucy Kanes of Elizabeth, N.J., who have leased the Prince estate for the summer have changed their plans owing to illness in the family and will not come to the North Shore. Other parties have been looking over the place with a view to hiring it for the summer.

Miss Helen Fitch, who has been abroad for several months, plans on sailing, with her sister, Mrs. Northern, about June 26, and they will join their family in Manchester at once.

Mrs. John Reece has closed her Brookline residence and moved down to Manchester the latter part of last week.

BAKER'S HORSE SANDAL is the best, cheapest, and most durable shoe in use. It is quickly adjusted, does not gall or injure the horse in any way, in fact it is just what is wanted in every way. It is in use on many of the best golf links and private estates from Maine to Oregon. It is made in four sizes:

No. 1. To fit shoes from 5 to 5 3/4 inches long. No. 2. To fit shoes from 5 1/2 to 6 1/4 inches long. No. 3. To fit shoes from 6 to 7 inches long. No. 4. To fit shoes from 6 3/4 to 7 1/2 inches long.

In ordering please send size of horseshoe from heel to toe, or a tracing of the shoe, to insure a good fit.

Price, $8 per set with leather taps, $6 per set without leather taps.

JOHN BAKER, Superintendent Essex County Club,
MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA, MASS.

Mr. JOHN BAKER,
Manchester, Mass.

Dayton, O., Nov. 24, 1903.

My Dear Sir: As Chairman of the Green Committee of the Dayton Golf Club, I have, during the past four years been called upon by my Green Keeper for two or three sets of leather boots per season; these have cost us from $9.00 to $11.00 per set. Hence it gives me great pleasure to state that the single set of Lawn Shoes purchased from you last spring, has been entirely satisfactory and is as good now as when we bought them. In addition to their value from the standpoint of economy, they are very easily attached to the hoof, do not become loose, and do not make sore spots on our horses' legs as our leather boot did. They are a great success and I heartily recommend them.

Yours truly,

R. T. HOUK.

HOME FURNISHING

NOT SO MUCH A MATTER OF FINANCE
AS FANCY

In other words, half a stated sum rightly spent will produce effects that its double will not do if invested, less good judgment. There is a store we know about where its salespeople are instructed in "Color Harmony," in "Interior Decoration," and where everything required for the fitting up of the home is at their immediate command. Where rugs and carpets can readily be matched to wall papers and upholstery stuffs, where a home from the furnace to the furniture can be figured on—that has a list of enthusiastic customers, willing to testify to the proficiency of its efforts and its economic principles, a clientage that reaches all over this immediate vicinity and scattered abroad from Portland, Me., to New York City, who will state it from experience that much prettier things are found there, at a great saving in the cost, than like stores offer.

Its very appearance testifies to the taste you can employ, and little plain figures stamped on every tag sound strains of pleasing emotion to the strings of every purse.

Modestly do we assert that store sends forth our name.

New Plant of the United Shoe Machinery Co.

By GEO. P. CARVER.

The new plant of the United Shoe Machinery Co., in Beverly, is the largest example of reinforced concrete building construction in the world, and a description of the plant together with the methods of construction is of unusual interest because of the magnitude of the work, its absolute fire-

PASTOR ORDAINED.

Manchester's New Pastor Examined by Council of Prominent Clergy and Laymen, Ordained and Installed into Pastorate.

The ordination and installation last evening of Clarence Arthur Lincoln, as pastor of the Congregational church in Manchester, brought together one of the most notable gatherings of theologians, clergymen and laymen that have yet met within the historic old church. More than a score of ministers, many of whom are prominent in the denomination, were present.

The sermon was delivered by Rev. Edwin Pond Parker, D.D., one of the leading Congregationalists in the country, who has recently completed his forty-fifth year as pastor of the South church, Hartford, Conn., where Mr. Lincoln assisted for some time

Golf at County Club.

The golf season at the Essex County club opens today with a handicap stroke competition, and these competitions are to continue throughout the summer, every Saturday, till October 2. Prizes are offered for the best gross and best net scores.

The arrangement this year differs from last season in that competitions are to be held on every Saturday instead of alternate Saturdays. The members of the Myopia Hunt, Salem Golf, Nahant and Montserrat clubs are invited to enter the competitions.

On July 8th and Aug. 19th, the members of the Essex County club returning 16 best gross scores will play off at match play for special prize, and on July 29th and Sept. 9th, members returning 16 best net scores will play off match play under cup handicap for special prize.

Does the Trick.

It Renews and Beautifies.

Call for it at

D. T. BEATON'S,

Central St., Manchester-by-the-Sea

Here are a few of the many uses:

FLOORS.—It is the best and most durable finish ever manufactured for use on either hard or soft wood floors.

FRONT DOORS.—Weather-beaten doors look like new when coated with Jap-a-lac. It resists the sun and moisture.

WOODWORK, Furniture, etc., which has become marred, scratched and worn, when coated with Jap-a-lac is renewed and beautified.

SCREENS.—Brilliant Black Jap-a-lac beautifies and prolongs the life of wire cloth on screens (when so used it should be thinned one-third to one-half with pure turpentine), and the Mahogany, Brilliant Black, Cherry or Walnut Jap-a-lac used on the frames makes them look as good as new.

WICKER FURNITURE, coated with Mahogany, Ox-blood Red, Gloss White or Malachite Green Jap-a-lac, looks better than new ANNUAL REUNION.

Manchester Alumni Hold Pretty Party in Town Hall.

The town hall in Manchester was the scene of a most enjoyable and pretty party Wednesday evening, the occasion being the fifth annual reunion of the Story High School Alumni Association. As in years past a short entertainment preceded the reception and dance. There were about fifty couples on the floor at the dance, which was continued till one o'clock.

The entertainment consisted of musical selections, interspersed with several readings by Miss Lotta Jones, of Gloucester. The Manchester Mandolin club played a number of airs, Mrs. Frank G. Cheever, Miss Gertrude B. Goldsmith and Fred K. Swett sang solos in their usual favorable manner. Miss Annie Lane rendered a piano selection, and a cornet solo by Chester Cook was particularly pleasing.

Following the entertainment there was a short reception. In the line were the matrons, Mrs. Frank Bullock, Mrs. A. M. Lycett, Mrs. Leon W. Carter, Bernard Boyle, chairman of the committee in charge, and the president, J. A. Lodge.

The ushers were Misses Annie Lane, Etta Taylor, Kate Ashley and Ethel Morgan.

The grand march was started at 9.30 and was led by Mr. and Mrs. Lodge, followed by more than forty couples. Bernard Boyle was floor director and he had as aids: Frank A. Rowe, Chester Standley, Fred Andrews and William Dougherty.

During the reception Long's orchestra played several very pretty selections, and the orchestra also furnished music for the dance. Refreshments of ice cream, assorted crackers and punch were served during the evening.

The committee in charge was Bernard Boyle (chairman), Mrs. F. C. Rand, Mrs. L. W. Carter, Miss Edith Swett, Miss Alice O'Neil, Percy A. Wheaton, Frank A. Rowe.

The bank of green at the rear of the hall, potted ferns and palms and the green and white streamers hanging from the chandeliers to the wall, made an attractive setting for the many pretty gowns in evidence.

CHURCH NOTES.

BOSTON.

MANCHESTER.

Among the promotions in the teaching staff of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology confirmed at a recent meeting of the corporation is that of Charles L. Norton, of Manchester, from assistant professor to associate professor of heat measurements.

The Manchester band furnished the Saturday evening concert at Beverly last Saturday evening, when thousands of people paraded the streets. The work of the band was much appreciated.

Mrs. Charles J. Morgan started Sunday for the Provinces, being called home by the serious illness of her mother.

At her home on Washington street last Saturday afternoon, from 2.30 to 5 o'clock, Miss Jennie Hannable entertained the young misses, members of her Sunday school class, with a party. There were present Dora Marshall, Hazell Semons, Beatrice Long, Gwendolen Gledennings, Dillon Sjolund and Annabelle Lodge.

Linwood Young of Boston has entered the employ of C. H. Dennis at his Beach street garage for the summer.

The regular meetings of the fire department companies were held Monday evening. The engine was taken out on the Common for practice.

"Strawberries" was the subject of a very interesting talk by James Macgregor before the Horticultural society at their meeting last Friday evening, at which one new member was admitted. The subject of the meeting next Friday night will be "Raising and Care of Hardy Perennial Seeds," to be discussed by Jos. Clark and W. B. Jackson.

Made a Hit.

Manchester's Brass band, with an offering of bright, up-to-the-minute, and catchy music, made a hit Saturday night for the weekly Merchants' concert.

The Manchester boys brought up many of their town admirers and the programme which they offered was well received. Business was brisk and all the merchants reported plenty to do. After the concert W. F. Plummer the Mason block druggist, was "it" with the band men, for he regaled them with soda and ice cream, which was particularly good after the two hours' march. The band men reciprocated by playing a number of selections in front of his store.—Beverly Times.

Former Manchester Boy.

The many friends of Rev. George L. Gleason, former pastor at the Congregational church here, and family, will be interested in the following item, complimentary to the work of Mr. Gleason's son, George, who has been in the mission field since leaving Harvard several years ago. Mr. Gleason is probably not so well known here as his sister, Miss Alice Gleason, who formerly taught in the Story High school, but who is now engaged in mission work in Mexico. The item, taken from the Congregationalist, follows:
"Five thousand dollars from the emperor of Japan's private purse goes to the Y. M. C. A., in recognition of the fine service rendered by it to the army in Manchuria. Imperial good will plus imperial support will give these Christian workers such an opening as men seldom have. One Congregationalist in this army work, which resembles that of the Christian Commission in our Civil war and has won hearty recognition from the military authorities, is a son of Rev. George L. Gleason, pastor at Haverhill, Mass. Before going to Japan the young man was Y. M. C. A. secretary at Harvard."

M. Y. C. Racing Programme.

The racing programme of the Manchester Yacht club for this season has just been sent out and is as follows:

1st championship — Wednesday, July 5.

2d championship—Tuesday, July 18.

3d championship—Tuesday, August 1.

Open race of Y. R. A. of Mass.—Monday, August 14.

Crowhurst cup race—Tuesday, August 15.

4th championship—Tuesday, August 22.

5th championship — Tuesday, Sept. 5.

In connection with the championships, there will be handicaps. Cups have been offered "The One Design M. Y. C. Sailing Tender Class," and races for this class will be given in connection with the championships, and also special races and cash prizes to be announced later.

The regatta committee this year is composed of Geo. W. Mansfield (chairman), Reginald Boardman, Richard deB. Boardman, Horace B. Pearson and Charles E. Cotting, Jr.

It may interest you to know that we opened in Beverly three months ago, one of the finest and best equipped Drug Stores in the country. This store seems to have already met with the approval of Beverly citizens to an extent that we have found its size inadequate to the business offered, and we have enlarged our store by adding nearly 500 square feet more floor space, which is now ready for the comforts of our patronage.

In the Drug and Prescription Department we have stocked our store with a full line of imported drugs of strictly assayed value, thus enabling us to guarantee absolute purity and uniform strength of all drugs sold.

In our Soda and Ice Cream Department, we have the best and most sanitary appliances ever invented, and goods to maintain the high reputation to which we aspire.

In Toilet Articles, Confections, Cigars and all Drug Goods the lowest Boston prices will be quoted and the quality unsurpassed.

BEVERLY FARMS.

Miss Pauline Welch of Danvers was a guest of Miss Maude Culbert over Sunday.

The building now occupied by Publicover Bros., to be vacated at once, is to be used as a bakery, it is said. A man who formerly was connected with Smith, the Beverly baker, is at the head of the new concern to be started here. Several years ago, before Publicover Bros. occupied this building, there was a bakery in operation there.

Joseph M. Collins, of Beverly, is the agent of the American Exp. Co. at Pride's and Beverly Farms for the summer, with office at Pride's Crossing.

Mrs. John Wyatt, who has been quite seriously ill at her Pride's home, is much improved the past few days.

F. W. Broad, of Boston, is the new meat-cutter at Wyatt's market for the summer.

Commencing last Sunday three masses were said at St. Margaret's church, at 7, 9 and 10.30 respectively, and will be continued on Sundays during June, July, August and September.

The Board of Aldermen visited Beverly Farms Tuesday, locating a number of new electric lights, which, when installed, will fill in part a long felt want, as for some time the matter of additional street lights for this section has been agitated.

With the coming of June and warm weather West Beach is the center of attraction for scores of people who daily make it a rendezvous. Many of the bath houses have been let for the season, and a number of the more enthusiastic bathers have already taken daily dips into the brine.

Plans for the Fourth.

The Beverly Farms committee on Fourth of July celebration will meet next week to take steps toward giving the people of Ward 6 their usual celebration. The committee is composed of business men and representative citizens of the place who work hard each year to make the holiday a success, and their efforts in the past have been crowned with complete success. Not alone have the people of the Farms been given an entertainment which exceeds greatly that which could be expected from the money raised wholly by subscription, but many visitors have been attracted to the celebration. There is something doing in Beverly Farms every Fourth from early to late with a variety to suit all tastes.

proof qualities and the manner in which the work was done.

By reinforced concrete is meant concrete work which is strengthened by steel rods placed in the concrete while it is being "poured" in those places which are subject to the greatest strains. Reinforced concrete beams, which, together with a thin slab, compose the floors, when subjected to a load, have a tendency to break, but are held together by these reinforcing steel rods, which take up pulling strains and which concrete alone is unable to do to any great extent, though it has great strength in compression. The steel rods are also placed in the concrete which is not subject to strain, as in non-bearing walls, especially those exposed to extremes of temperature. Rods placed in work of this kind has a tendency to tie it together and prevent cracking.

The concrete is made up of broken stone, sand and cement of the correct proportions, to which water is added, and the whole mixed in a revolving drum fitted with a chute, which feeds the concrete into buckets, which are picked up by the use of a cable-way fitted to traveling towers, and carried to the point where it is to be used.

The form work is of wood, built up, supported and braced, and is constructed similar to a mould of the correct dimensions, into which is poured the concrete. It requires about two weeks for the cement to harden, at which time the forms, or moulds, are removed, and the resulting work has the appearance of cast stone. The strength of concrete work increases as it ages.

This new plant is composed of ten buildings of various sizes and required practically 30,000 cubic yards of concrete for their construction. The two main buildings are 522 feet long, 62 wide and 60 feet high; the floor area is divided into 20-foot squares, supporting columns at each corner. The floors are designed to carry a load of 250 pounds per square foot, with a factor of safety of four. The roof is to carry a load of 75 pounds per square foot besides its own weight.

These two main buildings are to be used as the machine shops; the easterly building will contain the offices, draughting room, etc. In addition to these two buildings is one of the same width and height, 280 feet in length. This building is to be used for shipping and storage, but arrangements have been made whereby it can be utilized for a machine shop when the growth requires it. Between the two main buildings and connecting them are constructed two large buildings, fitted with modern sanitary appliances.

In the basement of this building is installed the heating apparatus, consisting of large fans, engines to run the same, and sets of wrought iron pipe coils. This apparatus in working order draws the cold air down through an open shaft leading to the roof, through the pipe coils, which are fed with steam from the power house. The air when heated is forced through an opening in the basement wall, through a concrete duct led along outside of the buildings. In these ducts at intervals of 20 feet are openings through which the warm air is deflected into hollow columns. The air is thrown into each story through an opening in the column. In this manner the air can be changed from 0° to 70° Fahrenheit.

spreads out in a footing 18 feet square. The chimney is made of concrete and sand in the proportion of one to four. It is reinforced with perpendicular rods, 72 of which are set in the lower part, and the number gradually decreasing until there are only 12 at the top. Motion is very perceptible at the top of this chimney in a high wind.

Water for boiler purposes can be stored in two reservoirs of about 20,000,000 gallons capacity each. Owing to the large water shed these two basins can be filled very quickly. To obtain these basins the construction of three dams was necessary. Two of these dams are made of concrete and one of earth, with a concrete core wall. The lower dam is entirely of concrete and is fitted with a tide-gate, making it impossible for the tide water to go beyond this point.

UNITED SHOE MACHINERY CO. PLANT AT BEVERLY,

In addition to the above buildings there is a foundry 222x108; a power house, 91x99; a forge shop and hardening plant, 220x62; and two smaller buildings which connect larger buildings of the plant.

The foundry and power house are detached buildings, and are set in such a manner that the general layout of the buildings form a square about 530 feet on a side.

A spur track, connecting with the Boston & Maine R.R., runs through the plant.

The machinery in these buildings is run by electricity generated by steam turbines, which run at a speed of 1,800 revolutions per minute. Leading from the power house are tunnels of sufficient height to walk in, in which are carried steam and water pipes, also electric cables led through clay conduits embedded in the floor of the tunnel. These cables are led to motors which are suspended on steel frame work secured to the ceilings.

In connection to the power house a chimney of reinforced concrete has been constructed. It is 140 feet high and 6 inches inside draught. The foundation for the chimney extends down into the ground 16 feet and

A complete storm-water and sanitary sewer system has been installed, and is constructed in such a manner that any part of it can be inspected and cleaned with very little difficulty. The storm water is emptied into the lower basin and flows out with the tide. The sanitary sewer is connected with the city system.

At the present time the area around and between the buildings is being graded with loam; shrubbery and flowers are being planted, and on the completion of the work the grounds will be very attractive.

Roadways of various widths, constructed of concrete with a granolithic finish, are being constructed between the building and along the ends.

The plant will be open to Balch street toward North Beverly by an 18-foot roadway leading in that direction, parallel with and west of the Boston & Maine R.R. Two roadways will lead to the plant from Elliott street, one of a 25-foot width, running in on a curve, connecting with the spur track from the Boston & Maine; another of an 18-foot width running parallel to the main line of the Boston & Maine R.R., and 150 feet west of same.

Descriptions of a Trip from Boston to San Francisco and Return.

[The following is taken from notes made by Thomas D. Connolly of Beverly Farms, on a recent trip to San Francisco. — ED.]

No. 9. — Salt Lake City to Boston.

Salt Lake is a beautiful city and has fine public buildings. The Mormon holds the balance of power. Salt Lake is 90 miles long and 43 miles wide, and one can see vast quantities of salt in sacks piled up on the shore. Tom Kearns, a former United States Senator, and his partner, Keith, are the owners of the Silver King mine, near Salt Lake. They have an income each month from this mine of $50,000. Kearns gave $85,000 for an orphan asylum here and $25,000 for the new Cathedral. We boarded an observation trolley car, visiting the Mormon Tabernacle and Assembly hall. The Tabernacle, which was designed by Brigham Young, is built oblong, 250 feet in length and 150 feet in width, with a dome-shaped roof. There is not a post in it, and standing in one end one can hear a pin drop in the other end. It seats 10,000 people, and has 20 doors 9 feet wide. The building can be emptied in four minutes. The organ in this great building cost $100,000 and has 5,500 pipes. There is a choir of 500 voices, all the talent being gratis. A Mormon is compelled to give 1-10 of his income to support the church. From the ceiling of this great building to the floor it is 70 feet. The Assembly hall holds 2500 people. They obtain their converts mostly from Sweeden and Germany.

One of the mountains near Salt Lake is 13,200 feet high and another 11,300 feet. Brigham Young, the founder of Salt Lake City, had 19 wives and 52 children. Elder Smith had 42 children. The Mormons have large co-operative stores, their own bank, and even publish a newspaper. No one outside their church is allowed to go into their temple, where they marry and baptize and hold religious services. The treasurer of the Mormons is a man by the name of William B. Preston. They have 22 public schools and 369 teachers in Salt Lake, outside of the Mormon schools.

We returned to our car, and started for Denver at 3.30 p.m. on our trip through the Rockies. The scenery is very beautiful, and we noticed the little cabins of the lonely miners who are prospecting and trying their luck in search of the yellow metal. We kept ascending all night and the next morning, till 7 o'clock, when we reached Tennessee Pass, 13,240 feet above sea level. A great many persons on their way to Colorado, suffering with consumption, meet their end at or near this place. As regards this high altitude, its effect on some people is very marked, such as a difficulty in breathing, and ringing in the ears. I did not notice it at all, but a young man near me was so affected that he became very much excited for want of air, and to cap the climax had a heavy hemorrhage of the nose. All that a person should do is to remain as quiet as possible, for the least exertion will soon show itself. Tennessee Pass is 240 feet higher than Leadville.

We then begin to go down, and every once in a while passed switch backs. In case the engineer should lose control of his train, he is thrown on this track by a switchman, and as it ascends quickly, it soon comes to a stop. As he approaches these switch backs he is obliged to give four long whistles, signifying that he has his train under control. If he forgets this the switchman simply throws him on to the switch back.

We passed over the Royal Gorge bridge, which is hung up in the air, so to speak. This bridge has heavy steel trusses, built like a pitch roof; that is, the ends of steel rafters are fastened into the sides of the gorge, and through these rafters immense steel rods hang down. They are fastened to steel stringers, which support the bridge underneath. The Arkansas river rushes and roars down through this narrow pass.

The Denver and Rio Grande Railroad was formerly of narrow gauge, but it is now standard gauge. They simply put in a third rail, and it seems funny to see both narrow gauge and standard gauge cars running together on the same freight train. Through all this wild and picturesque country you see smelters, coke and charcoal burners.

We reached Colorado Springs, a beautiful spot, and here is the famous Antler's hotel. You start from this place to go to Pike's Peak, which can be seen plainly, even to the summit house on the top.

We continued on, and reached Pueblo. After leaving Pueblo we noticed the prairie dog, which is the pest of this part of Colorado, and when the train passes along he scampers for his hole. The government has tried everything imaginable to get rid of this little fellow, but nothing up to the present time has been found. Once they obtain a foothold in your land it is of no use to try to get rid of them. The only way to do this is to flood the land with water.

We reached Denver at last, and took a trolley ride around the city. It is the capital of Colorado and has a fine State House. All its buildings and dwelling houses, even to the little cottages, are built of brick, and such beautiful colored brick, too. It would make an Eastern architect excited, the colors seem to blend so well. In all the little paths in Denver one can see the invalids sitting out on settees. Denver is 6,000 feet above sea level, and is a beautiful city.

We left Denver at 10.30 p.m. and when we awoke next morning we were in Nebraska. The land is so level that as far as the eye could reach we saw little cottages, but large and well-equipped buildings for holding their grain and cattle. We passed through Lincoln, near the home of Wm. Jennings Bryan (the sixteen to one candidate for the Presidency).

All day long we rode, and at 2 p.m. arrived at Omaha, noted for its stock

Which you would like to rent to a desirable tenant for the coming summer it would be well for you to send a description of it, together with your name and address, to the undersigned at once. yards. Down the river from Omaha is Council Bluffs, Ia., 498 miles from Chicago. The Burlington and Missouri Railroad, part of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy system (built by Boston enterprise), in fact, Union Pacific, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe were all built by New England people.

We left Omaha at 6 p.m. and reached Chicago at 7.30 next morning. Chicago is a business city, and its principal street is State street—15 to 20 miles long. It has the largest dry goods houses in the United States, one of them being Marshall Field & Co. Field was born in the little town of Conway, in this State, and like many a poor New England boy, has made his mark and fortune in the West.

We left Chicago at 6 p.m. via the Wabash Railroad, and arrived at Niagara Falls next morning at 7.30. We went down, via trolley car on the American side of the Niagara river, to a place called Lemsten. We then crossed over the suspension bridge to the Canadian side. As we went toward the Falls we saw the monument erected to Gen. Brock, who was killed at the battle of Queenston. Gen. Scott was the commander on the American side and Gen. Brock on the British side. On the spot where Gen. Brock fell a monument was erected by the present King of England, when he was on a visit to the United States and Canada some years ago. Here, also, is a building in which the first printing press was established in Canada.

Niagara Falls has been so well described that it is useless for me to say much more. This was my second visit there. On the American side this vast volume of water has been harnessed and supplies Buffalo and Lockport with electric light. All the cereals, such as force, flaked rice, etc., are manufactured here. A bill was introduced this last winter in the Assembly of New York, at Albany, to still further utilize this vast volume of water, but the bill was defeated, as it should be. Both the United States and Canada should hold this wonder of the world together and preserve it from being destroyed.

We started for home Sunday evening and reached Beverly Farms next day, having been away 10 weeks and passed through 27 States. In conclusion, I wish to say to my American brothers, do not ever think of going to Europe until you have at least seen something of your own country, which you can describe to your European friends. Its greatness and vastness are something wonderful, the like of which does not exist in any other land under the sun.

"Pilsen" Souvenir Steins.

Henry W. Savage's big "Prince of Pilsen" company will start on its third and last week but one at the Tremont Theatre next Monday, celebrating the occasion of the 200th performance of this favorite attraction in Boston by presenting each lady present with a beautiful souvenir stein. The offering of this splendid musical comedy with its big cast, beautiful scenes and costumes, large, handsome chorus, screamingly funny scenes and situations and delightful musical numbers, at summer prices, has proved a decidedly wise move on the part of Manager Savage.

We would be pleased to meet any of the old customers at H. B. Winchester's Jewellery Store, Gloucester, and we will try to give you the same satisfaction as we did at Manchester. *

during his course in the seminary.

Other well known men in the denomination who took part in the exercises were Prof. Alexander R. Merriam, of Hartford Theological Seminary, who gave the charge to the pastor; Rev. DeWitt S. Clark, D.D., of Salem, who delivered the charge to people; Rev. Edwin H. Byington, of Beverly, who extended the Right Hand of Fellowship to Mr. Lincoln; Rev. George E. Lincoln, of East Granby, Conn., father of the new pastor; and Rev. A. A. Berle, D.D., of Salem.

At two o'clock in the afternoon the pastors and delegates from the various churches invited assembled in the church in council to examine the candidate.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The ordination and installation exercises were held in the church at 7 o'clock in the evening, at which time the program printed in another column was carried out.

Impressive and interesting were the exercises. Rev. A. A. Berle, D.D., of Salem made the invocation and Rev. F. J. Libby, recently installed as pastor of the Magnolia church, read the scriptures. After a hymn, Rev. Dr. Parker preached the ordination sermon and this was followed by the ordaining prayer, by the Rev. George E. Lincoln of East Granby, Conn., father of the pastor.

The Right Hand of Fellowship was extended by the Rev. Edwin H. Byington of the Dane street church, Beverly. His remarks were brief but well chosen. He emphasized that it was not the fellowship of convivial gatherings, of social functions, or simply the fellowship of mutual organizations, but rather the fellowship beyond that,—the fellowship that comes in comradeship and service for some notable cause of common interest.

Rev. DeWitt S. Clark, D.D., of Salem, delivered the "Charge to People." He said in part:—

"Two precepts do I get from the oracle consulted as to what should be said to this people:—First, Give this pastor the best you have.

"Remember, he has given up all things that he may serve you. That is to be his one business. Decent appreciation of that fact would require you to return to him in full measure. You will give him a suitable home and a living salary, for you don't wish to have him regarded as a mendicant, or one whom you can afford to treat with contempt. You will give him your best support by being always present, if possible, at the public service, at the social meeting, and at the various gatherings to which he calls you from time to time.

"You will bear him much in your hearts in prayer. You will make him feel that you regard him as the most desirable minister in the land for you. You will not be ardent to attend the church alone, but will bring others with you, and that steadily. You will go out and try to put in practice in business, society and community, the things he commends and asks you to do. You will give him the best you have and your homes, viz.: your time, your interested attention, your warm welcome, your open-heartedness. You will make his calls so delightful and so genuine, that he will want to come very frequently to see you.

"Do you know that is the best way to insure his being often within your doors? Make a confident of him. Tell him why you hope or fear, believe or distrust. So he will be (and only so) what is called, a 'curé of souls.'

Second,—Expect of him the best he can give you. Let him understand that you can appreciate the choicest products of his study and training. Thus will you be most likely to get them. Let him be personal and not spending his strength and time in general exhorting. Let him have all the time necessary to fit him for his public speech here. Don't hinder the effective work of the pulpit by demands that he be anywhere else, during the week. If he is a sort of fire driver, don't let him run himself to death, while you are enjoying the exhilaration of his rapid pace. Curb him rather than spur him, for he is new to the harness and the road.

"Treat him like the man he is before ever he became a minister. Let him be a neighbor—a citizen—with interests in public affairs just as important and sacred as yours.

"Do not try to make him your mouthpiece or distrust him if he does not always vote or think as you do on matters of common concern. Allow him liberty of speech and action. Never fail to give him your confidence as he has openly given you his. Expect him to be ever an example of piety, of good cheer, of charity, of wisdom, of honor, of independence—a lover of men and of God. That will go a long ways toward making him such; which is our best wish and prayer for both you and him."

REV. C. ARTHUR LINCOLN,
Who was Ordained at Manchester last evening.

In the "charge to pastor," by Prof. A. R. Merriam, of the Hartford Theological Seminary, the pastor was reminded of the opportunity for rich influence upon the whole community afforded by a town like Manchester, comparing such a field with a city in which a minister often only influences a small section of his environment. He also recalled the fact that if one-third of our population is in cities, two-thirds are yet in the villages and country. "Aggrandize, therefore, in your thoughts the New England township as giving a great scope for vital work," he said.

The speaker divided his "charge" into two parts, first: some charges to the pastor, and second: some charges to the preacher. As pastor he charged that Mr. Lincoln remember that the little platoon of the parish is the corps of the Army.

"Your main business here," he said, "is to be pastor of this church. From this center you can exercise your richest influence as citizen leader. Do not under estimate, as many do today, the vocation of a curate of souls, or call 'drudgery' the daily round of the pastor's office. You will never inspire men unless you are inspired by men. You cannot get them into your life unless you care to get them into yours."

"Remember as pastor that machinery is always in danger of dispensing with personality. Use machinery of organization, but do not abuse it or let it take the place of personal power or influence. Keep always foremost for power the pre-eminence of personality."

As preacher Mr. Lincoln was reminded that no other profession has so much to do with the function of the living voice. To meet all these demands a man must have first, a gospel to preach and this gospel must get its needed measures of apprehension from Christ, the many-sided Christ. He was charged to preach Christ in the largest, highest, broadest conception of the divine Lord. "With this vital center of thought," said the speaker, "you can be a larger, broader preacher of the truth, fearless and free."

In closing Prof. Merriam charged Mr. Lincoln that he could not be a strong preacher in these days without hard work and that he must have an enthusiastic love of his work and calling.

Mr. Lincoln was welcomed to Manchester by Rev. E. H. Brewster, pastor of the Baptist church, who said he welcomed him first as a resident, speaking of the attractions of the town, and of the North Shore. He welcomed him as a scholar, and spoke of the traditions connected with the early town history. He welcomed him as a citizen to enter into the activities of the town, and lastly, he welcomed him as a preacher and minister of the gospel and worker in Christ's work, emphasizing the co-operative function of their labors together.

Lively Runaway.

There was a lively runaway in Manchester Monday afternoon about four o'clock, in which one young lady, Miss Louise Blaise, was thrown headlong from a carriage in Central square, and a score or more school children from the G. A. Priest school narrowly escaped being trampled upon by the infuriated horse.

The animal belonged to Israel Martin, who was in the office of J. F. Rabardy transacting some business. His granddaughter, Miss Blaise, had accompanied him to the Square and after doing some shopping went back to the carriage. As she stepped into the light vehicle the horse, for some unaccountable reason, bolted and started forward on a mad dash. Though the young woman grabbed the reins with a will she could do nothing, and before she knew it the horse swung the carriage into another wagon, broke away from the shafts and galloped up the street.

Miss Blaise was thrown headlong by the collision, but landed with little injury. She was assisted to G. F. Allen's store, where it was found she was not hurt. Many children on their way from school narrowly escaped being run down by the runaway horse.

A Balm for Tired Nerves.

There is nothing like a sea voyage for tired nerves. There are few, however, who can lay aside the cares and burdens of the daily routine long enough to visit foreign countries. But a long period is not necessary to take in the Joy-Line trip between Boston and New York, yet it gives all the advantages of the longer ocean voyage.

The traveler, luxuriously quartered aboard the "Old Dominion," can contemplate with ease and comfort some of the most picturesque scenic effects to be found upon the Atlantic coast.

The service given aboard the boat in question adds much to the pleasure of this daylight trip to New York. *

Trolley Rides.

Trolleying, its delights and fascinations, where to go, how to go, and how much it will cost, all told in a breezy, interesting manner, make up the subject of a series of six attractive folders which the Boston & Northern and Old Colony street railways have just issued. These folders are gotten out in much the same style as the literature issued by the big steam roads. These two companies are the first in the country to put out pamphlets on such a pretentious scale. Each folder is devoted to one special section,—for instance, the South Shore, North Shore, Merrimac Valley, Mystic Valley, Southern Massachusetts and Western Massachusetts, all of which will be sent to any address upon receipt of six cents in stamps to defray postage,—sent to the passenger department at 309 Washington street, Boston, or any Division Superintendent's office.

Society Notes.

The open tournament on the Myopia Hunt club links today is a big drawing card for many of the North Shore golfers, and for members of all the clubs in the vicinity of Boston, as this is the only open tourney on for the week. As all members of clubs in the national and state associations are eligible, the list of entries is a long one. The play is an 18-hole handicap stroke competition, with prizes for best gross and net scores.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hooper are located at their West Manchester estate again for the summer. Mrs. Hooper has been a recent guest of Mrs. S. V. R. Thayer at Lancaster.

Congressman Augustus P. Gardner of Hamilton is to become a resident of Beverly for a few weeks. He has taken Miss Fannie Powell Mason's place at the Cove. For some time Mrs. Gardner has not been in the best of health, and it is hoped that this change may benefit her.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben D. Jordan, Miss Dorothy and Miss Helen and Robert Jordan, with Mason Hamlin, are still touring in Germany in Mr. Jordan's big car, and are not due in Scotland for several weeks yet.

Another well known North Shore man touring on the other side is Charles H. Tweed of New York, who is motoring through France in his big French car. The Tweeds are soon to join the colony at Beverly Farms.

GOD AND MAMMON.

Man Cannot Serve Both, Says Manchester's New Pastor. Money Won't Land a Man on Abraham's Bosom. Business Sharks with Sanctimonious Coat-Tails Not Wanted in Heaven.

"Relation between Ethics and Religion in Christ's Teaching" was the subject of an able sermon by Rev. C. Arthur Lincoln at the Congregational church in Manchester, last Sunday morning.

"It must be recognized," he said, "that Christ formulated no system of ethics. While his mind was capable of doing such work, and we have abundant evidence of his unique conception of the relations of morality and religion, it was plainly not his plan to formulate systems and lay down rules in the abstract. The instructions that he gave arose out of the ordinary happenings of life and were dictated by the exigencies of the moment.

"Jesus apparently omitted to give instruction on such ethical questions as patriotism, bravery in the defense of one's country or institutions, loyalty to the sovereign power of the land, etc.

"He clearly recognized the prevalent distinction between ethics and religion. Men believed they could serve both God and Mammon without any conflict in the camp, even according to the method of a present-day trust builder, not to call names.

"There were at least incipient business sharks with sanctimonious coat-tails in those days and they were bold enough to turn the temple into a stock exchange and work up a monopoly on doves. There have always been men who believed that a little money judiciously spent would land them safe on Abraham's bosom, no matter if their deeds would logically land them beside Dives in the place of torment. Jesus undoubtedly recognized the distinction between ethics and religion.

"The source of men's difficulty lies in the human heart. Selfishness is the core of man's lost condition. Man is disposed to give personal consideration and interests the first place.

"Christ taught that immorality produced irreligion. His heaviest guns were fired against inhumanity and He is aroused to the hottest indignation by inhumanity dressed in sheep's clothing of religion.

"Many men claim today to be able to get along without religion and at the same time be moral. When men love darkness rather than light, it is because their deeds are evil and their very rejection of the light is their condemnation.

"When a man once permits the almighty power of divine love to take hold of the springs of his conduct he is then on the road toward the fulfillment of that all inclusive command with which Christ in one sentence summed up the ethical and religious teachings of His Sermon on the Mount: "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your father which is in heaven is perfect."

BAKER'S HORSE SANDAL is the best, cheapest, and most durable shoe in use. It is quickly adjusted, does not gall or injure the horse in any way, in fact it is just what is wanted in every way. It is in use on many of the best golf links and private estates from Maine to Oregon. It is made in four sizes:

No. 1. To fit shoes from 5 to 5 3/4 inches long. No. 2. To fit shoes from 5 1/2 to 6 1/4 inches long. No. 3. To fit shoes from 6 to 7 inches long. No. 4. To fit shoes from 6 3/4 to 7 1/2 inches long.

In ordering please send size of horseshoe from heel to toe, or a tracing of the shoe, to insure a good fit.

Price, $8 per set with leather taps, $6 per set without leather taps.

JOHN BAKER, Superintendent Essex County Club, MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA, MASS.

Mr. JOHN BAKER,
Manchester, Mass.

Dayton, O., Nov. 24, 1903.

My Dear Sir: As Chairman of the Green Committee of the Dayton Golf Club, I have, during the past four years been called upon by my Green Keeper for two or three sets of leather boots per season; these have cost us from $9.00 to $11.00 per set. Hence it gives me great pleasure to state that the single set of Lawn Shoes purchased from you last spring, has been entirely satisfactory and is as good now as when we bought them. In addition to their value from the standpoint of economy, they are very easily attached to the hoof, do not become loose, and do not make sore spots on our horses' legs as our leather boot did. They are a great success and I heartily recommend them.

Yours truly,

R. T. HOUK.

PASTOR ORDAINED.

Then followed the singing of the Ordination hymn, written by Deacon Joseph A. Torrey, as follows:

Thou who didst send a chosen few
Thy word to preach, thy work to do,
We for thy servant at this hour,
Invoke the Spirit's quickening power.

May he in all his life fulfill
The gracious purpose of thy will;
Nor he alone, — thy people, too,
With love and zeal and power endure.

Make thou this Church a beacon-light
To guide poor wandering souls aright,
A fount of life, a home of rest,
In faith and love divinely blest.

Send forth thy light, thy truth extend Unto the earth's remotest end,
Till in all lands beneath the sun,
Thy love be known, thy will be done.

Dr. Parker's Sermon.

Dr. Parker's sermon was based upon St. Paul's words in Second Corinthians, 4:7— "But we have this treasure in earthen vessels."

"The treasure spoken of is the Knowledge of God's glory revealed in Jesus Christ." He said: "Mankind needed this. A revelation of it was requisite. The revelation is made in Jesus Christ. It is conveyed to us in the Gospel. Likening this to a treasure, St. Paul says that we have it in earthen vessels. This figure suggests infirmity, limitation, inequality, and diversity. It applies to all the forms in which the truth and grace of the Gospel are conveyed and held, and to all the historic persons through whom the truth has been transmitted. We ourselves, in the frailty, limitations and diversities of our minds, are earthen vessels, and possess only so much as we have capacity to receive." This fact Dr. Parker illustrated and emphasized in many ways.

"The 'Word made flesh' is the first and most significant example of it. The revelation of God in conditions of humanity and mortality, the incarnate Word, is a putting of Divine treasure into an earthen vessel. Much more so in respect of the written word, the humanly-composed record of revelation. Human language is an earthen vessel.

"The ancient fathers, the scholastic theologians, the Protestant and Puritan divines, however great and godly and learned, all come under the conclusion of St. Paul's figure. We know in part. We look at things from different standpoints and have different views. All these are incomplete.

"But our different and partial knowledges are all of the same great and transcendent sphere of truth. It matters little at what points of contact faith takes hold of the truth."

From this line of thought, which was fully developed, Dr. Parker went on to urge the paramount duty of cultivating the largest and warmest Christian sympathy with all who, holding other views than ours, still manifest Christian grace. A man's religious peculiarities of belief never seem so petty and paltry as when he seems shut up in a conceit of their exclusive merits. Dr. Parker illustrated and urged home his point by apt historical and poetical quotations. He said that controversy is not to be deprecated, but the lack of candor and courtesy and charity in it.

"When men confuse creed and character, and push disagreements to the disruption of the bonds of peace and spiritual fellowship, they make of themselves a sorry spectacle; they inflict injury upon the Gospel and the church of Christ."

Dr. Parker made a second point — that it is no reason for discouragement that we have the Gospel treasure in earthen vessels.

"We have it in the measure of our several capacities," he said, "and therefore sufficiently for our necessities. The parts we do not and cannot know are not necessary to be known. We must accept ourselves, others, and see the forms in which we receive a knowledge of divine things as subject to frailty, limitation, and manifold imperfection; we must abide in humility, and, above all else, cultivate charity towards others. Then we are to rejoice in our partial knowledge, as sufficient for us, and as the most sacred and precious treasure that we possess or can possess. To cherish and communicate it is our high and holy calling as Christian men and women."

Society Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Parker Bremer have been the recipients of hosts of congratulations the past week on the arrival of another little girl into their home on Smith's Point a week ago today.

Mrs. A. I. Croll and two daughters, after a delightful winter abroad, arrived the first of the week, and, with Mr. Croll, who remained in Boston all winter, are now pleasantly located at their Smith's Point home again.

Miss Mary Proctor has been entertaining Mrs. Saunders of Boston at her Sea street home in Manchester, the past week.

C. W. Ward's cottage at Manchester will be opened today for the summer.

Miss E. G. Houghton, who has been abroad all the winter, has opened "Twin Acre," her Magnolia cottage, and will shortly move down to the shore permanently.

The Hamilton Hills of Boston arrived Thursday and are occupying the Proctor cottage on Sea street, Manchester.

At their beautiful Beverly Cove home, Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Bryce J. Allan entertained a party at dinner. Covers were set for ten.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Codman were among the early week arrivals at Beverly Farms, where they are occupying one of the Luke cottages.

Thursday's arrivals at Beverly Farms included Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Simpkins and family of Washington, and Mrs. E. L. Davis and family of 215 Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

Robert C. Winthrop, jr.

Robert C. Winthrop, jr., a member of one of Boston's oldest families, and for many years a summer resident at Manchester, passed away at his Boston home, 10 Walnut street, Monday. Mr. Winthrop was in his 71st year, having been born in Boston on Dec. 7, 1834. He was a son of the Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, who was distinguished in the public affairs of the nation. He was a graduate of Harvard of the class of '54. He was a member of the Somerset club in Boston and of the Essex county club in Manchester.

A widow, two daughters, Miss Clara B. Winthrop and Miss Margaret Winthrop, and a son, Robert Mason Winthrop, who is now secretary of the United States Legation at Madrid, survive him.

New Russian Ambassador Leases Place at Manchester.

Manchester and the North Shore is to be honored again this year by the presence of one of the foreign legations, Baron de Rosen, who will succeed Count Cassini as Russian ambassador at Washington, having decided to spend the summer at Coolidge's Point. He has leased the house formerly occupied by the Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge and will occupy it the early part of July, as he will sail for America about June 28.

TO JOIN CHURCH.

Beverly Pastor Urges Manchester Parents to have Children Join Church while Young.

In a short address in the vestry of the Baptist church, Manchester, Thursday evening, Rev. Herbert Judson White, of Beverly, made an earnest plea with the parents for bringing their children into the church when they are young, urged increased interest in Sunday School work and a larger attendance at Sunday School by the parents.

The meeting was held in the interests of the Sunday School and was in the nature of a "Children's Hour," a pleasing program of musical and other numbers being given by the children. The address of the evening was by Mr. White who spoke on "Our Relations to the Children."

"I believe in these children's hours," he said. "We have too few meetings of the Bible School in the evenings. It would do more good to meet oftener. There are many things we can do for our Sunday Schools to make them better and brighter. There is a lot we can do to keep the big boys in the school."

"Jesus loved children and he knew we loved them, but he also knew we were apt to misunderstand our children. There is very little room anywhere today for little children, or for old persons either. As I look around I can see homes where there is room for no children. There are poodle dogs and old tabby cats, but no children."

"I wonder why we don't improve the opportunity God has given us by pouring our best into the lives of these younger ones? We despise the children. We do not allow them to come anywhere near the fellowship of the church, but we allow them to go where all the diseases of sin are rampant. It is a fact that many of the children that come into the church have to fight their way in. Children are being kept away from the church to shelter the sinfulness of their parents."

After congregational singing and prayer, and Scripture reading by the pastor, the following program was carried out:

Piano Duet....Gladys and Horace Temple
Song by the Children..."I'll be a Sunbeam."
Reading, "Tommy,".....Harriet Brewster
Piano Solo, "Ben Hur Chariot Race,"...
.....Raymond Crocker
Song, "Bring them in,".....

In other words, half a stated sum rightly spent will produce effects that its double will not do if invested, less good judgment. There is a store we know about where its salespeople are instructed in "Color Harmony," in "Interior Decoration," and where everything required for the fitting up of the home is at their immediate command. Where rugs and carpets can readily be matched to wall papers and upholstery stuffs, where a home from the furnace to the furniture can be figured on—that has a list of enthusiastic customers, willing to testify to the proficiency of its efforts and its economic principles, a clientage that reaches all over this immediate vicinity and scattered abroad from Portland, Me., to New York City, who will state it from experience that much prettier things are found there, at a great saving in the cost, than like stores offer.

Its very appearance testifies to the taste you can

ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS OF HIS RELIGIOUS FAITH.

[At our request Rev. Mr. Lincoln has consented to have the paper on his theological views, read on the occasion of his ordination and installation, at the Congregational church, Manchester, Friday, June 9, 1905, printed in the BREEZE.—ED.]

BY REV. C. ARTHUR LINCOLN.

In making a statement of one's theological belief, it is always difficult, I suppose, to distinguish clearly between that which has entered into one's belief through genuine personal experience and that which has been absorbed as theory either from one's own mental speculation

MASTERS OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.

John Milton (1608—1674).

By D. F. Lamson.

[The present article brings to a close the series on the Masters of English Literature. In taking leave of his readers for the present, the writer wishes to express his thanks to all whose kind appreciation has helped to make the preparation of the papers, often amidst a pressure of other work, a real pleasure.]

The life of Milton does not fall within the Elizabethan period, but he belongs to it by virtue of the splendor of his style, the range of his learning, the massiveness of his thought; he was the most perfect outgrowth of that period, its ripest though belated product, "the last of the Elizabethans," he has been called.

Milton was born in London, of good parentage, and had the advantages of a good classical education; he was a great student, and spent five years in study in retirement after he left the university. He said he cared not how late he came into life, only that he came fit. He traveled in Italy, where he heard the news of the Civil War in England, which determined him to return; "inasmuch as I thought it base to be traveling at my ease for amusement, while my countrymen at home were fighting for liberty."

When about forty years of age, Milton became blind, owing to his excessive labors in defence of his country's cause, as Latin Secretary of State under Cromwell. He was warned of the danger, but nobly remained at his post, rather than allow England to suffer. His sonnet on his blindness shows us the uncomplaining, heroic spirit, "bating not a jot of heart or hope," but working on "as in the great Task-

WOODLAND DRIVE AT MANCHESTER.

Among the charms of the North Shore none is more attractive to the summer visitor than the picturesque woodland drives. The accompanying is one of the prettiest scenes, and is on the Essex road, not far

Here are a few of the many uses:

FLOORS.—It is the best and most durable finish ever manufactured for use on either hard or soft wood floors.

FRONT DOORS.—Weather-beaten doors look like new when coated with Jap-a-lac. It resists the sun and moisture.

WOODWORK, Furniture, etc., which has become marred, scratched and worn, when coated with Jap-a-lac is renewed and beautified.

SCREENS.—Brilliant Black Jap-a-lac beautifies and prolongs the life of wire cloth on screens (when so used it should be thinned one-third to one-half with pure turpentine), and the Mahogany, Brilliant Black, Cherry or Walnut Jap-a-lac used on the frames makes them look as good as new.

WICKER FURNITURE, coated with Mahogany, Ox-blood Red, Gloss White or Malachite Green Jap-a-lac, looks better than new.

High School Graduation.

The graduation exercises of the class of 1905, Story High school, will be held in the Manchester Town hall next Wednesday evening, at which time the usual interesting programme will be carried out. The various parts will be given by the following: Elisabeth P. Jewett, valedictory; Fannie S. Knight, salutatory; Jessie R. Andrews, class history; Lewis S. Hooper, prophecy. The other two members of the class are Elizabeth A. Dillon and Harry

R. Floyd. Mr. Floyd has already passed his examinations to enter Dartmouth in the fall.

The class reception will be held at the Town hall next Friday evening.

The county commissioners have apportioned the county tax of $320,000 among the various cities and towns, Manchester being down for $12,506.03, against $12,489.31 last year. It is interesting to note that our neighbor, Essex, is down for less than one-tenth this amount, $1172.17, and Rockport, $3076.89, while Gloucester will be called upon for $21,387.59.

New this Week.

NOTICE.

The School Committee invite the citizens of Manchester to inspect the work of the pupils of the G. A. Priest school on Tuesday, June twentieth, from 3.30 to 5 and 8 to 9 P.M. The work will be on exhibition in the Town hall. The principal of the school and the teachers of the several grades will be present and will gladly answer inquiries respecting either the work in general or that of individual pupils.

A warrant was sworn out the latter part of last week by J. S. Reed of the Beach street cafe, against John Holwell, for defrauding his board, it was alleged. Chief Peabody landed the man in Cambridge and sent the summons to the police there, but in some manner Holwell heard of what was coming, it is thought, for Mr. Reed received a money order for $9.00, the amount of the bill, in short order, and the warrent was not served.

The committees in charge of the Red Men's trading post to be held the middle of next month are busy making their plans for the event, which has indications of being a most popular innovation for the mid-summer. It is understood there will be dancing every night during the week. Everything that goes to make a good time, in connection with the fair will be provided for. Have you made a guess on any of the prizes yet?

The selectmen at their meeting Wednesday night granted the telephone company permission to erect three additional poles on Bennett street.

"Minor Moralities" will be the topic of the Y.P.S.C.E. meeting tomorrow evening, led by Miss Gertrude B. Goldsmith.

The Junior Christian Endeavor meeting tomorrow will be led by Minnie Lendall, subject: "Hinderers or Helpers."

New Block at the Farms.

The new block, which has been under construction by Mr. A. O. Marshall, reached completion this week and is a valuable addition to Beverly Farms' growing business facilities. The ground floor is devoted to three separate apartments, each of which affords a large space. The eastern end is occupied by Mr. Charles Martin, who will keep on hand a large supply of bicycles and sporting goods, and will also have in connection with his store a repair department fitted with modern, up-to-date equipment, suited not alone for repairing bicycles, but also automobiles, machinery, etc. The centre store will soon be fitted up with pool and billiard tables and other features, while the western end is occupied by Messrs. Publicover Bros., carpenters and builders, as an office and hardware stock room.

The upper floor is also occupied by this busy concern, and is of good size, being one large floor space without a partition of any kind, and will soon be fitted with all the necessary engines and machinery such as is to be found in only the largest concerns, and will enable them to do all their sawing, planing and such work, which heretofore they had to have done at saw-mills and factories. This new equipment will put them in line of handling with ease their large business, which each year is steadily increasing.

Four Generations Present.

At the wedding in Marblehead, Wednesday evening, of Miss Edna Upton and Herbert Hamilton, both of whom have a number of friends in Manchester, there were present four generations of Manchester people. They included Capt. Thomas Dow, grandfather of the bride, Mrs. Mary Stanley, his daughter, Mrs. Walter R. Bell, grand-daughter, and little Miss Ruth Bell, great-grand-daughter. Others who attended the wedding from here were Walter B. Bell, Mrs. Roderick MacDonald and Miss Ethel Stanley.

Monday evening in the Town hall the Farther Lights will conduct an entertainment and Japanese sale. Tickets for admission to "Fair Japan" are being sold for ten cents. A Japanese drill by the young ladies attired in the costume of the Flowery Kingdom will be one of the features of the entertainment. Among the variety of articles on sale at the booths will be Japanese fancy articles, tea at Tokio, ice cream, candy and cake.

The week has been a rather active one for the police in the line of intemperates. Two were taken from the barn in the rear of the Baptist church Monday, one being fined $5 in court Tuesday, while the other was let off without going to court. Officer Jones took a man of more than three score years off the 9.30 train Tuesday night and he, too, was let off in the morning. Officer Lee rounded in another drunk on the same day. He was not taken before the tribunal. The new law relative to drunks has been exercised for the first time this week, but while the police have the right to let a man up for the first time off without appearing in court, the matter is optional with them and only such cases as they deem wise are allowed to go.

LINOLEUMS

BIXBY'S "Rixdorfer" are the Parquetry floor copies that have so surprised and pleased people— They are such close copies— bringing out clearly every line and shade to the smallest detail— that it's hard work sometimes to convince people that they are copies— The price $1.15 upward make them possible to every one	BIXBY'S Printed patterns in Linoleum are all new and pleasing— for kitchen and back hall they're just the Carpet— They wear well and retain their good looks a long time— Abroad they are using the lighter colors for bed rooms as well. We've priced them 50 cents and upwards.	BIXBY'S Plain colored Linoleum fill a want where great service is required as they come in Browns, Green and soft Reds— Many like them as a background for Rugs and as borders— We use lots of them for Public Libraries and round Billiard tables— They wear next to iron.

Superintendent Kimball had a party of friends down from Salem over Sunday, including Assistant Engineer of the Salem Fire Department, Howard C. Kimball, and Mrs. Kimball, and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kimball. A drive along the shore and about town added to the pleasure of their visit.

Miss Ruth Pulsifer has been spending the week with relatives in Beverly.

The Soldiers' Home Committee of the local W.R.C. are making plans for a literary and musical entertainment in the town hall on Wednesday evening, June 28.

Mrs. George A. Morse and four children, who sailed last week for Mrs. Morse's former home in Antrim, Ireland, to spend the summer, were expected to arrive Wednesday. They will not return till September.

Mrs. Jacob Kitfield, who has been spending the winter in Boston with her daughter, Mrs. Griggs, returned Monday and will spend the summer at her Cove home.

On Thursday evening, June 29, the B.B.B. will hold a drill in the town hall, at which time the organization will be initiated into the national body of U.B.B.A. by Gen. Gerry of Winthrop and staff. Shortly after that the officers will receive their respective commissions and the company will receive its charter.

Attention is called in another column to the exhibition of school work of the pupils of the G. A. Priest school, in town hall, next Tuesday afternoon and evening. It would pay each and every parent to visit this exhibition, which is free.

Ernest W. Howe was given a party at his home on Pleasant street, Monday evening, by his parents, in honor of his 16th birthday, a number of his school friends and companions being invited in. The evening was passed very pleasantly with music, singing and graphophone selections. Refreshments of ice-cream and cake were served. The young man received many presents on the occasion, among which was a term course of piano lessons, the gift of his parents. Wednesday evening he went to Boston to attend the wedding of his cousin, George Howe of Beverly, in Tremont Temple.

The Glorious Fourth.

Indications point to a most glorious Fourth in Manchester this year,—something in the line of amusement far out of the usual run of things, and something which, no doubt, will prove a decidedly popular diversion from the stereotype form of observance. The change,—and the event of the day for youngsters and “grown-ups” alike,—will be an out-of-door theatre on the Common.

It has been the purpose of the committee, appointed by the town, in whose hands was entrusted $500 for the observance of the day, to have a change from the stereotype plan of the past years and have something the entire populace can enjoy. To this end they have this week signed a contract with the well-known opera house of John J. Coogan, of Boston, for a two hours' entertainment.

The entertainment, to be given on the Common at 9.30 a.m., will be somewhat as follows:

Prof. Frank Chefalo, Italian magician.

Cunningham and Coveney, knock-about singing and dancing comedians.

Eddie Daly, comedy juggler, acrobat and barrel jumper.

Dadman and Johnson, comedy musical act.

Tom Bryant, black face comedian.

Daly and Reno, comedy acrobats.

Prof. Harry Hannal, pianist.

Prof. Corbet, Punch and Judy.

There is no doubt that this will be a pleasing innovation over the races, dashes, doughnut races, etc., of years past, when only those who stood on the curb-stone could see the participants. A large stage is to be built on the Common so that all can see the performers.

A good program is also laid out for the rest of the day. A baseball game between the Clerks and the Bosses at the playground will be the attraction in the afternoon, with concerts by the Manchester brass band afternoon and evening, and fireworks at Beach street park.

Bishop Lawrence will Preach.

Bishop Lawrence will preach at St. John's P.E. church, Beverly Farms, tomorrow morning, at the confirmation and communion services. The church was opened last Sunday for the summer months, Rev. E. J. V. Huiginn, of St. Peter's, Beverly, occupying the pulpit.

Leo C. Demack, the well-known organist at St. Peter's church, presided at the organ last Sunday, and will continue to do so through the summer. The new organ, which will be, no doubt, one of the finest in this section, the installation of which is made possible largely through the subscriptions of the North Shore summer colonists, will be ready for use about July 1.

Following is a list of clergymen who will occupy the pulpit:

June 18, Bishop Lawrence.

June 25, Rev. Joseph M. Blanchard, of Trinity church, Boston.

July 2 and 9, Rev. Henry S. Nash Horne of Connecticut.

July 16, 23 and 30, Rev. E. J. V. Huiginn of Beverly.

Aug. 6, 13, 20 and 27, Bishop Millpaugh of Kansas.

Sept. 3, 10 and 17, Rev. George Hodges, Dean of Episcopal Theological School, Conn.

Sept. 24, Oct. 1, 8, 15 and 22, Rev. E. J. V. Huiginn.

There is Always A Great Charm to an Old Photograph

Provided that it is not yellow and faded beyond all recognition. Too many modern photographs show the effects of hasty, careless work; at the end of a few years they begin to grow dim and must be copied to preserve what remains of an originally much prized likeness. It is hard to lose a photograph in this way, especially if it is that of a child or of one whom we have lost

In my photographic work, I have studied, not only to make photographs which show the subject as he really is—natural photographs—but I have aimed, by careful, accurate treatment, to make every photograph which I print permanent. At the end of twenty years—and I trust a century—it will seem as fresh as a new print, the fashions will be old, but the likeness will be clear and the face as we remembered it so many years ago

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Manchester Churches Observe the Festal Day with Appropriate Exercises by the Children.

With services appropriate to the occasion Children's Day was observed at the Manchester churches last Sunday. Rev. C. Arthur Lincoln gave a short address to the children at the Congregational church in the morning, and his sermon, which followed, was founded upon the same thought.

At both churches in the evening concerts were given by the children of the Sunday school.

The churches were prettily decorated in flowers, the pulpit of the Congregational church being literally banked in white and green, and the rostrum of the Baptist church, with an arch of green and white in the centre, and at either end brightened with electric lights, made a pretty effect. A bank of daisies also encircled the front of rostrum and a cross in white and green stood in the rear.

At the Congregational church the following programme was carried out at 7 o'clock:

Song, "Children's Day".....Primary school
Responsive exercise.....Prayer
Song, "Water Lilies".....Agnes Sjolund
Exercise, "So Can We."
Duet, "Nodding in the Meadows".....
.....Annabel Lodge, Beatrice Long
Recitation, "Not Self but Others".....
.....John Carter
Song, "Sing, Children, Sing".....
.....Primary school
Exercise, "His Place".....{ Four boys
.....Four girls
Recitation, "Dear Little Flower".....
.....Helen Knight, Ella Ericson Duet, "The Bluebird".....
.....Gertrude Ashley and Ethel Standley
Recitation, "The Bluebird and the Rose"
.....Gwendolin Glendenning
Exercise, "Summer's Message".....
.....Mabel Olsen and six boys and girls
Song, "This Good Old World of Ours"

In his talk to the children, at the morning service, Rev. Mr. Lincoln spoke in line with the thought expressed in a verse from John 4: "But whosoever drinketh of the water of life that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

"We must get our water of life from the higher source so that we shall not be wells with chains and cranks," he said. "If He is in us, we can get this water of life from the highest source."

"In order for us to walk straight in life we must be changed through and through. But in order for Jesus Christ to walk in the children He must first of all walk in the parents. If the child be taught with the spirit of Jesus Christ Sundays and the father and mother are not of this spirit during the week, we cannot expect the children to walk straight."

"THE HOW AND THE WHY"

CHURCH ATTENDANCE.

Rev. Mr. Lincoln Urges Parents to Attend
Church in Order that Children May be Led in the Right Way

Rev. C. Arthur Lincoln urged regular church attendance on the part of the parents in his sermon at the Congregational church, in Manchester, last Sunday, saying that it is one of the chief ways to bring children into the house of God.

His sermon was in line with the thoughts expressed in Psalms 122:1—
"I was glad when they said unto me let us go into the house of the Lord."
He said in part:

"Today the majority of the churches of the land are observing Children's Day; but we find the church has little to do with the observance of national holidays, and on the other hand the nation does little in the observance of church holidays, such as Christmas.

"If there is a popular tendency to secularize church holidays, there is also a tendency to teach the children the meaning of church holidays, and an increased tendency to teach children in the observance of these holidays.

"The public observance of Children's Day is but the emphasis we put on one of 52 Sabbaths in the year.
Jesus originated Children's Day when he said, 'Suffer little children to come unto me.'

"The failure to bring a child into the house of God is the natural result of the failure of the parents to go to the house of God. There is not a man or woman, who is not kept away by illness, who should not regularly attend church. There must be some reason for it. The church has developed the love of little children; it has fostered the education of little children, and if a man believes the church is a good thing he ought to support it."

Mrs. Alexander Carr and children will sail on next Tuesday, June 20, for England, where they will visit friends and relatives at Mrs. Carr's old home, and will return to the United States in October. Mrs. George Phinney and children, of New York city, who are at present guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carr, go with them.

Messrs. Connolly Bros. have just received their new 1905 Stanley steam carriage direct from the factory. It is a beauty, and is fitted with an 8-horse power engine and all the latest up-to-date improvements.

The Winnepoken House at Chebacco Lake will open today under the management of Henry K. Mansfield, who is also the proprietor of the Fern Croft Inn at Danvers.

A much needed improvement for the benefit of the travelling public, and especially to property abutters in that section, has been going on this week on Hale street, under the direction of the street department, in installing a 12-inch drain pipe and needed catch basins to care for the surface drainage. The system commences at the entrance to Pickett's court and continues down the hill to the brook. For years this particular place has been troubled with improper facilities for the care of water which usually, after heavy showers, make bad wash-outs, causing continual repairs to be made.

House hunting at the present time appears to be a popular diversion with many, and in view of the scarcity of tenements, the growth of the Farms is at a standstill. As every available place suitable for a tenement is taken, the late comer must look elsewhere for a home.

Thomas J. McDonnell has this week been awarded the contract for installing a system of plumbing in a Newburyport school.

A fresh coat of paint is being added to St. Margaret's church, and other minor improvements to the building is being made under the direction of the energetic pastor, Rev. Fr. Downey.

The new block on Hale street has been occupied during the week by Martin, the bicycle man, and by Messrs. Publicover Bros.

Through efforts of the West Beach Corporation directors and members of the city council from this ward, a patrolman has been detailed to do duty upon the corporation property at West Beach through the summer months between the hours of 6 and 10 p.m. This move will be appreciated by all as the Beach property is the Mecca of the whole populace in this vicinity, who realize it to be the only place for recreation and enjoyment.

Youthful Wanderers.

Several days ago Christy McDonald, better known at Beverly Farms, perhaps, as Christy Bailey, aged 12, and living on Pickett's court, was given $5.00 to take home to her mother in payment of a board bill. But Christy, possessing no small amount of sporting blood, bethought herself she would not be far amiss if she set out to see a bit of the world; so taking with her the little 5-year-old Hickey girl the pair boarded the 3 o'clock train for Gloucester. The mother of the younger girl became anxious as to the whereabouts of her child, and a search was begun, which resulted in the youngsters being located in Gloucester. They were sent home on the 6.50 train. Christy upon her arrival was "dead broke," having either invested or lost all her money.

That Ward 6 Playground!

The committee from the city government on securing a playground at Beverly Farms, after a long rest, have at last gone so far as to hold a meeting at which, we are told, several plans and schemes were considered. From appearances there would seem to be no hurry whatever on the part of this body to settle the question, and if the matter, after being in their hands a whole six months, does not become pigeon-holed and "referred to the next city government," we shall be happily surprised. Meanwhile the small boy continues to play ball and other sports in the public streets, dodging automobiles, fast horses and the Beverly Farms police, while occasionally the more bold venture into somebody's vacant lot, but are soon routed out.

ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS OF HIS RELIGIOUS FAITH.

or from the teachings of others. That, however, which is of greatest value to a man in the stress of life is the knowledge of God which he has derived through personal experience. Theories as to the nature and attributes of God are of little value except as they bear the test of practical experience. Such a statement is not intended to deny value to speculative reasoning, but rather to assert that, in the end, all speculative reasoning must submit to practical tests. All doctrines of whatever form, content or complexion are established or smashed sooner or later by actual experience. In this paper it shall be my aim to indicate some of the truths which I have apprehended through personal experience and absorbed through meditation and hold to be essential elements of my religious faith.

I shall treat the following subjects in the order given: 1, "A preliminary statement as to the fundamental ground of my Christian belief and experience." 2, "The doctrine of God." 3, "The person of Jesus Christ." 4, "The doctrine of sin." 5, "The doctrine of the atonement." 6, "The means and instruments of the spread of the Gospel, including a mention of the work of the Holy Spirit and the church, the authority and inspiration of the Bible and the service of hostile criticism."

That which must always put a label on a Christian thinker, whatever may be the piety of his Christian life, is his belief as to the nature of the person of Jesus Christ. Of the several theories which have always been put forth and even today are advocated to explain the marvelous personality of Jesus I can accept but that one which asserts with equal emphasis his essential humanity and essential divinity. But in these days such a statement needs definition especially in regard to the word divinity, a word which has been so successfully juggled as to make it mean almost anything or nothing at all except as it be definitely and explicitly filled with meaning.

When I speak of the divinity of Jesus Christ, I have in mind a divinity as distinct in kind from the divinity which we find in man as the Creator is distinct in kind from the creature. Jesus was not simply God-like, He was God. "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God and the Word was God" (John 1:1). "All things were made by Him" (John 1:3). On the other hand Jesus was as really man as He was really God. "The Word was made flesh" (John 1:14). I feel compelled to make myself clear as to my belief in the real incarnation of the Son of God even at the risk of repetition, for upon this belief depends every other doctrine which I hold. Whatever may be the difficulties of trying to understand the possibility of an incarnation I cannot consent to any search for relief which ends in so muddying the pool of thinking as to make indistinct and even identical the terms human and divine. I am conscious that I am man and not God. I am also conscious that while Jesus is man, He is at the same time so infinitely more than man that the term God is the only appropriate name I can apply to Him.

That which naturally flows from a belief in the divinity of Jesus of Nazareth is a surrender to His absolute Lordship. But such a surrender involves a recognition and acceptance of Jesus as Redeemer from sin and separation from God to righteousness and fellowship with God. Perhaps I can best summarize my own experience as a Christian by adopting the words of my beloved teacher, Dr. Mackenzie, and stating in his concise language that I "find and realize reconciliation and fellowship with God through faith in Jesus Christ as Redeemer and Lord."

But such a statement as this, which may be taken as a definition of Christian experience in general, involves the whole range of Christian doctrines as to the nature and attributes of God and man and the need and means of man's salvation. These doctrines centre in and radiate from the work and person of Jesus Christ as the supreme revelation of God to man, of man to himself as he is, and of man to himself as he ought to be and can be. All doctrines ultimately rest upon two sources: 1st, the consciousness of Jesus; 2d, the consciousness of his followers. The necessary limits of this paper prevent of course a full discussion of all the Christian doctrines. My attempt shall be, therefore, to select certain of the more inclusive doctrines and indicate briefly the line of thought which I have come to hold in regard to them.

I. As to the doctrine of God, it seems to me very clear that through the person and work of Jesus Christ we have revealed to us God as Father, God as Son, and God as Holy Ghost. In other words, I believe that any Christian can experience the doctrine of the Trinity, and that only in so far as this doctrine is a recognized experience of the Christian community does the church take full advantage of the knowledge of God made possible through Jesus Christ. The doctrine of the Trinity has always been and must always be, I suppose, the great battle ground of theological thinking. The problems that it presents for solution are many and admittedly difficult, but they are not comparable in difficulty to those problems which arise out of any other theory of the personality of God. To my mind it is the only theory which satisfies the facts of history, and accords with the consciousness of Jesus Christ and His followers. I know of no final solution of all of its problems, but I cannot take the position of the Ritschlian school and deny that human reason is capable of solving them. Such a paralysis of thinking does not appeal to me. Modern studies of personality by psychologists and philosophers are throwing new light on the doctrine of the Trinity. More clearly than ever do we see that human personality itself is not a simple unity of the numerical order, but that it is a complex organism realizing itself richly through various centres of activity. With such light on human personality we cannot assign to God a nature less rich in content or more limited in means of expression. With every fresh insight into the nature of man, we get a new revelation of the nature of Him who created man in His own image, and the school of the agnostics, in order to maintain the dignity of their position, must close their eyes to this fact. Agnosticism in any degree must logically lead in the end to skepticism in an absolute degree. But if I find it impossible to accept the agnostic attitude in regard to this doctrine of the Trinity, I find it no less impossible to accept the only other alternative, namely, the doctrine of the eternity of the universe. This doctrine is one which a logical Unitarian must adopt as his belief if he is to have any doctrine of a personal God. A God who is love must have an eternal object of love. A God who is absolute and eternal reason must have as the subject of his reason an eternal and worthy object of reason in which His reason is both expressed and realized. But the highest forms of reason and love are social and an eternal reason and eternal love must find real existence in an eternal social organism worthy of the transcendent qualities of each.

This demand is alone met by the doctrine of the three-fold nature of the perfect personality of God, historically revealed in the life and consciousness of Jesus, historically known by the symbolic terms Father, Son and Spirit, and historically realized in the life of the Christian church throughout the ages. God as an eternally concrete being possessing all life in Himself and the secret of all reality in His own nature, realizes Himself in and through this trinity of conditions or centers of life, each possessing independence as to individuality, and each having a distinct office in the self realization of the absolute life, yet each so related to the others as (2) of powers or faculties and (3) of natures.

(Concluded next week.)

master's eye," and accomplishing the mighty achievement to which he felt himself called.

Milton was an ardent supporter of the popular cause under the Stuarts; he outlived Cromwell, and on the Restoration retired from all public cares and devoted himself to the great work of his life. His last years were clouded by misfortune and neglect; he had fallen on evil days, but his calm and undaunted spirit soared above the tumult around him, and lived with those high virtues and intelligences who "wear victorious palms."

Milton wrote largely in prose, treatises on Education and on Civil Government. His style is "stiff with gorgeous embroidery," is often involved and disfigured by too much Latinity. But his writings contain noble thoughts often expressed in musical and resounding phrase. As a thinker, Milton ranks with the more liberal Puritans; "the completest type of Puritan," Green calls him; there is a breadth and greatness about him that mark him out as a leader of thought.

It is upon his poetry that Milton's reputation chiefly rests. His smaller poems, as his Hymn on the Morning of Christ's Nativity, some of his sonnets, the twin poems, Il Penseroso and L'Allegro, and Comus, would have been sufficient alone to secure for him a place in "Poets' Corner." But Milton's great work, that which has made his name immortal in all lands and times, is the Paradise Lost. The subject had been growing and shaping itself in his mind for years; it may be said to have taken possession of him; and when he wrote it was "with devout prayer to that Eternal Spirit who can enrich with all utterance and knowledge." He had before said: "I was confirmed in this opinion, that he who would not be frustrate of his hope to write well hereafter in laudable things, ought himself to be a true poem; that is, a composition and pattern of the best and honorablest things; not presuming to sing high praises of heroic men, or famous cities, unless he has in himself the experience and the practice of all that which is praiseworthy." The great poem may be thought of as the mature product of Milton's thought and experience. It was born of years of meditation, of study, of knowledge of men and affairs and of a soul accustomed to the society and communion of the Invisible. It is the work of a great and lofty mind, enriched with all the culture of ancient and modern learning, disciplined by adversity and sorrow, "soaring in the high region of his fancies with his garland and his singing robes about him."

The theme is the old one of Sin and Redemption,

"Of man's first disobedience and the fruit
Of that forbidden tree whose mortal taste Brought death into the world, and all our woe,

With loss of Eden, till one greater Man restore us."

The Biblical story, the classic mythologies, and mediaeval thought, all are woven with wonderful skill into the work; the influence of Dante is plainly traceable; and not seldom the times of the Stuarts and imagery. The design is a mag-furnish the poet with descriptions nificent one, and could only have been carried out by a master mind. In minor details, Paradise Lost may be open to criticism, but as a whole the structure is imposing in its grandeur and nobly proportioned in its parts. Addison's Criticisms on Milton, which really introduced Paradise Lost to England, still deserve to be read; but Addison, cold, elegant and formal, was incapable of understanding the true depth of Milton's genius. There is no adequate work on the greatest English poem; perhaps for the reason that only a Milton can interpret to us a Milton.

Prof. Masson's monumental work on Milton and his Times is by far the best aid to the study of the great poet and the forces which helped shape the man and his work.

To the greatness of his writings, Milton added the majesty of a pure and lofty character; he was more than a scholar and a poet; he was a statesman, a philosopher, the champion of English liberty, a great and heroic soul. His career was a troubled one, he was little fitted for domestic life; his soul "was like a star and dwelt apart." But his hope has been realized, that "by labor and intent study" he might "leave something so written to after times, as they should not willingly let it die."

This article may close with Milton's portrait, as drawn for us in Aubrey's Brief Lives. "John Milton's harmonical and ingeniose soul did lodge in a beautiful and well-proportioned body. He was a spare man. He had abroun (auburn) hayre. His complexion exceeding faire he was so faire that they called him 'the lady of Christ's College.' Ovall face. His eie adarke gray. He had a delicate tuneable voice, and had good skill. His father instructed him. He had an organ in his howse; he played on that most. Of a very cheerful humour.—He would be cheerful in his gowtefitts, and sing. He was very healthy and free from all diseases; seldome tooke any physique (only sometimes he tooke manna); only towards the latter end he was visited with the gowte, spring and fall. He had a very good memorie, but I believe that his excellent method of thinking and disposing did much to helpe his memorie. He pronounced the letter R (littera canina) very hard—a certaine sine of a satyricall witt. Temperate man, rarely drank between meales. Extreme pleasant in his conversation, and at dinner, supper, etc., but satyricall."

A Marine Accident.

What had all the appearances of being a lively race for the Manchester outer harbor came to a rather sudden end Tuesday evening by an accident which happened, rather fortunately, inside the harbor. Wade Brooks had started in his little smack to beat down the harbor when Capt. John Allen pulled up the anchor of his boat from its mooring off the Beach street park, and more through natural impulse of the Captain than anything else an impromptu race was started down the harbor. The Captain in his plucky catboat was slowly overhauling Brooks, and was just about onto him near the town pier, when a squall came and carried away his mast quick as a flash, close to the deck. The race was at an end, and Mr. Brooks in true sportsman spirit pulled in his sails, pointed the bowsprit homeward, picked up the Captain and towed him back into the harbor. The incident was regarded with much interest.

Two Years Added to Compulsory School Age.

George H. Martin, secretary of the State Board of Education, has recently sent out a communication to the school committees and superintendents of the various towns and cities of the state relative to the new regulations on compulsory school attendance.

By the new act the age for compulsory school attendance has been raised from 14 to 16 for children who cannot read at sight and write legibly simple sentences in the English language.

Under another act no employment certificate may be issued to a child under sixteen who is not able to read at sight and to write legibly simple sentences in the English language.

"It is the intent of the new legislation," says the communication, "that before leaving school every child should have acquired such facility in the use of reading and writing as to enable him to continue and finish his education afterward, and to prepare him to be an intelligent worker. If the law is executed rigorously, it will prove to be a noteworthy addition to the school legislation of the state."

Hardnut's Pharmacy, 925 Broadway, N.Y. Agents.

Society Notes.

A gay party of young people were guests over Sunday of the W. A. Tuckers, the two young daughters of Mr. Philip Saltonstall of Milton and Boston being among the number. An automobile ride along the shore in Mr. Tucker's big touring car was one of the pleasures of the visit.

Miss Josephine Boardman, who came on from Washington for the wedding of Miss Sargent last week, was a guest of Mrs. Guy Norman at her Beverly villa. She is to accompany her parents on their trip abroad this summer, while her sister, Miss Mabel Boardman, is one of the Taft party to the Philippines, which leaves early next month. Both the young women, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Boardman, will be greatly missed from the summer colony this year.

Dr. Balch and family of Boston were among last Saturday's arrivals. They are occupying the Higginson cottage at West Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Fabvan moved down to their West Manchester house last Saturday.

Frank S. Chick will probably not spend any part of the summer at his Magnolia place, as he sailed last week in the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse for Europe. He will extend his travels to the Orient before returning to Boston.

The Misses Harriot and Margaret Curtis have joined their family at "Sharksmouth," Manchester Cove, after a few weeks' delightful trip abroad, where they went for the golf championship. On the same boat with them arrived Mr. and Mrs. Francis I. Amory, and their young son and daughter. The Amorys are now pleasantly located at their Beverly Cove estate, which was opened some weeks ago and put in readiness for their arrival.

The Palacial Store.

"Plummer's Palacial Pharmacy" expresses in no flattering terms the impression one receives when he steps into the handsome new store of W. F. Plummer, in the Mason block, on Cabot street, Beverly. So steadily has Mr. Plummer's business increased that he has had the store doubled in size, and last week it was opened for the first time. There is no doubt that it is one of the finest in New England. In it is kept a complete line of fresh, up-to-date goods. The finish is in mahogany, and near the front, as one enters from the street, is a handsome fountain, where can be obtained cool, refreshing drinks, ices, etc. An innovation well worth the notice is a number of stands on the floor, with thick glass tops, in which are displayed various kinds of goods, but which are also used as tables on which to serve ice cream and soda, there being stools attached.

GOOD PASTURE

P.O. Address, BOX 409, MANCHESTER, MASS.

BAKER'S HORSE SANDAL is the best, cheapest, and most durable shoe in use. It is quickly adjusted, does not gall or injure the horse in any way, in fact it is just what is wanted in every way. It is in use on many of the best golf links and private estates from Maine to Oregon. It is made in four sizes:

No. 1. To fit shoes from 5 to 5 3/4 inches long. No. 2. To fit shoes from 5 1/2 to 6 1/4 inches long. No. 3. To fit shoes from 6 to 7 inches long. No. 4. To fit shoes from 6 3/4 to 7 1/2 inches long.

In ordering please send size of horseshoe from heel to toe, or a tracing of the shoe, to insure a good fit.

Price, $8 per set with leather taps, $6 per set without leather taps.

JOHN BAKER, Superintendent Essex County Club, MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA, MASS.

Mr. JOHN BAKER,
Manchester, Mass.

Dayton, O., Nov. 24, 1903.

My Dear Sir: As Chairman of the Green Committee of the Dayton Golf Club, I have, during the past four years been called upon by my Green Keeper for two or three sets of leather boots per season; these have cost us from $9.00 to $11.00 per set. Hence it gives me great pleasure to state that the single set of Lawn Shoes purchased from you last spring, has been entirely satisfactory and is as good now as when we bought them. In addition to their value from the standpoint of economy, they are very easily attached to the hoof, do not become loose, and do not make sore spots on our horses' legs as our leather boot did. They are a great success and I heartily recommend them.

Yours truly,

R. T. HOUK.

Good Things at the Right Prices

SOME PEOPLE are compelled to buy because things are cheap, with little regard for quality.

SOME PEOPLE do not care what they pay if things are good.

THE GREAT MASS of the people, however, want good things at the right price. Indifference of the purchaser and the deliberate purpose of the dealer permit the sale of a lot of ordinary stuff to those who wish and are willing to pay for a good article.

Society Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Washington B. Thomas and daughters are expected at their Pride's villa either today or Monday, as they sailed from the other side the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Annie S. Littleton and her daughter, Miss Littleton, arrived from their Philadelphia home the first of the week and are occupying the "Dexter cottage" at Beverly Farms for the summer.

Wednesday's arrivals at Pride's Crossing included Miss Alice Cotting and her brother, Francis J. Cotting, of 248 Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, sr., have closed their town residence and moved down to their beautiful place at the "Commons," Pride's Crossing, Tuesday.

Mrs. A. B. Milbank is on from New York paying a short visit with her brother, Reginald C. Robbins, and her sisters, the Misses Robbins, who have recently moved down to their Pride's Crossing estate permanently.

Mr. and Mrs. William Endicott, and their daughter, Miss Clara Endicott, have closed their Beacon street home, and moved down to "Barberry Hill," their Pride's villa, Tuesday.

Miss Juliet Higginson returned Wednesday after a delightful trip over to New York to see Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Higginson, jr., off on their honeymoon trip. On their return in late August Mr. and Mrs. Higginson will occupy, till the late fall, the T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr., cottage at Coolidge's Point, where there will be, no doubt, many select parties till the season's close.

The Misses Paine arrived the early part of the week at their Pride's Crossing summer home for the season.

HEALER DENNIS

At 81 Washington St., Heal: the Sick
Without Medicine. The Strangest
Power Ever Given to Man.

Healer Dennis, who for three years has publicly healed the sick in the churches in Salem, free of charge, by the laying on of hands, is still performing his marvellous curing every day at his offices in Salem and Boston. By passing his hands over the afflicted parts, cripples and deformities of every description were straightened and made whole. Healer Dennis has been in Salem for 15 years, and can produce more people that he has cured than all the advertising doctors in the state. Healer Dennis cures all female complaints without exposure or the use of instruments, in one-half the time required by any doctor. He is the only man living that cures cancers and tumors without pain or cutting. All nervous troubles of both men and women, even to insanity, are cured by Healer Dennis' treatment. After doctors give you up and hospitals turn you out go to 81 Washington St.

On board the "Velthra," Wednesday evening, Commodore S. Parker Bremer of the Manchester Yacht club entertained a party of Boston friends at dinner, after a delightful sail during the day. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. William B. Buffum and Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Hare. Mr. Bremer expected to start late last night in the "Velthra" for New York.

After a week's business trip to New York, Lester Leland returned to his West Manchester home yesterday.

Miss Helen Rust of Cincinnati has been a guest of Mrs. Henry W. Cunningham at West Manchester.

Among the late arrivals at Manchester are the Edward Lowes of Grand Rapids, Mich., who are occupying the Hemenway cottage at Smith's Point.

The Dr. F. F. Ellenwoods of Utica, N.Y., are occupying "Wyndhurst," one of the Kimball cottages at Manchester, arriving Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Blackwood Fay, their son and Miss Fay were among the late arrivals at Manchester last week, and are at the "Fellner cottage," Apple Blossom lane, again. Mrs. L. M. Van Deventer (Miss Fay) joined her family a day or two ago for an extended stay.

Mr. and Mrs. James Means returned Tuesday from a week's visit in Philadelphia, where they were guests of Miss Klemm.

The E. S. Hoopers arrived at Beverly Farms Monday for the summer, and are again occupying the "Adams cottage." They were not here last season.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore and Mr. Moore's sons sailed the latter part of last week, after a winter spent abroad, most of which time they were at Paris or following the hunt in Ireland, and they are expected at Pride's Crossing today, where they plan to spend the summer with Mrs. Moore's parents at "Swiftmoor."

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Boardman and Miss Josephine Boardman sailed Thursday from New York, for London, to spend the summer abroad. They will not return till November, and it is improbable that they will then come to Manchester.

Miss McNamara of 665 Boylston street, Boston, has arrived at Manchester for the summer and is prepared to do Shampooing, Marcel Waving and Manicuring. She is stopping with Mrs. Arthur S. Dow, opposite the railroad station. Telephone 12-12. *

BEVERLY FARMS.

Postmaster Standley has put in circulation a neat folder which is valuable to all, it giving the train and mail service from Beverly Farms, and just the right size to carry conveniently in one's pocket.

The Sunday school of the Second Baptist church is on a basket picnic today at Lakeman's beach, Ipswich. Conveyance is being made by barges. A good program of sports has been arranged.

A band concert to be given soon in Central square is being agitated by some of the Farms young men, which if given would be appreciated by all.

The increase of telephone service at the Farms has caused the telephone company to commence this week installing in the local office at Marshall's hall, a large switch board, which is quite an extensive piece of work, requiring the opening up for the time being of a workshop in the building in the rear.

Prudence Gaudreau, the tonsorial artist, in accordance with his usual custom, is giving out this week a card showing the arrival and departure of trains for the summer service.

The state highway which has been under construction in three sections and which has been closed in part to public travel since its commencement, was opened this week and the traveler can now go along uninterrupted.

Capt. Harry C. Hannable has added a 25-foot naphtha launch to his fleet of boats, which can be secured by the public for a sail by the day or hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilber J. Pierce are attending the 275th anniversary celebration at Medford, Mass., which town was formerly the home of Mrs. Pierce.

About 75 couples attended the social and dance in Neighbors' hall last evening. Heaphy Singing Orchestra furnished the music and all had a good time.

Well-Known Horseman.

William Marr, the manager of the new riding school and sales stable recently opened at Beverly Farms, is one of the best known horsemen in New England. He imported Berkeley Bantam, the pony which attracted so much attention at the New York show last fall and which sold to Judge Wm. H. Moore for $8000. Mr. Marr was formerly with Cheeney Bros. in South Manchester. His stables at Beverly Farms are supplied with stock from his brother's farm in Scotland. Many of their horses are prize winners and several of the ponies have taken prizes at the Philadelphia and Plainfield shows.

Travel at Standstill.

There was a complete tie-up of the Gloucester branch for three hours Wednesday afternoon. The noon freight up the branch threw a light, flat car down the track against the stationary rear end, buckling it up in such a manner as to break it in two. The broken ends fell over on the other track, thus blocking that.

The accident happened about 1 o'clock, and the train which goes down the branch and meets the Boston train at Manchester, about 1.30, was the first affected. After an hour's delay the passengers upon one train boarded the other and each proceeded back over the road. The wrecker arrived from Salem about 2.40, and at 4 o'clock the tracks were clear. The service was affected, however, till after 6 o'clock.

Station Agent Frank Rand was the busiest man on the branch that afternoon, sending and receiving wires on the wreck, but he proved himself up to the task.

FLAG DAY.

Manchester W. R. C. Hold Exercises in Honor of the Birth of the Flag.

The 128th anniversary of the birth of the national flag was observed in Manchester with exercises in G.A.R. hall, Wednesday evening, under the direction of the W.R.C., when a most interesting program was carried out. The conductor of the corps, Mrs. Jennie Dennis, was in charge. In opening the program she welcomed the members of Allen Post 67, and Camp 149, S. of V., and read a history of the flag.

The "Salute to the Flag," with Mrs. Carrie Cook, Mrs. C. O. Hoar, Mrs. Wm. Follett and Mrs. Rita Crombie as color bearers, was an interesting feature. This was followed by a reading, "Them Yankee Blankets," by Mrs. Eliza Crombie. Mrs. Harriet Perkins of Corps 34, of Salem, read a selection, "To the Grand Army," and this was followed by remarks by the Post Commander E. P. Stanley. Mrs. Ellen I. Horton, president of the Corps, read a selection entitled "The National Flag," and Mrs. Mary Lane, the senior vice-president read a poem on "The Home of the Flag." Miss Rita Crombie gave an interesting reading, "Why He Wouldn't Sell the Farm."

Remarks were also made by Mr. Henry T. Bingham, Past Commander Enoch Crombie, Past Captain, Thos. A. Baker of the Camp, Chaplain Rev. E. H. Brewster and Mrs. Hannah Tappan, who closed by reading a selection on "The American Flag."

A collation of cake, crackers, fruit and coffee was served after the entertainment.

Miss Felter of Lynn is substituting in Grade VI. at the G. A. Priest school during Miss Antil's absence. As announced last week, Miss Antil was called home last Friday night by the sudden illness of her mother.

To Enforce the Auto Laws.

At their meeting Wednesday evening the Manchester selectmen took action on the communication from a number of the summer colony, to the effect that a subscription paper had been circulated amongst the summer colony and upward of $4,000 had been raised for the purpose of supplying men to enforce the automobile laws.

The board acted favorably on the matter, and arrangements have been made whereby 10 or 12 men will be furnished. It is the intention to post men along the roads of travel each day in the week to secure evidence against violaters of the speed law. All the work is to be done under the direction of Chief Peabody.

Mr. and Mrs. George Forster Allen Celebrate their Golden Wedding

MR. GEORGE F. ALLEN.

MRS. GEORGE F. ALLEN.

The honor of celebrating the golden anniversary of one's wedding, after half a century of wedded life, is accorded to but very few, yet Mr. and Mrs. George Forster Allen celebrated that event at their Manchester home yesterday, when they were the recipients of hosts of congratulations.

They had made no extensive plans for the event, other than to announce informally they would be at home yesterday, and the manner in which they were overwhelmed during the day with the congratulations of friends and relatives, who called, bespoke in no small degree the esteem in which the couple is held.

More than 150 people called, many of whom were from out of town. From three to five in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Allen received, and from seven to nine in the evening.

Dressed in the same grey silk gown in which she was wed fifty years ago in her New Hampshire home, Mrs. Allen stood beside her husband, and the two received their friends. The rooms were very tastily decked in flowers and green, and many vases of beautiful flowers were placed around the room. Behind the couple was a card on which was printed "1855-1905."

Among those present was Henry C. Leach, a brother of Mr. Allen, who stood with him at the wedding fifty years ago. Mrs. Mary Hooper Kimball, the bridesmaid, was kept away because of illness, but she remembered the couple by presenting them, through her brother, with a handsome birthday cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen were married at Mrs. Allen's home in New Boston, N.H., by Rev. Mr. Richardson, of Goffstown, June 16, 1855, and they have made their home in Manchester ever since. Both have been very active, especially in church work, until within the past few years.

Mr. Allen was born in Manchester, Sept. 10, 1826, and has spent practically all his days here. His first connection in business was in April, 1849, when he received the appointment as postmaster at a salary of $300, and when the mails were brought over the road by stage. He served under the Taylor and Fillmore administrations and a short time under Pierce.

In 1852 he engaged in the grocery and dry goods business, but retired seven years later by reason of ill health. From 1862 to 1868 he was on the board of selectmen, serving also as town clerk.

He started in the dry goods, boot and shoe and gents' furnishing goods business in 1858, and has continued up to the present time.

Mr. Allen has the remarkable record of having served as clerk and treasurer of the Congregational church for 37 years. He was also secretary and treasurer of the Manchester Lyceum Library association, and remained such until the present library was founded.

Perhaps one of the pleasantest connections of Mr. Allen's life is and has been with the Elder Brethren organization, of which he was the prime mover, and of which since its inception he has been president.

Mrs. Allen was Miss Arabella Mc-

Collom, a descendant of one of New Hampshire's best known families. She has always been interested in church work, and has been an active member of the Ladies' Sewing circle, Missionary society and King's Daughters.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Allen stood up well under the stress yesterday. The event is certainly one they will never forget. Everything was very successfully conducted.

Among those who assisted in making the affair a success were Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Leach, Miss Edith Kimball of Auburndale, Miss Martha Knight, Mrs. C. E. Bell and others. Mrs. J. A. Lodge poured, and Misses Kate Ashley and Ruth Blaisdell served refreshments.

Among those present from out of town were:

Edward W. Hooper, Newton Centre; Susan Cheever Gould, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Tenney, Abbie C. Hitchcock and Anna E. Proctor, Boston; Edith Trask Kimball, Auburndale; Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Leach, Henry C. Leach, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Kimball and Mrs. Walter L. Harris, Salem; Mrs. Charles H. Trask, Lincoln; Anna L. Jenks, Melrose Highlands; Mrs. A. A. Smith, Attica, N.Y.

LINES

Inscribed to Mr. and Mrs. George Forster Allen
On their Golden Wedding, June 16, 1905.

Full fifty years have run their round
Since first in wedlock's fetters,
A youth and maid bethought themselves
To imitate their betters.

For ever since the world began,
And Eve was joined to Adam,
A maid will dream of her true love,
A man will seek his madam.

In vain is all your best advice,
And wasted all your warning,
For hearts are light and hopes are bright
In life's unclouded morning.

The love that smiled upon their youth,
Each year has grown maturer;
Faith in each other, trust in God,
Has dearer grown and surer.

Dame Fortune, still a fickle jade,
Whose smiles and frowns are shifty,
Has played her coquetry with them,
Till wedded years count fifty,

And here tonight with hearts still light,
And old-time friends around them,
To God they raise their song of praise,
Who with His love has crowned them.

How years have sped since they were wed,
We need not pause to reckon;
The past is dead and lapped in lead,
Faith, hope and love still beckon,—

Still beckon to the blessed goal
Toward which we all are tending,
The heavenly goal in which the soul
Finds love with glory blending.

So for the years that yet remain,
May Fortune's smile be on them,
And earth's serenest joys be theirs,
Till Heaven at length has won them.
—JOSEPH A. TORREY.

Society Notes.

The Unitarinn church on Masconomo street, Manchester, opens tomorrow for the summer. Rev. Samuel Eliot, president of the Unitarian church association will occupy the pulpit. Mr. Eliot is a son of President Eliot of Harvard.

T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr., entertained a large party of Boston men at his palatial new summer home at Coolidge's Point, Wednesday afternoon, the party being members of the "Club of Odd Volumes." They came by special coach on the 12.40 train from Boston and returned on the 5.15 from Magnolia.

Mrs. Charles Aldrich, who has been abroad all winter, has hired the Nichol's cottage at Manchester Cove for the summer, and is now occupying it.

Miss Ann Higginson, who has been stopping at the Stanley cottage, Magnolia, all winter, has again hired the Sampson cottage.

The J. Randolph Coolidge, jr., arrived at their Smith's Point place last Saturday.

"Pine Top Cottage," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Childs, jr., of Pittsburg, will be opened the latter part of next week, and the family will occupy it shortly afterward.

The Reginald Fosters moved down into their house on Coolidge's Point last Saturday.

The Henry Pickerings arrived at their Manchester place Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby, after a pleasant trip abroad, arrived at their West Manchester home Thursday.

Mrs. Clay Pierce arrived at Pride's the latter part of last week.

SEE THE

A. C. TITUS Advertisement

ON PAGE 26.

The Le Brun cottage, on Blossom lane, Manchester, was occupied Thursday by the C. H. Clapps, who have taken it for the season.

The F. C. Stevens of Attica, N. Y., have arrived at their house on Smith's Point.

The many North Shore friends of H. C. Pierce and his daughter, Miss Violet Pierce, and Mr. and Mrs. Eben Richards will regret to learn that they have decided to go abroad this summer, and that they will not come to the shore at all.

Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Porter, who closed their 254 Beacon street residence in Boston several weeks ago, have returned from spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson at the Weld, Brookline, where there was a large house party. They are very pleasantly located at the Sohler cottage, Beverly Farms, again for the summer.

A wedding of much interest to North Shore folk was that at Nahant, Monday, of Robert Wrenn, the well-known tennis player, and Miss Grace S. Dabney. Miss Rosamond Saltonstall was the maid of honor, and Miss Eleanor Sears was one of the attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Porter, jr., are to spend the summer with Mrs. Porter's mother, Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth, at Manchester.

GRADUATION EXERCISES.

Manchester Town Hall Filled with Friends of Graduates Wednesday Evening.

The Manchester town hall was filled to overflowing Wednesday evening by the relatives and friends of the graduates and pupils of the Story high school on the occasion of the graduation exercises of the class of 1905.

The exercises were among the best and most interesting ever held in connection with a Manchester high school graduation. Though the class was not any larger than usual,—only six—the parts were particularly well rendered.

The hall was tastily decorated in green, and in the class colors, gold and maroon. Over the stage, impanelled in gold letters, with a maroon background, and surrounded by a border of green, was the class motto, "Toujours en Avance," and under the clock in a similar setting was the class numerals. A row of potted palms and ferns filled the front of the stage and long streamers of green went the entire length of the hall.

The singing by the large chorus of high school pupils, under the direction of Mr Griffin, the musical instructor, was a particularly pleasing feature of the evening's program. The first number on the program was a chorus, "The Marathon Race," by the school, and this was followed by the invocation, by Rev. C. Arthur Lincoln.

Miss Fannie S. Knight delivered the salutatory, with a very comprehensive essay on the "Development of the English Drama," in which she traced the drama from its early stages in what was known as the miracle plays, through the years to the morality plays, the historical drama, satiric and English comedy, showing the various influences being brought to bear, etc., to the time of Shakespeare, "the greatest dramatist of the world."

The chorus then rendered "The Wedding Bells Begin to Play," arranged by Veasie.

"Bacteria" was the subject of an essay by Miss Elizabeth A. Dillon, who gave a very good treatise of the subject, in words comprehensible to all. Besides explaining in a clear manner the importance of a study of germs and germ life and its bearing on the medical advances of the day, she spoke of the strides made by scientists in the discoveries of the various forms of bacteria.

The class history by Miss Jessie R. Andrews, who took for a subject "A New Pilgrim's Progress," was very interesting throughout. She started with a band of pilgrims,—ten maidens and eight youths,—carried them on the perilous journey, an occasional FLOORS.—It is the best and most durable finish ever manufactured for use on either hard or soft wood floors.

FRONT DOORS.—Weather-beaten doors look like new when coated with Jap-a-lac. It resists the sun and moisture.

WOODWORK, Furniture, etc., which has become marred, scratched and worn, when coated with Jap-a-lac is renewed and beautified.

SCREENS.—Brilliant Black Jap-a-lac beautifies and prolongs the life of wire cloth on screens (when so used it should be thinned one-third to one-half with pure turpentine), and the Mahogany, Brilliant Black, Cherry or Walnut Jap-a-lac used on the frames makes them look as good as new.

WICKER FURNITURE, coated with Mahogany, Ox-blood Red, Gloss White or Malachite Green Jap-a-lac, looks better than new Benjamin H. Russell.

Benjamin H. Russell, who passed away last Friday at his late home in Manchester, as announced briefly last week, was a native of Beverly Farms, being born there in April, 1828. He lived for 18 years in Haverhill, where he was engaged in the shoemaking trade. Five years ago he moved to Manchester, and since then he has done some shoe repairing and he has made custom shoes on a small scale at his home on Bennett street.

Fifty years ago, two months hence, he married Miss Mary Leach of Manchester, and she survives him. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Julia Osborne, 86 years old.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at his late residence, Rev. D. F. Lamson, officiating. Interment was in Union cemetery.

Rev. D. F. Lamson is at his home this summer, engaged in preparing for his teaching next winter, and in other literary work.

Mrs. Arthur Young of Wilton, N. H., and Miss Florence Webster of Haverhill have been recent guests of Miss Lila Goldsmith.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Parker, Mrs. William Dillon and Miss B. Theresa Dillon of Dorchester came down Wednesday for the graduation exercises and have been spending part of the week here.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Dyer had as guests over the 17th of June Miss Helen Espe Drew of Ansonia, Conn., and Mrs. Harriet Greeley of Beverly.

Mrs. J. Fields of Philadelphia left Thursday, after a delightful visit of two weeks with Mrs. Emma Mylin, on School street.

The picnic grounds at Tuck's Point was the scene of a very pleasant gathering recently, when fourteen members of the Salem Normal school classes, of which Miss Lila Goldsmith and Mrs. Frank G. Cheever were members, held a reunion. A baked mackerel dinner was thoroughly relished by all, and a sail down the harbor in a launch hired for the occasion was a very pleasant feature.

No Extraordinary Signs of Moths.

"I have seen nothing in Manchester to cause alarm. There are no extraordinary signs of the brown-tail or gypsy moths."

This statement was made by an agent of the Brown-tail and Gypsy Moth Commission, appointed by the State, on a visit to Manchester Thursday morning. He has oversight of the North Shore, from Lynn to Rockport, and he said, of all the places he has inspected Manchester seems to be in the best condition.

North Shore Directory.

The North Shore Directory, compiled by Charles E. Alexander, and published yearly by the Boston Transcript, is now in press and will soon be ready for distribution. The work will give a complete list of summer residents on all parts of the North Shore, and will contain, as usual, views of some of the more recently built houses on the shore.

Enjoyable Sea Trip.

An enjoyable trip is presented for the consideration of the summer tourist by the Joy Line, which is now acknowledged by the traveling public as the most ideal route between New York and Boston.

The average ocean voyage becomes after the first few hours extremely monotonous, but all danger of monotony or dullness is effectually done away with on the trip in question.

The ever changing panorama is one of unceasing interest. *

HILL — WINSLOW.

The Old South Church the Scene of a Fashionable Wedding.

The Old South Unitarian Church was the scene of Beverly's most fashionable June wedding on Wednesday evening, when Miss Lucy Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Wilmot Winslow, was united in marriage to Dr. George Jackson Hill.

The church was exquisitely decorated by Galvin of Boston, and presented a most charming appearance. White peonies, roses and laurel formed the theme.

Rev. Benjamin R. Bulkeley, the minister, assisted by Rev. Herbert Judson White, performed the ceremony in the presence of nearly seven hundred guests, the double ring service being used.

The bride was gowned in a charming creation of satin finished crepe de chine, trimmed with real lace, cut en traine. The veil was caught with lilies of the valley, and the bouquet was of the same flower. Miss Mabel Winslow, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, while Miss Augusta Woodbury was the bridesmaid. Both wore blue crepe de chine and carried pink sweet peas. William F. Hill, brother of the groom, officiated as best man. The ushers were Sidney V. Winslow, jr., Edward Winslow, and Arthur T. Foster, of Beverly, and Frederick S. Millett of Concord.

A reception at the residence of the bride on Thorndike street followed the ceremony.

After a wedding tour Dr. and Mrs. Hill will reside at North Beverly, where a beautiful home is being prepared for them.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Brown and Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Judson White attended the graduation exercises at Smith college.

Beverly Graduation.

The graduating exercises of the class of 1905 were held in City hall, Wednesday evening, an audience which taxed the capacity of the hall being present. The speakers were Miss Bernice J. Andrews, who delivered the salutatory essay; Miss Caroline A. Wilson, who gave the prophecy; Samuel B. Fairbank, orator, and Miss Hazel E. Weston, valedictorian. The music was of a high order, and was furnished by the school chorus, George F. Wilson, conductor, assisted by Whitaker's orchestra. The Mandolin club rendered two selections in a pleasing manner, eliciting great approbation. Charles G. Hardy, chairman of the High school committee, presented the diplomas to the sixty-four graduates.

The class reception was held at the City hall, Thursday evening, and was attended by nearly 700 friends of the graduates. The hall presented a most pleasing appearance in its decoration of school and class colors, with here and there a flag or a class-pin to catch up the festoons, and an abundance of greenery surmounting all. Whitaker's Orchestra furnished the music for the dancing. The occasion was one of much interest and one long to be remembered.

The 4th of July committee met last evening and organized with Forester H. Pierce, chairman, Gregory P. Connolly, secretary, and Elmer Standley, treasurer. Subscription papers will at once be put in circulation, and it is hoped that everyone will be as generous as possible as this committee has for several years had this matter in charge and have spent the money judiciously, which has pleased all and given everyone a good time. This year, as usual, a band, probably the Rowley Brass Band of 25 pieces, will be had for afternoon and evening. Various bicycle races, pony and horse races, base ball game, sports, with a grand display of fireworks and illumination at West Beach in the evening. Good prizes for each event have in the past been given, and the committee will endeavor to do the same this year.

The Class in Embroidery, which is composed of fifteen Beverly Farms ladies and which has been holding meetings through the past winter and spring, held a meeting at Mrs. George F. Woods, on Hart street, Tuesday evening, and voted that a vacation be taken until October, at which time the work will again be taken up. Mrs. A. B. Clark of Beverly has been the instructor.

The pier at West Beach on the hot days of last week, and especially on Sunday last, was the Mecca for a great many of the Farms people, who found there a place which was cool and refreshing. There has been a large number in bathing, both off the floats and beach this week, and the water was quite warm. The large steam yacht "Wacondah" has been anchored off the pier and was an object of interest, as well as were the numerous smaller crafts, which, in many cases, had yachting parties on board.

A few days ago one of the gang of workmen who was engaged in putting in the drain across Central square, accidentally struck with his pick the old cement water main, causing a rapid retreat of all hands from the trench, for the water rushed out with such force as to throw a stream 35 or 40 feet into the air. For a time, until the shut-off could be located, the traveler was forced to do considerable dodging to keep from getting a bath.

the Kingdom of God, and after His ascension this nucleus added to itself, divided and sub-divided into the various members of the church militant. By these two means, viz., the influence of the Holy Spirit and the life of the church, and by one other means, the spread of the kingdom of God has taken and is taking place. Of the doctrines of the Holy Spirit and the church, I suppose I shall not be called in question. The third means to which I refer is the Bible, and of my belief in regard to the Bible I may be called in question. Briefly, then, let me state my belief in the authority and inspiration of the Bible as the Word of God. By the authority of the Bible I mean its right to be trusted absolutely as the means by which the character of God and the Gospel of Jesus Christ are permanently made known. The authority of the Bible is the proof of its Divine inspiration. It cannot be maintained, I believe, that God has limited Divine inspiration to the Holy Scriptures, but neither can it be denied that these Holy Scriptures in a supreme way reveal the character and purpose of God, and in doing this they stand as a testimony to their own God given nature.

In regard to secular and severe criticism of the Bible and Christian Doctrines, I think that such criticism does the Christian church a real service. Such criticism puts Christian thinking upon its metal, and has always in the end resulted in a deepening of Christian faith. The activity of the Christian mind is aroused in three directions: (1) To understand more fully the history through which Christianity was created. (2) To get a better grasp on the truth which constitutes it. (3) To apprehend more clearly the task which lies before it. As a result, we secure in the face of hostile criticism and even because of it, progress in Christian thought, the breaking up of crystallized and formal statements and the restatement of truth from new aspects suited to the thought, temper and understanding of the time.

Other discussion of matters of faith I leave to the suggestion or question of the council.

A Revolutionary Relic.

At the recent celebration at Medford there was displayed an ancient British flag. The flag was captured at Lexington, by Israel Forster of Marblehead. It subsequently came into the possession of his brother, "King" Forster, captain of the Marblehead minute men, who went to Medford. The first Israel died in 1818 and willed the flag to the son of "King" Forster, Isaac, 2d. The flag was lost for a time, but at last the second Israel discovered it at the State House draped around a Revolutionary drum. After some litigation, he recovered it, and on his death willed it to James F. Knight, a veteran of the Civil war. From him it came into the possession of his son, James A. Knight, a resident of West Medford.

The peculiar thing about the flag is that when it was captured, the Continentals cut out the union which showed the English jack, and inserted in its place seven red and six white stripes to symbolize the union of the colonies.

Thomas Brown.

Thos. Brown of Manchester passed away at the Danvers hospital Wednesday of this week at the age of 35 years, 2 months. The news of the death was not unexpected, for he has been in a lingering condition for the past three months. Death was hastened on by consumption. He was confined to the hospital May 22, 1903.

Mr. Brown was born in Belfast, Ireland, in 1870. He came to America at the age of 20, and in 1893 he married Mrs. Katherine Broderick, who survives him. Two children were born, one of whom died in infancy, the other, James Brown, survives. One brother and one sister survive him in California.

He was a member of the Baptist church, of the Salvation Army, and he was a charter member of Conomo tribe, 113, I.O.R.M.

ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS OF HIS RELIGIOUS FAITH.

Some of the Truths Apprehended Through Personal Experience and Absorbed Through Meditation.

[At our request Rev. Mr. Lincoln has consented to have the paper on his theological views, read on the occasion of his ordination and installation, at the Congregational church, Manchester, Friday, June 9, 1905, printed in the BREEZE.—ED.]

BY REV. C. ARTHUR LINCOLN.
(Concluded.)

As to the attributes of God, I must make only a brief statement and leave the subject for further discussion through question and answer if it is so desired. The attributes of God in distinction from the created universe are: (1) Eternal, (2) Omnipresent, (3) Unchangeable. His attributes which we conceive in direct relation to the temporal and progressive universe are comprised in the terms omnipotence and omniscience. His omnipotence is His power to attain His end. His omniscience is related with His moral being and bound up with that which is His end or purpose; it is not merely reason, but reason infused with will. In addition to these transcendent qualities of being, He possesses in perfect measure all the qualities of personality, so that God is indeed the Person of the universe, the ground and source of all reality. This omnipotence and omniscience are the servants of His holiness and love. God is Holy Love.

2. The Person of Christ. The end or purpose of God as Holy Love has been revealed to us in the establishment of the kingdom of God through our Lord Jesus Christ. The person of Christ has already been described as human and divine, an expression of the Son of God in the likeness of sinful flesh. Such an incarnation involves a pre-existence as its very foundation. The living Son of God by an act of self determination laid aside His absolute characteristics in so far as this could be done without impairing his integrity as a perfect moral being, and entered into human experience in the humble form of a human child: As his life on earth developed and unfolded itself, He regained His divine powers and attributes. The more He lived in faith towards God and love towards man, did His inherent and divine powers become released, His knowledge of God become increased and His energies become active and miraculous. At the very basis of His person was the active energy of the Holy Spirit of God from the humble beginning in the womb of Mary to the full expression of His glory in the body of His transfiguration. Out of His naturally developing religious experience grew His conception of His Messiahship, His peculiar and unique relation to God as the Son of God, His peculiar and unique relation to man as the Son of Man, and His peculiar and unique office of mediator between God and man, Savior of the individual and the race, and Judge of men and nations.

3. The Doctrine of Sin. Immediately upon the establishment of a firm belief in the incarnation follows the question of Anselm: "Why did God become man?" At once the doctrine of the atonement becomes the central point of interest. But this doctrine involves a whole long series of other doctrines from the Fall of Man in Adam to the Judgment Day in Heav'n. To me the question of the existence of Adam as an actual historical person is not important. So far as I am able to understand human nature and its history, man from the very first, even until now, has been under a double judgment: (1) That he is acting contrary to the law of his nature and (2) that he is blameworthy. In the first chapters of Genesis I think we get a remarkable parable illustrating the tragedy of sin for the individual and the race. The psychology of the first sin and of every sin is there depicted. In one sense every man is his own Adam in that he is responsible for his own failure and guilty of poisoning the moral atmosphere for others, and inasmuch as sin is universal, intensively and extensively, if we are to accept the teaching of Paul, there appears to be such a thing as racial sin. Owing to comparatively recent Bible criticism and to the speculations of certain evolutionary philosophers, new interest has been aroused in the question of the origin and propagation of sin. While I have great sympathy with certain phases of the doctrine of evolution, I am not content to say with John Fiske and others that the fall of man is a fall upwards. According to this view, sin marks progress in the race and the individual, whereas every sin of which I have knowledge marks lamentable regress. If we cannot in Genesis get an actual picture of the first sin, we can at least get an understanding of the conditions of its occurrence. These are found in the self conscious freedom of man, his knowledge of the law of his nature as being the will of God, his knowledge of penalty sure to follow any infraction of that law, his deliberate and wilful breaking of his trust in God and his consequent disaster and degradation. By means of heredity, the taint of sin has passed down through the race so that every man born into the race breathes in a poisonous atmosphere.

4. The Doctrine of the Atonement. It was into this race poisoned throughout with sin that the sinless Jesus was born, sinless not only in the passive sense of being free from moral taint, but sinless in the active sense of being always in complete harmony with God. His whole life of teaching, preaching and works from His first call to repentance to His last cry upon the cross shows how desperate a strait He conceives man to occupy. Indeed, He conceives that His whole mission arises from the fact that man's relation to God is disastrous because of the moral situation which may even become irreparable. He calls upon every man to change the basis of his life, abandon self-dependence and self-seeking, and through absolute trust in Him be born into a new and eternal fellowship with God.

That His death had a central place in the plan of the redemption of man is evident from His own consciousness and the consciousness of His disciples after His resurrection. Such was the moral situation that only by this supreme sacrifice could the absolute justice, the supreme holiness, and infinite love and mercy of God be vindicated to man. This is but a fragmentary description of the act of Jesus which we call His atonement for us. Human reason has not yet penetrated the depths of its sacred mysteries, but human experience has abundantly proved its potency. Through a mystic union with Him who tasted death for every man thousands, yea millions, have with sins forgiven entered into a conscious relationship of eternal fellowship with the effable God.

5. The Means and Instruments of the Spread of the Gospel. With the passing of Jesus in bodily presence from the scenes of earth arose an experience among His disciples and followers which they could only explain as being due to the actual though unseen presence of the living God among them. Out of their remembrance of the words of Jesus and out of their own experience grew the belief in the divine personality of the Holy Spirit. Before Jesus left this earth He had already formed the nucleus of the society of Japanese Sale a Pronounced Success.

Those who attended the Japanese sale in the Manchester town hall, Tuesday evening, might well have thought themselves in Japan, if their imagination could be affected by the bevy of pretty misses who stood behind the various booths, and who, the first of the evening, took part in the entertainment, garbed in Japanese kimonos, their faces powdered copper-color and eyebrows smirched with black.

The affair was conducted by the Farther Lights of the Baptist church, and was, withal, a very pretty event. The object was to raise money in aid of the church, and this end was successfully accomplished, for upward of $50 was realized. The hall was crowded, and continued so until most of the booths were relieved of their articles for sale.

The entertainment started about 7.30 o'clock. Besides the musical numbers of the program there was a pretty umbrella drill by these ten young misses: Alice Sargent, Ethel Stanley, Charlotte Mason, Vera Kitfield, Alice Tappan, Libby Dunn, Harriet Brewster, Annie Crombie, Ethel Bigwood and Elsie Dow.

Following is the program:

Piano solo.....Miss Hattie Baker
Vocal solo, "Japanese Love Song".....

Miss Emma Prest
Song, "The Gospel Train".....B.B.B. trio
Dialogue, "Aunt Patience Doughnuts"

Elsie Dow and Harriet Brewster
Vocal solo, "Karama".....Miss Olive Cook
Umbrella drill.....10 girls
B.B.B. trio, "Swing Those Gates Ajar"

Tableaux.....10 girls
Mrs. Helen Brewster, president of the society, was in general charge of the affair, and Mrs. Charles Sawyer was in charge of the drill and the tableaux. Miss Alice Rainville was accompanist and played during the drill and tableaux.

The following were in charge of the booths: "Kioto," candy table, Ethel Stanley, Nellie Walen, Olive Cook; "Nikko," orange tree with prizes in each orange, Elsie Dow and Harriet Brewster; "Kobe," fancy articles and Japanese bric-a-brac, Alice Tappan, Libby Dunn and Emma Prest; "Yokohama," fruit, punch, lemonade and tea, Bessie Lethbridge, Alice Rainville, Lena Jones and Marion Scott; refreshments (cake), Mrs. Brewster, Helen Mason and Hattie Baker (ice-cream), Alice Sargent, Ethel Bigwood and Annie Crombie.

The "Jinrikisha" was an interesting feature, and many paid five cents for a ride. M. C. Horton was in charge, and Cheever Hersey and Winthrop Younger were the "coolies."

MANCHESTER.

Mrs. John Murry is home from Boston for a few weeks' visit with her mother, Mrs. Abraham Lampron on Brook street. Mr. Murry will also be down to help celebrate the Fourth.

One night, the early part of the week, there came near being a serious accident on Sea street, near the "Brownland" cottages, due, no doubt, to the fact that the street lights were not on. As one of Boyle's carriages drove down Sea street with guests from one of the evening trains for the Brown cottages, an auto with two glaring lights, came out of the avenue, and the chauffeur not seeing the carriage, owing to the utter darkness in that spot, came dangerously near the horse and carriage. The horse became frightened, bolted and broke away from the shafts, fortunately without injuring the carriage or its occupants, and ran down McMillan's avenue.

A number of young people from town composed a merry party who spent the day at House island, last Sunday.

Keeper William D. Haskell of the Poor Farm had quite a serious attack of heart trouble Tuesday, but is reported quite improved now.

There will be a meeting of the alumni association next Monday evening at the president's office in Pulsifer's block, at 8 o'clock. As matters of much interest to the members will be taken up, it is desired the attendance be large. The members of the class of 1905, just graduated, are invited to be present and join the association at this meeting.

There is Always A Great Charm to an Old Photograph

Provided that it is not yellow and faded beyond all recognition. Too many modern photographs show the effects of hasty, careless work; at the end of a few years they begin to grow dim and must be copied to preserve what remains of an originally much prized likeness. It is hard to lose a photograph in this way, especially if it is that of a child or of one whom we have lost

In my photographic work, I have studied, not only to make photographs which show the subject as he really is—natural photographs—but I have aimed, by careful, accurate treatment, to make every photograph which I print permanent. At the end of twenty years—and I trust a century—it will seem as fresh as a new print, the fashions will be old, but the likeness will be clear and the face as we remembered it so many years ago

Gay Holiday Party

Entertained at the "Ledges."

There was not a gayer holiday party of young people on the North Shore last Saturday than those who came down to Manchester as guests of Mr. Mortimer B. Mason, and who were entertained at his beautiful summer home, the "Ledges." The party was made up of about 25 of Mr. Mason's office employees in Boston.

Leaving Boston on the 10.45 train, they were met at the railroad station in Manchester by Mr. Mason with two automobiles and carriages, and in these and a launch the young people were taken over to Smith's Point, where luncheon was awaiting. In the afternoon a launch party was formed, and a sail along the shore to Marblehead was much enjoyed, while others of the party went for a spin over the picturesque North Shore roads with Mr. Mason's two sons, Herbert and Harold, in charge of the autos.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Ward and Mr. and Mrs. Barnard of Boston assisted Mr. Mason in entertaining his guests.

Recital at Manchester.

Miss M. Agnes Patterson, pianist, of Boston, is to give a recital in the Manchester Town hall, on Monday, the last day of next month, which announcement will, no doubt, be met with pleasure by the many North Shore friends of the artist, a number of whom will be included among the patronesses. Mrs. Stanley P. Clemens of the Westminster, Boston, will be in charge of the recital. The proceeds are to be shared with the South End Day Nursery. Miss Patterson will be assisted by such well-known artists as Mrs. Hall McAllister, soprano, and Mr. Ike Hien, violinist.

MANCHESTER GRADUATION.

weary traveler falling by the wayside, till now only four maidens and two youths had reached the end.

"The Beautiful Blue Danube" was then sung by the chorus.

Harry R. Floyd followed with an oration on "The Negro Question," which was ably handled. He said in part:

"One of the most important problems of the present day is concerned with the negro race. Many people, however, do not sufficiently realize its importance; they simply say, 'Let time take its course.' This is exactly what we must not do. We must wrestle with the question until we conquer or are conquered. The negro problem is not merely a question of granting the negro political and social rights; it is also a case of self-preservation. The choice lies between making an effort to uplift the negro and allow him to remain among us a seriously degrading influence.

"Thousands of years of barbarism, hundreds of years of slavery, forty years of freedom, sum the past history of the negro race. The question now is: How is he fitted to meet the conditions of his changed life?

"The negro is physically able to do the heaviest work. Intellectually, he is below the white man, although, of course, we have a few notable exceptions. Morally he is also beneath the white race.

"Clearly for the sake of both the black and white races the present state of affairs should not be allowed to continue. A race must either advance or retrograde; it cannot stand still. In this case it lies with the white race to advance the negro, for they seem incapable of progressing far by themselves.

"What is the problem that confronts us? Evidently it is that of making the negro a useful citizen, self-respecting and respected. The present education of the average negro is extremely meagre. The schools are open only three or four months of the year; they are held in wretched hovels that can hardly be called huts; the teachers are of the lowest possible grade.

"Today the colleges are giving more attention than formerly to the industrial training of the negro. Many of our northern people think it is not right to force manual labor upon the people who attend schools and colleges. They leave out of consideration the all-important fact that the negro must be taught what is for his own good.

"Now a sober, industrious man, whatever his trade or vocation may be, is respected. On this the negro race must depend for its hope of social advance. He must be taught to work during his youth. We cannot but look forward to a happier state of affairs, both for the negro and the white man, when we shall have the negro trained in this manner. He must be forced to work, for work is the power of his advancement. Through uprightness and industry he must make himself a valuable member of society. By that means he will compel us to respect him and regard him as our brother being."

The part of the program which was listened to with most interest was the prophecy by Lewis Hooper. He related his visit to Jacob Stuyvesant, astrologer, at 28 X street, Salem, Mass., whom he found busily engaged solving a problem as to the distance of a certain star from the south pole. After gaining the attention of the scientist he told the old man the dates of birth of those about whom he wished to learn, and the astrologer proceeded to reveal the secrets of their lives.

One girl after leaving the high school "will give evidence of her extraordinary originality and courage by building a wonderful air-ship and taking journeys alone to all parts of the globe."

Another he ranks with the great biologists of the day.

Another will start an institution in South Carolina for stray dogs and cats where they may be cared for and civilized.

Another will tire of life at the age of 30, will come back to Manchester, marry a windmill agent, and settle down to a quiet life on the farm.

The boy of the class "after being ordained as a minister and coming back to Manchester to choose his wife, will become widely known as an exponent of the simple life prescribed by Roosevelt."

Miss Elizabeth P. Jewett was the valedictorian, but her remarks were preceded by a well-prepared essay on "Life of a Girl in the New England Colonies," which was filled with pictures of "ye olden time."

Then followed the singing of the class ode, which was written by Miss Andrews.

We sail away o'er the harbor bar,
Sped on by the morning breeze,
Our goal is fixed at a haven far
Across the shimmering seas.
Our sails are set, fair is the tide,
We steer for the open main,
But many a storm we must abide,
Ere we come to port again.

And little we know of the ocean wide,
Or the strong and pitiless gale;
Perchance at the mercy of wind and tide,
Far from our course we'll sail,

Perchance in the storm when the heavens grow dark,
And the waves in the tempest roar,
We shall toss on the waves in our fragile bark,
Driven close to a rocky shore.

But after the tempest and storm are gone,
When the bright sun shines once more,
With hearts that are light still sailing on,
We shall steer for our destined shore,
And then, at last, when the race is done,
And we reach the port afar,
We shall hear the sound of the welcoming gun,
As we cross the harbor bar.

In presenting the diplomas Supt. Fish said it was a very pleasing duty that had been assigned to him. He compared their intellectual influence with that of matter and said that it was just as impossible to obliterate or destroy their influence as the particles of matter.

"We are all bound together," he said. "The state has established public schools because it believes in human life. Don't feel that any act or thought of yours is unimportant. The real thing for you to remember is that you are one, and you are connected with every other one.

"These insignificant acts of ours are of great importance. It is probable that every one of you in the near future shall exert a wonderful influence."

Then in accordance with the recommendation of the faculty of the school and with a vote of the committee of the town, the Appleton medal for punctuality, deportment and decorum, with the certificate, was presented by Mr. Fish to Miss Fannie S. Knight.

After a closing song the benediction was pronounced by Rev. E. H. Brewster.

The graduates were: Jessie Ruth Andrews, Elizabeth Ann Dillon, Harry Rabardy Floyd, Lewis Stanwood Hooper, Elizabeth Perry Jewett and Fannie Slade Knight.

The class organization was President, Harry R. Floyd; Vice-President, Fannie S. Knight; Secretary, Jessie R. Andrews and Treasurer, Elizabeth P. Jewett.

Strenuosity.

Strenuosity is a word that is very popular just now. Our respected President, no doubt, is the cause of its being rescued from the obscurity of the dictionary and brought into popular favor. In spite of the impetus given it by "Teddy," it is a good word; it can stand alone on its own merits.

If we want to accomplish anything—if we want to get anywhere in these times of hustle and push we have to do a little hustling ourselves. We have to ask for what we want, and ask for it distinctly and use a language that everyone can understand.

No doubt, in years gone by, we, here in Manchester, would have been justified in sending to the Senate a slow, careful, painstaking man who, if he did anything at all, would be sure it was perfectly correct. For that reason many of the men we have sent have not been heard from. Not because they were not good men; not because they were not successful in their own way, but because they were so afraid of making a mistake that they would do nothing.

Today we want a man who is a successful man in his own business, and a man capable of handling a business large enough to be found without a microscope, or a fine-toothed comb; a man who is familiar with matters of magnitude and whose opinions would be worth listening to.

Manchester is a town noted for its men of weight, even though they have come here from some other section of the State, attracted by our beautiful seashore and enchanting drives; and regardless of how or why men who have filled and do fill high diplomatic and business positions come here, they are here and are with us and of us, and if we can get such men to represent us in the National Congress and General Court or Senate we should not let the opportunity pass.

Our interests are their interests. We want a good harbor with deep water at low tide; they want it. We want all the comforts and luxuries that the Commonwealth has to bestow, and the way to get these things is to send one of our able men to the Senate at the coming fall election. And we should be thankful that a man with the ability and experience of James F. Shaw is willing to devote his valuable time to thus represent us.

Mr. Shaw is a man who has a record of doing things—of accomplishing things—and has the kind of strenuosity that works quickly and aggressively, but at the same time along the well-directed lines that bring results. And we feel confident that Mr. Shaw will be the means of bringing Manchester to the front at the State House, where our desires can be made known and our wants supplied.

SCHOOL EXHIBIT.

Work of Manchester Schools Displayed in Town Hall, Tuesday.

If looks count for aught the people of Manchester certainly must feel proud of the work done in the schools of the town, for the second exhibit of the work of pupils of the G. A. Priest school, in town hall, Tuesday afternoon and evening, depicted in no small measure the progress of the schools and the exact work being done by the pupils.

Those who saw the exhibit last winter could well note the distinct progress made along all the lines of work since then. As nature study is one of the most important at this time of year, this branch was well represented in the exhibit, and added much to the brilliancy and coloring of the drawings displayed.

The imaginative work of the children was a particularly noticeable feature. The pencil drawings which they made after hearing a story, read to them by the teacher, showed the development of this power in no small degree.

The work done by the various grades was very interesting, and a tour around the room, and a study of the work of the children hung upon the wall or displayed on the tables, showed the development from the very lowest grades to the highest.

In grade 1 only the work done since Miss Norton has been instructor was displayed. This was mostly work in free hand cutting, clay work, modeling, illustrating, drawings, etc., and the educational value of these things was plainly evidenced.

The original stories in connection with a study of Lincoln's life was a feature of the grade 2 work, Miss Leonard, teacher. The picture studies, nature work and study of the bluet were also noticeably good.

A set of calendars, one card for each month in the year, attracted much attention in a study of the work of Grade 3, Miss Allen, teacher. On each card was an original design, symbolic of the month, and the figures were drawn and cut out by the children. A chart representing washing day, in doors and out, cut out by the children, was another feature.

In Grade 4, Miss Goldsmith, teacher, the drawings in connection with nature study was a noticeable feature; free-hand, cutting and stories about pictures were other interesting features. Considerable attention is paid to letter writing in this grade and the attainments of the pupils was apparent in the work they had displayed.

The three R's are given considerable attention in Grade 5, Miss Eldridge, teacher, but arithmetic, principally. The composition work of the pupils in this grade was an interesting feature for many who gathered around the table and read the letters written by the children, and obtaining much enjoyment from them.

The work of grades 6, 7 and 8 were more in line with that of the early part of the year, with the general advance, naturally looked for, much in evidence. More advanced problems in arithmetic, geography, history, composition, etc., were done by the pupils, and the work displayed showed the progress made.

The work of the Sloyd and Sewing classes showed marked progress. In the sewing class last fall most of the work was along the line of fancy articles; this spring the children are working on useful articles. The Sloyd by the boys, Mr. Mead, instructor, was a matter of much interest to many. The work turned out and handiwork displayed plainly evidenced to the sceptic that this branch of school work cannot afford to be overlooked.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Giles of Wakefield were in town over Saturday and Sunday visiting their sister, Miss Mary G. Giles.

INNOVATION FOUNTAIN.

Soda Fountain of Latest Design, with all Modern Improvements Installed by Manchester's Enterprising Druggists, A. Lee & Sons.

"In 1856 an unprecedented burst of enterprise in the annals of local store-keeping found place in the installing of a soda fountain, which was the wonder of the people for miles around. It was of white marble, ten inches wide at the base and 18 inches high, with a top running to a peak, like an old mantel clock. It had one faucet and carried four bottles of syrup. It cost $60.00 to install."

This was said of the first soda fountain installed in Manchester almost 60 years ago by Mr. Andrew Lee, founder of the well known and enterprising concern of A. Lee & Sons. The accompanying picture is of this very fountain. Could it be displayed today, it would be the cause of as much curiosity as it was 60 years ago.

In its day that fountain was a marvel, so to speak. It was the best thing of its kind on the market. But as the years have moved on, improvement after improvement has been made, till now what is known as the "innovation fountain" is the finest thing on the market.

Such a fountain has this week been installed in A. Lee & Sons' store in Manchester, on the very spot where this curious looking marble block once stood. There are but few of them in existence. One has recently been installed at R. H. White's in Boston.

The new fountain combines all that is best in the line of sanitary conditions, and everything about it is the most improved and modern apparatus ever made for dispensing soda.

The syrups are contained in porcelain containers and there are no block-tin syrup cans that cannot be thoroughly cleansed. Ice cream is contained in porcelain tanks also, and every improvement bordering on the sanitary condition of the fountain is evident.

Mr. Lee not only installed the first soda fountain in Manchester, but he was ever on the alert for up-to-date improvements, and his successors have endeavored to follow in his steps in this direction. Feeling the necessity of further increasing their business in this line, Mr. Benjamin L. Allen, who handles the business, decided that nothing but the best the market afforded would suit their wants now and decided upon this new style fountain. It is the first, with one exception, to be installed in the county.

One distinctly noticeable feature about the new fountain is that there is no "fountain" at all. Everything is done facing the customer, and all the syrups, etc., are under, not upon, the counter.

FIRST SODA FOUNTAIN INSTALLED IN MANCHESTER, 1856

There are three kinds of marble in the fountain; the top is of white, running around the entire counter; then there is a panel of Siema marble, and in the middle is Tennessee marble, running to the floor. A Mexican onyx draught stands about 20 inches high, five draught tubes extending from it so that two can work on it at the same time. There are 20 syrup tanks, and an arrangement attached to each so that a definite amount of syrup is measured off for each customer. There are two porcelain lined receptacles for chipped ice, and there is a porcelain lined sink.

To add to the sanitary perfection of the fountain a hole is made in the floor where all the egg shells, straws, lemon peelings, etc., are thrown instead of remaining in buckets under the counter, thereby attracting flies.

The whole fountain contains when filled 500 pounds of ice. The fountain is constructed in such a manner as to keep heat out. First there is the outside marble, then a cold air space of one inch, an inch of slate, then pressed cork, then the metal work.

By the new arrangement three feet is added to the counter space, making 18 feet of space in all. And to add to the perfection of the new arrangement two of the latest style tanks have been placed in the basement, whereby the firm can charge their own soda from town water with a 220-pound pressure.

The fountain is now working and it will undoubtedly be the object of curiosity for many this afternoon and evening.

HOTELS OPEN.

Magnolia Hotels Open With Prospects of a Decidedly Good Season.

With the opening of all but one of the Magnolia hotels last week, and with the last of the houses opening today, the season may truly be said to be on. Despite the unseasonable weather which accompanied the opening of the hotels, guests have been pouring in all the week, and the prospects of a decidedly good season are evident.

The first to open its doors again this year was the Blynman, which remains under the efficient proprietorship of Mr. Warren F. Knowlton, who has again been able to secure the services of George E. Bodge, a man of wide experience in hotel management, as clerk. Among the improvements which Mr. Knowlton is providing for his guests this year is the addition of a Tabard Inn library, shortly to be installed in the parlors.

Among the arrivals are noticed:

Timothy T. Sawyer, Miss Sawyer, Mrs. J. D. Martin, H. P. Gardon, Boston.
Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Martin, Miss Rosamond Martin, Miss Martin, Chelsea.
Mrs. Wheaton Augur, Miss Augur, Miss Ellen Adair Augur, Chicago.
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Martin, Chelsea.

Last week, also, the Hesperus opened its doors for another successful season. The house has been improved in many ways since the close of last season, and the reputation for hospitality which Julian E. Priest, the new manager, has attained in the past, elsewhere, will be fully maintained this year. F. J. Mansfield, who was last season at the New Magnolia, is in charge of the office. The house is under the management of J. A. Sherard & Co.

Many minor improvements have been made on the interior of the hotel since last year, and an elevator is at present being installed, running from the main floor, near the office, to the top.

The first guest entertained at this well-known hostelry this season was P. W. Murphy, manager of the hotel department of the Home and Abroad, who came to Magnolia with Mrs. Murphy to spend the first days of their honeymoon.

Among the arrivals at the Hesperus are:

T. T. Romer, M. Whiting, J. M. Stratton, Boston.
Mrs. Wm. J. S. Lamson, Lowell.
Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Lamson, Manchester, N.H.
Mr. and Mrs. Thos. J. Tompkins, Chicago.
Miss C. Tompkins.
W. D. Taggart, New York.
Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Edwards, Brooklyn.
Mrs. J. R. Austrian, Chicago.
Miss Delia Austrian, Chicago.
Miss Margarite Jones, Philadelphia.
Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Flagley, Washington.

The Oceanside and the Aborn have also been opened, and today the New Magnolia will open for the season under the same efficient management of Mr. C. H. Mowry. Everything has been put in readiness for the opening of the house today, and, considering the coolness of the weather, a large number of guests have been booked for the opening week.

Among the Oceanside arrivals were:

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Carter, Brookline.
Miss Eleanor Badley and maid, Brookline.
Miss M. M. Newell, New York city.
Mrs. S. L. Sheldon, Madison, Wis.
Werner Steckner, Halle Saale, Germany.

The school committee have appointed as successor to Miss Goode now, instructor in science at the Story High school, Miss Lois Brewster of Plymouth, Mass. Miss Brewster is a Vassar graduate, class of '04, and during the year past she taught sciences in the Webster High school. All the other teachers have been reappointed by the committee.

Mrs. Alice Wheaton and Miss Edith Wheaton returned Monday from a delightful visit of five days with relatives in Arlington.

Supt. of Schools and Mrs. Robinson of Peabody were among the interested attendants at the school exhibit, Tuesday. They were guests of Superintendent and Mrs. Fish.

Miss Mildred Steward of Brookline spent the holiday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Willmont, Pleasant street.

Miss Mary Dodge returned home from Mt. Holyoke college the first of the week for the summer vacation.

Mr. Howard Goldsmith of Somerville was a guest the latter part of last week of Mrs. Upton Goldsmith and family.

Ninth Annual Reunion.

To the Editor of the North Shore Breeze:

Several comrades with their wives and lady friends, about 40 in number, held their ninth annual reunion upon invitation of George W. Gillison and wife at East Danvers on Saturday, the Seventeenth of June. The day was all that could be desired for warmth, and we were agreeably entertained with graphophone and games. A bountiful dinner was partaken of, at which 25 sat down. Mr. Gillison welcomed the guests in a neat speech before eating and the hostess made a stirring patriotic address at its close, while a business session followed, and money was collected for fruit and flowers to be sent to their president, William Blatchford, of Gloucester, whose absence was caused by illness. The next meeting will be held at Rockport, or Pigeon Cove. Those who attended from Newburyport, Peabody, Rockport, Pigeon Cove, West Gloucester, Essex, Manchester, Beverly, Salem, Marblehead and Danvers received a royal welcome. Three times three cheers were given with a will for the kind hospitality shown by the comrade and his wife. "W. R. C."

Manchester BoyAwarded M. D. Degree.

Among the long list of candidates to receive degrees from Tufts college this year, numbered among whom were Governor Douglas, Attorney General Parker, Lieut. Gen. Chaffee, Japanese Ambassador Takahira, and others, was the name of one Manchester boy,—the second, so far as is known, to have been awarded the doctor of medicine degree.

The one to claim this honor, for such it is, is Merritt Allen Long, who has just completed four years of hard study and is now a full-fledged doctor.

Mr. Long is a Manchester boy. He was graduated from the Story high school ten years ago,—1905,—and though he did not follow his studies after leaving the high school, he has, by the dint of hard work, within the past four years earned his M. D. degree.

Handicapped by a lapse of six years from school work and his books Mr. Long started in four years ago and ever since he has been travelling back and forth between Manchester and Boston daily. He has worked hard for the award he has won.

Native of India toSpeak at Manchester.

Through the efforts of Rev. C. Arthur Lincoln the people of Manchester are to have the rare privilege, on Friday evening, July 7, of hearing Mr. Augustine Deoji Ohol, a native of Bombay, India, in his popular lecture on "Historic India." Mr. Ohol has lectured, in his native costume, in different parts of New England for several years, and his latest lecture, which he will give in Manchester, will be illustrated by 50 beautiful views, showing pictures of the landscape, the temples, and the magnificent palaces of the native rajahs.

Mr. Ohol is a very interesting young man. He came to America when a boy to gain an education, and after he completes his studies at the Yale Divinity school next year he will return to his native land. He was graduated from Cushing Academy in '98 and from Bates College in 1902. The past two years he has been at the Hartford Theological Seminary.

Held up Three Autoists.

The Manchester police were out last Sunday after the speedy automobilists, and during the afternoon they held up three and summoned them into court. All were going more than 18 miles an hour, while the in-town limit is 10 miles. Those held up were Robert S. Bradley of Pride's Crossing, E. P. Burnham of Gloucester and John Lee of Boston. All were fined $10.

Commercial School Graduation.

The annual commencement exercises of the Salem Commercial School will be held in Salem Theatre next Friday evening, June 30. Hon. Jonathan P. Dolliver, U. S. senator from Iowa, will deliver the address to the graduates. The Salem Cadet orchestra, Jean M. Missud, leader, will render a musical program from 7.30 to 8.

Races in Tender Class.

The regatta committee of the Manchester Yacht club announce a series of races of the sailing tender class for July 8 and 22, August 5 and 19, September 4 and 20.

There will be special prizes awarded in each race, and the Commodore's cup will be awarded the boat making the highest percentage in the season's racing. The start and finish of all races for this class will be off the club house, and they will all be sailed at high water. Entries for this series must be made to the chairman regatta committee, Manchester Yacht club, at the club house, before starting in the race.

There will be a special race on July 4, at 10.30 a.m., for a cup presented by Francis W. Fabyan.

A Moth Calendar.

March 18—The brown-tail caterpillars begin to leave nests and commence eating.

June 15—Commence to spin cocoons and pupate.

July 1—The white moths, with a brown tail, commence to emerge from the pupal stage, and soon begin to lay eggs. The eggs hatch in from 15 to 20 days.

July 20—They begin to feed about this time.

Oct. 1—They begin to enter their nests.

April 30—Gypsy moth egg clusters commence to hatch, and caterpillars begin to feed about this time.

Aug. 5 to Sept. 10—They commence to pupate.

Aug. 25—The moths commence to appear, and soon commence laying egg-clusters.

"Kafoozelum" at the Tremont.

The regular Summer Season at the Tremont Theatre will be inaugurated next Monday with the first Boston performance of "Kafoozelum," a new musical oddity by Allen Lowe and George Rosey, with added musical numbers by Paul Schindler. The opera is a genuine novelty in that all the scenes are laid underground, in the mythical kingdom of Turvianna, inhabited by people who have never been up on earth. The plot concerns the organization of a company to sell stock for Radianna's radium mines, and what happens after Kafoozelum takes a trip up on earth to inspect Boston. Miss Elsie Fay, a great favorite, in Boston, Dave Lewis, James C. Marlowe, Toby Lyons, John Park, W. H. Clark, Mayme Kelso, Nena Blake, Bertha Blake, and eight "Incubator Babies," whose act is one of the hits of "Kafoozelum," are included in the role.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We take pleasure in announcing the appointment of Mr. JOHN H. HINKLEY, of Beverly, as our North Shore representative. The New England Mutual is a Boston company, the oldest in America and the largest of Massachusetts companies. Its policy forms are exceedingly brief and to the point and contain no ambiguous and fine print clauses. The company's rates are the lowest of any Massachusetts company. Its history, since organization, 1835, is most unusual, showing most careful and conservative methods, and a continued, steady, healthy growth.

Anyone interested or who would like information concerning this old, but "up-to-date" company, had better consult Mr. Hinkley.

Society Notes.

There are few more enthusiastic autoists on the shore this summer than the Mrs. C. A. Munns of Washington, who are occupying one of the Bullard cottages at "Old Neck," Manchester. Besides a handsome 25-horse power Winton, in which they toured Europe last season, a large F. I. A. T. car, with 126-inch wheel base, which is extremely large, is now on the way from Italy and will arrive about July 1.

Clerk of Court Frank B. Wright and Charles Pousland of Salem were guests of Charles H. Nichols, who is occupying the Beaton cottage at Manchester, Sunday. They enjoyed a long run in Mr. Nichols' Cadillac touring car, almost up to the New Hampshire border.

The Misses Elizabeth and Annie Bradford of Philadelphia are among the more recent arrivals at "Brownland," Manchester, for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Parker entertained a small party at dinner at their Beverly Cove cottage Monday evening.

The G. Harland Shaws arrived at their Beverly Cove place the early part of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Higginson returned Tuesday from the week-end spent with friends in Newport. Mr. Higginson made a flying trip to New York Monday.

The William A. Tuckers had with them at their Norton's Point home over the week-end Mrs. Tucker's brother, Ralph Foster, of Boston.

Among the North Shore folk to return last Saturday on the Arabic were Mr. and Mrs. Boylston A. Beal, who are to spend the summer in Manchester as usual.

Making the trip from New York in Pres. Newman's private coach, the Genesta, H. C. Frick came down the shore Sunday to inspect his extensive summer estate now under construction at Prides Crossing. He remained till Monday afternoon, and was a guest of the J. W. Mellons of Pittsburg, who are occupying the Cochrane estate at Prides.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ames moved up from North Easton the first of the week and are now pleasantly located at their charming estate at Prides Crossing.

The G. Harland Shaws have opened their Beverly Cove villa this week.

Society Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Head and family, who have let their beautiful place at Manchester to the Otto H. Kahns of New York for July and August, will start next week for Westport, Lake Champlain, for their country place. Before going, however, they will spend a few days at Nahant, visiting Mrs. Head's sister, Mrs. Frank Merriam, and family.

Mrs. H. M. Curry of Pittsburg opened her beautiful new place at Magnolia latter part of last week. After being in the hands of workmen for more than a year, the estate is now practically completed, and there is no doubt but that it is one of the finest on the North Shore. The house is magnificent, and the grounds surrounding give a most attractive setting.

Miss Louise Fitz and Miss Ruth Whitney of Boston, returned to town Thursday after a few days' visit with relatives in West Manchester.

Charles Gibson of Boston, who has been paying the Prescott Bigelows an extended visit at Manchester Cove, returned to town Thursday.

At "Brownland" Cottages.

The popularity of the "Brownland" cottages at "Old Neck," Manchester, conducted by Misses Charlotte and Sarah Brown, with Maynard B. Gilman as manager, is plainly emphasized in the fact that for several weeks not a room could be obtained for any part of the summer and that apartments are booked even into the late season. Among those registered, most of whom have spent the summer here for many seasons, are:

The Misses Emily, Mary and Elizabeth Sohler and maid, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Sanger, Mrs. Nathan Mathews and maid, Albert Mathews and Miss Mathews, Dr. and Mrs. William Gannett, child and nurse, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Pfaelzer, child and nurse, Oswald Pfaelzer, Mrs. C. T. White, Mrs. R. F. Greeley, Miss Marion Greeley of Boston; Misses Elizabeth and Annie Bradford of Philadelphia; Mrs. W. S. Supt. W. T. Perkins, of the B. & M. R.R., was in town on Wednesday afternoon, looking over the local railroad grounds, with the purpose of acting with the city and state highway commissions in putting in good condition the approaches to the station, which at the present time sadly need repairing.

Owing to the raising of the streets being constructed under the supervision of the highway commission, the adjoining sidewalks in many places were found to be much too low, and have this week been remedied by filling in and building up to grade. This improvement has aided much towards making a pleasing effect, and is much appreciated.

Mrs. Alexander Carr and children left on Tuesday on the Cunard liner "Saxonia" for a four months' visit among relatives and friends at her old home in England.

The residents of Beverly Farms are wondering what has become of the patriotism of the city fathers who have in charge the flag pole in Central square, as no Stars and Stripes were displayed on the liberty pole on Bunker Hill day, the flag-staff being bare, while on all other flag poles in the village which are under private control Old Glory was in evidence.

A regular patrolman of the city's police department started on Tuesday evening doing duty at West Beach between the hours of 7 and 10 o'clock.

F. W. Varney and F. G. Haynes have been granted licenses to sell fireworks for the 4th of July.

HEALER DENNIS

At 81 Washington St., Heal the Sick
Without Medicine. The Strangest
Power Ever Given to Man.

Healer Dennis, who for three years has publicly healed the sick in the churches in Salem, free of charge, by the laying on of hands, is still performing his marvellous cures every day at his offices in Salem and Boston. By passing his hands over the afflicted parts, cripples and deformed of every description were straightened and made whole. Healer Dennis has been in Salem for 15 years and can produce more people that he has cured than all the advertising doctors in the state. Healer Dennis cures all female complaints without exposure or the use of instruments, in one-half the time required by any doctor. He is the only man living that cures cancer and tumors without pain or cutting. All nervous troubles of both men and women, even to insanity, are cured by Healer Dennis' treatment. After doctors give you up and hospitals turn you out go to 81 Washington St.

How Tables Have Turned

'Tis but a few months since and we were sending to you, tables of the five-legged sort, looking askance the while at the pillar extensions, wondering with you, as to whether as time went on these centre leg tables would ever be used.

It has taken but a season to come to a conclusion as to every one's views regarding the change, for, from a dozen dollars up 'tis the exception today when anything but a PILLAR EXTENSION is sold from our store. It isn't surprising for, for the same amount of money, the heavy centre leg makes much the better showing, and is much more convenient to arrange for company, for there are no corner legs or cross bars underneath to be in the way.

A whole car load, which, by the way, was the talk of the trade, came here this spring, and is fast melting away, and is it a wonder, when we can offer you out of its number one of all quartered sawed oak, with a circular base, and a round top,

For $14.00

Or a plain oak one with a square top,

For $11.00

Such values make customers. If you are table hunting, drop in and see them.

Another shipment of those piano polished, all quartered oak Sideboards has recently arrived, which we advanced as remarkable and were accepted as such.

From $19.00.

Entertainment and Sale.

At the Congregational chapel in Manchester last Friday evening the young men of the Phi Alpha Pi gave a very interesting entertainment in connection with their candy sale, which was well attended. It being their first appearance, the boys feel well repaid for their efforts and in the near future will, undoubtedly, be heard from again. The entertainment consisted of: Piano solo, Samuel Rowe; recitation, Charles Hooper; reading, Walter Fleming; piano solo, Samuel Rowe; song, Mr. A. L. Saben; recitation, Harry Slade; dialogue, "Female Suffrage."
